NEW MEXICAN NOTE OPENS QUESTION OF RECOGNITION

Secret Reply to Overtures Believed to Indicate No Change in Demands

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Harding's optimism regarding the Mexican situation, it was learned authoritatively today, arises from a new exchange of communications between the Mexican Foreign Office and the State Department.

Despite the refusal of the State Department to discuss developments, it was established definitely that the Obregon government dispatched a note to Washington on the 10th inst., a note said to contain "new" proposals or suggestions to which it was believed the United States might give ear in connection with its position on Mexican recognition.

There was reason to believe that the reply to that communication has gone forward from the American State Department, but no hints of its content had leaked here. Unless differences have arisen between President Harding and Secretary Hughes on the administration's Mexican policy, it is safe to assume that the position of the United States remains unchanged, and Mr. Harding and Mr. Hughes will want the so-called written guarantees of protection of American lives and property before recognition is an accomplished fact.

RIFT RUMORED

Rumors of friction between the President and his Secretary of State were afloat today as the result of Mr. Harding's pronouncement that the Mexican situation is looking better. However, the rumors were based on Mr. Hughes's known hard-and-fast attitude on Mexico rather than on real information of the existence of administration rift.

The Mexican note of the 10th inst., it can be stated without equivocation, did not propose to the United States the negotiation of the treaty of amity and commerce on which Mr. Hughes has set his heart and it did not propose the establishment of a mixed claims commission nor a mixed commission for consideration of political differences.

Secretary Hughes today took occasion to deny vigorously that any differences existed between the

DEFENDER FOR TIGER GIRL DEAD

Counsel of Clara Phillips Dies Suddenly at Friend's House While Visiting

Bertram A. Harrington, attorney for Clara Phillips during her trial on the charge of murdering Alberta Meadows, fell dead late last night while visiting friends at 5016 Rosewood avenue. His body was removed to Bresee Brothers funeral parlors.

Mr. Harrington was formerly District Attorney at San Jose. He came to Los Angeles to practice law about a year ago and established offices in the Loew Theater Building.

Though practically unknown in this city before his coming to Los Angeles, he gained wide publicity through his defense of Clara Phillips, the hammer murderess, while she was on trial for her life. Though the general opinion was that Clara would probably be the first woman to hang in California, Mr. Harrington conducted her defense so ably that she was saved the death penalty and given life imprisonment.

Within the last few days, Mr. Harrington had been very active in attending to the interests of Armour L. Phillips, Clara's husband, who was arrested two days ago when word was received that his wife had been located in Honduras. He obtained Phillips's liberty from the County Jail yesterday by providing $3000 bail.

The dead are: Capt. W. R. Lawson, pilot, Langley Field, Va.; Technical Sergt. Bidwell Langley Field; Sergt. Wesley H. Rowland, Selfridge Feld, Mich., and civilian, U. M. Smith, Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C.

The injured: Technical Sergeant F. B. Shaw, Selfridge Field, Mich.

Smith died after the accident at the Miami Valley Hospital.

All five men suffered fractured skulls. The accident occured as the men were taking off for Langley Field after having been here for several weeks.

TWO SENTENCED TO DIE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OMAHA, April 21.—Death in the electric chair at the State prison at Lincoln, September 10, next, was the sentence by District Court today imposed on Sol Wesley and Leroy Mauldron, negroes, convicted on a charge of murdering W. M. Deerson, Lodgepole, Neb., farmer, during the robbery of a grocery store here January 20, last.

CHICAGO IS STORMSWEPT

Thunder Squall, With Hail and High Wind, Creates Havoc All Over District

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, April 21.—A thunder squall, with hail and a forty-eighty-mile wind, put a violent end to Chicago's balmy spring weather today, and cut up rowdy stunts all throughout this area, doing thousands of dollars worth of damage.

Uprooted trees, overturned signboards, damaged roofs, broken electric and telephone wires, and scores of other mishaps in all sections of the city testified to the intensity of the storm.

Sweeping through Cicero, the gale removed the roof of the grand stand at the Hawthorne race track. Blustering on, it blew down a score of trees in Oak Park, River Forest and other west suburbs.

Traffic in Chicago was halted as trees were blown across streets at 1309 Lunt avenue, 1424 Polk street, in Ainslie street near Ashland Boulevard, at 3109 Southport avenue, 3816 North Paulina street and a dozen other places.

At Crawford and North avenues a large signboard was hurled flat, narrowly missing two pedestrians. A signboard in the loop at 335 South Wabash avenue blew over with a crash, requiring the services of the firemen to remove the wreckage.

Fire companies also were called out to take down the hanging cornices of buildings at 3011 Wentworth avenue and 2358 Cottage Grove avenue, loosened by the wind.

TEMPERATURE LOWERED

The storm lasted less than an hour, but in that time it lowered the temperature 11 degrees. At 9 a.m. the official reading was 67, at noon the mark was 56 and at 6 p.m. it was 46, with the mercury still dropping. A light rain following the squall persisted all day. The Weather Bureau predicted unsettled and cooler conditions tomorrow.

A tornado is reported to have passed over Galesburg this morning, but it was so far up that no damage was done.

Weather officials at the Federal Building are watching the actions of a similar squall, which is hovering over the central Rocky Mountain region, and which may be swept into the Middle Western States.

D. A. R. WARS ON PACIFISTS

Secretary Weeks's Denunciation of Propagandists Against National Defense Lauded

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Action by the Daughters of the American Revolution in their closing session today, giving the indorsement of the organization to Secretary Weeks for his recent denunciation of pacifist organizations, served to prevent the latter from making capital of a curious situation that has developed here during the week.

Secretary Weeks's statement, issued on the 6th inst., calling attention to the fact that the National Council for the Prevention of war was conducting its pacifist campaign largely on the circulation of false and misleading statistics as to the cost of national defense, and pointing out that all such campaigning was directly in line with the program of revolutional Communists in seeking to overthrow the government, was the beginning of a series of exposures of revolutionary activities in this country.

The Weeks statement carried a warning to all societies and associations against committing themselves to pacifist projects without first examining into precisely what they were asked to do, and the antecedents of those seeking their support.

Mrs. Minor, the retiring president-general of the D.A.R., in her opening speech reiterated the warning, because, she said, women's organizations have been in the field which many propagandists try to operate.

Mrs. Minor's speech started the convention off on a high wave of patriotism. It was immediately followed by the introduction of a resolution submitted by Mrs. Story, then a candidate for president-general, indorsing Secretary Weeks for his exposure of pacifist methods and approving his efforts toward preparedness.

Mrs. Story, in the center of a bitter contest for the office of president-general, clouded the merits of the issue defined in the resolution itself. The resolutions committee accordingly shelved Mrs. Story's resolution and reported another one to much the sam eeffect, which, however, failed to mention Secretary Weeks by name.

There was no intention to minimize or discredit the Secretary's attitude toward pacifist organizations, but it was deemed inexpedient at the moment to bring out the Story resolution solely because of its authorship.

Subsequently Mrs. Story withdrew from the race for president-general and the election was finally completed.

In the meantime, the pacifist organizations prepared to represent to the country that the D.A.R. had deliberately refused to give its approval to what Secretary Weeks had said in denunciation of pacifist tactics.

They were arranging to bring their statement to the notice of all organized women in proof of their contention that so eminently a patriotic body as the D.A.R. repudiated the Secretary. It was because of this that today in the lull after the political storm the Story resolution was brought forward and adopted. The D.A.R. refuses to be put in the attitude of even by inference giving support to those who are opposing the government's efforts to preserve the national defenses.

Mrs. Frank E. Greenwall, former regent for the District of Columbia, stated the case when she said that the "daughters should adopt the resolution absolutely supporting the government, for Secretary Weeks does represent the government, so that pacifist papers may not have an opportunity even to insinuate that this society refused to uphold the government."

FRANCE IS GETTING READY FOR WAR IN NEAR EAST

Gen. Weygand Is Sent to Syria to Lead Army as Turk Forces Mobilize on Border

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, April 21.—President Millerand of France today signed the decree sending Gen. Weygand to Syria as French high commissioner and commander-in-chief of the French military forces in the Near East. His appointment is a political event of first importance say most newspapers and they connect the general's mission with his tremendous victory as leader of the Polish army in 1920 over the Bolsheviks.

The substance of all comments is that the French government has decided the only way to treat the Turks is with a show of force, particularly since the return of Cilicia has exposed Syria militarily, and since Turkey has repudiated her prewar concessions in Anatolia to France by granting the Chester concession.

The defeat of Syria by the Turks also would ruin the French prestige among the Mohammedans of Morocco, Algiers and Tunis, where France must remain supreme at all costs, especially at this time, when Marshal Lyautey, French colonization genius, is returning to France permanently on account of his health.

TURKS MOBILIZE

The sudden concentration of the Turkish military forces along the Syrian frontier during the last few days has shocked the French government, as scores of French religious and educational institutions are in great danger.

The religious influences in France are bringing great pressure against the government to save Syria at any cost.

Loss of Syria, which it holds under the League of Nations mandate, would wipe out the last foothold of France in the Near East and give to Great Britain a dominating prestige there.

The personality of Gen. Weygand gives assurance that the present French defensive policy in Syria will be replaced with an active policy.

The reason for the appointment at this moment is to give the French a stronger position at Lausanne.

TURKS DEFEND OIL GRANT

BY LARRY RUE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright, 1923, by the Chicago Tribune.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 21.—While the developments since the Lausanne conference have shown clearly that the differences between the Allies and the Turks are practically entirely economic and financial conditions under which diplomatic quarters regard it as being extremely difficult to get the Allied peoples to support another war against Turkey—official circles here and in Angora are not optimistic.

Although the Turks regarded the granting of the Chester concession originally as a master stroke in defeating the Allies' onslaught for the economic domination of the country, reports from London and Paris of senior opposition and danger are resulting in a belief in some quarters that the grant will prove a boomerang. Newspaper reports from Athens indicate the increasing bellicose attitude of the Greeks which is causing a suspicion that this is not happening without inspiration from the Allies.

War propaganda has been lively in Greece for months. The clashes between Turk and Greek patrols along the Maritza River, although isolated, have not aided a feeling of tranquility.

TURKS ARE PERTURBED

Angora, in order to take the wind from the French sails, officially denies reports that other American capitalists are negotiating for further concessions. An

New Movement Expected to Advance Signing of Crop Contracts

Sun Maid Growers Believe Executives' Action Will Clarify Situation

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, April 21.—Complete reorganization of the management of the Sun Maid Raisin Growers today broke suddenly on the languishing campaign for signatures to the new crop contract. The situation that yesterday led to open talk of failure of the drive, with its attendant effort to sell $2,500,000 preferred stock of the association by next Thursday, was fundamentally altered by the day's developments.

The entire board of directors called for the election of a new board on the discharge of present liabilities, which would involve the selection of a new president, vice-president and secretary. These positions are now held respectively by Wylie M. Giffen, Frank H. Wilson and C. A. Murdoch.

RESIGNATIONS TENDERED

Secretary Murdoch tendered his resignation effective as soon as he can be relieved. The resignation of General Manager Fred A. Seymour was offered. Managing Director Ralph P. Merritt received resignation, for suitable action, of all important executives of the association. These include J. A. Brogdon, sales manager; Gerald H. Thomas, executive manager; G. G. Watson, operating manager, and Frank G. Goodwin, manager of the crop contract department.

These actions make possible the substitution of new executives for some of those now in office and are believed to answer fully the objections to personnel that have been made by growers who so far have refused to sign the crop contract.

With a goal of 85 per cent of the acreage to be signed under this pact, but 51.4 per cent has been obtained.

MURDOCH THROUGH

Secretary Murdoch announced that his resignation is final, irrespective of future reorganization plans of the association.

Seymour offered his resignation to take effect at conclusion of the present stock and contract campaign and the successful solution of present financial problems.

After the resignation was in Mer-

RAISIN GROWER IS SHOT

Armenian Colony of Yettem Scene of Lively Fight as Result of Crop Contract Dispute

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DINUBA, April 21.—During an argument at Yettem over Sun Maid Raisin Growers' contracts, S. Khacasacigian, a raisin grower, was shot three times today by Constable I. D. Sayre of Parlier, after he had attacked the officer with a knife, severing a thumb. Khacasacigian may die. Sayre is in a seriously weakened condition from the loss of blood. R. H. Kennedy, editor of the Parlier Progress, was cut by flying glass during the fight.

He was a member of a party of eleven men from Parlier working with members of the Dinuba Chamber of Commerce to get raisin crop contract signatures at Yettem.

News of his wounding precipated a crisis when it reached Dinuba. Crowds formed on the streets and there was talk of proceeding in a body to Yettem. The plan was abandoned after the crowds had been appealed to by E. S. Friend, a banker of Dinuba. It was decided, however, that a delegation of Dinuba business men should proceed at once to Yettem to investigate the affair.

Sayre was taken from Yettem to Dinuba and later to Parlier.

T. G. Galle, a member of the Parlier delegation and an eyewitness of the affray, relates that he entered a butcher shop at Yettem, to find F. B. Frost in an argument with Khacasacigian and others on the subject of the raisin contract drive.

Khacasacigian the witness said, seized a meat cleaver and made for Frost, who disarmed him. Others in the shop then joined in the attack on Frost. J. B. Parlier went to Frost's aid. He suffered a broken hand. Sayre then joined the Parlier group, Galle declared. Two of the Yettem men had knives.

Khacasacigian, according to the witness at this point attacked Sayre with a knife, slashing off the constable's thumb and cutting ugly gashes in one arm. It was then, according to Galle, that Sayre drew a revolver and fired three shots into the grower's body.

Other residents of Yettem rushed to the scene. At least one was armed with a rifle. Bearing Sayre with them, the members of the Parlier party made their way to their automobiles.

Khacasacigian was taken to the Orosi Sanitarium. Two bullets were found in his groin and one finger was shot away. He was operated on late today by Dr. W. Richley of Orosi.

The Yettem district has lagged behind in Sun Maid Raisin contracts. The Dinuba Chamber of Commerce and the Cutler committee have been working in that field.

Yesterday and today they had the assistance of the following delegation from Parlier.

Porter Hackley, R. H. Kennedy, J. B. Parlier, T. G. Galle, Frank Frost, Al Hogopian, William McRae, Sidney Watt, T. H. Jack and Constable I. D. Sayre.

Yettem is an Armenian colony and the wounded grower is of that nationality.

EXTRADITION OF CLARA SOUGHT

State Papers Will be Sent in Few Days

Los Angeles Sheriff May Go to Honduras

Husband of Fugitive Gains His Release

arrest a woman registered at a hotel there under the name of Mrs. Robert Young, who is believed to be the escaped slayer of Mrs. Alberta Tremaine Meadows.

J. Charles Jones, Deputy State Attorney-General, said that it would require at least three days for the preparation and approval of papers from Los Angeles and Sacramento necessary to bring about the extradition of the woman.

SHERIFF TO GO

Sheriff Traeger of Los Angeles, who was in this city for a few hours today, indicated that if the woman in Honduras should be identified as Clara Phillips, he would proceed to Tegucigalpa to bring her back. He also intimated a matron from his office in Los Angeles or a woman from the District Attorney's office, would accompany him.

The office of Gov. Richardson late today was expecting word from Washington stating that Mrs. Phillips had been placed under provisional arrest in Tegucigalpa as requested by the Governor last night after he had received a telegram from Washington stating that a woman believed to be Mrs. Phillips was registered at a hotel at Tegucigalpa.

Gov. Richardson also requested the detention of companions of Mrs. Young, registered under the names of Mr. and Mrs. Carson. Carson was suspected to be Jesse C. Carson, a distant relative of Mrs. Phillips and who is wanted in Los Angeles, where there is pending against him a charge of arson.

PHILLIPS RELEASED

Following the release yesterday of Armour L. Phillips from the County Jail on habeas corpus proceedings deputy sheriffs immediately began an investigation which they hoped would link him closely with Jesse C. Carson, former Oklahoma convict, now reported to be the companion in Honduras of Phillips's wife, Clara, who fled from the Los Angeles County Jail on Dec. 5, 1922, after having been convicted of the murder of Alberta Meadows.

Attorney Herrington, who represented Mrs. Phillips at her trial, instituted the proceedings that brought Phillips his liberty after twelve hours of confinement. The writ was made returnable at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, before Judge Avery. Judge Crail, presiding judge of the Superior Court, who signed the writ, fixed Phillips's bail at $3000 cash or $5000 in securities.

An hour later Mr. Herrington appeared with the $3000 which was technically posted as coming from "John Home." Mr. Herrington asserted that "Home" was a friend.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Clark appeared for the District Attorney's office and interposed no objections to Phillips's release.

Immediately before he was freed Phillips is reputed to have made a statement that he did not know Carson, and deputy sheriffs began checking a number of reports which they believe will show that the two men had had a number of conferences.

Stuart R. Flintham, county forester, had previously reported that his investigators had learned that Phillips had made a number of nocturnal visits to Carson's store in Belvedere Gardens. Once, they said, they found the two sitting in Phillips's coupe beside the road—waiting.

After they had gathered evidence which led to the issuance of a warrant for Carson's arrest on a charge of having burned the building which housed his store, Carson fled to Mexico, the county forester's agents assert.

SEEN IN HYDE PARK

Carson was seen a few days after Christmas in company with Phillips, according to reports on file at the Sheriff's office. The report was made by an officer at Hyde Park that he found Carson and Phillips sitting in a closed car with lights extinguished and, after ascertaining their identity and why the lights were out, made a report.

At that time Carson's name had not been mentioned in connection with Mrs. Phillips's escape, and no significance was attached to the report.

City Marshal Lassner of Hyde Park asserted yesterday that Carson showed him a roll of money containing more than $2000 on January 2, the day he left Los Angeles for Mexico City.

The authorities believed yesterday that they had established the identity of the second woman in the Phillips party in Honduras. She comes from Silver City, N. M., according to their advices, and is an old friend of Carson.

On Monday Phillips will be called to the District Attorney's office to be questioned relative to his asserted relations with the former Oklahoma outlaw, Deputy Dist.-Atty. Keyes declared yesterday.

Sheriff Traeger is expected to return Monday from Sacramento, where he has been aiding Gov. Richardson to prepare the way for the extradition of Mrs. Phillips.

The following telegram was received yesterday by Undersheriff Biscailuz from Sheriff Traeger:

"Have the District Attorney's office get started on a copy of the indictment against Clara Phillips and a certified copy of the evidence taken before the grand jury, certified to by the reporter, with the certified signatures of the foreman and secretary of the grand jury which returned the indictment, that the court reporter was the reporter of the grand jury before whom the indictment was returned. Also get transcript of evidence of conviction as taken at the trial."

GOVERNOR ACTS

A telegram from Gov. Richardson to Secretary of State Hughes yesterday read:

"Please have your department request Honduras authorities to provisionally arrest and detain Clara Phillips and traveling companions pending extradition. She has been convicted of murder in California."

It was explained at the Governor's office that while the United States had no extradition treaty with Honduras, it was expected there would be no trouble in extraditing the woman if she proved to be Mrs. Phillips, as it is customary for most nations as an act of comity to surrender all persons accused of murder.

In addition to Gov. Richardson's telegram Sheriff Traeger asked that a close watch be kept on the woman, as Clara was believed to be desperate and might attempt suicide.

DESERT TREK SUCCEEDS

BY FLOYD GIBBONS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

ADGHAR (Sahara Desert) April 15 (Via radio, Algiers, April 21.) The Tribune's trans-Saharan expedition reached Adghar yesterday, having completed in nineteen marching days by camels and horses 450 miles of the 2000-mile march across the Sahara to Timbuctoo. The French military control is complete through this dangerous lateral, which parallels that portion of the Moroccan frontier across which raiding bands make sorties. Only once was the expedition forced to make a detour and that was to avoid a passage through a territory which was considered too dangerous for a caravan mustering only twenty-one rifles as we do.

Between Ksabi and Adghar a convoy with an escort much larger than ours was ambushed sometime ago by a Moroccan band hidden in a rocky hamada, or plateau, on the west side of the old river bed, losing two men. From Ksabi the Tribune expedition made a two days' march across the southernmost dunes of the great western Erg to avoid the danger. This was our first experience in the actual sea of sand in which there was no vegetation and no water.

LITTLE SHRINER NOVICES

The baggage camels suffered from burned feet from the hot sands and the riding camels had to be changed at the Oasis of Charcuin, where we camped on the night of April 10, on the edge of the Sebkha du Gourara, which is a broad flat expanse of white salt deposits. A four-day march straight south brought us to Adghar two days behind our schedule. This was occasioned by the detour, which was strongly advised by the French noncommissioned officer who commanded our escort of eighteen Meharistes and Saharans.

In the 450-mile stretch between Colomb Bechar and Adghar we found only two military posts, one commanded by a lieutenant and the other by a noncommissioned officer.

We parted company today with Beghiz, our deserting caravan leader, who was caught at Igli and forced to carry our baggage here.

We will be forced to wait another day for the completion of a new caravan of baggage camels to accompany us on the next stage to In Salah, fourteen days' march to the southeast, where the next wireless station is located.

Except for sunburn and saddle soreness, Mr. Drucker and myself have suffered no ill effects.

AMERICAN WOMAN IS SHADOWED

Police in Tokio Suspect Elihu Root's Relative is Red Propagandist

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TOKIO, April 21.—Miss Martha Root of Pittsburg, a writer, relative of Elihu Root and a disciple of the Bahai movement, is under Japanese police surveillance here suspected of soviet propaganda.

She has been shadowed by detectives since the Esperanto meeting at Yokohama a week ago when she said in a lecture that the Bahai movement was spreading to Russia. The conservative Tokio Asahi publishes a scarehead revealing a "Communistic plot" stating that Miss Root is preaching a "doctrine practically the same as Communism which is inconsistent with the Japanese government's policy."

The police today visited the Tokio home of Miss Agnes Alexander, a relative of the famous family of missionaries and traders in Hawaii, who is entertaining Miss Root. They questioned the servants at great length. The correspondent in approaching the Alexander home today was asked by the police whether he was of Russian nationality.

Miss Root has not been directly questioned but today appealed to the United States Embassy for protection. She had no intention of offending Japanese officials, she declared, and hopes to succeed in explaining to them why Bahaism does not menace Japan politically or religiously. If allowed by the police she intends to depart for Kioto tonight, sailing for China Wednesday, where she will make a long visit disseminating Bahai principles.

MULHEIM ON RUHR, April 21. Two hundred of the unemployed mob which held the city for twenty hours are now barricaded in a large stone schoolhouse, which they had seized.

Stationed at vantage points encircling the building are the police, who were besieged for a night and a day in the Rathaus by the same radicals. The unemployed have blocked the windows of the schoolhouse with sand bags, books and furniture and are anxiously awaiting relief from their comrades who were dispersed by the police after a surprise attack early Saturday morning.

Throughout the day an unusually large number of poorly dressed men made their way into the town and the police are preparing for an attempt to break through their lines tonight.

WOMAN IS FOUND WITH THROAT CUT

Mexican at Bakersfield Believed Mother of Baby Boy Drowned in Ditch

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BAKERSFIELD, April 21.—Bakersfield police and deputies from the Sheriff's office are searching for the possible murderer of a Mexican woman whose body was taken from the irrigation ditch opposite the San Joaquin Light Company power house this afternoon.

The body of the woman was tied to a willow tree with a piece of wire, while a bucket of sand was tied to her feet. A three-inch gash across the center of the throat is thought to have been the immediate cause of her death.

The authorities are of the opinion that the woman is the mother of the 18-month-old baby boy who was drowned in the ditch early Thursday night. At an early hour tonight neither of the bodies had been identified.

The woman was about 25 years of age and well dressed.

HARDING HEARS LEAGUE PLEAS

Lord Robert Cecil Calls to Present Views

Britisher Discusses Plan With Idaho Senator

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Harding heard both extremes on the question of international relations today. He conferred with Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who led the fight against the League of Nations, and Lord Robert Cecil, British statesman, who is now touring the United States in an effort to revive sentiment for the League.

Lord Robert breakfasted with Senator Borah at the home of Henry White, who was one of the American delegates to the Paris peace conference. They discussed the League and possible revisions, but when it was all over Senator Borah said he was still convinced that the people of the United States would never consent to enter into a political alliance with European nations.

AT WHITE HOUSE

After the breakfast, Lord Robert called at the White House and had half an hour's conference with President Harding. Just as he was leaving the White House, Senator Borah arrived and had a talk with the President.

Speaker Gillette issued a statement today unreservedly indorsing the President's advocacy of the World Court plan. His statement indicated complete disagreement with Representative Wood, Republican, Indiana, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, who yesterday warned the President that continued advocacy of the court plan might split the Republican party wide open.

CHARGE MISREPRESENTATION

"I am surprised," said Speaker Gillette, "to read the statement against the court of international justice, given to the press by the chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee. It certainly does not represent my views for I am heartily and unreservedly with President Harding on that issue.

"If, as stated, Many Republicans are pressing opposition, I believe it is because they misunderstand the matter and think it involves endorsing the League of Nations, which they voted against in 1920, and to which most of them are even more hostile now than they were then. But, this recommendation of the court by the President and Secretary Hughes does not in any way involve entanglement with the League.

SPLIT PARTY FEARED

"It simply is a step, though I fear a very short one, toward removing the cause of war and securing peace, and if Republican leaders are going to see red and oppose anything however meritorious, which may emanate from the League of Nations they are liable to drive way from the party many of those who have been most responsible for its character and its success.

"I shall take pains to see that my constituents understand the question which is quite non-partisan, and I shall be surprised if they do not generally approve the President's attitude."

ARIZONA GOVERNOR WRITES ABOUT PACT

SUGGESTS THAT CONFERENCE ON RIVER ISSUE MAY BE CALLED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, April 21.—Gov. Hunt today addressed a letter on the Colorado River pact to State Senator H. A. Elliott and Representative Lewis Douglas, who led in the fight to amend the Colorado River compact by the insertion of a clause giving Arizona the right to tax electric power that would result from the river's improvement.

The Governor appears to agree with this provision. His letter, an answer to a joint communication, intimates that he believes the rights of this State have not been fully protected by the compact.

He states an opinion that "the ratification of the regional apportionment of the waters laid down in the compact is not a necessary preliminary under the present condition of affairs to the development of the stream.

"Out of the mass of romance, misinformation and the prejudice and misleading statements of those with axes to grind, seeking personal advantage or the use of the government of the State and nation to the enrichment of their private purses, I think the people of Arizona will agree: (a) that power development furnishes the only economic reason at the present time for the storage of the waste water of the Colorado River, (b) that in any discussion of the Colorado River basin, as outlined in the Colorado River compact, the Gila River basin should be considered as a separate entity."

"So the Governor, impressed with ideas of the letter received, states that he expects "at an early date to arrange some conference of the various factions interested in the development of the Colorado River, to formulate ideas that may form the foundation for an Arizona plan which all our citizens may agree to.

"If some such plan is evolved, we could, if necessary, ask for a conference with the other States in the Colorado River basin, and the representatives of the United States, and assure the people of Arizona the protection which rightly, justly, equitably and naturally belongs to them."

OBREGON PRESIDES

By John Cornyn

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright, 1923, by the Chicago Tribune.]

MEXICO CITY, April 21.—President Obregon at noon today presided over a banquet offered visiting members of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce at his Chapultepec castle.

In replying to the address of Judge R. O. C. Langdon of California, President Obregon scored certain men who he said are making millions of dollars in Mexico and using these millions against the government.

He made a plea for fair treatment of the Mexican laborers in the United States, which he characterized as an efficient, honest asset to any nation having them. He sends this message back by the visitors to the United States.

DENOUNCES DETRACTORS

"The Mexican government has not proposed anything not founded on noble and honest principles. The unfavorable stories printed abroad concerning the Mexican government are the work of petty, selfish and short-sighted interests, and the widespread defamation is paid for with Mexican money earned in Mexico by Mexico's detractors."

Obregon promised to co-operate in the formation of a mutually beneficient tariff, whenever the American government is ready to do its part.

He said he believed that a thoughtfully prepared tariff of international character would do much to facilitate trade across the Rio Grande. He promised every protection to foreigners investing capital or entering business in Mexico. He expressed the belief that there was no prejudice among the American people toward Mexico, but rather a feeling of sympathy and mutual understanding. For this reason Americans are received with open arms by the Mexican people.

President Obregon spent four hours with his American guests, and finally took them in his private automobile through the center of the city.

desire "to co-operate to the best of their ability in suppression of the traffic."

"On December 18, 1922," wrote Mr. Hughes, "this department received from the British Ambassador a note stating that the Canadian authorities had issued instructions that a Shipping Board permit should accompany applications to transfer vessels from American to Canadian registry. The department has taken up with the British Ambassador the matter of canceling the British registry of vessels when it is ascertained that the actual interest involved is American and the vessels are used to smuggle liquor into the United States.

SEEK CO-OPERATION

"The department has also asked the British Ambassador to take up with the Canadian authorities the matter of stopping the practice of issuing clearance papers to vessels with cargoes of liquor destined for the United States, since such action facilitates the smuggling of liquor into this country."

Mr. Hughes pointed out that there was hardly an analogy between the present situation and the situation during the operation of the slave trade. Then, he said, the United States and Great Britain had a treaty which provided for unusual action on the high seas.

In the present circumstances, it was explained, if British ships were seized outside the three-mile limit by American vessels, they would have to be brought before a local court of the United States for disposition and that no authority had been conferred by treaty with Great Britain to try those cases in local courts.

BANCITALY ANNOUNCES DIRECTING OFFICERS

A. P. GIANNINI, PRESIDENT; McADOO IS NAMED GENERAL COUNSEL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—Selection of the officers who will actively direct the $20,000,000 Bancitaly corporation was announced here after the first meeting of the board of directors held in California.

The officers elected, according to today's announcement are: A. P. Giannini, president; P. C. Hale, Walter Taylor and J. J. Fagan, vice-presidents; W. G. McAdoo, general counsel; L. M. Giannini, Leo V. Belden and W. H. Snyder, assistants to the president; L. R. Sevier, treasurer; E. C. Abel, secretary; R. E. Trengove, assistant treasurer, and Miss M. B. Gibbons, assistant secretary.

Headquarters of the corporation, it was announced, have been transferred from New York to Los Angeles.

Formal approval of the issue of $3,000,000 capital stock to be offered to stockholders of the Bank of Italy at a preferential price of $115 a share, was voted by the directors.

TWO GO TO GALLOWS IN WEST VIRGINIA CASE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLARKSBURG (W. Va.) April 21.—Two more members of the Clarksburg Black Hand murder syndicate were sentenced to die today while a third was sent to the penitentiary for eighteen years.

"Dapper Dick" Ferri and Phelps Connizzaro, convicted of murdering Frank Naples, said to be one of the many victims of the gang, will be hanged at the State Penitentiary at Moundsville, June 22. Philip Missische, indicted as an accessory, pleaded guilty to second-degree murder and was given the maximum of eighteen years.

Nick Salamante, convicted in the Naples case a week ago, is to be hanged June 22. Patsy Corbi of Baltimore was found guilty of first-degree murder with a recommendation of life imprisonment.

SIXTH SHIP TAKES OFF FOR ISLAND

Chicago Flyers Start on Way to Rescue in Spite of Hoax Rumors

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, April 21.—The sixth airplane to take part in the attempt to relieve the eight men and one woman reported marooned and starving on South Fox Island in ice-locked Lake Michigan, departed from Chicago today despite admissions that the story of suffering at the camp was a hoax perpetrated to get tobacco for the wood cutters on the island.

From Frankfort, Mich., some seventy miles south of the island, came reports that a huge ice-crushing car ferry belonging to the Ann Arbor Railroad was on its way to the island and expected to arrive there before daylight tomorrow to definitely determine the condition of the islanders and to rescue a Briguet airplane which fell with its pilot, John Miller, its owner, Francis J. Parker of Chicago, and two Chicago newspaper men.

The Miller plane made a forced landing on the island while trying to carry 200 pounds of food to the supposedly starving inhabitants. It was located a few hours later by another plane which dropped bundles of food for the islanders and then returned to the mainland after ascertaining that the Miller party was uninjured and hoped to repair their machine.

In all, six airplanes have taken part in the effort to carry food to the island, two of them being wrecked on the mainland within sight of their destination, another disabled on the island, a fourth lost in a fog, while the remaining two tonight were still waiting an opportunity to land and ascertain exactly conditions on the island.

Italy in Festive Attire Observes Rome's Founding

ROME, April 21.—All Italy was adorned with flags and spring flowers today to celebrate Rome's two thousand six hundred and seventh-sixth birthday.

All the Socialist newspapers bitterly attacked the Fascisti government's decision to abolish the May 1 labor celebration and substitute the anniversary of the founding of Rome. There were no incidents of violence reported.

Every city and town held parades, which, according to news reaching Rome, aroused great enthusiasm. Fifty thousand people, with twenty companies of the Fascisti militia and civilian bands, marched through the streets of Rome headed by Premier Mussolini, Gen. Diaz and Gen. Debone, chiefs of the Fascisti national militia.

Lithuanians and Poles Fighting in Neutral Zone

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIGA, April 21.—Guerrila warfare has broken out in the League of Nations neutral zone between Polish and Lithuanian bands.

Capt. Jahnvsky of the Polish army is reported to have been beheaded by the Lithuanians. He and his two weeks' bride were on their honeymoon when they were carried off.

There was a battle at Socovi between Polish and Lithuanian irregulars, in which the Poles lost two killed.

official denial also is made that the Chester interests or others have contemplated changing the status of private claims to the Moslem oil fields which before the war were mostly German and which during the war mysteriously became Swiss. These claims are still awaiting settlement.

As far as the individual properties at Mosul are increased it is understood that British and American oil men have been attempting for some time to negotiate an agreement on a 50-50 basis. The British protest against the Chester project is disconcerting the Turks, an Angora high official stating:

"The Chester project will be a pretext for refusing to sign peace and for this reason the second Lausanne conference also is doomed to failure."

Ismet Pasha will assume the attitude at Lausanne that the Chester project is an internal question, entirely outside the province of the Allies.

The Turks are perturbed over the British and French representations by their high commissioners to Constantinople at Lausanne. Some regard this as another bad sign of Allied intentions. Turkish newspapers have protested against the selection of Sir Horace Rumbold by the British, who is regarded as being largely responsible for the original Curzonian policy although the Turks generally are fond of Gen. Sir Charles Harrington.

PACT WITH MEXICO IS FORECAST

Recognition Expected as Obregon Regime Acts to Concede Demands

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, April 21.—A complete agreement between the United States and Mexico and ultimate recognition of the southern republic by this country is forecast in official quarters here as a result of assurances received here today that the Mexican government is ready to concede protection of the rights of foreigners, an issue which has stood in the way of recognition of the Obregon government.

The American government has forwarded its views on the subject to Charge d'Affaires Summerlin of the American Embassy in Mexico City, and discussions are in progress there which are expected to lead to an early settlement.

Since 1921, a draft treaty containing provisions for renewal of relations between the two governments, and involving recognition of the Obregon regime, has been in Mr. Summerlin's hands awaiting signature as soon as Mexico is ready to concede the demands for American rights.

POLICE ARREST FRAUD SUSPECT

Long Beach Officers Accuse "Church Worker"

Man Said to Have Plotted With Prison Pal

Letter of Introduction is "Open Sesame"

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, April 21.—Police here today announced that the arrest of P. A. Goodwin, also known as G. A. Phillips, on a charge of embezzling $125 from the Allied War Veterans' Association and the arrest of A. D. Gaines, asserted pal of Goodwin, in Frankfort, Ky. disclosed a big swindling scheme.

Advices from the Sheriff of Simpson county, Ky., state the charge under which Gaines is held is in connection with an attempt to swindle a bank by a fictitious telegram of credit. The telegram was said to have been from P. A. Goodwin, 914 Olive avenue, Long Beach. The address is a vacant lot.

FRAUD PLOT SUSPECTED

The police say that letters found in Goodwin's possession disclosed a plan concocted by him and Gaines to work a swindling scheme here. The police assert that Gaines and Goodwin have prison records.

Posing as a Canadian war veteran, a devout church member, a playwright, actor and member of two lodges, Goodwin, according to a letter found in Gaines's possession, was "getting in good" with Long Beach people.

Excerpts from letters, said to have been written by Goodwin to his pal in Kentucky follow:

"Arrived in Long Beach. I intend to stay. I am getting a good start. I am high in church circles and getting an excellent social standing. Have hooked up with two lodges and a soldiers' organization. Am laying plans for getting into a bank here."

Goodwin's determination to go slow and get firmly intrenched, which decision was overcome, police say, by the temptation to engage in petty thievery, was illustrated by a phrase in a letter which said: "You know it takes three months to get a bank job. They watch you pretty close. I am being a good boy."

KEEPS "GOOD FRONT"

On February 8 a letter said:

"Am playing politics for us two. Am keeping a good front and working in."

Goodwin made a good impression when he first came to Long Beach, it is said. In a letter to St. Andrews Episcopal Church purporting to come from the secretary of St. Barnabas Chapter of St. Andrews Brotherhood at Vancouver, but which was dated Miami, Fla., Goodwin is indorsed as "a man who will honor your church."

This letter of recommendation, police assert, was written by Goodwin's pal.

HONORED BY KING

Further commending the religous fervor of Goodwin, the letter stated:

"He was once honored by the Archbishop of Rupertsland and and was to have been designated 'Boy Bishop,' an honor he declined much to our regret. He was also honored by George V."

After joining the veterans' association Goodwin was said to have offered to produce a play to raise funds for the body. It was through this act that he finally ran afoul of the law, the police assert.

Goodwin, on his story of being an actor and a playwright, was given a check for $50 to finance the production. This amount, Goodwin reported, was quickly used up. He produced a letter signed "D. A. McDonald," the name of a man said to be in the Utah penitentiary, stating that the rights for a play usually bringing $50 would be given Goodwin on his professional record for $22.50.

The $22.50 play was bought by Goodwin at a local book store for 30 cents, police asserted. A receipt for $35 of the association's funds, supposed to have been signed by F. G. Willets, local manufacturing jeweler, was forged, police said.

Goodwin refused to make a statement, but maintained a grim smile during the proceedings here today.

POWER HEAD CHOSEN

A. B. West Becomes President of Sierras Company

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, April 21. — The unanimous election of A. B. West as president as well as general manager of the Southern Sierras Power Company, was announced today by a telegram from the board of directors at Denver to President West at Riverside, the headquarters of the associated companies.

Fred O. Dolson, general superintendent, and E. B. Criddle, general agent, were elected vice-presidents of the Southern Sierras, the telegram stated.

A. B. West, who succeeds the late Guilford S. Wood of Denver, who died January 31, in the presidency of the Southern Sierras, first became connected with the parent organization in 1908 as a member of the firm of Potter, West & Potter, in charge of the legal business of the corporation, with offices at Denver.

FARM FIELD WORK TWO WEEKS LATE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DES MOINES, April 21.—Farm field work is ten days to two weeks late in Northwest Iowa, Northeast Nebraska and South Dakota. In most instances spring small grain seeding is nearly completed. Gayety Reigns Supreme at Wampas Fete; Elaborate Entertainment Given in Colorful Settings

Pan dancing a Bacchanale with a dryad in a Billy Sunday tabernacle under the eye of a policeman. A swirling sea of white faces against a backwash of kaleidoscopic colors. An atmosphere heavy with the reek of Turkish cigarettes and exotic perfumes, defying the varicolored beams of half a hundred limelights and shot with the sensuous throbbing of tireless orchestras.

Beautiful women in gorgeous gowns dancing with men in somber evening clothes.

Visions of loveliness paraded before 10,000 eyes by a raucous-voiced master of ceremonies competing unequally with the incessant prattle of thousands of tongues.

A setting which was a potpourri of all decorative schemes from the time of King Tut-Ankh-Amen, the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, the Coliseum at Rome down to the last political convention by way of the Roaring Luck Saloon, where the boys were whooping it up, with a slice of a modern photo playhouse thrown in for good measure.

ALL WERE THERE

Such was the 1923 Frolic of the Tribe of Wampas last night at Warner Brothers' studio on Sunset Boulevard when all the big and little cinema stars; all the big and little men of motion-pictures brushed elbows with the Man on the Street and his sweetheart in honor of the press agents who link one with the other.

On entering one was slapped in the face with the big stage with its heavy purple velvet hangings on which programmed numbers held forth unceasingly.

To the right was the big blue typewriter, composite symbol of Wampasdom, by means of which the cinema stars were introduced.

The four walls were hung with festoons of gold and blue, supplanting for the evening the official black and blue colors of the Wampas association, interspersed with statuary. Tall pillars at each end held other effigies of goddesses with bathrobes in disarray.

PICTURES OF STARS

In the center of each festoon were placed immense lithographic heads of the outstanding stars. That of Pola Negri was beside one of Charlie. Balconies on three sides were emplacements for batteries of light machines.

Fronting the stage were the raised boxes of the mighty men of picturedom and their bejeweled dowagers. They voted thumbs up or thumbs down on all they saw and were themselves subjected to similar verdicts passed by the thousands who milled on the dance floor below them.

In the northeast corner was the King Tut bar with its sarcophagi and its orange juice; in the southeast corner, the Wild West bar and more orange juice. The south side of the hall was taken up with check rooms in which scores of check-girls struggled like ants with heavy burdens of evening wraps.

BELLS, BALLS BALLOONS

The roof-girders were filled with bells, balls and balloons in contrasting colors, lifting and swaying in the currents of air from the human maelstrom below.

From the time the mailmen's band, in new and resplendent uniforms, blared forth its overture to the night in the noon-day blaze from a dozen sun-arcs outside the gleaming white barn of a place until early this morning the thousands attending the frolic were as busy as squirrels caged in a wheel.

Though 9 o'clock was the time set for the party, the four entrances began to disgorge into the ballroom a horde of merrymakers an hour earlier. Before 10 o'clock parked cars clogged the streets for blocks around.

The entire program of twenty numbers was given. Tommy Wonders, juvenile, lead off with a specialty dance. Then twelve of the thirteen "Stars of Tomorrow" were introduced in the following order: Eleanor Boardman, Evelyn Brent, Dorothy Devore, Virginia Brown Faire, Betty Francisco, Pauline Garon, Laura La Plante, Margaret Leahy, Helen Lynch, Derelys Perdue, Jopyna Ralston and Ethel Shannon. Kathleen Key, selected as the other star, was unable to be present.

Sonny Boy Roberts followed with a specialty song, "Take Off a Little Bit."

MANY HIGH SPOTS

Presentation of ten of the thirteen "Stars of Today" followed. Claire Windsor, Lila Lee and Jacqueline Logan were absent, being in other cities on location. All of the darlings of the film appeared in costumes in which they won fame.

The next was a dancing number by Julanne Johnstone and Stanley Wylde.

Other high spots in the program were Curtyne Engler's dancing act with "Marvel," her deaf mute partner. Ernest Belcher's ballet was given an enthusiastic reception. Rose Waterman's travesty, "Hulu in Sun" was a knockout.

The Wampas then proceeded to pick to pieces the twelve best motion pictures of 1923, in a satire which was sharp if ineffective. The Duncan Sisters wound up the program in their typical Duncany style.

Gerke's Flotilla Orchestra, lent by Sid Grauman, and orchestras led by Abe Lyman and Jackie Tayler provided a musical close to the program.

NEW STORY OF LINCOLN COMES OUT

Senators in Emancipator's Day Same as Present Time; Ruse of President

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 21.—Chauncey M. Depew, whose eigthy-ninth birthday falls on next Monday, ran across what he thinks is a brand new Lincoln story in Florida. He returned to New York a few days ago. The story was given to him by a Civil War veteran, a relative of the leading figures in the incident.

During the latter part of the war a woman friend of the Lincoln family said to the President:

"My son is a West Point graduate, and his record is excellent. His superior officers have recommended his promotion, but he has not been promoted. Every week large numbers of civilian officers are being promoted through the instrumentality of Senators and Congressmen. I can get no Senator or Congressman to interest himself in my son. I come to you as a last resort in behalf of a young officer in every way qualified for promotion."

"My dear woman," said Mr. Lincoln, with real interest, "your son is not the only one in just that fix. I hear of them every week. The trouble is with the Senate. They won't do anything for anyone but civilians. Leave your son's case with me. The only way I can get him promotion is to sandwich his name in with five civilians, for it seems that only when five civilians are promoted can a West Point man get consideration from the Senators, and then he can't get through unless he goes in with the five, all in a bunch."

The old soldier told Mr. Depew that the President was as good as his word and that the West Pointer finally was promoted, in precisely the way Mr. Lincoln suggested.

CROWDS ATTEND DAM CEREMONY

San Dimas Dedication is Dampened by Rain

Engineer Points County's Water Control Need

Gigantic Reservoir Holds Large Supply

More than 500 intrepid citizens of the Pomona Valley braved a wetting yesterday afternoon, when they turned out to witness the dedication of the completed $560,000 San Dimas dam, located in San Dimas Canyon.

Despite an ever-increasing number of black clouds hanging low over the valley, hundreds wended their way up the dirt road leading to the dam site, and having partaken of food, which most had the foresight to bring, though sandwiches and coffee were served, stood in a heavy downpour of rain and listened to the various speakers.

The first event of the program, which was staged on top of the dam, was the presentation of the dam by a representative of Bent Brothers, the contractors who built it. Receipt was acknowledged by Flood Control Engineer Reagan, under whose supervision the dam was constructed.

In a lengthy address immediately following, Mr. Reagan explained briefly the purpose of the dam, then voiced a plea to the citizens of Los Angeles county to look to their flood control measures. He declared with emphasis that unless Los Angeles county went to the polls and voted bond issues sufficient to preserve its now wasted water, within ten to twenty years the county would face a disastrous shortage of water.

PROPOSES NEW WORK

He reviewed the work of the flood control district, of which he is the head, explaining its activities during the past seven years. Shortage of funds, he declared, made necessary the abandonment of important flood control projects such as the Pacoima dam, the Puddingstone dam, and the San Gabriel River dam, all three of which are vitally necessary for the future welfare of Los Angeles county.

With an ardor which the steady downpour of rain could not dampen, those gathered on the dam applauded Mr. Reagan's remarks and those of County Supervisor McClellan, who echoed the flood control engineer's appeal.

County Supervisor Cogswell addressed a few words to the spectators, explaining the method by which the 100 per cent additional money required to complete the San Dimas dam was secured. When the original estimate was made in 1916, $278,000 would have built the dam, but the completed project cost nearly double this amount, due to increased cost of labor and material and the necessity of changing the location.

The concluding, and briefest, address of the ceremony was delivered by James A. Anderson, one of the most prominent water attorneys in Southern California, and an authority on irrigation matters.

Immediately after the speeches, County Supervisor McClellan started the machinery which opened one of the four by six feet flood gates, through which a stream of water, estimated at 2250 cubic feet per second, immediately spouted.

TOUR NEW SITE

A majority of the crowd accompanied Mr. Reagan and other officials, when the ceremonies were completed, on a tour of inspection of the proposed Puddingstone dam and reservoir site, the completion of which project would be the materialization of a thirty-year drame of the citizens of La Verne, Glendora, San Dimas, Covina, Baldwin Park, and other Valley cities, for it is asserted, it would be of infinite importance to the future agricultural development of the eastern side of Los Angeles county.

Some facts and figures concerning the San Dimas dam are as follows: Height, 130 feet; length, 430 feet; thickness at top, 11 feet; thickness at bottom 100 feet. More than 41,000 cubic yards of concrete were required to complete the dam. Excavation to the extent of 30,375 cubic yards was necessary. The reservoir is one mile long, 97 feet deep, and when filled will contain 588,000,000 gallons of water. At yesterday's ceremony there was 37 feet of water in the reservoir.

Oratory Honor Is Won by Local Boy at College

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, April 21.—Merrill Brininstool, member of the freshman class of the University of Redlands, won the annual Mattison B. Jones oratorical contest at the university yesterday. His subject was "Democracy, Liberty or License." Second place was won by Robert Walsh of Banning, a member of the sophomore class, and third place by Russell Andrus of the sophomore class.

Brininstool comes from the Los Angeles High School at which he made a remarkable record in debating and oratory. He is considered the best high-school debater in Los Angeles and won the declamation contest here a year ago on high-school day.

He will represent Redlands at the Southern California Oratorical contest to be conducted here on the 27th inst.

Body of Youth Sent Here for Funeral Rites

The body of Thomas A. Russell, 23 years of age, the son-in-law of J. A. Small, superintendent of the Southern Pacific of Mexico, who died last Thursday in Entaline, Mex., arrived here this morning in a special car over the Southern Pacific. The body was accompanied by Russell's family.

Injuries received while fighting a fire in Entaline on the 10th inst. are said to have resulted in the young man's death.

He is well known here, having at one time attended the University of Southern California.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Monday at the parlors of Pierce Brothers, 810 South Flower street. The body will be temporarily placed in a vault. Russell leaves a widow, Mrs. Lorraine Russell.

DOPE CACHE IS FOUND AT SOFT-DRINK STAND

TWO MEN ARE ARRESTED CHARGED WITH VIOLATION OF POISON ACT

Shadow methods used by State Narcotic Inspector Earl and operatives of the Central Station led to the discovery yesterday in a soft-drink stand at [illegible] High street of more than $1600 worth of cocaine, morphine, heroin and opium. Manuel Sanchez, owner of the stand, and Mike Alvarez, who acted as unwitting guide to the officers, were arrested and are held on a charge of violating the State Poison Act.

The discovery of the drug cache and the arrest of the two men occurred after State Inspector Earl and Detective Lieutenants Yarrow, Jackson and Littlejohn of Central Station had followed Alvarez, whom they suspected of being a peddler, to the soft-drink stand. The narcotics were found in cigar boxes and other receptacles.

RED RADICALS SET BACK RESTORATION OF RUSSIA

Passing of Lenin Looses Rage of Wild Fanatics Upon Religious Sects

BY EUGENE J. YOUNG
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

NEW YORK, April 21.—In the last few weeks the world has been startled by a new outbreak of savage terrorism in Russia. The Catholic Vicar-General of Petrograd has been the victim of a firing squad, and the aged archbishop and other priests have been sent to prison for long terms. Tikhon, head of the Russian Orthodox church, is to be placed on trial and threatened with sentence of death.

One of the main charges against the Catholic prelates was this: They held political correspondence with the Vatican at Rome. Yet it was proved at the trial that this correspondence was undertaken with the direct approval of the soviet Foreign Office. Less than six months ago, in fact, the Moscow government was engaged in an effort to come to some friendly arrangement with the Roman Catholic church and was welcoming the relief the Pope was sending to distressed Russians.

Why this change? Why the shift from conciliation to terrorism?

RUSSIA CHANGES

The answer is: A silent revolution has taken place in Russia. The moderates who were in power six months ago and who were striving to find a way to harmonious contact with the outside world are no longer the ruling force. Lenin saw Communism was a failure. He undertook to thrust out the extremists and come to terms with "capitalism." He was succeeding. Great Britain, France Italy, even America, were seriously discussing ways of recognizing the Moscow regime.

Now Lenin is fatally stricken—perhaps dead. Trotsky, backed by the army, and the reddest Reds, who gather around Trotsky, are in power. They do not want to deal with the "capitalist" countries. They want world revolution. They think the time is ripe for it. And they are making ready by wiping out Lenin's system of moderation.

What has happened may well be illustrated by the experience of America—on which I am able to speak because of certain authentic information which came to me from Moscow within recent months.

Last summer Secretary Hughes made tentative efforts toward the resumption of trade relations with the soviets. He was willing to be shown they had reformed and to take steps which might lead to early recognition. Ambassador Houghton at Berlin put himself in touch with Foreign Minister Tchitcherin, who was then in that city, and the two held a series of conversations, the upshot of which was a proposal that the United States should send to Russia a commission of inquiry to report how far this country should go in the matter of the resumption of trade and other intercourse.

REDS INSULTED

Tchitcherin was favorably disposed and so informed Moscow. But his opinion was not shared by the persons left in control of the Foreign Office. They issued a statement and propaganda indicating Russia had been insulted by a proposal that capitalist America should be given the right to pass judgment on the Red revolution. All the extremists joined in a chorus of execration. America was sharply notified she could have the privilege of investigating the soviet government only if she would permit the soviet to investigate our government. Mr. Hughes thereupon dropped all negotiations.

When the moderates learned the truth of the American proposals, Lenin and others insisted efforts must be made to find a way to get into touch with us again. At the Lausanne conference Tchitcherin held a conversation on this subject with American representatives and announced "a formula must be found." It was his intention to go to Berlin and renew the conversations with Mr. Houghton.

Before he could dispose of the negotiations over Turkey, however, a great upset came in Moscow. Lenin was finally stricken with an illness which removed him forever from power. The court of Spain hears he has been dead two months. Whether or no, he might as well be, so far as the conduct of Russia's affairs are concerned. If alive, he is held closely under the guardianship of Trotsky. His ailment is in the nature of paralysis and he will not be able to break his bonds should he desire.

Trotsky prepared last year for this crisis. Long before, he had had Leo Kameneff, his brother-in-law, elected president of the Moscow soviet and he prevailed upon Lenin and the others concerned to designate Kameneff as the one who should act for Lenin when the leader was incapacitated by spells of illness. So now Kameneff is the head of the government, with Trotsky guarding him as commander of the army; and what we have seen take place is the process on the part of these two worthies and their radical followers of breaking down the moderate system of Lenin and the restoration of real Communism.

ALL'S FAIR IN WAR

Kameneff is one of the most effective propagandists of "world revolution of the proletariat." In late years he has seemed to become more moderate, but he has proclaimed it is legitimate to trick bourgeois governments and has said of trade agreements entered into with various ones: "These agreements are merely a new form of struggle for the establishment of Communism. The problem before us is how to preserve the soviet power under existing circumstances until the proletariat of other countries come to our aid."

It is highly probable that Trotsky and Kameneff would have kept a moderate face to the world for a time, had they been able. But they had to depend for their power on fanatical followers who had been restive under the growing "bourgeois" system instituted by Lenin. As I have told my readers before, Lenin had decided Communism would not do. He had deprived tens of thousands of extremists of their places in the government and demanded efficiency; he had turned industrial works over to competent direction and abolished the power of the workers; he had vastly reduced the power of the government over trade and had permitted a new class of traders to spring up; he had permitted speculation and private banking, and he was preparing to bring in foreign capital.

All this was tending toward the erection of a "bourgeois" system and the red Reds were furious.

With the elimination of Lenin and the return of the extremists to power this feeling first vented itself on the churches. Lenin had permitted freedom of worship, and the people were flocking back to the Orthodox faith. An understanding was reached with Rome and the Catholics were permitted to renew their work. The mad demonstration of the last Christmas season, when God was burned in effigy, showed the reaction of the reddest Reds to this liberality.

Trotsky, the renegade Jew, has no use for religion. He and his ilk have preached that it binds the souls of men and makes them slaves to capitalism. They have often expressed the desire to deal out to the Roman Catholic church the treatment they gave to the Russian church, and the "trial" and punishment of the chief prelates of Petrograd was a political blow at the Pope. The revival of old charges against the chiefs of the Russian Orthodox church — who are now to be punished because they resisted the despoilment of their edifices in the round-up of gold and precious stones—is another political measure.

STIRRING UP THE BALKANS

But these are only an indication of a much bigger movement. We are getting bits of news which show the extremists are taking control of the whole situation in the country and stirring up trouble outside. Peasants are again being shot by hundreds because they will not submit to the rule of Red commissars. Lenin had relieved the peasants of such dictation. The democratic government of Siberia is being replaced by Communist rule. Foreign governments are being warned they must deal with Russia on her own terms.

In Galicia, in Rumania, in Bulgaria and Serbia, there are fresh signs of the workings of the old revolutionary propaganda. There have been outbreaks in all these countries, and Rumania in particular is having a hard time suppressing the dangerous intrigue directed against the throne.

When one recalls that only six months ago the Moscow Foreign Office was ready to make a full peace agreement with Poland which should stop all revolutionary efforts; that at the Lausanne conference an Entente was reached with Rumania, whereby all differences were to be patched up in the interest of peace on the Black Sea, it can be realized what a change has come over Moscow's policy since Lenin passed out of the picture.

Our own relief workers can furnish plenty of evidence on that score. Lenin and the moderates appreciated what they have done for Russia. Since the extremists have taken full control the A.R.A. has been subjected to a bitter campaign designed to show the workers are spies and propagandists for "capitalist America." Their mail has been opened and censored; their actions have been distorted and their work has been seriously hampered. Kameneff has demanded that further supplies shall be distributed by the Russian relief organization, of which he is head.

CIVIL WAR LOOMS

Many persons in Europe and this country fear Trotsky will again plunge Europe into war. France is so fearful that she has sent Marshal Foch to Warsaw to see that the Polish army is ready for trouble and to arrange for united action by that country and Czecho-Slovakia, and has arranged to rearm the Jugoslav army and extend aid to Rumania. The Baltic States are preparing for trouble.

There is, of course, always a possibility of such events when extremists are in power. Trotsky might well feel the time is ripe to strike through Rumania and Bulgaria for Constantinople. He is hardly likely to try to drive into Poland, for he knows communications in that direction are very bad and the Polish army is formidable.

What is more probable is civil war. The moderate followers of Lenin are likely to put up a fight for his policies. If the soviet forces thus become divided powerful inside and outside forces will take a hand.

EVIDENCE IS SHORT, SO NO VERDICT

No Difference, Though, Some Jurors Denying It Was Whisky, Anyway

Andy Lankin, huddled in the hardwood chair before Justice Forbes, stared anxiously from face to face as the jury filed into the courtroom, returning his verdict.

Would they find him guilty? he wondered, and through his mind crept a vision of shadowed bars and liberty lost. Or would they turn him loose and let him return to the family that needed him in the little bungalow in Lincoln Heights. His hands clutched the table edge.

It had been a long debate. Twice the jury foreman had returned to the courtroom to ask instructions of the judge and twice Constable Weybright had carried to the jury room articles of evidence over which the jury apparently was disagreed.

But now it was over. This waiting and worry was at an end, at any rate. He squared his shoulders. Justice Forbes had said, "Andy Lankin, you are entitled to a fair and impartial trial by a jury of twelve of your peers." That surely meant justice.

The jury foreman advanced to the judge. His face, flushed, showed the effects of some emotion. He steadied himself on the back of a near-by chair.

"Your Honor," he said, "the jury can reach no verdict in the case of Andrew Lankin, accused of a violation of the Wright Act. The evidence would not go round and some of the jurors deny that it was whisky."

Lankin, returned to the County Jail, awaits another trial.

CANDIDATES TELL THEIR PLATFORMS

City Club Listens to Principles of McDonald, Bell and Osborne

Following luncheon at the City Club yesterday members of the club were furnished an oratorical wet sandwich, served by J. C. Bell, Prohibitionist; H. Z. Osborne, "dry," and Frank A. McDonald, "anti-Volstead by conviction," the latter speaker being wedged in between his two opponents for Congress.

Excerpts from the addresses of the three speakers follow:

Mr. Bell said: "Don't let them tell you there are no issues in this campaign. There are plenty of 'em. The development of our harbor is an important issue, as is also the question of the Boulder Canyon dam.

"As to the Boulder dam, the only question is, Who shall control it, private corporations or the people? Put me down for the people. But perhaps the biggest issue before the American people is the enforcement of the liquor laws. We have the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act and I stand for both, with no surrender to modifications."

Mr. McDonald, who, according to Francis J. Heney, president of the club, "never tasted liquor or tobacco in his life," spoke in part as follows:

"I am a Republican, but I disagree with the present administration in regard to entering the International Court or League of Nations.

"I am in favor of a ship subsidy and merchant marine. I am for the Los Angeles Harbor. I stand for the protection of American industries and labor and favor the restriction of immigration and the absolute exclusion of the Japanese. I favor religious liberty, the soldiers' bonus and a bill which would make it treason for a profiteer to cheat this government in time of war.

"I am against prohibition from principle. I notice that the dry advocates never quote Abraham Lincoln, who said that prohibition was the most vicious form of intemperance with which this country would ever have to deal."

Mr. Osborne placed himself on record as being opposed to private corporations handling the Boulder Canyon dam project and the power to be developed therefrom and said he is in favor of the Johnson-Swing bill.

"All the issues of this campaign can be condensed into the one big issue of human welfare," said Mr. Osborne. "These various problems cannot be rightly decided according to the dictates of selfish interests, but they can be thus decided according to the Golden Rue, which places human welfare above the dollar mark — and this supreme rule for conduct I have incorporated into my platform."

FREDERICKS MEETS OLD COMRADES

Congressional Candidate Speaks at Spanish War Veterans' Picnic

Capt. John D. Rredericks was the principal speaker yesterday at a picnic of Spanish-American War veterans in Pepper Grove near the Soldiers' Home in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of America's declaration of war on Spain.

He told the veterans that if elected to Congress from the Tenth Congress District he would join with Congressman Lineberger of the Ninth District in obtaining adequate pensions for the veterans of 1898.

"No one who finds an excuse for not serving his country when it needs him in time of war should have the audacity to call on the veterans of a war in time of peace." Capt. Fredericks declared.

Veterans of three wars and their families attended the picnic. In speaking before the men who served in the Spanish-American War, Capt. Fredericks found himself surrounded by former comrades-in-arms.

Congressman Lineberger, a veteran of the World War, was unable to speak because of illness, but sent word that he hoped to visit the Soldiers' Home today and take up pension matters with the Spanish-American War veterans.

Metro Obtains 4000 Head for Use in Screening "The Eagle's Feather"

Four thousand head of cattle were yesterday taken over by Metro Pictures Corporation. These cattle are on the Smithson Ranch near Bishop, and are to be utilized for the stampede and ranch scenes of "The Eagle's Feather," the first of the Metro all-star specials for the coming season.

For the past two weeks Edward Sloman, who is to direct "The Eagle's Feather," and Lou Strohm, Metro location manager, have been touring Northern California and Western Nevada by automobile in search of a suitable herd for use in this production.

Yesterday morning they called Milton Hoffman, Metro production manager, over the long-distance phone and informed him that it was impossible to get the use of the cattle for the stampede unless they took over the entire herd. Mr. Hoffman immediately got in touch with the owners of the ranch and made arrangements for Metro to take the cattle during the period of the filming of the picture. They will be taken back by the ranch owners at the end of the time with a deduction for any losses that may occur.

In order to get the 4000 cattle to the proper location for the staging of the stampede they will be driven from the Smithson Ranch to Convict Lake, a distance of 100 miles.

FARMERS FACE LOWER PRICES

Domestic Supplies to Hold Produce Rates Down

Rural Experts See Little Demand in Europe

Staples Show Surplus Over Home Needs

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, April 21. — A conference of economists and statisticians called by Secretary Wallace to consider the agricultural outlook made a report today saying the foreign outlook on the demand side seemed slightly less favorable to American farmers in 1923 than it was in 1922.

"The domestic demand for agricultural products," the report said, "will be active so long as the present prosperious conditions of business with full employment continue."

Regarding wheat, the conference reported that in spite of unfavorable factors, supplies may be so large as to keep prices low. If rainfall is unfaborable, it was added, however, it may result in such a reduced production as to make farm prices rise.

On the basis of the intentions of producers to plant 12 per cent greafer cotton acreage than in 1922, the cotton acreage harvested in 1923 was estimated at 36,888,000 acres. If the yield per acre should prove the same as the average for the five years, 1918-1922, the total crop would be 11,810,000 bales.

The corn situation, the report said, is about normal, stocks on farms being almost exactly the same as the five year prewar average. Between now and the time the new crop is harvested there will be some tendency toward corn shortage because of the large number of hogs on feed.

The prospect which producers must face before a year has elapsed, it was said, involves absorption by domestic and foreign consumers of a surplus of over 6,000,000 hogs and 250,000,000 pounds of stored products.

COLORADO BANKER IS GIVEN HIS FREEDOM

Charles Maxwell, former banker of Lamar, Colo., was released from the County Jail here yesterday following receipt here of information from Dist.-Atty. J. W. Hawley in that city, that Maxwell's friends there had deposited $10,000 bail.

Maxwell was arrested Friday by Deputy Sheriffs Allen and Sweesy following information that he was wanted in Lamar on five felony warrants. The bank with which Maxwell was connected is said to be defunct.

ROOM RAID YIELDS DRUGS

Police Arrest Two in Investigation of Asserted Burglars' Gang Headquarters

Investigation by State and city officers yesterday into an asserted source of supply for small dope peddlers and asserted headquarters of a gang of burglars led to search of a room in a fashionable apartment-house on West Third street and resulted in the arrest of two men on charges of violation of the State Poison Act and suspicion of burglary and one on a narcotic charge. More than $200 worth of morphine was seized in the room and evidence of asserted headquarters for burglars was found, according to officers.

The raid and arrests were made by Inspector Earl of the State Board of Pharmacy, Detective Lieutenants Yarrow, Littlejohn and Hamilton and Detective Hoskins and Clark of the vice squad.

MORPHINE FOUND

When the officers went into the room of C. F. Wright, also known as C. F. Andrews, suspected of being the head of an asserted band of dope peddlers, they found a man who gave the name of B. G. Smith, 30 years of age. Smith was said by officers to have admitted being in the room to purchase narcotics. Search of the room revealed more than $200 worth of morphine, two overcoats, seven watches and a number of skeleton keys, thought to indicate the room was the headquarters for burglars, police reported.

After a short stay in the room, Wright entered. He offered no resistance to the officers. Wright was said to have been under $300 bail on a narcotic charge at the time of his arrest.

Wright and Smith were both charged with violation of the State Poison Act and suspicion of burglary.

After leaving the apartment-house officers arrested Norman Gates, 25, at Third and Fremont streets, asserted to have had in his possession a small quantity of morphine. Gates was said by officers to have recently completed a six weeks' jail sentence on a narcotic charge.

POLICE GET "TIP"

The placing of charges of burglary against Wright and Smith was declared by officers to have been made due to the finding of the assertedly stolen property in Wright's room, as well as information obtained by them before entering the room.

To prevent unnecessary notoriety, the exact number of the apartment was not given by officers.

TO BARE OIL FIELD THEFTS

Grand Jury to Open Inquiry on Losses of Machinery at Signal Hill and Santa Fe Springs

Determined to stop wholesale thefts of oil well machinery in the Signal Hill and Santa Fe Springs districts, where losses have already reached a total of from $25,000 to $30,000, the District Attorney's office on Friday, next, will begin a widespread inquiry before the county grand jury.

It was stated by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Becker that at least twenty-five persons, some of them heads of oil concerns in the two districts, will be called as witnesses before the inquisitorial body. The thefts, it was stated, are of such a nature that an accurate statement as to losses could not be made at this time, though it was stated that at least $25,000 worth of pipe used in drilling and piping oil and various pieces of apparatus have mysteriously disappeared within the last few weeks.

TO OPEN FRIDAY

It was stated yesterday by Mr. Becker that the grand jury investigation will be for the purpose of determining who bought the articles said to have been stolen. The inquiry will be started on Friday because on Wednesday five men, now under arrest, will be given a hearing before Justice Underwood of Long Beach, on charges of grand larceny. An effort will be made at the Wednesday hearing to learn as much as possible about the operations of an asserted gang, which is said to have been reaping a huge harvest in the sale of machinery.

Reports were made to the District Attorney's office of numerous thefts. These include the stealing of ten six-inch tool joints, valued at $630, from the Kenneth R. Wooley Company, 594 Burnett street, Long Beach; twenty six-inch tool joints, valued at $1260, from the Dabney Oil Syndicate; twelve four-inch tool joints, valued at $480, from the United Oil Company; 1152 feet of six-inch drill pipe, valued at $1500, from the Petroleum Midway Oil Company; forty-three six-inch tool joints, valued at $2700, from the Retsof Drilling Company.

SIX ARRESTED

An investigation made by private detectives employed by the various companies resulted in the arrest of G. C. Putnam and L. L. Sissell, oil operators, in Huntington Beach, according to a report to Ms. Becker, and the arrest in Long Beach of George McGee, Dorrell McGee, Jack Mulvey, Frank Conley and a man named Lewis. They will be given a hearing on Wednesday, it was stated. Information gained will be used, it was said, in furthering the grand jury inquiry.

MRS. DORSEY SEES GAME HUNT PICTURE

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT IS GUEST AT PREVIEW AND WRITES IMPRESSION

At a preview showing of H. A. Snow's photographic record of his wanderings in the heart of the African jungles, "Hunting Big Game in Africa With Gun and Camera," yesterday, Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, superintendent of the Los Angeles city schools, voiced her approval of the picture. She says that no lover of nature should miss this treat which opens tomorrow at the California Theater.

Here is a copy of Mrs. Dorsey's letter to Fred Miller, manager of the California:

"Permit me to thank you for the opportunity to see 'Hunting Big Game in Africa With Gun and Camera.' It is the most remarkable picture I have ever seen, full of the enchantment of the 'dark continent,' but, most of all, giving an unparalleled opportunity to see the natives in their native haunts. Everyone interested in nature, and especially those interested in the fast vanishing forms of wild animal life, should see this wonderful composition."

"ALOPECIA PITYRODES"

A Serious Scalp Trouble Which Causes Baldness—Often Mistaken for Common Dandruff

Microscopic Examination Necessary to Determine Exact Cause of Hair and Scalp Troubles, Says Specialist

Records carefully kept over a period of years show that a great percentage of people are afflicted with "Alopecia Pityrodes," a serious scalp trouble which is a forerunner of baldness. Many people mistake this affliction for common dandruff because the microbacilli quietly carry on their destructive work from two to seven years before any decided loss of hair is noticed and the first sign of baldness appears, says Prof. John H. Austin, over 40 years a hair and scalp specialist.

How Alopecia Pityrodes Destroys Healthy Hair

This trouble starts with a scaling of the scalp, sometimes slight, commonly called "dandruff," sometimes abundant—producing thick, grayish-white dry or greasy scales—which leads to the falling of the hair.

This stage lasts from two to seven years, as a rule. At first, when the hair starts to fall, it is hardly noticeable, but as this ailment, "Alopecia Pityrodes," becomes more deeply seated, and the microbacilli multiply, as they always do, the falling of the hair increases rapidly and in time the top of the head becomes entirely bald.

Science Has Discovered How to Stop Hair Destruction

Even when there has been a decided loss of hair there are good prospects of staying the course of the ailment, and increasing the diameter and amount of the hair, provided the person troubled will persist in treatment. Prof. Austin has found that nature will fight long and well, and if given help at the right time will replace the lost hair with new, stronger, thicker and more beautiful hair.

A Powerful Microscope Reveals the Cause

The only way to tell the exact cause of hair and scalp troubles is by a microscopic examination of the hair and scalp. Prof. Austin, who has been at Hamburger's for the past eight years, has found that many people treat hair troubles without knowing what they are trying to cure, and naturally results are disappointing.

Prof. Austin does not trust to guess work. A powerful microscope magnifies the microbacilli thousands of times, and once the exact cause is determined, it is then a simple matter to correct the trouble. Over 40 years of practical experience and scientific study qualify him to advise what to do in each particular case.

The Beginning

The Result

Prof. Austin says, and you will find it repeated in every important scientific treatise on the hair and scalp, that the use of hair tonics, dandruff cures, elixirs, mange cures and pomades is like taking medicine without knowing what you are trying to cure.

This week Prof. Austin will make FREE microscopic examinations of the hair and scalp. Hours 10 to 12 and 2 to 4—both men and women invited. Hamburger's — Second Floor—private offices.

Juanita Hansen Files Petition for Bankruptcy

Juanita Hansen, former motion-picture star of Hollywood, whose arrest in New York last January revealed an asserted one-time addiction to drugs, and who said at that time that "her career would be ruined by this frame-up," filed a petition in bankruptcy yesterday in New York. She listed liabilities of $11,057 and no assets.

When arrested last January on a charge of possession of narcotics, Miss Hansen asserted she had been cured of the drug habit, which she said she formed in Hollywood when she was in motion pictures.

Mr. Hindin succeeded in wrenching the revolver from his assailant's grasp, but still clung to his throat. And he held to him until a squad of detectives rushed up from Central Station.

Mr. Hindin smiled triumphantly as he turned his prisoner over to the officers. Then his smile suddenly disappeared and he clapped a nervous hand against his breast. He drew a wallet holding currency estimated between $40,000 and $50,000 from his breast pocket. And he smiled again.

"They didn't get a nickel," he said.

SUSPECT RECOGNIZED

The broker was taken to the office of Dr. A. L. Houseworth, on the ninth floor, to have his many wounds dressed while the officers searched the building for the other two bandits. A cap was found on the fourth floor, a second revolver was found on the second floor and a stream of revolver cartridges was found leading down the stairs from the fourth to the first floor.

Mr. Hindin's woman customer had disappeared without selling her lavalliere. The officers could not find her.

The diamond broker bought a new shirt and accompanied the officers to Central Station to identify the captured bandit, who had given his name as Harold Williams and is suspected of being a member of a band of jewelry-store robbers who have been operating in Los Angeles for several weeks.

"That's him—the murderer!" Mr. Hindin exclaimed, shaking his finger under the prisoner's nose.

And, while the detectives were not looking, Mr. Hindin kicked Mr. Williams in the stomach.

"I would have been robbed if I hadn't lost my temper," the diamond broker said after the officers had prevented him from further assaulting the captured bandit.

Se Prevé un Pacto con México

WASHINGTON, abril 21.—En los círculos oficiales de esta capital se predice un cabal arreglo entre los Estados Unidos y México, y el definitivo reconocimiento del gobierno de la república del sur por este país, como resultado de las seguridades que aquí se recibieron hoy de que el gobierno referido está dispuesto a garantizar la protección de los derechos de los extranjeros. Por esta cuestión es por la que ha habido obstáculos para reconocer el régimen de Obregón.

El gobierno americano ha comunicado su opinión sobre el asunto al Encargado de Negocios Summerlin, en la Embajada Americana de México, y se han entablado ya discusiones de las que se espera un pronto arreglo.

Desde 1921 quedó lista y en manos del Sr. Summerlin una minuta de tratado, en la que se contienen las condiciones para la renovación de relaciones entre ambos gobiernos y el reconocimiento de la Administración de Obregón. Se ha retardado la firma de ella hasta que México se halle dispuesto a otorgar a los americanos los derechos que demandan.

Está pendiente en la Cámara de Diputados de México la legislación que deba enmendar el Artículo 27 de la constitución mexicana, en forma tal, que no sea ya de aplicación retroactica. Los funcionarios de Obregón consideran que esas enmiendas pendientes de aprobación van a entrañar las garantías que los Estados Unidos han estado pidiendo.

Un Empleado, Armado de una Barra, Pone en Fuga a Tres Bandidos

Una barra de hierro enarbolada por Harry Rubin, empleado de la Compañía Relojera Gruen, domiciliada en el edificio Loew's State, 417-8, hizo huir ayer tarde a tres bandidos armados, evitándose uno de los más sensacionales atracos y robos de estos últimos meses.

Los bandidos penetraron en las oficinas de la compañía relojera ayer a las 3 p.m., donde se hallaba sólo en esos momentos el propietario, Theodore J. Hindin. Los tres malhechores le apuntaron con sus revólveres, ordenándole guardase silencio y levantase las manos. Hindin, lejos de obedecerlos, empezó a dar voces desaforadas pidiendo socorro, por lo que uno de los bandidos le asestó un golpe en la cabeza con el puño de la pistola, haciéndole caer por tierra inconsciente. Rubin, empleado de la casa, que estaba en una de las antesalas que conducen a la oficina componiendo unos relojes, oyó los gritos de su patrono, y precipitándose hacia donde se hallaban los bandidos, con una barra en la mano, le dió a uno de ellos con ésta en la cabeza. Luego se abalanzó sobre los otros dos, que le miraban inmóviles de sorpresa; pero que, antes de que Rubin llegase hacia ellos, se dieron a la fuga. El bandido que había caído al golpe de Rubin, se incorporó y partió en seguimiento de sus compañeros. Estos pudieron huir del edificio, pero el primero fué atrapado por Dimont, conserje del mismo.

Se Dan Pasos Oficiales en el Asunto de la Phillips

Por noticias de Washington se sabe aquí que el Ministerio de Estado decidió iniciar hoy negociaciones con el gobierno de Honduras, a fin de establecer la identidad de una sospechosa que se halla en Tegucigalpa, y que se cree sea la prófuga Clara Phillips, la convicta asesino del martillo, evadida hace unos meses de la cárcel de Los Angeles. Esta diligencia es el indispensable preámbulo para solicitar luego la extradición. La decisión del referido Ministerio obedece a la súplica que en ese sentido le hiciera el Gobernador Richardson, de California.

Va a pedirse al gobierno de Honduras que se sirva arrestar a la sospechosa, en tanto se hace la investigación del caso. El Ministro americano en Honduras es el encargado de presentar esta instancia a las autoridades de Tegucigalpa.

Después de haber dejado salir ayer a Armour L. Phillips de la cárcel del condado, como resultado de un escrito de habeas corpus, los tenientes sheriffs iniciaron desde luego una encuesta por la que esperan quede probado que existen estrechas relaciones entre el citado Phillips y Jesse C. Carson, ex-convicto de Oklahoma, y que ahora se dice anda de compañero de viaje de la fugitiva Clara.

Cleary Amendment Would Assure Rural Sections Control of One House After 1931

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, April 21.—Assemblyman Cleary announced today that he will offer an amendment to Baker's reapportionment bill when it comes up next week designed to make the measure ineffective after January 1, 1931 in the event of its passage. The proposed amendment follows:

"This act shall take effect only upon the adoption by the electors of the State of an amendment to Section 6, Article IV of the Constitution restricting the representation from populous centers of the State in one House of the Legislature by providing, either that in any reapportionment effected after Jan. 1, 1931, no county or city and county shall contain more than ten Assembly districts, or that in any reapportionment effected after Jan. 1, 1931, no county or city and county shall contain more than five Senatorial districts. Such amendment to be submitted to the electors of the State by the Legislaure at a regular or extra session or by initiative, and upon the adoption by the electors of such amendment, this act shall become immediately effective and shall continue in effect till Jan. 1, 1931, but no longer."

The adoption of the Baker reapportionment bill, with this addition to it, would mean that if the constitutional amendment as indicated were adopted at a general election in 1924, the members of the Legislature for the sessions of 1927, 1929 and 1931, would be elected from the districts provided in the Baker bill, but districts formed by the Baker bill would automatically cease to be on January 1, 1931.

Then, reapportionment of legislative districts in accordance with provisions of the constitutional amendment, if adopted in 1924, would have to be made by the Legislature of 1931 and control of one house of the Legislature for all times to come would be preserved to rural California."

LION'S SHARE OF TRACK HONORS GO TO TROJANS

Cromwell's Athletes Annex A.A.U. Meet; U.S.C. Frosh Finish Second; Oxy Is Third

BY ROBERT E. RAY

University of Southern California's varsity cinderpathers captured the annual Southern Pacific Amateur Athletic Union track and field championship at the University of Redlands oval yesterday afternoon with a total of 45½ points. The U.S.C. freshmen finished on the heels of their big brothers with 42 digits, while Occidental grabbed off third place with 39½ markers to their credit. The Los Angeles Athletic Club nosed out Pomona for fourth place by a third of a point, the Mercuries totaling 29⅓ digits, while the Sagehens collected 29 even. Caltek finished finished sixth with 10⅓ markers, Southern Branch nabbed off 5⅓ points and Hollywood and Manual brought up in the rear with 5 and 2 points, respectively.

As expected, Charlie Daggs of Pomona and Otto Anderson of U.S.C. split even in their two hurdle races. Daggs drew first blood by breaking the tape in the high barrier event, but Anderson came right back and evened the score with a victory in the lows. Both times were exceedingly fast for such a cold day. Daggs being clocked in the highs at 15 1-5s., while Anderson's time in the low barriers was 24 1-5s., the latter being a new U.S.C. record.

ELLSWORTH WINS

Phil Ellsworth won the half-mile in 2m. 4-5s., with Percy Niersbach of the U.S.C. freshmen following the Oxy speedster over the line by about two yards. Hansen, the Manual Arts 880 sensation, uncorked a terrific sprint and took third, Huber Smutz of U.S.C. finished fourth.

"Nick" Carter of Occidental romped in a winner by fifteen yards in the mile run after passing Loren Handley of Pomona with a last lap sprint. Handley was about twenty yards in front at the start of the final lap, but Carter ran a wonderful last quarter and finished in front with plenty to spare.

Johnny Powers of Oxy started out in the lead and finished exactly in the same position in the quarter. Aden Hughes gave Powers a terrific battle, but Powers was determined to stay in front and finished two yards in the lead in 50 2-5s. Spangler of Oxy beat out Shaw of the U.S.C. freshmen for third place by a gnat's whisker.

Yale Martz of U.S.C. was victorious in both sprints, trimming Cliff Argue of Oxy. Argue gave Martz the best race in the century, the Trojan runner just nosing out Cliff a couple of strides from the tape. Otto Anderson took third in the 100 and Carl Lowe of U.S.C. frosh nabbed second. Starry of the U.S.C. frosh and Darling of Caltech took third and fourth in the furlong.

KEECH A VICTOR

Keech of Caltech scampered in a victor in the two-mile event. Buster Sloan and Lavelle of Occidental finished in second and third places, while Forward of the Los Angeles Athletic Club crossed the finish line in fourth place. Keech's time was 10m., 8 3-5s., which hardly compares to the brilliant 9:52 turned in by him at Stanford.

Alma Richards, the Los Angeles Athletic Club's "boy wonder," had a nice day at point collecting, cornering an even dozen markers during the frolic. Richards won the fifty-six-pound weight, took seconds in the high jump and discus and grabbed a third in the sixteen-pound shot. Richards also placed in the twelve and eight-pound shot events, but these were only exhibition events and did not count in the scoring.

Bud Houser did some good work for the U.S.C. peagreeners, winning the discus, taking second in the sixteen-pound shot, third in the fifty-six-pound weight and fourth in the hammer throw. Houser's heave of 147ft. 3in. in the discus was one of the features of the meet.

FEG WINS DECISION

Feg Murray won a decision over Fred Kelly in the two-hurdle races for octogenarians, holding Kelly to a tie in the 70-yard high stick event and winning in the 120 yards lows. The times of 9s flat in the highs and 13 1-5s in the lows were extremely fast for the two old-timers.

University of Southern California's relay team downed the Occidental quartet of quarter-milers after a spirited tussle. The University of Southern California frosh team took third in the relay. Spangler started out for Oxy, with Torkelson being first man for the Trojans. A burst of speed on the final stretch aided Torkelson to finish about a step in front of Spangler. Johnson started out about a yard in front of Garey and sent Hughes off with about a three-yard lead against Ellsworth on the third lap. Hughes, who has just seemed to hit his stride, handed Martz about a ten-yard lead over Powers on the final lap. Powers gained about five yards on Martz, but the Trojan speedster breasted the tape without having to extend himself much.

NOTABLES ON HAND

Such notables as Charles Keppen, Bob Weaver and Gene Mahoney were on hand to lend the meet a dash of color. Mahoney, attired in knickers, ran Charlie Keppen a close race for being the favorite with the fair sex present. However, Keppen's "Uucle-John-like" voice won for him a hair-line verdict.

The Redlands oval was in perfect condition and Lloyd Young and his host of assistants deserve much credit for their endeavor. The summary:

A. A. U. TURNS DOWN PADDOCK

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, April 21.—The telegraph vote taken by the Amateur Athletic Union registration committee has been virtually completed and shows nearly unanimous support of the attitude of the officers of the A.A.U. and the American Olympic committee, in advising American athletes to remain away from European competition this year, lest they jeopardize their amateur standing and weaken the Olympic team next year. This announcement was made today by President William C. Prout of the A.A.U. in a statement in which he referred to the reported action of Charles W. Paddock of the University of Southern California, in leaving for Paris to run in a meet here.

"The A.A.U. officials and the American Olympic committee," said Mr. Prout, "are unanimous in feeling that it is the duty of the athletes of the country to stay here this year and generate interest in athletics in this country so that the American Olympic team of 1924 will be able to meet the very strenuous competition which will surely be provided."

BEARS HUMBLE STANFORD

California Upsets Dope by Overwhelming Cards in Annual Track Meet, 82½ to 48½

BY JOSHUA EPPINGER, JR.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—Stanford's varsity track team once again tasted of the bitter herb of defeat when the California tracksters carried off the thirtieth Stanford-California intercollegiate meet by a 82½ to 48½ score on California oval today.

The Cardinal was not the only one to lose. Old man "dope," who had calculated on a close meet, was completely routed, annihilated and ground in the dust.

On the field California had been conceded the majority of the points, but on the track they were supposed to be hoplelessly outclassed. It was on the track that the Bruins scored their double victory over Stanford and old man "dope."

FIVE MARKS BROKEN

Five former records went by the boards this afternoon, three of them being broken by Stanford men in the track events and two by California on the field.

It didn't take very much time for the spectators to realize that the word upset was in the air. In the mile run, the first event of the day, Denton surprised the Cards by running in second place, a few scant feet behind Elliott of Stanford, who was supposed to walk away with the event. Guerly, who managed to arrive in third place, was able to do it only after a desperate effort with Bullard of California, who followed by a matter ot inches. That was upset number one.

Upset number two occurred a few minutes afterward in the 440-yard dash. California has been sympathized with, ridiculed and cursed for the poor flock of runners that they boasted in the quarter mile. With a collection of quarter-milers such as Stanford was supposed to have there would be no question as to who would win the event. But here Bert Saxby violated almost every known species of "dope" by romping away with the event with his team-mate. Linstrum, unheard of until this time, following closely on his heels. Williamson, who was figured on to take the event, did not event place. Van Judah ran in third place.

BRAINWORK WINS

It was brainwork that won the event for California. Stanford lost the quarter-mile because their men allowed themselves to get boxed in a maze of California runners. It was impossible to catch Saxby napping, for he made a complete circle around the Stanford men and ran up the outside of the track for first honors.

The hurdles for a change came out as was expected, but Falk, the Stanford captain, was forced to break two records to win the event. Falk bettered the record in the low hurdles by three-tenths of a second, running this event in 0:23 9-10, and the high hurdles in 0:15 1-10, breaking the record by one-tenth of a second. Becker of California was on his heels every minute in the latter event, and it was not until the last hurdle that Falk forged ahead.

Unset number three occurred in the 100-yard dash, when Farnsworth of California, running in top form, took the event easily, with Campbell trailing him and Ryan in third place. Hale, the Stanford mystery man, was not in evidence. The time was slow but the event interesting—to California.

MAKE CLEAN SWEEP

No sooner had Farnsworth mixed up things when the California runners came along in the two mile and took all three places. Hayes of Stanford made the mistake of trying to set the pace and in the last lap all that could be seen was a flock of California men racing for the tape. Jensen had the race won, but stopped short just when he reached the tape in order to let his team-mates finish ahead of him. There were really no first, second or third places in this event. They were all firsts, for the Blue and Gold men did not care who won so long as they wore the right colors.

Campbell of Stanford got away to a good start in the 220-yard dash, followed closely by Shepard. The Cardinal runner went down the track fast enough to break the tape in 0:21 4-10 seconds, enough to break the record by one-tenth of a second.

It was on the field that California showed their real superiority. Not a Stanford man took a first place, except Black, who tied in the pole vault, in the weights. In four events California ran all over the place.

NEUFELDT SWELLS SCORE

In the shotput Neufeldt added a few to his large share of the points by unexpectedly heaving their own ball 45 ft. 3 1-8 in., beating out his team-mates, Witer and Matthews, who were hurling pretty close to that mark.

In the broad jump Ted Treyer beat out Paul Boren and Brick Muller for first place and nine more points went to the Bruins.

California convincingly showed that it has three of the greatest javelin throwers in the country. Liversedge of California in the bygone days established a record of 184 feet 9½ inches, but the record fell with an awful crash today. Neufeldt first took a crack out of the record with a heave of over 187 feet. He then proceeded to hurl the spear a few feet farther than that. In the meantime, Peterson, also of California, had been cracking the record badly, but Sorrenti capped the climax when he tossed the spear out in the middle of the track—a heave of 193 ft. 5 in.

BLACK TIES NORRIS

Neufeldt took another crack at a record when he beat the discus mark made by Glenn Hartranft of Stanford last year of 137 ft. 4in., four inches better than the Stanford man threw.

After spraining his ankle and pulling a tendon in his leg two weeks ago on California field, Bill Black of Stanford came through in the pinch and tied with Norris for first place. It was a nervy exhibition for Black and he was continually cheered. Dennis and Schofield were completely out of the running with Garner in third place.

The relay was a fitting climax to a day that had been full of upsets. Williamson of Stanford at the end of the first lap gave Daly a good four-yard lead. Hurst, a transfer last year from the Southern Branch, tok up the chase and beat Daly out by three yards. Linstrom and Schofield sprinted their way around the track to a dead tie, but Van Judah was able to come through at the final moment and beat out Bert Saxby by a small margin.

California oval was packed just about to capacity with the rooters expected to witness a close meet, but the demonstration rendered by the California runners led most of them to the conclusion that the Bruins are not very much weaker than they were last year.

440-yard dash—Won by Saxby (C.) Lindstrum (C.) second, Vanjudah (S.) third. Time, 51s flat.

One-mile run—Won by Elliott (S.) Denton (C.) second, Gurley (S.) third. Time, 4m. 28s.

100-yard dash—Won by Farnsworth (C.) Campbell (S.) second, Ryan (C.) third. Time, 10 2-10s.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Falk (S.) Becker (C.) second, Leistner (S.) third. Time, 15 1-10s. (This breaks the intercollegiate record of 15 1-5s, held by Thomson (Dartmouth) in 1920 and Whitted (Stanford) in 1913)

Shot put—Won by Neufeldt (C.) Witter (C.) second, Matthews (C.) third. Distance, 45ft. 3¼in.

Two-mile run—Won by Mulvaney (C.) Caulkins (C.) second, Jensen (C.) third. Time, 10m. 36-10s.

880-yard dash—Won by Dole (S.) Swayne (S.) second, McIntosh (S.) third. Time, 2m. 7-10s.

BRUINS MAKE CLEAN SWEEP

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BERKELEY, April 21.—The University of California made a clean sweep on the season's baseball schedule with Stanford University when it won the third game of the 1923 series 4 to 1 here today. This is the fourth straight year the Bears have defeated the Cardinals on the diamond and they have won twenty out of thirty-one annual series with Stanford, one having been tied. Today's batteries were Banning and Thompson for California, and Solomon and Patterson for Stanford. Banning pitched a no-hit, no-run game for eight innings, but allowed three hits and gave a walk in the ninth.

HUSKIES DOWN U. C. OARSMEN

Washington Varsity and Frosh Crews Victorious

High Wind and Choppy Waters Handicap Rowers

Winners to Represent West at Poughkeepsie

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, April 21.—The University of Washington made a clean sweep here today when its varsity and freshman crews defeated the varsity and freshman crews of the University of California in the annual boat races. The Huskies from the north won over the Bears by six lengths in the varsity, and the baby Huskies won from the California cubs by three and one-half lengths.

A stiff head-on wind and choppy water made fast time impossible on the Estuary. The Washington varsity's official time of 18:5 was nearly three minutes slower than the record for the three-mile course.

Both the California varsity and freshmen started out with a lead over the northerners, and in both races this lead was cut down in the early stage of the races.

The official time for the varsity and freshmen Washington-California was as follows:

Washington varsity, 18:5 2-5; California, 18:40.

Washington freshmen, 9:57; California, 10:07.

HUSKIES GO EAST

Washington's victory today means that the Huskies will represent the West in the National Intercollegiate Crew race at Poughkeepsie in June. Washington represented the West last year and placed second to the Navy, and California represented the West in 1921 and placed second to the Navy.

The varsity crews began lining up at the Webster street bridge at 10:05 a.m. The unofficial time of the start was 10:08½.

California took a half-length lead in the first two minutes, rowing along the south side of the estuary.

Both crews were rowing thirty-four strokes to the minute. California had lost most of its lead at Moore's shipyards. Both crews moved the stroke to thirty-six and Washington forged ahead. Washington at this stage showed a superior speed and was able to maintain an even stroke. Washington passed the California crew shortly after passing Moore's shipyard.

IN REASE LEAD

Within seven minutes of the start Washington was a full length ahead.

Wahington was rowing almost in midstream with California hugging the south shore all the way.

Both crews had dropped stroke by the three-quarter mark to thirty-two.

Washington steadily increased the lead and off the Southern Pacific yards was leading by more than two lengths.

D. Walling of Bellingham, Wash., stroke on the Washington crew, collapsed at the end of the race, but recovered immediately.

FRANK TROEH HIGH IN SPRING SHOOT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VICKSBURG (Miss.) April 21. Frank M. Troeh of Vancouver, Wash., world champion amateur trap shooter, with a score of 198 targets out of 200, was high amateur at the closing today of the annual spring tournament of the Hill City Gun Club, which began yesterday.

E. N. Nutting of Los Angeles contested in several of the events.

LOU MELLUS SECOND IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DEL MONTE, April 21.—Frederick K. Burnham, Martinez, led a field of fifty in the first eighteen holes of the family golf club handicap tournament here today. His card was 84-15-69; L. R. Mellus, Los Angeles, was second with 91-20-71. Robert Eyre and Howard Brickell, both of San Francisco, tied for third with a net score of 76.

MUNICIPAL TENNIS TOPIC AT POW-WOW

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 21.—The United States Lawn Tennis Association's national campaign for the development of municipal tennis play will be opened in New York, May 2 in a round robin of matches between William T. Tilden II, William I. Johnston and Vincent Richards, the country's ranking players. The matches will be held in Central Park.

BILL TILDEN IS BEATEN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—William T. Tilden, II, national tennis champion, met defeat today at the dedication of the new courts at Germantown Academy, his alma matter. Vincent Richards, Yonkers, N. Y., holder of the national doubles crown, with Tilden, was paired with Carl Fischer, Philadelphia, Middle States champion. They won from Tilden and Wallace F. Johnson, Philadelphia, 4-6, 6-1, 9-7.

Mrs. Molla Mallory, making her first appearance on an American court since her return from abroad, easily defeated Miss Molly Thayer, Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-2.

R. Norris Williams, Philadelphia, and Watson Washburn, New York, defeated Jose and Manuel Alonzo, the Spanish players, now residents of Bethlehem, Pa., 7-5, 6-1.

Richards and Fischer played two sets against Williams and Washburn, winning the first 7-5, and losing the second, 5-7.

Tilden defeated Manuel Alonzo, 6-4, 6-4.

RAY CASEY HERO AT OJAI

San Franciscan Cops Singles and Doubles Title; Mrs. May Sutton Bundy Retains Tennis Crown

BY LEEPSON BOWNES
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OJAI (Cal.) April 21.—Broad shouldered, hard hitting Ray Casey of San Francisco was the big hero of the annual Ojai Valley tennis tournament which ended here today and carried back to the northern park of the State the open singles and doubles championships after Howard Kinsey, the favorite, had faltered and fallen.

Casey nosed out Clarence Barker of Los Angeles, 7-5, 9-7, in a hard-fought semifinal match and found himself face to face with Harold Godshall, who had sprung the one big surprise of the tournament by beating Howard Kinsey of San Francisco, 5-7, 6-4, 10-8, in one of the greatest battles ever seen on Ojai's dirt courts.

GODSHALL FATIGUED

Godshall was manifestly fatigued from his efforts in the Kinsey match and dropped the first set to Casey, 6-3, but he rallied in the second set and fought Casey to a standstill for eighteen games, but finally lost the set, match and championship at 11-9. Casey and Kinsey then beat Tom Bundy and Maury McLoughlin, in the doubles finals, 9-7, 6-4. The San Franciscans were assisted by old Father Time.

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy repeated her victory of last year in the women's singles, beating Miss Mary Browne in the finals, 6-4, 6-4, in a hard-fought match. Mrs. Bundy and her sister, Mrs. Doeg, defaulted to their sisters Miss Florence Sutton and Mrs. B. O. Bruce in the doubles finals after each team had won one set as Mrs. Bundy did not want to tire herself for the singles match with Miss Browne.

STUBBORN FIGHT

A sensational and stubbornly contested final match gave the mixed doubles championship to last year's winners, Miss Mary Browne and Nat Browne, who defeated Mrs. B. O. Bruce and T. C. Bundy, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5. Miss Caroline Bryant captured the special singles tournament from Mrs. Severance, 6-0, 6-4.

The intercollegiate championships went to the University of California, Wallace Bates defeating his team-mate Bettens for the singles title, 6-2, 6-4, while Bates and Bettens trimmed their Stanford rivals, Mertz and Hinckley, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, in the doubles.

Conrad Bryant of Hollywood, last year's champ, again captured the interscholastic singles honors after a terrific contest with his team-mate, Alan Herrington, Bryant winning, 13-11, 7-5. The interscholastic doubles went to Pacheco and Ordway of Los Angeles High, who trimmed Hughes and Rice of Santa Monica in the finals, 6-3, 6-4.

TOURNEY SUCCESS

Miss Irene Proboshasky of Ojai took the title in the girls interscholastic event by defeating Miss Mansur of Marlborough, 6-1, 7-5. Misses Booth and Baxter of Collegiate took the doubles honors by defeating Misses Bishop and Mansur of Marlborough, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

The tournament is regarded as one of the finest in the history of the valley and was splendidly conducted throughout.

Angels Drop Third Tilt in Row to Suds

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, April 21.—Seattle won its third srtaight game from Los Angeles today in eleven innings, 4 to 3. Bill Orr's double, a sacrifice by Janvrin and Crane's sacrifice fly gave the home club the victory. The fielding of Hood and Carroll was a feature, these two making fine running catches. Eldred hit a home run in the fourth inning. Score:

As a special feature the club is trying to arrange a sculling race between Walter Hoover of Duluth, holder of the Diamond Sculls of England and the Philadelphia Gold Challenge Cup; Paul Costello of Philadelphia, national champion and W. E. Garrett Gilmore of the Quaker City, a contender for titles. The regatta will be held during the Shriners' convention.

BRIDGE BILL PASSED

MINNEAPOLIS, April 21.—The Senate passed the bill to authorize Hennepin county to issue $2,000,000 in bonds for erecting a bridge and approaches across the Minnesota River near Fort Snelling to provide a direct route to South St. Paul and Southern Minnesota. The bill was passed by the House last week.

TRACK ENTRIES COME IN SLOW

According to Seth F. Van Patten, who is in charge of the coming Southern California interscholastic track and field meet, a number of high school coaches and vice-principals are either lazy or very negligent in the matter of sending in entries. Van Patten said that the entries close Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and that several schools had better show some speed in sending their entries or they would be left in the dust.

The following eighteen schools, about a third of those expected to enter, have sent in their entries: Alhambra, Compton, Covina, Franklin, Grossmont, Harvard Military Academy, Huntington Beach, Inglewood, Jefferson, Lincoln, L. A. High, Monrovia, Oxnard, Riverside, San Diego Army and Navy Academy, San Fernando, South Pasadena and Van Nuys. Even the entries of Hollywood, the favorite to win, and several City League schools have not shown up yet.

A prospective buyer walked into our Used Car Department with one of the salesmen last week and remarked on the beauty of a Certified Special-Six standing on the floor. The salesman told him that he had just sold it a short time before.

"That Special-Six next to it," said the prospect, "looks pretty fine, how much is it?"

He was told $995 and he replied: "I will take it."

No questions as to distance traveled, no request for a demonstration, no uncertainty about condition or value. That man knew about Certified Studebaker Sixes through talking with his friends who drove Studebaker cars and had a knowledge of Hoffman Service.

Guaranteed for ninety days, serviced in Hoffman Shops for one month and sold at standardized prices, Certified Studebaker Sixes are often bought in this same manner. We have grown accustomed to it.

"Jazz General" Plans to Attend Reunion of 42nd

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, April 21.—Gen. Gouroud, the "jazz general" of the French army, is leaving for New York in several weeks to attend the annual reunion of the Forty-second Division.

"I would go 100 miles anyway to hear Jim Europe's jazz band," the general told American officers during the war.

Gen. Gouroud, who had one arm shot off, became a fiend for jazz. When everything was dull on the front he hunted up Lieut. Europe's famous negro band and made them play everything on the menu. He was deeply shocked when Lieut. Europe was killed in Boston.

Gen. Gouroud has been French Commissioner at Syria but has now been succeeded by Gen. Weygand.

FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MILWAUKEE, April 21.—Ground will be broken in Racine on May 1 for the new St. Catherine's High School, which will cost approximately $300,000 and will have accommodations for 800 girls. The new building is to take the place of the old St. Catherine's Academy. It will be completed in time for the second semester next year.

HOMERS GALORE

CHICAGO, April 21. — Home runs by Miller, Kelleher and Hartnett, the latter driving in two runs ahead of him, enabled Chicago to come from behind today and defeat St. Louis, 10 to 8, in the first game of the series. The visitors drove Cheeves off the mound in the first inning by scoring five runs on as many hits, one of which was a homer by Bottomley with the bases filled. Pfeffer was taken out when Chicago tied the score in the seventh, and North was unable to stop Chicago's slugging.

With Chicago's three four-baggers today, they brought their record for the five days up to twelve. Eighteen homers have been made here in the last four days. Score:

COOPER BASTED

CINCINNATI, April 21. — The Reds knocked Cooper out of the Pittsburg box in the first inning attack, and continued their heavy attack at the expense of three other pitchers, winning easily, 12 to 6. Donohue let down with a safe lead and was rather hard hit toward the finish.

Fonseca sustained a muscle bruise in sliding into second in the second inning, and had to give way to Bressler. Umpire Paul Sentelle is threatened with appendicitis and will probably have to undergo an operation. The veteran Bom Emslie took his place, working on the bases. Score:

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 21.—The New York Yankees made a clean sweep of their four-game series with Boston, winning the last game of the series today, 7 to 6. Mays was hit hard, but remained in the box until the first three Boston hitters in the ninth singled. Jones, who relieved him, barely squeezed through, as two runs were scored and Scott threw out the tying run at the plate.

Ruth failed to make a hit for the first time this season and struck out twice. The crowd was estimated at 50,000, bringing the attendance for the series up to 150,000, a new record for a four-game series. The score:

SENATORS GRAB

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—Washington took the final game from Philadelphia here today, 6 to 4, pouncing on Rommell for four runs in the fourth inning. The Athletics staged an uphill fight for the game and at one time were but one run behind with the bases full when a double play ended the rally. Miller made his first homer of the season while S. Harris of Washington also hit for the circuit. More than 30,000 fans swarmed the park. The score:

SOLONS AND OAKS DIVIDE

Walter Mails Wins Coast Premiere; Acorns Cop Opener, 4 to 3; Drop Second Tilt, 4 to 2

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OAKLAND, April 21.—Sacramento and Oakand divided today's double header, the Oaks winning the first game, 4 to 3, and the Senators the second, 4 to 2.

Walter Mails, former Cleveland Indian, pitching for Oakland, won his premiere on the Coast, defeating Yellowhorse in the first contest. The Senators were leading until the eighth inning when Yellowhorse blew up, allowing two runs and two walks. He was replaced by Fittery, who walked in one run with the bases full. The Senators filled the bags in the ninth, got a run and had a chance to make it a tie when Hemingway fanned for the final out.

In the second game Penner outpitched Colwell and won easily. The Oaks got two runs in the first inning by two bases on balls, one single by Cather and Siglin's error. But the Senators won the game in the fifth, Cook and Penner singled, Ryan, batting for McGinnis, singled, scoring Cook. Kopp sacrificed. Hemingway popped to Brubaker. Siglin was purposely walked, filling the bases and Brown cleaned the bases with a two-base hit to center. The scores:

Aged Sheik Wins Hand of Child-Bride

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LIBERTY HILL (Tex.) April 21.—J. S. McClary, 58 years old, and Miss Hattie King, 14 years old, were married here the other day. Both assert that it was a love match. Mr. McClary is a well-known business man of this community and his girl-wife has lived here all of her life.

O. B. Zimmerman, justice of the peace at Burnet, was called upon to perform the ceremony. He was greatly surprised at the differences in the ages of the couple, but the blushing bride convinced him that everything was in regular order and there was nothing left for the justice to do but tie the knot. McClary began courting Miss King several months ago. He was an ardent wooer, it is stated, and he pressed his suit so vigorously that he overcame whatever handicap his age may have originally been.

WILLIAM C. LEITSCH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MILWAUKEE, April 21.—William C. Leitsch, president of the Columbus Canning Company, former president of the National Canners' Association and treasurer of the Wisconsin Holstein Breeders' Association, is dead at his home in Columbus, Wis., following an illness with pneumonia.

Dynamite was invented by Alfred Nobel in 1866.

Texas Claims World's Largest Pecan Bearer

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LAMPASAS (Texas) April 21.—Expert pecan orchardists have discovered what they assert is the largest pecan tree in the United States. It is situated in the Bend community near here and has a record of producing crops that were sold for more than $500 annually. The famous tree was visited recently by A. I. Fabis, of Brownwood, Texas, who is a State inspector of pecan trees. He sprayed the big tree in order to rid it of possible insect pests. Mr. Fabis said it took 100 gallons of spray to treat the big tree even in a superficial way.

It is seven feet in diameter at a point several feet from the ground, is more than 100 feet in height and has a vast limb spread. Mr. Fabis and his assistants climbed into the limbs of the tree until they were fifty feet from the ground, and from that point, with 500 pounds pressure, the spray was thrown to all parts of the tree, even to the extreme top, still fifty feet higher.

Woman Doctor Ends Her Life at Long Beach

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, April 21.—Mrs. Marie Katherine Archer, chiropractic doctor, 54 years of age, shot and fatally wounded herself in livings-rooms back of her offices in the Odd Fellows' Temple, 728 Elm street today. She died shortly afterward at the Long Beach Hospital.

Her husband, Ernest C. Archer, also a chiropractor, was sitting in the front room when he heard the shot. He hurried back to find his wife lying on the floor. The bullet from the .32 caliber revolver had passed through her forehead.

The husband said that Mrs. Archer had given no intimation of her intention, but that she had been worrying over financial losses from bad investments. He said her first husband had left her a considerable fortune, which practically had been wiped out.

Mrs. Archer was one of the best-known chiropractors in this section. She had traveled widely in all parts of the world.

California Hops to Be Taxed by Great Britain

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, April 21.—The government announced yesterday that in addition to adopting a proposal for a tax on foreign hops it would adopt as well a suggestion for a tax of 10 shillings on foreign malting barley. Both hops and barley come chiefly from California. It rejects a proposal to compel importers of flour to import also a proportion of the milling offals and it refuses to restrict imports of potatoes.

SCOTCH RADICALS TURNING FACISTI

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, April 21.—The Scottish Trade Union Congress at Dundee yesterday was informed that the nucleus of a Fascisti movement existed in Glasgow. The Congress resolved to protest against the movement in this country and instructed the general assembly to ascertain the extent of the movement. Glasgow has always been the center of radical, anarchist and Bolshevist activities, which practically have been confined to this center of Great Britain.

Local Elks Organize Golf Team

LOS ANGELES IS TO LEAD ALL

Wentworth Starts Squad in Ninety-nine

Willie Hunter to Travel to Lake Elsinore

Redlands to Stage First of Big Programs

BY BOB LOCKE

Another great organization is about to enter the golfing world with malice aforethought. The B.P.O. Elks Number 99 have already started plans for a ten-man golf team. In this lodge alone there are several first-rate golfers and with the assumption that every lodge has a like number then the Elks present a strong golfing faction.

Every lodge in Southern and Northern California will organize a ten-man team. During the year tournaments will be played off in both divisions and a ten-man team will be chosen from the best of the players in the north and south. At the State convention, to be held in Eureka a championship match will be played off to determine the Elks' title for the State.

Ike Wentworth, father of the idea, wishes that all members of Number 99 would send their names to him so that he may get his team under way as soon as possible and get in line of the title.

"Willie Hunter, Los Angeles" is the way the new amateur golf champion enscribes his name on a local hotel register; for Willie has adopted Southern California as his permanent home, and has already started in on his duties as golf secretary of the Southern California Athletic and Country Club.

The noted ex-British champion declares "Southern California the golfer's paradise;" and though he has played on the most famous golf courses of Europe and America, he knows of no place on the globe where terrain and climate permit of golfing every month in the year, as in this "Sunny Southland." "And," says Hunter "every golfer of note is bound to play on one of the links out here at some time, and it is always certain that he can get a match with just as good a player as he is."

Hunter is most enthusiastic over the possibilities of making the four eighteen-hole courses which the completed plans of the Southern California Athletic and Country Club call for, the international golfing ground of the future. In company with John Duncan Dunn, the club's golf architect, and builder of famous courses, Hunter made a trip this week to Lake Elsinore, where these wonderful courses are to be built.

With the Southern California amateur golf championships a thing of the past and with Willie Hunter safely tucked away in our midst, the next big golf event is the invitational tournament to be held at the Redlands Country Club in Redlands.

This is the first invitational event to be put on by the club, but from the ever swelling entry list it looks as though on April 26, the opening date of the tourney, a first-class affair will be put on. Even though the Redlands club is some seventy miles from Los Angeles quite a few of the local stars will make the trip.

In order to accommodate those making the trip the tournament will be run off in one day so that there will have to be no long stay at Redlands. Plans have already been made for the coming tourney and to the outsider they look good.

The Los Angeles Country Club is now in the throes of its annual spring handicap tournament Yesterday more than 150 golfers of all standings teed off in the hopes of becoming the "champeens" of the Beverly Club. The gallery seemed unable to pick a winner as there are a flock of good players entering the affair.

SPORT SHRAPNEL
By
HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Pehaps it is only modesty which prevents President Bill Lane and Manager Duffy Lewis from publicly proclaiming themselves best traders in baseball.

However this may be, the Heinie Sand deal just about stamps them as such. The full import of this transaction was not realized until three of the men received for Sand were seen in action here with Salt Lake during the present series.

Sand was traded to the Philadelphia National League club last fall. In exchange for him Salt Lake received John Peters, catcher; Roy Leslie, first baseman; Jimmy Singleton, pitcher; Jimmy Smith, shortstop, and a bundle of currency.

All this in exchange for a player who had hit less than .270 in minor league company, and whose fielding had been decidedly erratic.

True, Smith refused to report but he is still the property of Salt Lake, and can be used in sort of a sale or swap later. But should Lane never realize a day's service or a cent from this player, baseball men generally will concede that he got far and away the better of the deal.

Sand had a fine year in 1921, but last season was 'way off in every department. His slump in batting seemed to make him unsteady in the field. So it must be that Philadelphia suggested. Most fans who have seen Peters, Leslie and Singleton in action would hesitate to trade any one of them for Sand.

This is not a slam at Heinie, and here's hoping that he may develop into a world-beater, but so far the deal shapes up delphia took him on the strength of one good season and the possibilities which it all to the advantage of Salt Lake. Peters, Singleton and Leslie seem to be topnotch ball players, and there has been some surprise expressed that it was possible to get them out of the majors. In fact, to accomplish this President Baker of the Phillies was forced to pull every wire, and he did this only when Lane informed him that unless he could deliver the four players named the deal would be canceled.

And when you candidly analyze a majority of these deals between minors and majors, one to be even half-honest must admit that the minors as a rule are the ones who derive the greater advantage.

Here is a communication which boxing fans are certain to peruse. It contains at least an idea, several of them, and might possibly improve the sport. The letter was written to this column by a college boxer in a northern university, who for personal reasons desires that his name be withheld. Fair enough. One of the suggestions is that punches be registered by mechanical means. Hear him:

"Have three judges. Two of them are to specialize on counting blows received by one of the fighters, only effective or well-landed blows to be counted. A good punch more effective than usual might count two points, and so on. A "thumb adder" such as those used by our esteemed baseball umpires could be used.

"The third ring judge is to watch the conditions of the fighters during the entire time and pay strict attention to the fighters toward the end of each round. Why? The best fighter is he who would eventually be able to knock his man out in a fight to the finish. Naturally he with the most reserve would have a very great advantage, an advantage meriting one thrill in his favor.

"The fight over, the 'condition' judge writes down the name of the man who he thinks in the better condition and the other two present their statistics. The referee is the final judge and bases his decision from the facts before him coupled with his own inside observation. He himself makes the decision.

"Can the 'thumber' thumb down the blows as fast as they are given? To the fan or spectator it seems impossible. But there is no reason that a quick jerk of the thumb can not move as fast as a two-foot effective swing. Besides, at the most, only about fifteen good blows can be landed in the fourteen-minute period—the rest are usually ineffective.

"Notice the idea 'blows received,' not 'blows given.' If you watch he who gets the blows you will also be watching where they land and can thus better check up on points."

Human judgment seldom attains perfection. Even the baseball umpire with only the maximum count of four and three on balls and strikes does not rely on his memory. Yet boxing referees and judges under the present system are forced to depend largely on memory for the tabulation of almost innumerable blows, and then to sum up the result in a hasty mental recapitulation.

Accuracy and sound judgment under these conditions in a very close contest are very difficult of attainment, and it is a much tougher job than the average excited crowd is willing to concede.

While the use of an "indicator" designed for this particular business might help, no device can be invented which will record the severity of a blow. There may be one punch which is more damaging than a score of lighter ones, and yet about the only devices which will register the fact are anatomical devices carried by the boxer himself, meaning the "button" or knockout spot on the jaw, and the solar plexus. And when it lands in one of those spots the work of the referee and judges is soft, with no room left for argument.

There is no guesswork in a shooting gallery. The perfect shot rings the bell. A weight machine registers the blow when hit with a hammer. Imagine trying simply to guess who of two men hit such a machine the harder. But that is what you bump up against in boxing. Number of blows landed could be more accurately recorded by mechanical means, but there is no way to measure the force of these blows. Hence there would be arguments over many decisions.

DROP CURTAIN AT TIJUANA

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, April 21.—Sports enthusiasts and turf lovers from all over the West, and particularly from Los Angeles and Hollywood, began pouring into San Diego in great throngs today, to be present tomorrow at one of the biggest events of the year—the last day of racing at Tijuana for the 1922-23 season of the Tijuana Jocky Club.

Every hotel in San Diego was packed to capacity tonight, but despite this, indications point to a huge additional influx tomorrow. The Santa Fe Railroad will run a special train from Los Angeles at 8:30 in the morning, and hundreds of motorists will take advantage of existing good road conditions to make the trek in their own machines. The stage lines are also reporting heavy travel.

For the closing day, General Manager Jack Atkin has arranged a card of ten races for Jockey Club patrons. The Westlake Handicap, billed as the feature, and with a $5000 purse as a prize for the winner, will draw out a high-class field of stake horses. It will be run at a mile and a sixteenth, and will have at least ten starters.

Another handicap for the sprinters, a purse race, and seven numbers for horses of slightly less class will make up the balance of the card. More than 100 horses will sport silks during the day, and because of the big fields several long shots should get down in front to surprise the "talent."

The Blaze of Glory period, which started Thursday, and which will continue until Sunday night, has proved a fitting climax to a brilliant season. Special racing cards have prevailed, and the additional diversions and entertainments have kept visitors to the border as busy as though they were attending a five-ring circus.

SAN DIEGO DEFEATS FULLERTON HIGH NINE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, April 21.—Allowing only three scattered hits and striking out twelve, Buerkle, pitching for the San Diego High School nine against the Fullerton High School aggregation, was the outstanding star of an 8-to-1 victory. The game was the seventh consecutive victory the locals have won over leading northern teams. Until the eighth inning, the game was close and sensational plays kept the fans on edge. However, in their last times at bat, the San Diegans garnered four runs, bringing up their total of hits to eleven. Michael of the visiting squad made a pretty play when he caught a fast and high fly and cut off a runner on second base.

POMONA COLLEGE IN BASEBALL TRIUMPH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WHITTIER, April 21. — The Whittier College baseball nine today at their own field trimmed the Pomona College nine by a score of 9 to 7. The game was one of the hardest fought seen around here for some time and the play was extremely close throughout.

The fielding was rather loose by both sides, but on the other hand the hitting was good.

FLEET HAS BIG BALL CONTEST ON HAND

The Pacific Fleet had a full day of baseball yesterday and during the day five games were played. In the first game the U.S.S. New Mexico and the U.S.S. Tennessee took a fast game on Trona Field and the former won by a score of 9 to 4.

In the second game the U.S.S. Nevada won from the U.S.S. Arizona by a score of 16 to 10. This series of games puts the New Mexico at the top of the list.

In the afternoon games the U.S.S. California lost a hard-fought game to the U.S.S. Idaho by a score of 11 to 12. The U.S.S. Mississippi took a fall out of the U.S.S. Pennsylvania to the tune of 11 to 8.

Tomorrow there will be three fast ball games at Arona Field between Navy teams.

MERCURY CLUB WILL HOLD SWIMMING TILT

The national diving championship of the A.A.U. will come off Wednesday night at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. There will be several other events on the program including a water polo game between Redondo and the L.A.A.C.

There will also be a feature event in a high-chool relay race. Several of the city high schools have exceptionally fast teams and a close and exciting affair should be the outcome of Wednesday's meet.

SECURITY BANK COPS TIGHT BALL GAME

The Security Bank baseball nine won a close game with the California Bank. The score of the day's tilt was 6 to 5. The California boys failed to score until the seventh inning when they brought in four runs and it looked as if the game was won.

Beatty cracked out a homer in the eighth inning and brought in the winning runs. The game throughout was a whirlwind tilt.

DUCKS WIN SEESAW CONTEST FROM SEALS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) April 21.—Portland won a see-sawy ten-inning game from the Seals today, 10 to 9. San Francisco used four pitchers, starting with Scott, who was replaced by Alten. Hodge then went in only to be followed by Geary after he had let the bases fill up. Poole crossed the plate with the deciding score when Cox sacrificed to left. Ellison got two home runs during the melee and Brazill and King, for Portland, each got one circuit drive. The score:

FULTON AND JOHNSON READY FOR BIG MILL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 21.—Fred Fulton and Floyd Johnson are all set for their twelve-round battle which will be settled at the arena in the Fourth Regiment armory Monday night. Much depends upon the outcome of the fracas between the Minneapolis plasterer and the Iowan. If Johnson should lose to Fulton, he probably would lose his bout with Jess Willard. If Fulton should be successful against Floyd, he will be substituted against Willard beyond any doubt.

Elegant and Luxurious Furnishings and Rugs

It is almost impossible to give an adequate description of the furnishings in the small amount of space alloted to advertise this sale.

Besides some very beautiful old rare antique pieces, the home has been furnished elegantly with creations of the modern master craftsman. Everything that will add charm and comfort to your home is here. A partial list follows:

Persian and Chinese Rugs in bounteous assortment and sizes, ranging from extra large to very small. Each piece a rare specimen selected for their quality, patterns and beautiful hues. They include beautiful Kashans, Sarouks and a Kermanshah 12'x16'6". Also a Chinese Rug, 12'x18', blue predominating, hall runners.

Several of the antique pieces to be offered are of the Empire period and include hand carved tables, bookcases, chairs, rockers and settees, sideboard and bric-a-brac. There is a pair of Canton vases of ancient period—also a Dresden table lamp of unexcelled magnificence.

Special attention is called to an Electric Victor Victrola—all over Gold Leaf, inside and out. Every panel artistically painted. This piece was especially made and cost $1250. Twelve months was required to complete this instrument.

Living room contains a magnificent overstuffed suite of taupe silk mohair with carved mahogany frame and spring construction throughout; a fireside chair of hand made tapestry and another with hand embroidered tapestry panels; beautiful Spanish davenport tables; gold leaf floor lamp with silk shade; wall and mantel mirror with gold leaf frames; polychromed metal smoking stands; Japanese fernery and many other pieces.

The drawing room contains a 3-piece mohair set, beautifully upholstered. Several odd pieces of exquisite beauty.

The dining room is furnished with a 9-piece Spanish set comprised of oblong table and beautifully upholstered chairs, buffet and serving table.

There is an upstairs living room daintily furnished, but less extravagantly. There are three main bedrooms besides maids' quarters, attractively furnished in walnut and gray enamel. Miscellaneous articles of every description, including paintings, bric-a-brac, chinaware, glassware, etc.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

COLLINS MIX-UP MORE TANGLED

Much-Married Ball Player in Deeper Water

No. 1 Would Put Him Where He Can't Wed

No. 2 Suing for Annulment in Riverside

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, April 21.—Unfolding of the next chapter in the tangled affairs of Richard P. Collins, much-married Ontario baseball player, was awaited with interest tonight, following his arrest here and removal this morning in custody of Constable Ryan to Santa Ana, where Mrs. Mitzie Collins, wife No. 1, yesterday swore to a second bigamy complaint against her husband, as the result of his marriage to Miss Dorothy Martinez, during Mitzie's two days' absence.

The first bigamy complaint was sworn to in San Bernardino while Collins was in the County Jail awaiting trial on a charge of issuing worthless checks to the amount of $500 to J. S. Pearson, an Ontario automobile dealer, but when it became evident that the young ball player would be granted parole on the check charge, Mitzie asked that the bigamy charge be dismissed, after her erring husband had promised to return to her.

LAST FORGIVENESS

When both wives met him as he emerged from the doors of the County Jail Collins apparently gave Dorothy the cold shoulder and departed with Mitzie. Dorothy, however, promptly denied that she had lost Collins's love and announced that as soon as he obtained a divorce from Mitzie he would wed her again and she and the ball player appeared together in Ontario the following day.

Mitzie has stoutly maintained ever since learning of Collins's marriage that she would never give him up and in swearing to the second bigamy complaint took the stand that if she could not have him herself she would put him where the other girl could not have him.

Collins is represented by Attorney Archie D. Mitchell of Ontario.

SEEKS ANNULMENT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, April 21.—R. C. Collins now faces another inning in court. This afternoon pretty Dorothy Martinez of Arlington, the 19-year-old girl to whom he was wedded in Santa Ana on March 24, filed a petition in the Superior Court here asking that her marriage be annulled.

She asserts that at the time Collins married her he was the husband of Nell Ruth Cadwell Collins. Miss Martinez is represented by Attorneys J. R. Pollock and A. D. Mitchell of Ontario.

Bakersfield's Drowned Baby Unrecognized

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, April 21.—Local authorities today were still mystified over the identity of the body of an eighteen-months-old baby boy found night before last in a canal north of town by J. L. Copper, engineer at a local steam plant.

All day yesterday and early today the officers have investigated the case, but no one has come forward to claim the body of the child, or report a child missing. Hundreds of people visited the morgue here today, but none knew the baby.

It is believed by the police that either the child's mother has committed suicide and may still be in the canal, or that murder has been committed. The child, when found, was still warm, and it is said it could not have been in the canal an hour. The boy was neatly dressed and appeared to have been well-cared for.

LIQUOR STILL SEIZED BY OFFICERS IN RAID

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, April 21.—Al Sather, asserted to be an operator of a liquor still, seized in a raid by Sheriff Cas Walser's deputies, near Maricopa, is under $1000 bond today after being taken into custody when a huge still was seized near Templer Grade. Sather appeared before Justice of the Peace Haggerty at Maricopa.

Deputy Sheriffs Tibbetts, Pyles and Bell conducted the raid and were assisted by Constable Bowen of Maricopa and Officer Milligan of Taft. W. G. Fagan was arrested at the Templer Grade for having what was said to be illicit liquor in his possession.

TO REPRESENT KIWANIS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, April 21.—A. G. Wessling, deputy income-tax collector and well-known Monrovia capitalist, will represent the Monrovia Kiwanis Club at the international Kiwanis convention at Atlanta the latter part of May. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Wessling. Following the convention they will go to Washington on business. Before returning home they expect to visit Alaska.

BEACH COASTER SOLD

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, April 21.—Long Beach's roller coaster, familiarly known as the "Jackrabbit," today was sold for a reported consideration of $300,000 to E. H. Horsch by the Long Beach Roller Coaster Company. H. H. Horsch, a son, will manage the coaster. The "Jackrabbit" was sold three years ago by its original owner, Capt. A. G. Malone, to the Coaster company.

REDLANDS GIRLS WIN IN DEBATE

University Women Beat Men in Argument, Scores for Year Show

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, April 21.—The girls of the University of Redlands are better talkers than the boys, better in argument and debating. For last night they won their debate here, defeating the Occidental College team while the boys were losing, the debaters from Brigham Young University at Provo, Utah, winning from the local debaters.

The women debaters of Redlands finished their season with the win over Occidental, this making three victories out of four debates. The question was "Resolved: That the California Alien Land Law of 1920 Should Be Repealed." Redlands had the affirmative and the team was composed of Verna Peller, Marian Jackson and Marjory Thompson. The losing team was composed of Dorothy Shreve, Edwards James and Elsie Thompson.

The men lost by a score of 2 to 1 to the Mormon debaters. Redlands was represented by Russell Andrus and Fred Wight and they had the affirmative of the question "Resolved, That the United States should adopt a cabinet-parliamentary form of government." Brigham Young was represented by Leland Wentz and E. H. Harter.

This makes the third interstate debate for Redlands in the past month, the local men winning one and losing two. This constitutes the tenth debate of the year for Redlands men. The final one will be with the College of the Pacific here next week.

BRIDE KEEPS NAME

Miss Tena Wedel Marries Jacob Wedel at Florence

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FLORENCE, April 21.—A marriage took place this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, 2021 East Seventy-eighth street, in which the bride retained her surname, although the principals in the ceremony had never before met until they came to Los Angeles a few years ago from the Middle West.

Miss Tena Wedel became the bride of Jacob Wedel of Los Angeles. The wedding ceremony was read by Rev. Mr. Klossen of the Los Angeles Mission. Miss Johnson acted as maid-of-honor, Mr. Richert as best man, Mrs. Richert as honor matron, and little Leonora Wedel and Margaret Johnson as flower girls. The guests were received by Misses Dorothy Johnson, and Misses Bertha and Florence Redfax. Following the ceremony, light refreshments were served. Mr. Wedel is a native of Iowa and his bride a native of Kansas.

Old folks at home in East will be entertained by your account of trip via San Francisco and "Scenic Line of the World." Rates effective May 15 to September 15. D. & R. G. W., 507 S. Spring.—[Advertisement.

MAY GET BROOM FACTORY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, April 21.—That the Twico Broom Company may make Monrovia its Southern California home was the possibility held forth today by Frank Wiffler, secretary of the Monrovia Chamber of Commerce, following a conference with E. L. Griffith of Seattle, president of the Twico Company. Mr. Griffith is planning to distribute his product from Southern California and is much pleased with Monrovia as offering nearly ideal conditions for a factory site.

BOYS DISCOVER WHISKY CACHE

And Now Some Thirsty One is Wondering How it Happened

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, April 21. Two small Porterville boys seeking adventure came across a clump of bushes growing high above the roadway at the north end of "China Garden." They crawled in to discover large footprints in the wet dirt. After consultation they wormed their way forward, coming unexpectedly on two kegs carefully hidden in the undergrowth. The lads shook them. They gurgled. Two inquisitive noses sniffed. If there was beer, then soon there would be men. It was time to get out. They retreated.

Constable William Maston and the boys soon were in his car and they directed him to the kegs. "Beer? Hardly," says Maston. "The finest real rye whisky I've seen since prohibition."

The keys each contained ten gallons and undoubtedly some thirsty soul is now filled with grief.

REALTORS MEETING AT LONG BEACH

Multiple Listing Plan Taken Up by Regional Convention

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, April 21.—More than 400 Southern California real estate men from the sixth, seventh and eighth regional districts met today at the Hotel Virginia in annual conference.

The meeting was opened by Henry P. Barbour, vice-president of the seventh district group and president of the Long Beach Realtors' Association.

The morning session was devoted to a discussion of the question of multiple listing, whereby a property listed with one realtor in any city automatically will be listed with all other members of the association in the same city, thus expediting the sale.

This subject also came up for discussion at the afternoon session, but no definite action has yet been taken. In the evening, the delegates held an annual banquet at the hotel. Rev. Dr. Henry K. Booth, pastor of the First Congregational Church, was the principal speaker.

The delegates also heard a concert by the Long Beach Municipal Band. Mr. Barbour was selected as the California delegate to the national convention of real estate boards at Cleveland, June 21 to 26.

Among those present were Frazier O. Reed of San Jose, president of the California Real Estate Association, Glenn Williman, secretary of the State body, Edward A. White, vice-president of the eighth regional district, O. A. Vickery, vice-president of the sixth district and other prominent realtors.

MYSTERY SEA CAPTAIN DIES

Death Reveals Old Salt Had Changed Name When He Came to Alhambra; Relatives Hunted

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ALHAMBRA, April 21.—In the mortuary of F. A. Utter & Son there lies the body of an old sea captain, whose real identity and life's history may be lost as completely as though he had gone down with his ship in midocean.

Stricken suddenly this morning with a cerebral hemorrhage in his little shack in the rear of 826 South Marguerita avenue, the mystery man died in the ambulance while being taken to the hospital.

A search of the effects of the man who had been known in Alhambra for the past year as "James S. Smith" disclosed, hidden away in a corner of the shack, various documents bearing the name of Capt. John S. Pringle, formerly master of the schooner Charles Brown. A bill of sale showed that this ship was purchased in San Francisco in 1921 by Pringle and two associates. Several letters indicated that the schooner was to be used in motion pictures and for excursions, and that it was brought to Redondo Beach. The partnership was dissolved in November, 1921, however, and from that time the captain evidently had changed his name.

KNOWN AS SMITH

Drifting into Alhambra a year ago, and giving the name of "Smith," the captain met Joe Samarano and the two entered into the business of horticulture and gardening. He was always reticent about himself and offered no explanation as to his past life other than that he had followed the sea for many years and that he had wealthy relatives, including a sister in New York. No reference to any family was found among his papers, however.

At Redondo Beach, where he was known as a part owner of the schooner Charles Brown, he made no intimate friends. Before he purchased the boat he had conducted a fish market. It is said by an acquaintance at the beach that Pringle has a son connected with a bank in Cleveland, O.

SPENT YEARS ON SEA

It is the opinion of Redondo friends that the old captain had difficulties with members of his family and had determined to lose his identity under an assumed name.

Pringle recently had purchased a small home in Alhambra under the name of "Smith," but had not yet taken possession. He was a familiar figure in the city, where he worked in gardens and on lawns. He was a typical old salt in appearance, with white side whiskers and with a rolling gait which comes to one who has spent years on the ocean.

A woman's head and underneath the initials "J. C. H. P." were tattooed on the right forearm.

All efforts of officials to locate relatives have been unavailing today.

PAL OF FRANKS SENT TO PRISON

Movements of Mann Case Suspect Traced

Left State in Stolen Car, Officials Believe

Companion is Convicted of Bakersfield Theft

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, April 21.—Louis Franks, who is being held in Miami, Tex., for asserted complicity in the slaying of Fritzi Mann, dancer, at San Diego, January 14, is believed to have traveled from California in company with Henry H. Smith, who was taken to San Quentin prison this morning by Deputy Sheriffs Ashe and Rutledge, to serve a sentence of from one to fifteen years for stealing an automobile from a local dealer.

Sheriff Logan Coffee of Miami, Tex., on receipt of a description of Franks from California authorities, will hold Franks until California officers arrive to take him into custody.

Smith, alias Charles Davenport, issued a worthless check to F. Hubbard here March 10 as the first payment on an automobile in which Smith left Bakersfield. The check for $600 was returned from the Security Trust Company as being worthless.

Smith, in company with two other men, one of whom is said to be Louis Franks, was arrested at Miami. Smith was returned to the County Jail here by Deputy Sheriff Pat Davis, while his two companions were released, because no sufficient evidence was found to hold them. Following his release Louis Franks was kept under surveillance by the Texas authorities on information given by the San Diego police.

Sheriff Cas Walser said this morning that he had learned for the first time today that Smith had any connection with Louis Franks. He also expressed an opinion that Smith may have had no knowledge of Franks's asserted complicity in the Mann murder.

Fully Armed Lad Arrested in Long Beach

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, April 21.—A suspicious bulge of the hip pockets today led to the apprehension of a potential "two-gun man" on a downtown Long Beach street.

Dale Williams, 14 years of age, of 539 West Ninth street, is being held at the City Jail while police look into his immediate past. Patrolman Davis reported that when he searched the boy he found a .22-caliber pistol in each hip pocket and rolled up inside his shirt found a white mask such as bandits are popularly supposed to wear; also a soft felt hat, rolled tightly.

Officers who questioned the boy said that he is sullen, and defies the police to get any information out of him.

RAIN SAVES GRAIN CROP

Hanford Reports Phenomenal Fall for April

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HANFORD, April 21.—All Records for rainfall in April in this part of California have been shattered this year.

To date this month the rainfall at Hanford has been 2.45 inches. While the average rainfall for April for the past thirty years has been .49 of an inch. No rainfall for March was unusual, but the large amount of rainfall this month is phenomenal. The weather is cloudy again today. All crops have been improved by the heavy spring rains and some fields of grain that seemed a total loss, will now make good returns.

CITY TO GET REFUND FROM PROPERTY SALE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDALE, April 21.—The firm of Haddock Nibley Company has purchased from the original owner the 104 acres comprising the Verdugo Park. This property was purchased last year from Walter Jones by the City Council for $60,000. An injunction against the purchase and making further payments was filed by George Montgomery.

Many citizens deemed that the purchase price was exhorbitant but the new owners have paid $40,000 more than the original price. The city will be reimbursed the $33,000 paid out and improvements by Mr. Jones. This property is near the new subdivision Rossmoyne owned by the Haddock Nibley Company.

NONAGENARIAN ENDS LIFE INHALING GAS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LINDSAY, April 21.—Suicide was the verdict of the Coroner's jury this morning after investigating the death of Mrs. Maria I. Friend, nearly 90 years of age, who was found dead with a gas tube in her mouth at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. Bowen, yesterday morning.

Mrs. Bowen had been shopping and returned to find doors and windows locked to prevent entry. Mrs. Friend had been totally blind and in poor health for a long time. She is thought to have become despondent.

NEW SCOUT EXECUTIVE BEGINS JOB

Boys Need Gang Spirit in Development, Leader Says at Redlands

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, April 21.—George G. Walker, of Grand Rapids, Mich., has taken up his work as executive for the Boy Scouts in San Bernardino county and was here tonight for the Scout meetings. He was greatly interested in a big meeting at Grace Church, where Troop 2 gave a program and Dr. H. C. Ide, Scout commissioner, told of his recent visit to Europe.

"It has been said: 'A boy is made up of 50 per cent noise and 50 per cent dirt,'" said Mr. Walker today. "Thats right. The noise gets dad's goat for after a hard day at the office he comes home and desires above all else peace and quiet. And the dirt aggravates mother and, she spends her waking hours cleaning up after the boy. So at the very age when he needs it most the boy has no man friends and is forced into the gang. Now the Scouts capitalize the gang spirit and gives the boys a man leader and that is what they need above all else."

Mr. Walker says that boys are full of instincts to run, jump, yell and play. A boy is given 100 muscles to make noise with and only one to sit still with. And the Scouts' program, followed carefully, will give these boys all the wark they want to do and at the same time be training and teaching them.

He says the work in the county is now well organized and is now busy planning the camps and other features for the summer months.

KIDNAPING CASE FACED

Sheriff Meets Father and Child as Stage Pulls in

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENTURA, April 21.—When S. A. Sharp and his small daughter arrived in Ventura yesterday on a stage, they were met by three men from the Sheriff's office here who charged him with kidnaping the child. Sharp said that he and his wife had been having trouble, but that kidnaping was the last thing he had in mind. The officers had also been told, they said, that he had threatened to kill the child. Sharp argued his case so well that he was allowed to return voluntarily to Santa Barbara and the officers saw him off on a return stage. He went protesting the accusations against him were unfounded and that he and the child had come to Ventura simply on a pleasure trip.

TWO CHINESE DEAD

Fall Down Steps is Fatal to Aged Man at Armona

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HANFORD, April 21.—Deaths are following in the wake of the fire which destroyed Chinatown in Armona, this county, two weeks ago, two of the older Chinese having died inside of two days.

On Thursday, Goo Mey Tang, 73 years of age, was found dead. He had fallen down some steps, but said he was uninjured. A Coroner's inquest developed that he had lain unattended for several days with a broken shoulder and other injuries.

Yesterday afternoon, Toy Gow, 59 years of age, a fruit buyer in this county for many years, was found dead in his cabin. The Coroner's inquest developed that he had died of natural causes.

GARAGE OWNER IS HELD RESPONSIBLE

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, April 21.—A ruling that garage owners are responsible for property left in automobiles stored in their garages was made by Justice Underwood today in the case of F. C. Beck of Long Beach against B. A. Branch, a garage owner.

The plaintiff asserted that several tools left in his machine had been removed, and asked compensation for their loss. The justice ruled the garage owner should replace or pay for them.

BANK DIRECTORS NAMED

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BELL, April 21.—The directors of the Community State Bank have elected F. E. Goodway as president to succeed H. B. Little, who recently transferred his interests in that institution to Herman C. Schultz of Huntington Park. R. C. Hoffman of Cudahy, was elected vice-president, and H. L. Porter, cashier, becomes a member of the board of directors to take Mr. Little's place. Mr. Little was one of the organizers of the bank and expects to leave in a few days for Northern California, where he has business interests. The entire staff of the bank is now composed of residents of Cudahy, Maywood and this place.

NEW COMMERCE BODY SECRETARY

Dr. C. O. Griffin

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LINDSAL, April 21.—Dr. C. O. Griffin, prominent local ex-service man and rancher, was recently unanimously elected secretary of the Lindsay Chamber of Commerce, succeeding A. M. Robertson, who accepted a similar position with the Oxnard Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Griffin, is a native of North Carolina and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, class of '10. He practiced medicine for six years in his native State prior to coming West. During that period he was also secretary of a cotton growers' association. He served overseas during the World War and has taken active interest in the work of the American Legion, serving as commander of the Lindsay post in 1921.

Dr. Griffin came to Lindsay six years ago and has been engaged in development of a vineyard west of this city, in conjunction with his brothers, and also in the care of orange property owned by his mother. He was a leader in the movement to introduce cotton as a product of Tulare county and has been one of the more progressive spirits in civic and social advancement here. His appointment as secretary is regarded with favor here.

ORDER QUIZ INTO POLICE AUTO DEATH

Demise of Former Kansas Publisher at Long Beach to be Investigated

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, April 21.—An inquest will be held Monday for George W. Locke, 60 years of age, former postmaster and newspaper publisher of Wichita, Kan., who was run down and killed by a police detail car, driven by Claude R. Ruefch speeding to the scene of an accident last night.

The fatal accident occurred at the intersection of Seventh street and American avenue. Witnesses said that Mr. Locke became confused as the police car bore down on him and stepped directly into its path. He was hurled onto the radiator and the driver applied the brakes so violently that he was thrown off again and run over.

Mr. Locke had been working as an advertising solicitor for the San Pedro Daily Pilot and formerly worked for the Long Beach Press. He was at one time part owner of the Wichita Register and business manager of the Wichita Beacon. Previously he was a special agent for the Customs Department, in charge of Chicago, Detroit and El Paso offices.

Mr. Locke leaves his widow, Mrs. Grace Locke of 753 Locust avenue; his mother, Mrs. Minnie J. Locke, and a sister, Mrs. Ida Noel of 2411 East Fifth street.

It is evident that her house was watched and the hiding-place of the pin known. The pin contained twenty-nine pearls and was valued at $1735.

SLAIN MAN IS NOT YET IDENTIFIED

Santa Monica Police Fail to Trace Laundry Marks Found on Garments

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SAWTELLE, April 21.—Belief that the unidentified man who was killed in Death Canyon last Sunday night by a Santa Monica high school boy was Tom Richards, inmate of the hospital in connection with the Soldiers' Home here, was scouted by authorities after a search of the records of the institution failed to show anyone missing or anyone named Tom Richards.

It was believed that this might have been the man's name, as a boy whose name is being witheld reported that a man who resembled the victim had accosted him on the street about a month ago and said his name was Tom Richards.

The police have exhausted almost every clew which might lead to the victim's identity. A thorough search of both Bay District and Los Angeles laundries has failed to reveal the name of the person whose laundry mark was 1-7x. This mark was found on three of the garments the victim wore on the night of the shooting. It is believed in a final attempt to identify the man police will have a chart made of the dental work on the man's teeth.

The man was killed when he attacked the boy after luring him to the canyon. A coroner's jury exonerated the youth.

NOTED CLUB WORKER OF GLENDALE PASSES

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDALE, April 21.—In the death of Mrs. Harriet McLaughlin White of 519 Raleigh street, Glendale loses one of the best-known citizens. She was a charter member of the Tuesday Afternoon Club and a prominent member of the Daughters of the Confederacy. She would have celebrated her eighty-first birthday on the 26th inst.

A woman of unusual education and culture she numbered among her friends Julia Warde Howe, Frances Williard, Mary Livermore, Anna Shaw and Susan B. Anthony. She is survived by one son, McLaughlin White, of 519 East Raleigh street.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Little Church of the Flowers. Dr. Elwood Nash of Los Angeles will be in charge.

RECLUSE IS FOUND DEAD

Pomona Police Face Mystery in Case of Bachelor Found With Bullet Holes in Head

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMONA, April 21.—Whether John Hoyne, 58 years of age, bachelor and reclus, who was found dead in his home, 55 Orange street, late yesterday afternoon, by Charles A. Ripple, was murdered or whether he committed suicide was debated by local police today.

They have been unable to determine the exact cause of his death. It was at first believed to be a plain case of suicide and the police were of the opinion that Hoyne had shot himself in the mouth and that two bullet holes found in the top of his head were where the bullets had come out, but later investigation revealed that no bullets had entered the roof of his mouth and only one shell was found to have been fired in the revolver which lay at his side.

The bullets have not been found. Papers, jewelry and considerable money upon his person proved that there had been no robbery. Hoyne had been sick with an attack of lumbago for several weeks and Dr. F. C. Swearingen had been attending him.

According to Mr. Ripple, Hoyne was despondent and often sat for hours on a bench in the back yard as though in study. Wednesday morning was the last time that neighors saw him alive. Mr. Ripple, Mrs. J. B. Engle, 587 Orange street, and Austin D. Perry, 561 Orange street, had seen him at that time.

Failing to see him about the place as usual, Ripple went to Hoyne's home yesterday afternoon to see if he were ill. The door was locked. Later investigation showed that it was locked from the inside.

Mr. Ripple broke in and found Hoyne lying on his bed dead. He was fully dressed except for a hat. From the condition of the body it was determined that the man had been dead since Friday morning. None of the neighbors reported hearing any shots fired and when Ripple discovered the body he at once notified the police, who immediately investigated.

While no time has been set for an inquest it is likely that one will be conducted Monday. Funeral arrangements have been postponed pending the arrival of a brother from Salina, Kan.

ALASKA SALMON SAVING SOUGHT

Izaak Walton League Urges Supply Preservation

Action Taken on Request of Secretary Hoover

David Starr Jordan Asks Game Protection

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, April 21.—The saving of the Alaskan salmon fisheries from extermination by asserted unfair methods among commercial fishermen will be undertaken by the Izaak Walton League of America at the request of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, the league voted today in its final session here.

Delegates representing sportsmen from thirty-five States empowered the officers of the league to proceed immediately with a campaign to eradicate what Secretary Hoover termed "chicanery and misrepresentation" among the salmon fisheries of the North.

SUPPLY DIMINISHING

The supply of salmon, once thought to be inexhaustible in Alaskan waters, is diminishing rapidly, the league members said, because of methods employed by fishermen in their rivalry among themselves. Within a few years, unless more stringent legislation is enacted, the salmon will be extinct in that region, they said.

An active campaign for the adoption of an international game law to save the big game of the country also was voted after a telegram from David Starr Jordan was received, urging such action.

MUST PRESERVE GAME

"If we left-overs of the nineteenth century wish to hold a scrap of respect from future generations we must change our ways," Dr. Jordan's telegram stated. "We have slain millions of our best men, we slaughter wantonly big game and little trees, birds, fish, and flowers. This must stop. I ask your support in the efforts of Californians to secure an international game law to protect the beasts of the Pacific."

Will H. Dilg, who organized the league a year ago with fifty-four members, and became its first president, was re-elected without opposition. Dr. Henry Van Dyke and David Starr Jordan were among the vice-presidents elected and among the directors were Zane Grey and Emerson Hough.

CLOSE-UPS OF GREAT UNTAMED

Secrets of the unexplored regions of darkest Africa are to be divulged in the magic lights and shadows of the screen with the showing of the Universal feature, "Hunting Big Game in Africa." The film is the result of an unusually arduous expedition, lasting considerably more than a year, and discloses all the wonders of the animal kingdom, as few travel and scenic films have done. The picture will be shown as a part of the program at the California Theater, beginning this afternoon.

Among the episodes of particular interest are the rhinoceros and elephant hunts. Both of these are enlivened with thrilling and dramatic incident. In several cases the huge rhinoceros of the veldt actually rushed and overturned the camera, while the operator, after standing his ground until the last minute, took flight.

The African elephants, which were found in a clump of jungle growth, on the floor of dead volcano, are of a wild, untamable species. They are not used for transportation as are their East Indian brethern, but are chiefly valuable for their ivory tusks. A whole herd of these elephants charged upon the explorers and the cameramen, and not until the two-ton leader was shot down, did they stampede and give way.

There are many scenes in the pictures showing animal types, like the giraffes and the white rhinoceros, which are almost extinct. Zebras, baboons, gnus and other animals frolic through many of the photographic shots. Close-ups of nearly all of these rare animals were obtained through the use of the telescopic lens.

One of the most amusing things is the way that the various wild animals were run down with a flivver. Several of them, like a boar, and a hyena, actually gave battle to their mechanical enemy, and finally surrendered in despair.

The entire picture, which was taken under the direction of H. A. Snow, contains many humanly interesting incidents, and well as thrilling climaxes of contest and danger.

Eight bells on shipboard is either 4, 8 or 12 o'clock in the morning, or 4 in the afternoon and midnight.

OFFICER IS DEPRIVED OF BADGE

Special Investigator for District Attorney Accused of Misconduct

Following an inquiry yesterday by Chief Deputy Sheriff Manning into an encounter which W. S. White, a special investigator for Dep. Dist.-Atty. Burke in investigations of Wright Act cases had with two deputy sheriffs, White's badge and revolver were taken from him.

It was stated in a report by Deputy Sheriffs Townsend and Scherer that the actions of White, who was accompanied by two men and a woman in a car, caused them to halt White on the road between Venice and Los Angeles, Friday night. They stated that White was abusive and conspicuously displayed his revolver.

They said they had to chase White to Los Angeles and force his car into the curb. White said he was chasing a bootlegger and that the latter escaped. It was stated at the District Attorney's office that White was acting as an aide to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Burke.

NO MYSTERY IN THE WAY POSLAM HEALS

Poslam heals skin eruptions so quickly that some folks almost believe there's a mystery about it. Not a bit!

Years ago an expert was seeking the best way to treat skin-troubles. One day he made a combination of certain simple, gentle things and tried it on a very severe case of itching eczema.

To his delight it gave instant relief and began to heal. So he tried it on case after case of eczema, rash, pimples, and such tormenting, unsightly affections. Almost every time it succeeded. He called it "Poslam." Its merit was immediately recognized and soon it was on sale everywhere. Aided by Poslam Soap, it is bringing skin-health to thousands daily. For trial sample, send 10c to POSLAM, 243 W. 47th St., New York. —[Advertisement.

TOMORROW the Sale Commences

Each year the Great Annual Sale of genuine Napanee Dutch Kitchenets astonishes everyone. Never before, however, have the savings, the inducements or the terms been more remarkable, more wonderful or more sensational than those we offer this year.

We intend to break all records and have therefore thrown profit to the winds. The sale starts tomorrow. Do not let this golden opportunity pass. For the best selection come at once!

Come the Opening Day!

Look over the high-grade assortment of groceries—the generous quantity of nationally famous foods and necessities described above—that we are giving away at absolutely no extra cost.

View the finely built, conveniently arranged, latest models of genuine Napanee Dutch Kitchenets—in snow white enamel, French gray enamel, and golden oak—that we offer at sensationally attractive savings. See the 40-inch wide model D with white porcelain table-top at $49.75, and the other equally alluring values.

You have probably read in the magazines that these famous cabinets hold a remarkable record for time and step saving due to their unexcelled arrangement—that Harrington Emerson, the great efficiency expert, found a Napanee actually saves a woman 1592 steps a day in her kitchen.

Come in and see why. Visit the exhibit —a wonderful sight in itself. Have a demonstration of the Napanee superiorities—all without obligation, of course. Don't miss this for anything!

Purchases Held, If Desired

You may select any model Napanee Dutch Kitchenet and have it delivered later, with the glassware and the free assortment of groceries; or for you—Mrs. Newly-wed—we will be glad to deliver them when you are ready to go to housekeeping.

Co-Lo

Gray Hair—Stop It!

Don't delay. When the first few gray hairs appear restore their natural color, life and luster with Co-Lo, the amazing discovery made by Prof. John H. Austin, over 40 years a hair and scalp specialist.

Co-Lo is preferred by thousands because it is so dainty and easy to apply. It is a wonderful liquid—clear, odorless, greaseless; has no sediment and does not contain lead or sulphur.

Co-Lo cannot be detected like ordinary hair tints and dyes. It will not wash or rub off; will not injure the hair or scalp; will not cause the hair to split or break off.

Co-Lo makes the hair lovely and beautiful—it restores the original color to gray and faded hair perfectly. Always a success.

Co-Lo—for every natural shade of hair. Ask your druggist which shade you require—A6, for black and dark shades of brown; A7, for jet black hair; A8, for medium brown shades; A9, for light brown, dark and drab shades.

Painful Rheumatic Swellings Disappear

Discoverer Tells Druggists Not to Take a Cent of Anyone's Money Unless Allenrhu Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pains and Twinges.

Mr. James H. Allen of Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of useless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called ALLENRHU, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense ALLENRHU with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. All druggists can supply you.—[Advertisement.

Alkali in Soap Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless,) and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsified in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it is very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—[Advertisement.

MEXICO AWAITS REAL INVESTOR

Dr. G. P. Clements Describes Possibilities There

Opportunity Unsurpassed in This Hemisphere

Conditions Are Revealed in Recent Survey

In view of the widespread interest in Mexico, the revival having been celebrated last week by the speech of President Titcomb of the Southern Pacific of Mexico at the monthly luncheon of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, Dr. George P. Clements, head of the Agricultural Department of the Chamber who returned recently from a survey trip to Mexico, has prepared a statement of conditions in, and a description of the forests of, the Tehuantepec Isthmus. He writes as follows:

Mexico—For more than 100 years we have been told of her wonderful natural resources in mines, in oil, in lands and lumber, and for forty years these have been the implements of trade by the none too scrupulous speculators in putting one across on the dear unsuspecting, trusting public until the average little investor dodges the word Mexico as he would a smallpox sign.

GREAT OPPORTUNITIES

And yet it is a fact that no country in the Western Hemisphere offers such opportunities for development—yet it is a fact that the whole country below the line is a treasure house, the door of which stands open to American capital, American initiative, energy and execution if coupled with American honor and a respect for the country which makes such treasure but a thing to be procured through the righteous development of the thing itself. It is yours for the seeking, Mr. American Capitalist, providing you seek it in honesty and in conformity with Mexican laws.

Mexican law permits of no alien ownership of lands within fifty hectares of the coast, or 100 hectares of the border, and since this is a constitutional law it goes without saying that it must be complied with by alien peoples who would acquire wealth and make fortunes out of Mexican natural resources.

CAUSE OF TROUBLE

This is the big bone of contention and the one law the American concessionalist refuses to take into consideration or live up to in his operations below the line, and it is this lack of respect and courtesy to his host which has brought most of these Mexican development companies into disrepute both in Mexico and America.

Mexico realizes that her only hope lies in the righteous development of her natural resources and refuses to be pillaged or exploited, demanding from the alien respect of her law and obedience to her statutes, and the greatest means toward better feeling and reciprocity between our governments would be the recognition of this principle which is fundamentally right by the American capitalist. The traveler, even through the car window, is sold to the opportunity offered. If he is an investigator a little time spent in survey will prove to him possibilities rich in potential wealth both to the investor and Mexico, only awaiting development.

DOOR IS OPEN

It is there, and the door is open. It takes capital to develop Mexico and big operations only are possible of success—big business, big in principle and generosity as in capital.

I am just back from an all too short survey of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec—its offerings in banana, coffee, pineapple and sugar-cane lands, its wonderful forests of hard and pulp woods, virgin, convenient, and just at our door. Labor is awaiting the word to begin. Railroads are in abeyance to draw the load to the sea, and harbors with unexcelled loading equipment ready to place it upon the ship for either east or west coast ports of the United States, and a market even now so eager that good hard wood is being sold by the pound in our own city of Los Angeles.

RAILS PIERCE FORESTS

Wonderful forests flank the Isthmian Railroad midway between Puerto Mexico and Salina Cruz, offering no engineering problems in logging roads and tramways, traversed by rivers many of which are navigable for small craft and all of which offer hydro-electric power development. These virgin forests are well worth investigation by the American investor; and to the traveler, the adventurer, the dreamer of dreams, they constitute a culmination of all that is to be desired; are so exaltingly satisfying as to be beyond description.

These Isthmian forests offer a wide range in commercial cabinet woods. Many, always classed as rare, are now become so precious as to be available only as veneers and even then at costs prohibitive to all but the very wealthy. There are many varieties of this character and others of equal utility and beauty unknown on the American lumber market. These woods are classed as hardwoods and other woods, and comprise a wonderful offering in cabinet and pulps. Of woods in the former class, a very conservative estimate places the acre average above 5000 ft. B.M. standing timber.

DESCRIBES WOOD

Their Mexican names convey little or nothing to the American cabinet manufacturer, so I will try and described them as best I may, using the note jotted down as the trees were pointed out to me during my stay in the jungle and a table furnished through the kindness of Mr. F. W. Wetmore, a student of forestry sent down from Michigan University some ten years ago to study and explore these woodlands and who has compiled considerable data covering the same during his stay.

Paque (Cenus of Ebony) resembles American Ironwood.

Cuapinol, similar to white oak, but lacking pith raya.

Ogoche, resembling hard maple.

Leche Maria Palo Maria, true mahogany.

Zapote Momey, like walnut, but more dense and of finer fibre.

Guanacaste, three species of ligum-vitae.

Pincho, a greenish-yellow wood with the texture of red oak.

Macaya, light, redish brown in color, texture and weight like oak.

Chico Zapote, the chicle tree of commerce.

Gateado, a heavy mahogany, color golden brown.

Cedro, two varieties, one true Spanish cedar—the other denser, resembling mahogany.

Tepesuchil, a greenish-gray wood like ash, but heavier and stronger.

Balsamo, an exceedingly beautiful wood, ping and red shading to black, and Rabo Lagartoia, white and light in weight. These trees will average four feet in diameter and sixty feet in merchantable length, while trees will frequently be found eight to twelve feet in diameter and seventy to 100 feet in height.

The Cuba (resembling Spanish Cedar) the largest tree sin Mexico, frequently twenty feet in diameter.

Judio, pure white.

Mulato, also pure white.

Jobo, grayish white.

Rabo Lagarto, white with bluish stripes. Another known by the same name but gray green shading into purplish gray—a wondrous sheen of texture, something like poplar.

Picho, a greenish yellow.

Nanche, one of the cherry family.

Mano Adante, white, like hard maple in texture.

Amate, one of the figs.

Asta, a white wood resembling hickory.

Jonote, a white soft wood, a substitute for cork.

Balsa, lighter than cork.

Roble, one of the catalpa family, and Rosa Morada, white, soft, like poplar, and many other varieties which bring up the offerings in cabinet and pulp wood per acre far above 10,000 feet, board measure.

These trees tower above the jungle proper and in the distance resemble a forest above a forest. The altitude varies from 200 to 2000 feet, and the rivers are flanked with great intervals which when cleared of their timber offer banana lands of first excellence, while the higher ground is ideal for pines, coffee, cane, corn and many other crops.

But these forests, now virgin in a country where reforestation is a natural process, where the annual rainfall is never less than 120 inches, and the summer is twelve months long, would, under a careful forestry policy, offer a continuous turnover of their forest bounty that would seemingly outlast time.

BUILT FOR FUTURE

Everything is here to do with. When the British company built the Tehuantepec National Railway they built for future generations, as bridges, causeways and roadbed attest, while the terminals at Salina Cruz and Puerto Mexico are ready for world commerce. These two harbors are convenient for all the isthmus forest districts, and through the Vera Cruz and isthmus railroad connection with the Tehuantepec National at Santa Lucrecia provide direct connections with the City of Mexico.

There are no great engineering obstacles to overcome in logging roads due to the evenness of the terrane, and labor is plentiful and not, like in the North, hostile to the American. Unlike the mineral wealth locked in the fastness of the mountains, the oil lakes in the depths of the earth, these waving forests beckon to the American capitalist—easy of access, easy of transportation and greatly needed in the world's markets.

CALEDONIANS TO PICK CAST FOR "ROB ROY"

Those interested in the presentation of "Rob Roy" by the Caledonian Club of Los Angeles are notified that selection of the cast and chorus will take place the 26th inst. at 7:30 p.m. at Walker Auditorium, 730 South Grand avenue. More than 100 voices will be required for the chorus.

Copies of the musical score of "Rob Roy" are needed, William Kennedy, president of the club, says to carry on the production and all persons willing to loan these books are asked to be present at the meeting.

DREAMS FREEDOM IN POEM

Robber and Accused Bigamist Dedicates Literary Effort to Officers Who Captured Him

Lloyd E. Sampsell, youthful convicted bank robber and asserted bigamist, wrote the following lines yesterday in the County Jail. He faces a sentence of from one year to life following his plea of guilty of a charge of forcing the president of a bank near Sixth street and Western avenue to cash a worthless check for $1000 at the point of a gun.

Sampsell "dedicated" his poem, he said, to Detective Lieutenants Bartley and Allen, who captured him and "convinced him of the error of his ways."

DO YOU KNOW FREEDOM?

Do you know your freedom's value?
Do you care for liberty?
Listen, then, to what I tell you
Of a heart that once was free.

In moral strength I once was happy—
Now I'm in a darkened cell.
Steel bars now entrap my body;
Memories keep my mind in Hell.

Those about me also suffer,
Though their misery is not seen,
For we mask the silent heartache
With curses and weak laughter's screen.

Though thoughts of future always haunt us—
From the past when we were free,
Memories come back to taunt us
With joys of life and liberty.

Memories of dear Mother's wishes
Make us now forget our smile.
Thoughts of her, now she's not with us,
Make us long for life worth while.

Memories of a fond Dad's planning—
What he told us then to do.
Freedom's value now we're learning
And wait the chance to start anew.

Memories—memories—ever clinging
Though from thought we try to flee;
Thoughts of sister, brother, loved ones
Give us strength for liberty.

Sweethearts, too, from self we've taken,
Adding to a burdened heart,
When life and love we have forsaken
To live in worlds from truth apart.

Naught can be worth all we have given
Nor treasure pay for present pain;
We have paid with joy of living
For the death in life we've gained.

But on some great, glad day's breaking
When self is conquered, sin atoned,
We will gladden those hearts' aching;
With chins up, eyes bright, we'll go home.

Do you know your freedom's value?
What life and truth and love can mean?
Then put aside the fool's temptation,
Keep body, heart and memory clean.

REVUE FETE IN HANDS OF AUTHORITIES

Thirteen Picked to Take Charge of History Fete at Exposition

Thirteen men and women prominent in educational circles, will make up the Historical Commission to have jurisdiction over the selection of events which are determined as comprising highlights in American history for reproduction during the American Historical Revue and Motion-Picture Exposition July 2 to August 4, in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine.

Members of the commission include: Dr. Rufus B. Von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California; Dr. E. C. Moore, dean of the University of California, Southern Branch; Dr. Remsen Du Bois Bird, president of Occidental College; Dr. Harry N. Wright, Whittier College; Dr. Victor L. Duke, University of Redlands; Dr. J. A. Blaisdell, Pomona College; Dr. Tully Knowles, College of the Pacific; Dr. Roy L. Wilbur, Stanford University; Dr. Amelia H. Reinhardt, Mills College; Dr. Arthur H. Fleming, California Institute of Technology; Mark Keppel, superintendent of Los Angeles county schools; Mrs. Susan B. Dorsey, superintendent of schools, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Martha Nelsin McCann, president of the Park Board.

More than thirty days will be required for the presentation of events which will be revealed in the form of tabloids and pageants. The historical high-lights will probably embrace the discovery of America, birth of the American flag, Declaration of Independence and the like.

NEW STUDY COURSE ADDED

Radio telephony is the latest course to be added to the curriculum of the State university extension division. Mr. Arthur Hill of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company will conduct the class, which will meet one night a week for eight weeks. Other courses to be started in the next few weeks include elementary Spanish, dramatic interpretation, commercial law, photography, logic, salesmanship, scenario writing, public speaking and woodblock printing.

MARCHING DUNE CAUSES WORRY

Strange Prank Being Played on Desert Paving

Wind Keeps Hill Moving in Trip to Salton Sea

Seventy-five Miles of Road Faces Grave Danger

BY SYL MacDOWELL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OASIS, April 21.—An uncanny phenomena of the desert is playing a strange prank on the State highway near here. A marching sand dune, urged along its relentless course by tireless winds, threatens to blockade the seventy-five mile stretch of pavement that borders the western shore line of the Salton Sea.

This great dune rises to a height of thirty feet, and its base covers several acres. When the highway was completed at this point the dune stood several rods to the west. A month ago it touched the edge of the concrete. Now half the roadway is covered and the magic march continues.

Moving the entire dune as it encroaches slowly upon the route of travel between Imperial Valley and Los Angeles will cost hundreds of dollars. A maintenance crew stationed here is pondering over plans to trick the moving mountain and divert its march.

MOUNTAIN MAY DROWN

If the ingenuity of the maintenance crew fails, and the dune has to be assisted across the highway with a steam shovel, passing motorists soon may be shown a still stranger spectacle of a mountain committing suicide by drowning.

For the marching dune is moving toward Salton Sea, about one mile to the east. If the winds continue to urge it on its interminable travels at the gait it now moves, before many months the dune will disappear in the saline waters of the vast sink.

Shifting sand mountains are not infrequent on the desert. The most noted formation of such character is the Superstition Range, which lies thirty miles south of here.

Superstition Range is constantly shifting, although its slippage covers only a slight geographical latitude. It is said that aborigines feared to penetrate these weird and barren slopes, believing them to be the domain of evil spirits. Fantastic yarns are told by prospectors of valuable mineral claims that have been obliterated and lost in the eddying wilderness.

An extraordinary phase of the phenomena is the cohesion of the minute particles, which are as pure as the sand cast up by the ocean. But desert dunes cannot be controlled like those of the seashore.

MOSS BEATS DRIFT

The coast route of the Southern Pacific encounters shore dunes north of Santa Barbara. But the right of way has been protected by the planting of moss beside the tracks. The growing moss baffles efforts of the wind to move the drifts. Aridity makes planting on desert dunes a hopeless remedy.

A huge sand mountain exists near Meeker, Colo. Government survey parties encountered it many years ago and made observations over a period of weeks. Their observations showed that the path of that mountain was an eccentric one, being governed by prevailing winds which changed their direction with the season.

This fact has brought interesting speculation on the question of moving the dune marching across the highway here. If the wind changes, it may be blown back again and expensive steam shovel operations resumed to move it whence it came.

RITES SAID FOR GEORGIAN

Funeral services will be conducted today at the undertaking rooms of Cunningham & O'Connor at 1031 South Grand avenue for Mrs. Milton A. Hosfeldt, who died yesterday at the Clara Barton Hospital. The body will be sent to Atlanta, Ga., Mrs. Hosfeldt's birthplace, for burial. She had been employed in the booking department of the West Coast Theaters, Inc. She leaves her husband.

UTILITIES BOARD ACTION SCORED

Indorses Rail Line Bus Program

Avenue Association Protests at Delay

Believed Indicative of Public Feeling

protesting against any by the Board of Utilities in accepting the of the street railways to im- spend $6,000,000 in im- transportation facilities by rail lines and establish motor busses between which and the red and yellow street car universal transfers will be given, the Western-avenue Business Association yesterday forwarded to the City Council a resolution adopted by the organization asking for action at the City Hall.

While the resolution specifically mentions only the offer of the Los Angeles Railway Company to make extensions at once, it was learned from members of the association that they indorse the joint program of the two companies, which calls for extensions by each, and the joint operation by the two companies of four motor bus lines, including one the entire length of Western avenue from Hollywood Boulevard to Slauson avenue, one on Vermant avenue, one on Larchmont Boulevard and Vine street and one from Gardner Junction, Hollywood, to Eighth and Olive streets.

The resolution of the Western-avenue Business Association, of which H. M. Burgeson is president and Harold Henry is secretary, was in part as follows:

"Whereas, the Board of Public Utilities, in a special report, instructed the Los Angeles Railway Company to make certain extensions and operate certain bus lines for the improvement of street-car transportation, mapping out a very extensive program, and

"Whereas, we are advised that the Los Angeles Railway Company, has replied to the board offering to meet part of the board's requirements and asking time in which to consider the balance, which proposition has been rejected by the board in its entirety, and

"Whereas, we learn through the newspapers that the board now favors the operation of competing bus lines paralleling the rail lines, as the result of the failure of the railway company to meet the board's demands, and

NO PREJUDICE

"Whereas, our association, without being prejudiced in favor of either side of the controversy, but being vitally interested in the improvement of the transportation system in our section, as well as the entire city, feels that the people should not suffer by long delays through said controversy, and believes that something immediate and practical should be done to improve the transportation system, bringing about a gradual extension and improvement: Now, therefore,

"Be it resolved, that this association place itself on record as follows: We believe that the Los Angeles Railway Company, has made a fair effort to meet the demands of the board and should be given an opportunity accordingly. We believe it for the best interests of the people that this program offered by the railway company, be accepted as far as it does for the reason that we need this relief right now. And be it further,

"Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the City Council of the city of Los Angeles urging it to arrange a plan whereby the extensions and additions agreed to by the railway company shall be put into effect at the earliest possible moment, under pledge from said company, giving a definite and reasonable time limit for same, with assurance of fair treatment for the company."

INDICATES FEELING

That the protest of the Western-avenue Business Association is indicative of the strong feeling throughout the city that the majority members of the Board of Public Utilities should not reject the program of the street railway companies in the interest of the McAdoo-Hellman independent motor bus promoters was the general opinion yesterday at the City Hall and that the coming week will be marked with fireworks at the Board of Public Utilities and possibly club swinging by the Council at the heads of the majority members of the board—Commissioners Kennedy and Bogardus—was the prediction yesterday.

It was noticeable that when the application of the Pacific Electric for a Pershing Square subway station was received the Council did not, as usual, refer it to the Board of Public Utilities for action but sent it directly to City Attorney Stephens for an opinion as to the Council's jurisdiction, so the Council, when the City Attorney's opinion is received, can take such action as it sees fit without asking the opinion of Utilities Commissioners Kennedy and Bogardus.

If Commissioners Kennedy and Bogardus are not sincere in their efforts to secure transportation relief but have been using their official positions to "play the game" of the McAdoo-Hellman bus promoters, they will be compelled to show their hands during the coming week, unless they "stall" for further time and postpone action on the pending street railways' applications to give the city improved transportation service.

The atmosphere at the hearing on Friday before the Board of Public Utilities on the pending bus applications filed by the street-car companies, the McAdoo-Hellman bus promoters and C. D. Gulick, the Glendale bus promoter, was, to state it mildly, peculiar, for although former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Marco H. Hellman were present and had an opportunity to make statements to show why their applications to run busses immediately over twenty-nine different routs should be granted, they said nothing.

Another peculiar feature of the situation is that after securing two propositions on the May 1 ballot on behalf of twenty-one-year franchises for their busses, the McAdoo-Hellman promoters suddenly last week sent in an application for revocable permits to establish their busses on the streets at once, running as far downtown as the edge of the prohibited or congested district which will be opened to them if Propostion No. 5 carries at the May 1 primaries.

McADOO PLEASED

The press-agent material given out by the McAdoo-Hellman interests when the letter of William G. McAdoo was sent asking for revocable permits stated that this action was taken at the request of the board, but President Leeds of the board, who is a minority member and who told the Council that although he attends all meetings of the board he learns of what Commissioners Kennedy and Bogardus are up to principally from the newspaper interviews they give out and the letters they write without consulting him, said that he knew of no request by the board to the McAdoo-Hellman people to ask for one-year revocable permits which carry with them the implication that if these short-time applications were filed they would be granted by the majority commissioners.

Mr. McAdoo and Mr. Hellman said nothing at the special meeting of the board and they looked so very complacent and satisfied, that the general impression was that the majority commissioners had everything all programmed for the McAdoo-Hellman bus people to receive their short-time permits at once, so that their busses could appear on the streets late during the coming week in the hope that those busses would swing votes for Propositions 5 and 6 (the McAdoo-Hellman bus propositions) at the May 1 election.

Mayor Cryer and Commissioner Kennedy had a long talk in the corridor of the City Hall before the special Utilities Board meeting last week, and there is a possibility that the Mayor called a halt on Commissioner Kennedy's asserted scheme to jam through an approval of the McAdoo-Hellman bus permits, on the ground that the issue of whether the busses were to operate in Los Angeles comes before the voters on May 1 and that it would be improper and "playing politics" for the majority members of the board to force the independent busses on the streets a few days before the city primaries.

ACTION DOUBTFUL

The majority members of the board may, therefore, take no action on any of the pending applications for permits, either of the street railway companies, the McAdoo-Hellman busses or the Gulick busses, until after the May 1 primaries. The street railway companies are "rarin' to go" ahead with their $6,000,000 program of cross-town motor-bus lines, and if they are delayed, it will be because of the dilatory tactics of the majority members of the Board of Public Utilities of which the Western-Avenue Business Association complains in the resolution received yesterday at the City Hall.

President Leeds of the Board of Public Utilities did not join with or subscribe to the letter Commissioners Kennedy and Bogardus sent to the street railway companies which declared the companies' offer "unsatisfactory," but on the contrary, President Leeds went personally before the City Council and urged the Council to order the Board of Public Utilities to accept the street railway companies' offer in order to secure immediate action in improving transportation conditions.

State Able to Care for Only 15 Per Cent of More Than 3,000,000 Orphans

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIGA, April 21.—The Ukrainian health commissariat has announced that there are more than 3,000,000 orphans in the Ukraine and that the authorities are able to provide only 15 per cent of them with food.

The mortality among infants is enormous, due to the lack of disinfectants and the Ukraine is appealing to Moscow for financial aid.

The Lettish press reports the arrest of 7000 soviet officials charged with the graft of state funds. Communist circles in Moscow are now advocating the abolition of the office of State Prosecutor, who was responsible for the arrests.

A riot was reported at Poltava, where Abbot Sergius preached against Patriarch Tikhon in the cathedral there. Part of the congregation attacked the abbot while others rushed to his rescue. The fighting continued until the militia arrived.

Irish Agitator Is Deported to Native Country

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 21.—James Larkin, Irish agitator, recently pardoned by Gov. Smith after he had been sentenced to Sing Sing for five years for criminal anarchy, was deported today in the steerage of the liner Majestic by order of the Department of Labor.

Larkin said he did not know where he was going, but intimated he might be put off the boat at some port in England. To an Irish steward he said:

"Well, I'll soon be in Ireland."

Larkin chatted freely with a party of the stewards, but had nothing to say to newspaper men.

RUSSO-CHINA PARLEY SOON TO BE RESUMED

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MOSCOW, April 21.—The negotiations for a Russo-Chinese agreement are likely to be resumed shortly, according to dispatches from the Far East.

The chairman of the Chinese committee, Dr. Wang, has arrived in Mukden to conduct preliminary negotiations with Gen. Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian dictator, regarding the Russo-Chinese conference, it is stated, while Adolf Joffe, the head of the soviet mission, who has been in Japan for some time, is expected soon to return to Peking for the parleys.

CITY HEARS COLISEUM WORK DONE

Formal Announcement is Made of Completion of Building of Giant Stadium

Formal notice announcing the completion on the 16th inst. of the construction by the Community Development Association of the $1,000,000 Coliseum at Exposition Park was received yesterday at the City Hall in a letter from Henry S. McKee, treasurer of the association, addressed to the City Council.

The Coliseum, which will seat 75,000 people, will be used for the first time this summer in connection with the Monroe Centennial Exposition. The building of the coliseum was financed by the Community Development Association and leased jointly to the city and county governments, which under a contract will make annual lease payments, beginning with a payment by each government of $86,725 thirty days after the completion of the stadium.

Other regular payments will be made until the entire sum spent by the Community Development Association for the Coliseum is repaid and then the stadium will be public property. The management of the Coliseum is vested in a joint committee of the city and county governments and the Community Development Association, and the rentals received from the use of the stadium will be used toward its maintenance, to adding to its seating capity and toward the retirement of the outstanding bonds.

YARN MILL TO LOCATE HERE SOON

Chamber Announces That Canadian Firm Will Start Branch in City.

The industrial department of the Chamber of Commerce received the announcement of the decision of Walter G. and Edgar Worth, well-known manufacturers of worsted yarns of Peterborough, Ont., Can., that they will establish in Los Angeles immediately a woolen plant which will produce about 2000 pounds of yarn daily and will employ approximately seventy-five people.

This plant will be known as the Pacific Worsted Yarn Spinning Company and they have purchased two acres for a building site in the Lincoln Park district. This addition to the city's industrial area follows on the heels of the establishment here of the Pioneer Pacific Worsted Mills. Both concerns were secured to Los Angeles by the efforts of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, said the district industrial manager yesterday. A number of garment manufacturers are among immediate prospects of builders in Los Angeles, now on file in the Chamber of Commerce.

PHYSICIANS APPROVE OF BOND ISSUE

Richest County Should Care for Its Sick, Says Long Beach Doctor

Physicians of Los Angeles county, through their organizations, have indorsed the proposed county bond issues unanimously.

The medical man's viewpoint concerning the issue was expressed yesterday by Dr. G. Hardy Clark, of Long Beach, who wishes to be known as one who will vote for the bonds May 1.

"As a physician I can well see the need of more room at the hospital," he said, "and a new building would seem to be an imperative necessity. The ill effects of crowding beds within twenty inches of each other can be understood by anyone. Yet this has to be done at the hospital.

"Bad as conditions are, however, the worst effect, to my mind, is the fact that hundreds of patients are turned away because there is no room. Think of it! We are living in probably the richest county in the world; we have had a steady period of prosperity while every other part of the nation suffered a business depression and yet we are unable to take care of our sick and indigent residents.

"Frankly, I have enough faith in the people of Long Beach and the rest of the county to believe they will pass the bond issue overwhelmingly May 1."

HEADQUARTERS MOVED

The headquarters of the Second Subdistrict, United States Naval Reserve Force, have been moved to 1965 South Los Angeles street and all communications should be addressed to that place.

FOREST PROTECTION URGED

Week Opening Tomorrow to be Devoted to Educational Campaign Against Timber Fires

Protection of forests is one of the most pressing national problems of the century and in order to call the need for care to the attention of the American public "Save the Forests Week" was created. The third annual observance will begin tomorrow and organizations all over the country are participating.

Programs have been prepared by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce department of agriculture and safety and fire prevention outlining the government policy in forest protection and illustrating the commercial need for fire prevention. On the side of health, pleasure and sentiment, the audience at noon lectures in the chamber will be appealed to.

"Our National Forests" is the topic of the lectures to be given at 12 m. in the motion-picture hall of the chamber by John D. Maxfield, manager of the safety department, on Monday, Tuesday, Friday and Saturday.

EXPERIENCED TALKERS

Dr. George P. Clements, manager of the agricultural department, will speak Wednesday and Thursday noon on "Forests and Reforestation." Both speakers will be interesting, owing to their experience along conservation lines. Mr. Maxfield was for many years a member of the United States Forest Service.

In connection with the safety department program for the week, Mr. Maxfield calls attention to the fact that hikers and campers must

RITES TOMORROW FOR MRS. BARBARA JAMES

Funeral services for Mrs. Barbara Sarah James, 55 years of age, who died Friday at her home at 1023 West Second street after being a resident of Los Angeles for forty-one years, will be conducted at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the St. Vibiana Catholic Church. Burial will take place in Calgary Cemetery.

She was born in Ireland and came to Los Angeles from Winnipeg, Can. She leaves her husband, Charles L. James, and five children. They are Mrs. Maud Berryman, Mrs. Sidney Bracy, George Foshia, Mrs. Bernice Casey and Donald W. Edwards.

WITH NOTABLES' HUSBANDS

Writer Finds Mates of Prominent Women Are Not Merely Property of "Mrs. So and So"

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Who and what are the husbands of Los Angeles' prominent women? Clubland, and the gallant space accorded to women in the newspapers, often elevate women to lofty pinnacles of fame these days. Time was when women were merely the wives of their husbands. But it is quite possible now for wives to become very prominent, without the public quite realizing that they have a husband at all.

And one often hears that wistful little joke, sometimes perpetrated by the victim himself, to the effect that he is "merely Mrs. So-and-So's husband." He has to stand for frequent maladroit introductions in that vein, too, and the embarrassment of a hasty correction and apology by the tactless introducer. Alas, you know such things must be after a famous victory—for wifie.

But this is an occasion when husbands are to have their rights. This day shall some of their charms and talents and distinctions be known. For, be it remembered, as most of the wives have readily and generously admitted, but for these large-minded, tolerant, generous, sympathetic husbands, few of these women could have enjoyed the fame and prominence that is theirs.

CASE IS CITED

Just take the case of W. P. Cunningham, the gentleman who owns the president of the Woman's City Club. I have it on the lady's own authority that her husband is a prince amongst men. Scotch, a Mason, and Dry! Began his career as a miner at 15 years of age, and was superintendent of the Cash Entry mine in Mexico at 19. Later general manager of the Cerillos Coal and Iron Company and built a railroad for them. Owned and developed oil property for the past twenty-five years. A good sportsman, loves dogs, and has a proper masculine respect for meal times.

And it is because he took his wife into full partnership, taught her metals and minerals, respected her business judgments, taught her machinery and mathematical calculations, took her with him every-

OLD TUT MAY HAVE RIVAL

Wealth of Gold and Ornaments Are Believed to be Buried in Pyramids of Mexico

That the pyramids in Mexico, now being uncovered, will out-Tut the tomb of old King Tut himself as soon as they reach the inner chambers is the news brought back from the southern republic by the Marshall Neilan motion-picture players who recently visited there to appear in scenes for "The Eternal Three," just finished.

Most people are unaware of the fact that in Mexico there are pyramids that duplicate those of Egypt and that diligent effort is now being made to unearth the wealth of gold and ancient ornaments said to be hidden there.

"Few of us realize that Mexico is such an ancient land," said Hobart Bosworth, "and fewer know that their legends date back to the time of the Deluge. According to their best traditions, these pyramids were built by a race of giants who sprang from the two survivors of a great deluge that overspread the land. This is coincident with the Hebrew accounts of the Deluge and the Tower of Babel, of which there is so much in the traditions of these people that is similar to the stories of the Bible.

"The pyramids just now are being uncovered. It is believed that when Cortez invaded Mexico, the Indians were so frightened they carried dirt and completely covered their priceless treasures, and in the long interim before they were again discovered, trees and grass grew on the sides, making the huge structures look not unlike mountain peaks.

"Their pyramids are no small mounds, but great giant things—one with a base line of 1000 feet which is more than twice as long as the great Cheops in Egypt.

"We made a special trip to the pyramids of the Sun and the Moon, which are joined by a curious causeway called the Street of the Dead, along which are supposed to be the tombs of the dead rulers. We climbed to the top of the pyramid of the Sun, 216 feet, and stood there where, thousands of years ago, they sacrificed virgins to the sun.

"They would place the girl on a huge stone and when the sun became focused over her heart, they would cut out the heart and let the blood drip on the stones. Similar sacrifices were made to the moon," said Bosworth.

The company collected a large number of relics at the foot of the pyramids. The members found curious little stone heads—probably of some prehistoric animals, and miniature masks of human faces which were supposed to be attached to the dead body so that the image would be preserved even when the perishable body had disappeared.

Neilan is very proud of the film taken in Mexico, as this is the first time the pyramids will appear in a photoplay.

WINNING AN ENEMY:—If thine enemy be hungry, give him bread to eat; and if he be thirsty, give him water to drink.—Proverbs xxv, 21.

BRITAIN IS STILL QUEEN OF SEAS

Total Tonnage Higher Than Other Nations

Japan Has Largest Program of Ship Building

Under Treaty This Country Rivals England

Japan is increasing her navy on a larger scale than any other nation in the world.

The British Empire shall retain her place as mistress of the high seas.

The United States would almost equal the British Empire in naval strength if this nation would take advantage of the concessions offered by the Five-Power Treaty.

These and many other highlights on the completed and proposed navies of the five leading countries are revealed in statistical tables recently compiled by United States naval authorities and released for publication yesterday.

The Five-Power Treaty dictates that the United States and the British Empire shall retain no more then eighteen battleships. Japan, limited to six battleships, in her struggle for naval power, is placing her faith in first-line cruisers, destroyers and submarines. The British Empire's navy increase is retarded by the treaty, but she is disposing of many of her older fighting craft and replacing them with new and more powerful vessels.

DESTROYERS ORDERED

The United States seeks to keep its place among the world's greatest navies with its destroyer fleet, with submarines and with battleships. This nation has more destroyers than all other nations combined. Authorization for increasing this destroyer fleet with twelve more craft was granted to the Navy Department, but orders to construct them have been suspended.

The United States possesses a greater number of submarines than any other nation and present building activities will greatly increase this number, though the construction of six of the newer type submersibles is being held in abeyance.

Following is the present strength of the combatant ships in the navies of the countries affected by the Five-Power Treaty:

United States: First-line ships—Eighteen battleships, 281 destroyers, sixty-three submarines, three fleet submarines; second line ships, eleven cruisers, twelve light cruisers, twenty-one destroyers, twenty-seven submarines, one aircraft carrier, and fourteen destroyer mine layers.

British Empire: First line ships: eighteen battleships, four battle cruisers, three monitors, four cruisers, thirty-nine light cruisers, sixteen destroyer leaders, 179 destroyers, thirty-one submarines, six fleet submarines, three monitor submarines and one aircraft carrier. Second line ships: Two cruisers, sixteen light cruisers, six destroyers, thirty-four submarines, six fleet submarines and three aircraft carriers.

Japan: First line ships: Six battleships, four battle cruisers, ten light cruisers, fifty-five destroyers, and twenty-eight submarines; Second line ships: Six cruisers, six light cruisers, twelve destroyers, five submarines and one aircraft carrier.

France: First line ships: Six battleships, three light cruisers;

SO TRANSIENT IS OUR CIVIC FAME

Canuck Casts Slurs on City's Name—in Canada

Everything is Wrong, He Says With Caustic Hint

This is What He Tells in His Home-Town Print

Who tried to sell A. J. Pemberton of Moose Jaw, the City Hall?

Some one did, for Moose Jaw's population is back to 19,285 again after a nine weeks' slump to 19,284, while Mr. Pemberton was giving Los Angeles the up and down.

And he went home mad. So mad in fact that he wrote quite a piece for the Moose Jaw Evening Times which not only puts a weevil in our municipal fame but also proves that Mr. Pemberton as a reporter is a fine automobile mechanic.

Mr. Pemberton's hymn of hate was the big news of the day in Moose Jaw on the 10th inst. His two-column "expose" of the "City of False Faces," as he dubs Los Angeles, not only should make local beauty doctors peevish but should evoke three cheers from San Francisco realtors as well.

INTERESTS ALL

What visitors think of Los Angeles and what they tell their friends back home when they return from a visit here are of burning interest to every resident from Frank Wiggins to the last defaulting Canadian bank cashier to come within our gates.

List to Mr. Pemberton's lament green glasses for the benefit of Moose Jaw, Sask., which is noted first for its wheat and second for more wheat.

In the first place he tips off his hand by bewailing that $12,000,000 of "perfectly good Saskatchewan" money has been invested in Los Angeles and its environs in the last year. He is a garage man.

"CRAZY CITY"

To Mr. Pemberton Los Angeles appeared to be unreal and to use his own words, he "thought he was looking through a pair of crazy spectacles at a crazy city, filled with crazy people, filled with a mad money lust, and at its most crazy grotesque and maddest moments."

He declares the "yellowest of yellow reporters working for the yellowest of yellow newapapers" could not have written a story adequately picturing the conditions in the "City of False Faces."

All the oil well wild-catters and land sharks are here, he avers, and have placed a spurious value upon every parcel of land in the whole State, all of which should get a laugh from the rest of the State.

Every fifty-five minutes sees a new house completed here to add to the miles and miles of empty houses Mr. Pemberton says he saw. (Someone must have locked him up in a cinema lot and left him there over night to go 'round and 'round and 'round.)

"NO LABOR DEMAND"

There is no demand here for common labor and white albor has to compete for $1.50 a day with Mexicans, Indians, Chinese and Japanese, "who keep themselves," though he declares a four-roomed workingman's cottage brings a rent of $85 a month while a cottage in the colored settlement rents for $45 a month.

While the business center is kept reasonably clean, the greater part of the city is filthy, Mr. Pembergreater importance, he has a record which gives me a strong faith in his probity and stanch adherence to the principles of economy, temperance and justice.

WOMEN LINE UP FOR FREDERICKS

Mrs. Lewis Clark Carlisle, treasurer of Los Angeles Ebell Club: Capt. Fredericks stands for the principles I stand for and, as I judge from his actions, believes in the things in which I believe. I have voted for him every time he has ever run for office and I shall be proud when election day comes to keep that record clear.

Mrs. William C. Warmington, chairman of entertainment for the Ebell Club: I believe this is the time for the Tenth District to have a man of affair represent them in Congress. The people of that district are highly enlightened people and it is not necessary to wage a moral reform or any great crusade against vice in their behalf. But it is necessary that a man who understands not only the needs of Southern California, but has an insight into national and international affairs shall have the seat in Congress. Capt. Fredericks's record manifests that he possesses these characteristics and, further, he is a man who is versed in the evonomic situation, which confronts Los Angeles county. I can think of no better representative than he. Of course, I shall vote for him.

Mrs. Marshall Stimson: Capt. Fredericks has stated in public that he is for medical freedom, that he believes in the right of everyone of us to choose our own method of healing and that of our children. This is one of several reasons why I am for this candidate in preference to any other from the Tenth District.

Mrs. J. B. Millard, president of Beverly Hills Woman's Club: I not only believe he will have the great interests of women at heart, but I am convinced of his intellectual integrity and ability. I believe he is the best candidate we have had in the State for a long time. I am enthusiastic about him and have confidence in his actions and in his success.

Mrs. Torey T. Gmdalen, of the Averill Study Club, Dr. Tuth Pursell, Mrs. Millie Soloman and Dr. Gertrude Steele made statements similar to Mrs. Millard's. They were enthusiastic in their support of Capt. Fredericks.

Mrs. A. J. Francisco, prominent in Friday Morning Club circles, speaking in a group at the meeting of the club where all the women were talking enthusiastically of Capt. Fredericks's candidacy: I too am enthusiastic for Capt. Fredericks. I can think of no finer type to represent us women sanely and wisely now when the issues involved are not so much those of morals and wisely now when the issues involved are not so much those of morals as economic ones. A woman might do for the position if the issues were merely those of prohibition, minimum wage for women or child welfare. But Capt. Fredericks is sound on those and in addition is a man of recognized judgment in great questions of business.

REPUTATION VALUABLE

Mrs. Viola Hickock: It would take any of the other candidates a whole term in Congress to be able to accomplish anything. But Capt. Fredericks, on account of his national reputation for wise insight in such matters as the Boulder Dam project in the reclamation of the desert, will be able to begin at once as soon as he enters Congress to do some thing for the Tenth District. I am wholeheartedly and unequivocally for him.

Mrs. N. P. Conrey: I hope to see Capt. Fredericks elected. I think he has the integrity and the ability to honor the office.

Mrs. W. F. Howard, prominent in the Friday Morning Club: I am supporting Capt. Fredericks for Congress because he is more familiar with the big things that are going on in the district, because he has been in close touch with every project of importance to the community, because he is the caliber of man we need for the job. In matters of social legislation, there is no need to question his fitness. He stands out in a political arena with such striking force that we should welcome it as a rare privilege to vote into office a man of such outstanding capabilities.

Estelle Hearts Dreyfus, dramatic soprano of note: It has been my great pleasure to have known Capt. Fredericks twenty-five years. I knew him when he was a young lawyer just starting out, and in all those years I have known him to stand for and support everything that was big and fine. It would not only give me a great personal pleasure to see him elected to Congress, but I feel it would be a big thing for this part of the country on account of what he has always stood for in its development. Politically and socially, his life has been exemplary in every way.

Mrs. Edna Porter Phillips, on the board of directors of the Woman's City Club: I am for Capt. Fredericks because of his fair and keen insight which is so necessary in this very important stage of the development of Southern California.

Estelle Lawton Lindsay, former Councilwoman: His experience and general touch as District Attorney and as president of the Chamber of Commerce has fitted him to understand and appreciate large questions. It is useless to send anyone to Congress just because of intelligence and intentions, if he has not had practical experience in handling large affairs.

Alma Whitaker Reynolds:

My reasons for supporting Capt. Fredericks for Congressman are:

Because I know more about him than any of the other candidates and his record is all good.

Because he answers all questions frankly, clearly, unequivocably, and we know just where he stands.

Because his personal standards of living are above reproach.

Because in all his professional work his integrity has never been questioned.

Because he is a good speaker.

Because I like him.

Of the 247,411 voters registered in the last election in the Tenth District, 116,918 were women, and of the six divisions into parties and those declining to state their parties, 64,827 were Republican women, which is more than half again as many as all the other parties and independent voters put together. Republican women are almost unanimous in their support of Capt. Fredericks and he has strength also in the Prohibition party because of his law inforcement in the beginning of the great temperance fight when he was prosecuting attorney.

one destroyer leader, twenty destroyers and twenty-four submamines; second line ships: three battleships, eight cruisers, two light cruisers, twenty-four destroyers, twenty-four submarines, two fleet submarines and one aircraft carrier.

Italy: First line ships: Five battleships, five light cruisers, five destroyer leaders, thirty-five destroyers and ten submarines. Second line ships: four battleships, four cruisers, five light cruisers, fifteen destroyers and thirty-three submarines.

Of the completed fleets of the five nations, the United States excels all others in battleship strength—eighteen dreadnaughts with a total tonnage of 500,650. The total tonnages of battleships of each of the other navies are: British Empire, 457,750; Japan, 190,720; France, 194,421 and Italy, 168,900.

LEAD IS SMALL

But the British Empire possesses four first line battle cruisers, which places the total tonnage of her capital ships at 580,450, surpassing the tonnage of the American capital ships by 70,800 tons. Japan, also, has four battle cruisers, which brings the total tonnage of her capital ships up to 301,320. The United States has no battle cruisers, nor is this country constructing any.

The United States has 302 destroyers—117 destroyers more than the British navy has, and 237 more than Japan possesses. And the United States has ninety-six submarines—surpassing the British navy by nineteen submarines and Japan by sixty-three submarines.

But the British Empire owns a host of other first-line battle craft—monitors, cruisers, light cruisers, destroyer submarines and fleet submarines—which are not to be found in the American Navy. And two of her battle cruisers carry 15-inch guns, of greater caliber than the heavy guns on many of our battleships.

Future plans for the American Navy do not provide for first-line cruisers. The British Empire is building two first-line cruisers, which will bring its total of such formidable ships up to six. Japan has four battle cruisers, which gives ten capital ships to her first-line naval defense.

Fighting ships being built or projected by the five nations are as follows:

United States: Ten light cruisers, thirty submarines, three fleet submarines and two aircraft carriers.

British Empire: Two first line cruisers, two light cruisers, two flotilla leaders, four destroyers, six submarines and two fleet submarines.

Japan: Four first line cruisers, eleven light cruisers, thirty-seven destroyers, twenty-one submarines, twenty-five fleet submarines and two aircraft carriers.

France: Three first-line cruisers, six flotilla leaders, twelve destroyers, six submarines, six fleet submarines and one aircraft carrier.

Italy: Three flotilla leaders and six destroyers.

FUTURE STANDINGS

The United States and the British Empire are each building two battleships. The new American battleships will total 65,200 tons, British Empire battleships 70,000 tons. On the completion of her new bateships, Great Britain will scrap four other battleships—the Ajax, Centurion, Thunderer and King George V. On completion of the West Virginia and Colorado, the United States will scrap the North Dakota and the Delaware. The total tonnage of battleships and battle cruisers to be retained by the British Empire will be 558,950, by the United States, 525,880.

The navies of the five countries, when ships now under construction or projected are completed, will be as follows:

United States: Eighteen battleships, eleven cruisers (second line,) twenty-two light cruisers, 302 destroyers, 120 submarines, six fleet submarines, fourteen destroyers, eight mine layers, three aircraft carriers; total tonnage, 1,289,381.

British Empire: Eighteen battleships, three monitors, four battle cruisers, sixteen destroyer leaders, 189 destroyers, seventy-one submarines, fourteen fleet submarines, three monitor submarines, six aircraft carriers; total tonnage, 1,427,062.

Japan: Six battleships, four battle cruisers, ten cruisers, twenty-six light cruisers, 104 destroyers, fifty-four submarines, twenty-five fleet submarines, five aircraft carriers; total tonnage, 759,057.

France: Nine battleships (three second line,) eleven cruisers, five light cruisers, six flotilla leaders, fifty-six destroyers, fifty-four submarines, eight fleet submarines, one aircraft carrier; total tonnage, 486,978.

Italy: Nine battleships (four second line,) four cruisers, ten light cruisers, three flotilla leaders, fifty-six destroyers, five destroyer leaders, forty-three submarines; total tonnage, 325,603.

CONCERT SEASON AT PARK TO OREN TODAY

Afternoon and evening concerts will be given at Westlake Park by the Marilynn orchestra this afternoon under the leadership of R. J. Conclasure. Bonita Smith, local entertainer, will render vocal selections during both recitals.

This is the first double concert at Westlake Park during the present season and marks the opening of the summer entertainments as hereafter concerts will be given every evening and each Sunday afternoon for the balance of the summer.

Unitarians to Give Pageant at Institute

A spectacular feature of the religious education institute being held at the Unitarian Church, 925 South Flower street, will be presented this evening, in the symbolic pageant "The Consecration of Sir Galahad," in which more than a score of roles will be enacted by members of the congregation.

Dr. Raymond C. Brooks of Pomona College will speak on "The Basis for a World Civilization" after the pageant.

Dr. Florence Buck of Boston is conducting the institute and will preside at the Sunday evening public meeting. The theme of the pageant is the consecration of youth to the search of truth and the pursuit of ideals, symbolized by the Grail. These members of the Fellowship, and the Young People's Religious Union will take the principal pageant roles; Galahad, Robert E. Peffer; Courage, Adelin English; Loyalty, Constance Pellier; Endurance, Florence Huntington; Gentleness, Grace Dicksen; Humility, May Dicksen; Purity, Frances Hockmeyer; Faith, Dorothy Baker; Hope, Joslyn Baker; Love, Grethen Lyon; Angel of the Grail, Ruth Woodberry; Trumpeters, George Huntington and Howard Kerr; knights, A. V. Andrews, John Bradford, Herbert Loader, Alfred Canby, Harry Broggs, Jerome Padleford, Harvey Greene, Horace Pratt and Richard Perry; Mother of Galahad, Claire Pierce.

Mrs. Irene Garrett Backus is directing the pageant. Mrs. Ada Marsh Chick will be organist and Miss Koehring, surrounded by robed choir girls, will sing the devotional solo.

JONAS CHICKERING

His epoch making Grand delights the critics

A Nation-wide CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION
Honoring the Memory and Achievement of
JONAS CHICKERING
The Father of the American Pianoforte

One morning in April 1823—a hundred years ago—a pale, young man was seen nailing a sign over a small doorway in Common Street, Boston.

The sign read

J. CHICKERING
Piano Maker

THE pale, young man was Jonas Chickering, and he had just emerged from a period of seven years spent in study of the art which he was subsequently to develop so abundantly, and with which his name was ever afterward to be associated.
Today the world celebrates the Hundredth Anniversary of the nailing of that sign over the door of the little shop in Common Street—celebrates the beginning of a career of inventive genius which completely revolutionized piano making, not only in this country, but throughout the world, and established Jonas Chickering as one of the greatest inventors of all time.

IN BOSTON YESTERDAY

IN the city where Jonas Chickering built his first piano, and where his great inventions were perfected, and where stands the vast present-day factory of Chickering & Sons, one thousand distinguished men and women, statesmen, leaders in music, business and society, from all parts of the country, sat at a superb banquet at the Copley Plaza Hotel, following a magnificent concert in Symphony Hall given by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and Erno Dohnanyi, Elly Ney, Germaine Schnitzer, Guy Maier, and Lee Patterson, to pay homage to this great American pioneer and to mark the Hundredth Birthday of the world-famous Chickering.

TODAY this name is known through the civilized world, the supreme expression of the highest art in piano making, and its background is musical achievement that parallels the musical history of our country.

It is significant that the greatest musicians, the musical organizations and leaders in every walk of life find in this great name something closely akin to a national institution, and desire to pay tribute to the magnificent results which are today the monument to the integrity, the high ideals, and the genius of its founder who nailed his sign over the little door in Common Street one April morning, a century ago.

Chickering

The Chickering has sung its way into the hearts of all who have come in contact with it—it is the best loved of all pianos. On this Hundredth Anniversary, its owner feels a deeper and more urgent pride in its possession and realizes anew the strength of the associations and fragrant memories that cluster about it in countless families who for generations have desired, and have had, only the Chickering.

You are cordially invited to hear the Ampico in the Chickering.

The maternity ward, the most sacred department of the hospital, too, is overcrowded, and has a waiting list.

The increase in last year, according to authorities, at the hospital was over 15 per cent. While 50,000 persons are handled yearly through the receiving room, but 15,000 can be admitted as patients. With the funds to be obtained, at least 35,000 could be treated with a fair degree of satisfaction through an "outpatient" department.

If these conditions do not affect the voter, then the economic end should appeal to him, says the Chamber of Commerce.

BUS FRANCHISES ATTACKED

The protests of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Automobile Club of Southern California against the granting of franchises to independent motor-bus lines to use the city streets, have been received by the City Council, but no action was taken, as the issue comes before the voters at the May 1 primaries.

The effect of the protests of these two organizations is expected to be a large "no" vote on Propositions Nos. 5 and 6 at the primary election, both of which favor the McAdoo-Hellman motor-bus system, and were placed on the ballot as the result of petitions worked up by and promoters of these independent busses, which seek a twenty-one-year franchise for the use of the city streets. Busses would operate over twenty-nine routes, covering all parts of the city and paralleling the lines of the Pacific Electric and Los Angeles Railway companies.

The Chamber of Commerce in its protest declared that no independent motor-bus franchises or permits should be granted until a reasonable time had been given the street-car companies to improve their service. This the companies propose to do at once by a $6,000,000 program of rail extensions and the establishment of connecting motor-bus lines.

Summer Work at University Opens June 30

Have you long been fostering a secret desire to study Spanish, or continue with your music course, or develop one of your latest talents? Are you an erstwhile high school graduate eager to continue with your scholastic work? Or, mayhap, you are one who unfortunately flunked a certain course? In all cases there's a remedy at the summer session of the University of California, Southern Branch.

Dean Baldwin Woods, who comes from Berkeley as administrative head thinks it will be the most successful and interesting session ever held at the branch. He extends an invitation to such as desire to enter and share in the work where one may meet and associate with students and scholars of distinction.

Work will begin June 30 and last until August 11. Psychology, history, languages and mathematics will be offered. Special courses such as interior decorating, fundamentals of acting under the guidance of Prof. Von Neumayer of Berkeley, and the study of "Our Newer Immigrants" will be given. Instructors will number such well-known men as Dr. Albert E. Jenks of the University of Minnesota, who will conduct a course in civic education.

Local Chamber to Have Float in Raisin Parade

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce announces that it will enter a huge float in the raisin-day parade next Thursday, at Fresno.

The local chamber has gone on record for co-operation with the people of the San Joaquin Valley and is lending moral support to all their worthy projects, and their physical support in matter of exploration. Hence chamber officials are urging all to boost for the famous raisin-growing valley, not only that the growers themselves may continue in prosperous co-operative marketing of their raisins, but may also be able to market the entire crop, which is estimated at $50,000,000 per year.

NEWHALL WILL HAVE RODEO AND BARBECUE

Citizens of Newhall have made elaborate preparations for their third annual rodeo and barbecue the 29th inst. Miss Julia Young, queen of the rodeo, will head the parade, to include automobile floats representing merchants and civic bodies under direction of the Newhall Chamber of Commerce.

The features of the day will be broncho busting, pony express and cowhide races, calf trick and fancing roping, steer riding, wild cow milking and other stunts.

ton says, and vacant lots, covered with rotten refuse, abound. The whole city, he charges, is covered with rotting refuse and old building materials.

"SLAVES OF JOB"

Here "all stores, bakeries, barber shops, etc., keep open seven days a week from 7 a.m. to 12 p.m," and the employees practically live "on the job." "There is so much competition between unskilled labor and clerks and between white and colored help that thousands are walking around awaiting to take the position of any clerk discharged," Mr. Pemberton states.

He also retails a conversation with an orange grower who had invested in an $80,000 ten-acre grove which had netted him a $250 profit for two years' work.

The oil-well promoters are raking the money in so fast here from the "fish," which, he says, "included many familiar Moose Jaw faces," that they have to use baskets, Mr. Pemberton declares.

"I visited many cities on my trip, but Los Angeles was the biggest bluff of them all. . . . The water supply of Los Angeles and the surrounding country is obtained for irrigation purposes from the Colorado River, and the river is now taxed to the limit, although there are all kinds of irrigation schemes which will depend on water for the success of the undertakings." (Which is the why of irrigation as discovered by Mr. Pemberton.)

NO WATER?

"The water supply is not there to supply the extra demand.

"Sacramento is dead; there is no business and very little prospect of there ever being any. The land around Sacramento and in the Sacramento Valley is of poor quality, and irrigation is necessary to make it productive. I could not see where the water will come from for the irrigation schemes. I saw none."

And then he eulogizes the Province of the golden grain.

"Mr. Pemberton was away from the city for nine weeks," says the Moose Jaw Times, "during which he completed a rough circle of travel, going east, south, west, north to British Columbia and east to Moose Jaw."

We'll say it was rough!

SAVE FORESTS WEEK PLANNED

have camp fire permits in the national forests of the State. These may be secured through the Chamber of Commerce or other places designated by the Forest Service. By checking up on outers the government finds that greater care is used and fewer fires occur on Federal reserves. Between 60 and 80 per cent of the fires are due to man's thoughtlessness, according to government reports.

HUGE LOSSES IN STATE

Out of 13,000,000 acres of forest tracts within the State, 45 per cent are under the protection of the Federal government. In spite of all the protective work that has been effected by various community and Federal agencies, California has lost more than a million and a quarter acres of valuable forests through fire since 1912.

Actual loss in lumber is not the only deplorable feature, as the agricultural department of the chamber repeatedly points out. If more than the surface earth is burned it will take years to replenish necessary soil elements to grow either timber or agricultural products. In many instances the burned area is permanently unfitted for any human use, and serves only as a destructive element. Heavy rains flooding the tract loosen quantities of earth carried down to cultivated fields and they in turn may be unfitted for use.

In a determined effort to bring about forest protection and flood control, Dr. Clements has urged that the Los Angeles county and the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce policy be upheld in the matter of extending forest growth. It has been pointed out that Los Angeles county is the only one making a definite reforestation campaign, over 1000 acres in San Dimas Canyon at present being carefully tended after replanting.

Co-operation has been asked by the chamber from Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace, Mayor Cryer, District Forest Inspector and Supervisor R. H. Charlton, Los Angeles Supervisor F. E. Woodley, United States District Forester Paul G. Redington; Ralph J. Scott, Chief of the Los Angeles fire department.

The Times radio will schedule an address by Mr. Maxfield tomorrow evening on forest conservation, and on Thursday noon he will speak before members of the City Club. The safety department and publicity department are preparing a window display for "Save the Forests Week," to be placed in the Hellman Bank, Sixth and Main streets.

Co-operating with the movement are the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, California Forest Protective Association, California Redwood Association, Sierra Club, Friends of Our National Parks, University of California Federation of woman's clubs, Roy Scouts and Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and City clubs.

FISH SEASON OPENING TO PERIL VOTE

Thoughtful Citizens Fear Voters May Neglect Their Duty Election Day

A grave civic crisis looms in Los Angeles. It is foreshadowed by the plans of thousands of voters to desert their precincts on the date of the city primary election —May 1.

Trout season opens on election day. Unless sportsmen postpone their foray into the mountain haunts of the wily rainbow, the results will be seriously felt on the ballot. An important and timely reminder was issued yesterday by Edwin L. Hedderly, assistant in charge of the southern division of the State Fish and Game Commission.

"Eight per cent of our population holds hunting or fishing licenses," Hedderly stated. "More than 500,000 citizens will fish this season, is the indication shown by advance sales of fishing licenses in this district.

"Several years ago the State ballot contained a measure providing means for voters to cast their vote when away from home on election day. This measure was especially designed for traveling men. But the voters rejected the plan.

"So it is plain that unless sportsmen-voters are impressed with their civic obligation, a fair share of the half-million license holders will not vote. What good will it do to come home with a limit of trout only to find that the wrong candidate survived the primaries?

"If May 1 were to be the date of the general election, the commission might agree to an attempt at emergency legislation setting back the trout opening twenty-four hours. Being but a primary election, and less imperative, flingers of flies are merely requested to pause and consider the duties of citizenship in relation to the importance of going fishing."

DAMAGES ASKED FOR NIGHT SPENT IN CELL

A $10,000 damage suit was filed in Superior Court yesterday, the outgrowth of an arrest on the charge of poisoning a pet dog. The suit was filed by J. A. Glenn against Joseph and Una Reilly. The complaint stated that Glenn was arrested on complaint of the defendants and put in the County Jail on the night of January 23, last. Mr. Glenn asserts that the charge was dismissed by a justice of the peace at Burbank and that there was no basis for the charge against him. A. W. Lumm is the plaintiff's attorney.

RITES ARE CONDUCTED FOR MISSOURI WOMAN

Funeral services will be conducted from the chapel of Strother and Dayton, undertakers, at 6240 Hollywood Boulevard, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, for Mrs. L. A. Hopkins, formerly of Kansas City, Mo., who died Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. L. Evans.

The body will be taken back to Kansas City for burial. Mrs. Hopkins leaves three daughters, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Jane P. Hancock of Los Angeles, and Mrs. S. M. Perkins of Mendota, Ill.

ON THE SCAFFOLD

The biggest county in Texas has just had its first legal execution. Probably there have been lynchings from time to time, but they do not count.

A GRAVE SITUATION

The French undertakers have gone on a strike. This may create a grave situation. Just now they do not seem to be able to bury their differences.

UPSTANDING PRESIDENTS

A picture of President Harding out fishing off the Florida coast, published on the men, women and things page, shows him standing up in the boat. How the influence of "Washington Crossing the Delaware" does cling to our Presidents!

AS SO MANY ARE DOING

A dispatch reports that farmers in Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Minnesota lost 1,500,000 young hogs in March blizzards. Lest they forget, we say it yet, the best way for those folks to save their bacon is to move to California.

GOING DOWN

They have oil wells nearly 6000 feet deep and it is announced that in some new spots the drillers are preparing to go down 8000 feet or more. To the scientists behind the telescopes in Mars this part of the earth must look like a bit of Swiss cheese.

THERES A RAISIN

Fresno expects to have a parade seven or eight miles long as a feature of the Raisin Day celebration, April 26. The raisin is to Fresno what Fords are to Detroit. The city is the center of distribution and the raisin output for a single year would ransom a trinity of kings.

GETTING ACQUAINTED

Speaking of this sudden passion for continuous dancing, there is a Cleveland couple who danced together without halt for fifty-seven hours. They should be pretty well acquainted by this time. After a man has held a girl in his arms for two days running he should be ready to talk matrimony.

THIRSTY ISLANDS

The dwellers in Hawaii are insisting on the right to drink wine and beer. If they cannot have these beverages they will continue to drink themselves to death on something they call okolehao. This sounds like a ukulele, but it is said that it is bad stuff for the system. Can't the Eighteenth Amendment be stretched enough to cover okolehao?

THE BIG LEAGUE

The Irish Free State will be invited to send delegates to the coming international customs conference. It might be suggested that the Irish Free Staters correct their custom of taking pot shots at one another in the dark. If they can do that they will be ripe for full admission in the League of Nations. Ireland will not be as backward as Uncle Sam in getting into the big doings.

SOMETHING ON WHEELS

More than 10,000 new automobiles were sold in Los Angeles county during the month of March. Somebody must want to go somewhere. It is doubtful if any other single district in America can show such a rush to the wheels. There are thousands who can recall when the motor car was matter for wonder and amazement. Now there are 250,000 of them in Los Angeles county alone.

IN BIG FIGURES

Germany can neither sign on the dotted line nor make her mark. At any rate, the marks she makes are no good. With 130,000 of them going for $1 a man who has a couple of dollars coming to him must be in hard luck. Think of the load he must carry when he is paid off. It is a race between the Germans and the Russians to see which can print the largest figures on paper money. Both nations have reached the quadrillions and it seems to be a dance of death.

PUSH OF PEDESTRIANS

The man in the street insists that pedestrian traffic is getting to be more of a problem on the highways of Los Angeles than the flux of cars. He says there are more people on the sidewalks than ever before and they simply have to butt into one another. The daily crush in Broadway and other downtown thoroughfares is maddening. He revives the suggestion that a chalk line be drawn down the middle of the walks in the congested district and that pedestrians be required to keep to the right just as vehicles do on the pavements. If one wishes to enter a store or view a window at the left he would put out his arm and give the warning signal just as a chauffeur would be expected to do. If a woman wanted to slow up or gossip with a friend she would droop her hand carelessly behind after the manner of a red stop signal. By observing a few simple rules of this nature the sidewalk traffic could be speeded up wonderfully without mussing people up so much or spoiling their tempers. The advice is worth listening to at any rate.

THE ONE WAY OUT

Moving in its orbit above the tumult in Europe the League of Nations is growing daily more clearly visible from this distance like a planet whose reflected rays are growing in intensity. And the light this planet reflects is the aspiration of the courageous, God-fearing people of the world to bring about an international association which will make future wars not only highly hazardous for the aggressors, but unnecessary.

Those who thought that the failure of this country to join the League in 1920 would cause its abandonment by the other nations read the future badly. The League continues to function. It grows in strength and prestige as the months pass, and it is now apparent that the League issue will play a prominent, perhaps a dominant, part in the national elections next year.

Lord Robert Cecil, by his American tour, has focussed the attention of the country on the League and its accomplishments. He has told nothing new to those who have followed its course; but he has awakened the interest of millions who still believed in the League idea, but who were not aware of how much it had actually accomplished.

Commenting on Lord Cecil's tour and upon the misrepresentation of some of his critics, the New York World recently said editorially:

> The decision (1920) which was supposed to be against the League has been followed by a constant though timid approach nearer and nearer to the League. Senator Pepper, who devoted all his abilities to keeping America out of the League in 1920, is now promising to enter it. Senator Borah, who in 1919 was so fearfully worried about American sovereignty, is in 1923 demanding a World Court with compulsory jurisdiction.
> There must be some extraordinary virtue in an institution that not only survives attack, but continues calmly to win the support of its enemies. That virtue is plain to see. . . . The League stands out as the one and only hope of permanent peace. When every criticism has been made, when every weakness and defect has been emphasized the League still stands in the midst of Europe the one best bet of the human race.

There has been no weakening in the ranks of the ardent supporters of the League in this country who desired our government to become one of the signatories, with or without reservations, three years ago. As The Times then pointed out, the 1920 election was not a "solemn referendum" on the question whether this country should become a member of an association to promote and preserve peace. The people made the issue in that campaign. It revolved about the question of Democratic incompetence and extravagance. The people wanted a business administration that should reduce taxes and set the country on the high road to recovery from the exhaustion and confusion of the war.

In that they were successful. Our government is functioning well internally and the country is again prosperous. But, while we have been setting our own house in order, all has not been going well in Europe. Our withdrawal caused a feeling of disappointment and depression which finally found expression in the French occupation of the Ruhr. Europe threatens to drift back to the old diplomacy that brought about the world tragedy of 1914.

The League of Nations, however, has accomplished about the only things worth while that have been done during that period. It has proceeded cautiously, acting only where it was called upon by all the parties at interest. And its findings have been uniformly accepted. It settled the question of the Silesian boundaries. It caused the smaller nations in Eastern Europe to settle their boundary disputes in conference. It brought about the partial rehabilitation of Austria when conditions there looked hopeless. Its humanitarian labors are beginning to bear fruit.

Wherever it has acted its influence has been for harmony and for peace. The new Ottoman government has signified its willingness to enter the League and to abide by its decisions. And the Turkish chieftains have expressed the hope that this country will also accept membership. They desire our voice to be heard in conference; for they have faith in our disinterestedness.

Not the least of its accomplishments has been the establishment of an International Court of Justice on so fair and equitable a basis that President Harding and Secretary Hughes have advocated our government's accepting membership.

It has become apparent that the League functions in the interests of peace, that it is possible for the League to do what cannot be accomplished under the old system of balances of power. In three years the League has grown from a theoretical experiment to a liberal institution.

Three years ago the friends of Irish freedom in this country were bitterly opposed to the League. The Irish Free State has now applied for membership. That is an indication of the trend of thought throughout the world.

The Times favored an association of nations to promote and preserve peace prior to 1914. It favored the formation of such an association at the peace conference. It favored America's accepting membership in the League in 1919, with or without reservations; for it believed that any defects in the covenant would be remedied by amendment later, just as the American Constitution was improved by the early amendments. It favors accepting membership in the International Court; and it believes that we should not hold ourselves aloof from those who seek to have us unite with other free peoples in an international association, along the lines of that formed to guard the peace of the Pacific, that would embrace the whole of the earth.

THIS DRAMATIC AGE

Nearly all the ingredients for a sensational fiction story will be found in the adventures of the nine men and one woman icebound since last November on Fox Island in Lake Michigan. Heroism, suffering, suspense, hope, atmosphere and—since there was a woman there—possibly love interest; and for a climax science, represented by a 350-horse-power De Haviland plane, flying to the rescue, as the unhappy group was drawing lots for the last cold potato. Truly in this century of roar and rush modern realism is far more exciting than ancient romance.

FREDERICKS FOR CONGRESS

Los Angeles has come to a crossroads in its path of progress. May 1 the people of the Tenth Congress District will determine by their vote on Congressional candidates how far they are prepared to go in opening new avenues of prosperity.

In the past the upbuilding of Southern California has rested with the people who have elected to make it their home, but time brings changes, and today Los Angeles is looking to Washington for help in developing the natural resources of the Southland. Without help from the government development in many lines will be blocked.

Los Angeles Harbor must be enlarged if the city is to retain its position among the ports of the world and the flood waters of the Colorado River, now running unvexed to the sea, must be harnessed if arid lands lying dormant at the gates of Los Angeles are reclaimed and the increasing demands for electrical energy met.

On these two major projects rests, to a large extent, the future growth of Los Angeles, the city's commercial expansion and property values. To realize them Los Angeles has turned to Washington. The harbor cannot be made to accommodate the ships which call at the port nor the desert watered without aid from Congress and the sympathetic co-operation of the Federal departments.

Millions of dollars are needed for harbor improvements and other millions for the Boulder Canyon Dam project. Only a man of unquestioned loyalty to Southern California and possessing an intimate knowledge of its needs, a wide acquaintance in Washington, experience in governmental affairs and the capacity to secure what he seeks can be helpful to Los Angeles in the national capital. He must be a man who can command attention on the floor of Congress and in the councils of his party's chieftains. There is but one man in the field for election to Congress from the Tenth District May 1 who fulfills these requirements. His name is John D. Fredericks.

Los Angeles has an opportunity May 1 to choose a strong man to plead its cause before the country. On its choice will depend future commercial growth, trade expansion in the Orient, reclamation of waste desert lands, development of power for new industries and property values. An unwise selection may prevent the harbor from being enlarged for years and leave the Imperial Valley under a constant menace from the Colorado River for a generation.

A Congressman from the Tenth Congress District who is not familiar with the needs of Southern California, who is lacking in acquaintance, business training, parliamentary procedure and the progress which has been made by Los Angeles in its fight for Congressional aid will handicap rather than benefit his constituency. No mere politician and no man who has failed to interest himself in the past in the commercial supremacy of Los Angeles and the physical development of Southern California should be allowed to imperil the city's future by attempting to represent the Tenth District at Washington.

MAKING MATRIMONY SAFE

The Wisconsin Assembly is repealing its so-called eugenics law which sought to place fresh safeguards around the matrimonial adventuring of the citizens of the State. The law required certain formalities in obtaining licenses and also called for medical certification on both sides. Now it is declared that the law does not to any degree accomplish the purpose for which it was designed and is something of a nuisance in other directions. That appears to be the difficulty with most of the faddist measures. They do not live up to their expectations. They are not practical. They fail to deliver the goods. Hasty legislation by zealots and enthusiasts frequently must be canceled. A simple standardization of the marriage and divorce laws of all the States would be the great accomplishment in this direction. Divorce and marriage should be neither too hard nor too easy. In neither case should it be possible without a certain elapsed time and a degree of responsibility.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

How to Take Advantage of Luck

"I suppose," said a little lady one day to the great millionaire Frick just before he died, "you must have been very lucky to have gone straight to the top as you did, without very much of a struggle."

"Luck!" exclaimed the only man who ever made Andrew Carnegie back water. "Lucky, nothing! I had failed a hundred times in all sorts of undertakings and I was so discouraged and disgusted I gave it all up and went back to the farm. One day, as I pulled up the bucket at the well, I noticed that the rope had worn a groove in the side of the wall. I noticed that that piece of rope had worn a groove in a stone wall simply by keeping at it. I went back to the city the next day. And, though there's been many a time since then when I felt like giving it all up and going back home, the memory of that piece of rope making its mark on rock always made me stick."

The junk pile of broken, damaged humans is heaped high with men who trusted that its tide would wash them high and dry upon the banks of Eldorado.

The most dangerous thing that ever happens to a man is when he believes there is an easier way of getting anything worth while than earning it.

Even among the half-crazed forty-niners for every one who fell upon a good vein of gold early in his digging hundreds of thousands toiled and broiled for years before they struck it at all.

Nothing is free; everything costs.

"That man was lucky," we often hear, when what we should have heard is: "That man had his eye on the future. He prepared. He saved. He worked persistently at what he had to do. He was ready for the opportunity when it came. And through his unremitting study and steadily increasing competence and capability he has climbed to his present enviable position."

"Luck," Carnegie was fond of saying, "means rising at 6 in the morning, living on $1 a day if you earn $2, minding your own business and not meddling with other people's business, and thinking and working like the Old Harry."

Luck will help you clear the ditch between prospects and prosperity if you begin far in advance to train hard, take a long, running start and jump like the devil!

There is no other way to take advantage of it.

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE PERFECT DAY

This seems to be a perfect day, a day beyond compare, although the skies are bleak and gray and dank and raw the air; for I have got a volume gay, a pipe, an easy chair. The water falls with ghastly thud upon the window pane; I see men toiling in the mud and cussing as they strain; the rivulet's become a flood, a wide morass the plain. The rooster is too tired to crow and will be till he's dry; the seasick cattle sadly low, their backs humped three feet high; the landscape is a scene of woe, beneath a weeping sky. But I have found a gorgeous book that tells of blooming maids, of noble knights in arms who cook men's geese in sylvan glades, who cry "odsfish" and eke "gadzook" and ply their gleaming blades. And all the sordid things of earth have vanished from my ken; I'm joining in the minstrel's mirth, I'm in the wizard's den, I walk with dames of queenly birth and list to fighting men. So let the rain roll down the eaves and lash itself to foam, and if the man who's in it grieves he should have stayed at home and read a tale of warlike thieves, of helm and halidome. So let the rain be charged with hail, the hailstones large as plums; I'm reading now a mighty tale of scraps and beating drums; I care no hoot for calm or gale or for whatever comes.

And Then!

Screen your open-grate fires in winter, swat the flies in summer, stop, look and listen at grade crossings, don't start the kitchen range fire with the kerosene can, keep your nose out of other folks's business and maybe you will live to be run over by a drunken joy rider.—[Louisville Courier-Journal.

PEN POINTS

By the Staff

The German mark has taken another header down below.

The California Legislature has left the sardine-limit law unchanged. The poor fish!

John D. Fredericks is first choice in the Congressional race and there is no chance for him to cast a shoe.

Why not have a horseshoe-pitching tournament in Los Angeles? What a chance that would be for the "ringers."

"What Do Your Children Think of You?" is the latest ballyhoo line in a current magazine. We know, but it isn't necessary to publish it.

Babe Ruth makes a home run and the reporters use 500 words to tell about it. Heinie Groh of the New York Giants makes one and the story is told in a line. Such is fame.

The Indian "uprising" in Utah is over. "Old Posey" has been given a slice of the public land and the jingle of the guinea that he is likely to receive for it will help the hurt that Indian honor feels.

It appears that Los Angeles is not on the itinerary of President Harding when he comes to the Pacific Coast. It is likely to be included, however, for Los Angeles county gave him 100,000 majority in 1920.

How it must irk the gizzard of Billy Burns, the detective, to see his picture so often in the papers. Back in the old Columbus (O.) days Bill was the personification of the shrinking violet. But, of course, that was long ago.

WE HEAR THY VOICE, O SON OF MAN!

Vibrant with tenderness and love
O Son of Man, we hear Thy voice;
It calls to paths that lead above,
But we, O Lord, have made our choice.

Our choice—it turns to earthly things,
To selfish ends that cannot live,
Its way leads not to peace, nor brings
The benedictions Thou canst give.

Thou goest Thy appointed way
Annointed with the grace to die—
While we, though oftentimes we pray,
Our ways—how far apart they lie!

We feel Thy pity and Thy grief
That men should weep and not rejoice,
But Thou alone canst bring relief,
For we, O Christ, have made our choice.

Clearer than words Thy blessings call,
While men bow down beneath life's woes—
But, O dear God, our faith is small,
Though still unchecked Thy mercy flows.

How comes it, Lord, that Thou art just?
In dens where lusts unhindered breed—
Where greed makes mockery of trust—
We make Thy wounds afresh to bleed.

We hear Thy voice, O Son of Man,
It warns us of the coming wrath,
But we have chosen and our plan
Forbids us tread another path.

THE LANCER

"I believe in personal liberty and the right to choose your own medicine," said one of the candidates, in answer to a question from the floor at the Woman's City Club.

Good gracious, NO! The man was replying to a chiropractic, not a prohibitionist.

Another candidate assured his audience that, although he had handled public money, he had never been involved in a scandal.

This statement was good for approving applause.

The element of surprise in political speeches is very advantageous.

I have a fancy circular before me adorned with a portrait of the lady evangelist it eulogizes. It pictures her a wistful, poetic maiden of about 17.

Presumably compiled by herself, it also assures me that she is "one of the great women of the present century," with gifts that place her in the company of "Edith Mathisson, Mrs. Fiske and Sarah Bernhardt." And that "she has marvellous attributes of spirituality, the highest attainment in the world of Art and Lettres."

And her specialty is "divine truth."

But, then, as Louis Anspacher told us, there is such a difference between the facts and the truth. Possibly the circular does set forth "the truth," especially in that flattering picture. The lady is probably spirituelle 17 in spirit.

Those marathon dancers. "On with the dance. Let joy be unconfined."

I see Californian Parent-Teachers are protesting against any such ebullient records being established in our fair State. They say it is detrimental to health and morals.

As to health, I understand it merely enlarges the heart, and we yearn for nothing so much as to be reputed a big-hearted nation.

As to morals, I defy anyone to be immoral during the course of an eighty-eight-hour continuous dance—which I believe is the latest best record. At least we know what the dear children are doing when they are dancing in one of these contests.

For my part I would like to see the sort of people that like to do this sort of dancing go right on doing it—and nothing else besides. One's only fear is that they may some time yearn to pose as normal citizens. Stand for Congress on their dancing records and all that. But, if we can just keep them dancing, right on dancing, they really need occasion us no special embarrassment.

A college education, says Von Stroheim, gives a woman too broad an outlook and too many interests to make her a successful wife and mother.

"There is more scope in matrimony for the affectionate, brainless woman than for the self-confident, brainy one," says Dr. Josiah Oldfield.

But, of course, what they both mean is that a bright woman makes it deucedly difficult for a man to be a successful husband and father. So few men can make the grade.

The W.C.T.U. has denounced a cafe because it sells cigarettes and near-beer. The near-beer, said a member, "does not contain an illegal amount of alcohol so long as it is kept on ice, but it soon develops a 'kick' when taken off the ice."

The cafe proprietor is wounded and ungrateful. What better advertisement could the ladies have accorded him?

And it has remained for the W.C.T.U. to inform us of the wasteful disadvantages of ice.

Marriage, says a gentleman who, in theatrical parlance, plays "juvenile leads," interferes with his profession. "Juvenile leads are not supposed to have wives and families."

But, really, now, that chap doesn't know when he is well off. Not many married men can enjoy the privilege of legitimately playing "juvenile lead" on the side.

On the face of it, it would appear to us to be an enviable arrangement.

Press agent informs us that famous film star will "appear in the flesh" at a certain well-advertised banquet.

Strictly in the cause of art, we hope the press agent has exaggerated.

To paraphrase a famous epigram:
"Flesh and Blood, two damsels good,
Would shock us all, or near it.
But, be it known to Flesh and Blood,
That Skin and Bone can't stand it."

Of course, we are all righteously indignant about the rise in sugar prices.

All the same, the profiteers may be kindly altruists. Sugar is fattening. Half the nation is taking expensive reducing treatments. Which usually fail because the victims cannot resist candy. If they resisted candy and sugar products these would automatically become cheap and plentiful, anyway. Then we should have to have Sugar Weeks to save the poor sugar industry going out of business. Or maybe sugar would be cheap enough to fatten up poor starving Europe.

As it is, the government will only succeed in making it cheap enough to continue fattening up the slim-yearners in too prosperous America. But not cheap enough to fatten Europe.

In the meantime I have an anguished cry from San Quentin. It appears that all our most celebrated lady criminals are fighting fat. They have all gained from six to twenty pounds. This surely is the refinement of punishment.

said we. "A Mexican throbbing, primitive, inhibitions. Atmosphere interest, with perhaps a thrill or two thrown in. Let's go."

We crossed over and climbed a stairway to a grilled window facing a green baize door. Now, there is an element of mystery about a green baize door, perhaps because of its association with gambling houses, saloons, supper clubs and other places. Anyway, it looked promising, and so did the fierce mustachios on the face that peered at us from behind it.

MODERN PIRACY

After parting from 50 cents, the comic opera pirate admitted us. Wham! The odor of hair oil smote our olfactory nerves with an almost audible impact as we stepped inside and wormed our way through the "stags" that ringed the crowded dance floor.

The music hesitated. As it did, twenty-five girls deserted their partners and flocked to the center of the floor, where two narrow boxes stood. From all sides of the waiting ring "stags" charged toward the girls, and without a pause a second four-piece orchestra blared the openings bars of another dance. Then the girls, after losing one partner and gaining another in the shortest possible interval, were off again.

Then we understood why the boxes were in the center of the floor. They were to receive the tickets, without which one might not caper. Ten cents a dance. Get your tickets from the cashier, select your lady and enjoy sixty seconds of saltatory exercise. Six dollars an hour. The music is incessant. One band stops and the other starts, dispensing a tune in from forty-five seconds to one minute, rarely longer, over a period of five hours. Actually, about 300 dances are played from 7 p.m. to midnight, and the girls employed in the place dance every one of them.

The clientele of the dance hall is composed largely of Mexicans, with a sprinkling of Filipinos and Americans, but at least a dozen of the girls are Americans. It was extremely interesting to see a grinning Filipino boy, whose not-so-distant ancestors were savages, hopping about with a pretty white girl who might have been 17 years of age.

EARN THEIR WAGE

The girls, however, are well paid for their grueling work, for they receive a liberal commission on the dance tickets that are sold. Many of them make $10 to $15 for their night's wages. But it is the hardest kind of labor imaginable. The hall is hot and smelly, and so are many of the partners they must dance with; they must stay moving on their feet for five hours, during which time they are mauled, shoved around and trampled on by an infinite variety of inexpert fox-trotters.

But there is this to be said: The dancing is absolutely respectable. There is none of the wriggling, shoulder-shaking and similar contortions that may be seen at any one of a dozen places where the better element seeks enjoyment.

On the other hand, a charming informaily of dress is permitted. Have you just purchased a purple silk shirt with pink stripes that you wish to display? Take off your coat, dance and be envied. Does your collar chafe your neck and hamper you? Remove it, and go collarless, if you like. You may not appear in pajamas, but overals, khaki trousers and leggings, corduroys and bell bottoms are not barred.

Joining the charging crowd that swept to the center of the floor as one dance stopped, and another started, one of us thrust our ticket at a girl just a shade ahead of a rival, and we cavorted off The girl moved like an automaton. No fizz, no sparkle, no joy of rhythm, nothing but moving feet. She was tired, and looked it. She even chewed her gum listlessly.

As we dully dragged along, the girl, in response to questions, vouchsafed the information requested.

"Dancing's fun for most people, but it isn't much fun for you, is it?" she was asked.

She was too tired to show any scorn at the rather silly query. Her pale, mask-like face revealed no trace of emotion as she shifted her gum and droned:

"I'll say not!"

INFORMATION SOUGHT REGARDING UNCLE

Pioneer residents of Los Angeles are appealed to by Daniel Francis Boyle of Philadelphia, who is seeking information regarding his uncle, for whom he was named. Mr. Boyle says that his uncle died in this city or in San Francisco in the '80s or early '90s. The nephew lives at Ninth and Market streets, Philadelphia, and his mail address is P.O. box 77.

HARBOR TUBE IS ALLAN PROJECT

Councilman Advocates Bore to Terminal Island

Toll Tunnel Would Pay for Itself in Short Time

Leader Indorses Bond Issue of $15,000,000

Robert M. Allan, chairman of the City Council's Public Welfare Committee and chairman of the County Regional Planning Commission, indorses the proposed $15,000,000 harbor bond issue which will come before the voters on June 5, and strongly recommends that the plans for the expenditure of the bond money include the construction of a subway tunnel connecting the mainland at the harbor with Terminal Island.

Robert M. Allan

Councilman Allan in his statement says:

On my last visit to Los Angeles Harbor the great necessity for a tunnel or subway to Terminal Island was brought home in a most forceful manner. Very frequently the vehicle ferry cannot handle the traffic, thus necessitating great delays and loss of both time and money. The traffic is increasing at a rapid rate, thus making the problem a harder one to solve.

Even if the ferries are built adequate for the traffic, they will always interfere with traffic more or less, and necessitate considerable delay in crossing the channel, and in all events the time will come when a more adequate way to reach Terminal Island will have to be provided.

Anyone with real vision and foresight is forced to the conclusion that the only ultimate solution is a tunnel under the channel. A vehicle and traffic tunnel twenty feet wide, the width of the present Third-street tunnel, could be built at an estimated cost of $1,250,000.

An examination of the records shows that the ferries now in operation have a gross income in excess of $60,000 per year, and as this traffic would be almost exclusively diverted to a tunnel for convenience and the saving of time, a toll could be charged that would not be in excess of the ferry toll and sufficient revenue received to take care of both interest and sinking fund.

If a tunnel were constructed now new businesses would immediately locate on Terminal Island. This, with the construction of new wharves and slips would greatly increase the traffic and the revenue, and when the cost was taken care of the toll could be abolished. Therefore, I would strongly advocate the early construction of a tunnel near First street, Los Angeles Harbor, to Terminal Island, and I feel sure the success of one would soon prove the necessity for one across the entrance to the West Basin, and others.

The harbor department, in my judgment, should include plans for this tunnel in the bond issue. Failing to do this, it should be built by a municipal improvement district, the cost to come out of the revenues received.

Club Women to Give New Prize for Art Works

With a new prize of $100 offered by the Federation of Women's Clubs for the best figure painting, the annual exhibition of painting and sculpture at the Los Angeles Museum, Exposition Park, will open May 4 and continue during that month.

Two other prizes, each of $100, are offered, one by Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison, for the best work of art regardless of subject or medium, the other by Mrs. Henry E. Huntington for the best work by anyone who has not heretofore won a prize in the exhibition.

The jury will be selected by vote of the exhibitors.

A reception May 4, from 8 to 11 p.m., will open the exhibit.

SERVICES TOMORROW FOR DR. GLENN MARR

Funeral services for Dr. Glenn Demotte Marr, dentist, who died yesterday after an extended illness at Sierra Madre, will be conducted tomorrow from the Lawson F. Utter Funeral Home, 4254 Moneta avenue. Interment will be in the Hollywood Mausoleum.

Dr. Marr was 43 years of age. He came to the Pacific Coast from Clinton, Iowa, having been born in Chicago and graduating from the Northwestern University Dental College. He was well-known throughout Southern California, at one time residing in Los Angeles.

For the past several years he has made his home at Porterville, where he was widely known. Last June he suffered a nervous breakdown and had been confined to his bed since last December.

SILVERY TONGUE FOR FREDERICKS

What Bob Burdette Thought Told in Old Letter

"Pure Gold" Wrote Famous Humorist of Candidate

Named Him for Prosecutor; Urged Him for Governor

The candidacy of Capt. John D. Fredericks, Republican, for Congress in the Ttenth Congress District, has brought to light an interesting story centering about his nomination for District Attorney back in 1910, with the late Robert J. Burdette the central figure.

The immortal "Bob" nominated the captain every year, and while he did not follow politics with more than cursory interest, he appears to have experienced much pleasure in helping to elect Capt. Fredericks prosecutor for the third time because he later wrote a letter on the subject, and expressed a desire to see him chosen Governor.

John Wood, former postmaster at Pasadena, to whom the letter was addressed, has turned the original over to friends of Capt. Fredericks. It was written in 1916 when Capt. Fredericks was a candidate for Governor. The famous humorist had followed the captain's political fortunes quite closely and hoped to see him become California's chief executive. Ill at his Pasadena home and too sick to take an active part in the campaign, he hammered out his sentiments at a typewriter and sent them in letter form to Wood.

WANTED IN CAMPAIGN

"I only wish I might have the honor of nominating him but my physical incapacity stands in the way," he wrote. "But I will vote to help nominate him, and I will cast my heartiest vote to elect him. More than that, my family will vote its full quota for him—Mrs. Burdette votes this time, remembers—and 1,000,000 other women all for Fredericks!"

"Bob" Burdette knew many famous men intimately and in his role of lecturer and editor and humorist writer learned to weigh men and analyze them. Capt. Fredericks he admired for his fearlessness and strength of character, as the letter to Wood proves.

"It was on November 3, 1910," he wrote to Wood, "when I met a group of young Republicans on the streets of Pasadena and asked you, 'What are you boys going to do?' And you answered, 'We are going to nominate Fredericks for District Attorney.'

"Now, you never had lied to me—nor to anybody else, that I ever heard. I said, 'I will go with you and see how the thing is done.' I went, and you taught me how to do it myself. I nominated Capt. Fredericks that time, and the boys turned in and elected him with a whoop.

TERROR TO CROOKS

"And now, I tell you if ever dishonor and dishonesty, brutality, murder, villainy and treachery were sorry, they were sorry over the election of that man, one of God's men.

"Now, you tell me you are going to nominate the same man for another office, and a higher one. Good! Capt. Fredericks would ennoble any office every time he filled it and he will ennoble this office when he fills it. I only wish I might have the honor of nominating him, but my physical incapacity alone stands in the way. But I will vote to help nominate him, and I will cast my heartiest vote to elect him. More than that, my family will vote its full quota for him—Mrs. Burdette votes this time, remember—and a million other women—all for Fredericks!

"Nominate John D. Fredericks. And elect him! A man of pure gold. Often as the people have tried him he has stood the acid test. He has been tried by the Gideon testing, the wet fleece and the dry, and has weighed 2340 pounds per ton, live weight. A tried man and true; 'who fears nothing known; who knows nothing base.' We honor ourselves when we strive to honor him, for 'titles of honor add not to his worth, who by his worth adds honor to his title.'

"ROBERT J. BURDETTE."

ANGELENOS PREPARE TO MAKE TRIP

Foreign Trade Convention in New Orleans Attracts Many From Here

Increasing interest in the National Foreign Trade Convention at New Orleans has increased the number of delegates from Los Angeles. A special section on the train leaving Los Angeles next Sunday at 9 a.m., for New Orleans will carry delegates from Los Angeles, Seattle, Tacoma and Portland. It also is anticipated that the San Francisco representatives will join the party. Arriving in New Orleans on Tuesday morning, the party will have a day for rest and entertainment before attending business sessions of the conference, which opens May 2 and continues through May 4.

The local delegates, many of whom have been instrumental in building the harbor, will have the pleasure of announcing to fellow-delegates that Los Angeles will vote in June on a $15,000,000 bond issue for harbor improvement.

Among the Los Angeles representatives are: J. A. H. Kerr, vice-president, Security Trust and Savings Bank; S. L. Kreider, steamship exporting and importing agent; Maurius de Brabant, assistant traffic manager, Union Pacific; E. H. Kaufman, president and general manager, Gavaert Company; Capt. S. S. Sandberg, traffic manager, Los Angeles Harbor; R. E. Tracy, export manager, M. G. Cooper Dry Goods Company; F. A. Dampton, assistant manager, foreign department First National Bank; A. B. Boswell, expert manager, Brownstein-Louis Company.

This, the first of the Review Wells, was brought in March 20, with a flush production of approximately 5000 barrels.

THE "MILE DEEP" WELL

Rapid Progress being made on Scientific Test Well which is to fathom depths of Signal Hill Oil Sands.

Up to the minute of going to press, Friday noon, the already famous "MILE DEEP" WELL had reached a depth of 800 feet.

The drillers are out for a record. A big bonus is to be won if they bring in for California Illustrated Review subscribers the first "MILE DEEP" Well in this great oil field.

Look at the diagram. See how close the "MILE DEEP" well is to the 34,000-barrel flush production Andrews No. 3 and the 15,000-barrel flush production Ryder No. 1. Note that the Andrews went through 2000 feet of rich oil sands!

Think of drawing oil from the strata TWO THOUSAND FEET DEEP.

Perhaps the "MILE DEEP WELL" will find another Thousand feet of rich oil sand. The experts who thought Signal Hill limited have quit guessing. There is only one way to know—THAT IS TO DRILL.

The "MILE DEEP WELL" should draw oil from new deep sands that have never been touched by drilling tools. It should be an amazing producer.

That is by enlisting and co-operation of a large of people, each selecting for ten or more people of his own acquaintance.

I can well afford to give for their help in under- a million more people for California, almost any compensation or reward within the possibilities.

No Oil Stocks for Sale

I have no oil stocks or securities of any sort for sale or investment. I have had quite an extensive experience in oil field development. For twenty years past I have published newspapers, periodicals, some of which in their day reached the largest circulation in the world.

That is my side of it, and what there is in it for me.

Here Is What Is in It for You

To secure the help of a large number of people who are interested in seeing California and Greater Los Angeles have another million people and also interested in securing for themselves whatever advantages and incomes may be possible, I have devised a plan for mutual co-operation and profit that is fair, square and will be both exciting and probably more profitable to those who help than they even dream.

The Oil Wells

I have secured during the past year, when the securing was better than now, what I consider some of the best leases in Signal Hill and Huntington Beach oil fields. One of these leases is the Transport lease, on the apex of the Signal Hill anticline, in line with and close to the Ryder No. 1 well and the Andrews No. 3 well. Both of these wells recently blew themselves in as phenomenal producers.

I do not think that ANY well has yet been drilled to the greatest of all producing sands underlying Signal Hill at this point.

Ten Wells to be Drilled

On the Signal Hill and Huntington Beach leases, approximating sixteen acres, I propose to drill Ten Big Wells, as deep as the sands will permit.

The first of these wells on Signal Hill was completed recently and came in with a flush production of approximately 5000 barrels. A second well is to be drilled at once on this Signal Hill lease.

The first well on the Huntington Beach leases is down 4500 feet, cemented and now drilling in. It has already blown itself in from gas pressure once during the drilling. I look for a big well.

The other seven wells are to be drilled on the surrounding Huntington Beach leases. That makes ten wells and they will cost to drill approximately $900,000. What they will produce, no man knows. They may average 1000 barrels or 5000 barrels, or some of them may be failures, and others produce 10,000 barrels. No one but a fool, a knave or one entirely ignorant of the hazards of oil drilling, would try to tell you what a well was going to produce before it was drilled.

In Addition—Transport-Review Wells

In addition to these wells, I have acquired the famous Transport Lease, adjacent to and directly in line with the Andrews and Ryder wells and but a short distance from them, on the top of the Signal Hill anticline. On this lease I am now drilling two wells.

One of them is down 3100 feet and already in the oil sands. It will be put down as deep or deeper than the Ryder No. 1 near it.

The "Mile Deep" Well

The other is the "Mile Deep" well that I am undertaking to drive down to the BOTTOM of the oil sands of Signal Hill at this point where they are thickest and have never been bottomed.

Prize for Successful Drilling

A large bonus has been offered to drillers and helpers on this well if they put it down below one mile in depth. That would mean probably one of the biggest wells in the world, judging from the Andrews well which blew in at 5065 feet depth with a flush production of 34,000 barrels with the tools still drilling in the richest sands of all. I HOPE this "Mile Deep" well will come in with over 50,000 barrels flush production, but hope is the reason why most wells are drilled at all. An oil well IS an oil well when it is hooked up with pipe lines and moving the meter round the circle regularly with a net result. Up to that point it is hope well.

This Is My Offer

If you will take a hand with me and help underwrite a million more people for California and Greater Los Angeles, which would be immensely to my profit and benefit, as stated at the start, here is what you get for doing it.

If you underwrite ten new subscribers for the California Illustrated Review, whose names and addresses you can send in any time this year, I will assign to you in trust through the banking institution that has accepted the trust, a one-hundred thousandth life interest in one-third of the net proceeds of the net production of ALL TEN REVIEW WELLS, the income to be paid you twice a year as long as they produce. That underwriting costs $10, but the only thing paid for is the ten subscriptions for one year at $1 each.

A Bonus for Underwriting 100 Subscribers

If you will underwrite 100 new subscribers which you can send in any time during this year, I will assign to you for life, TEN interests in the production of the ten Review wells as stated above, and IN ADDITION will also assign through the trustee bank, to you, for life, a like interest in both the big wells I am drilling on the Transport lease, including the "Mile Deep" well.

Convenient Subscription Books

The subscription receipts are put up in books of ten receipts each. Each receipt is good in payment for a year's subscription. You can sell them, or make gifts of them, but they are the only thing you pay for. You are to help by personally selecting for me the persons who are to receive the Review through these receipts.

With one million personally hand-picked new subscribers to the Review if we do not bite them with the California and Los Angeles bug during the next year, it will be because they can neither see or read the beautiful pictures and descriptive articles they will get every month on California and Greater Los Angeles, for a whole year to come, through you.

I Must Close This Offer Soon

This offer is not going to stay open long. One well is in and producing, another is expected in at any hour, a third should be in by the first of next month, and the "Mile Deep" well has made 800 feet since it was spudded in April 14th. I expect to complete all twelve wells in the next six to eight months.

Act Now and Share in All Wells

If you enter your underwriting for ten or a hundred or more before the next well comes in, you will be entitled to a life interest in it and the well already producing and the remaining wells to be drilled as stated. If you wait until the next well is IN and producing, then you do NOT share in that one, but only in the remaining ones.

If you wait until the next two wells are in, then you will not have any interest in them, but only in the remaining wells.

If you enter your underwriting NOW you share in the well already producing and ALL the others as stated. The trust agreement is being drawn and the names of those entitled to share in these wells for life will be registered with the trustee as soon as it is completed and signed.

Money Back if Dissatisfied

That is as clear as I can make the proposition, but if after you send ni your underwriting, and receive the first copy of the Review and full particulars, you want to withdraw, you can do so any time within five days and your money will be returned.

No interest in any of these twelve big wells can be had on any other terms, or in any other way. I want the million new hand-picked subscribers, and will give a third interest in the production of these wells to those who help me get them. That's the proposition.

The Life Interests in the Review Oil Wells

We have no oil stocks, units or investments to offer in any of these wells. The life interests are given as a premium or bonus for securing new subscriptions to the Review and represent no investment, the only thing paid for being the subscriptions at their regular price. No guarantee can of course be made of the amount of production of these wells, or the return from them.

A well known local banking institution will act as trustee for those having the life interests, collecting monthly from the pipe line companies and refineries and remitting their income twice each year.

FAVORS HARBOR RAIL FRANCHISE

Southwest Chamber Urges "Yes" Vote May 1

Track Extension is Termed Vitally Important

Santa Fe Statement Gives Benefits to City

The Southwest Chamber of Commerce, comprising in its membership leading business men and citizens of the southwestern part of Los Angeles where the foes of the Santa Fe Railroad have worked hard behind a smoke screen wake up opposition to the extension of that transcontinental railroad to serve Los Angeles Harbor, has adopted resolutions, made public yesterday, repudiating the assertion that the residents of that section of the city are opposed to the harbor extension, the organization standing solidly for a "Yes" vote on Proposition No. 7 at the May 1 primaries.

A "Yes" vote on this proposition means that the voters approve of the action of the City Council in granting the Santa Fe permission to cross certain streets in the harbor district in order to reach the wharves and industries at the port.

TEXT OF RESOLUTION

The resolution of the Southwest Chamber of Commerce, of which C. A. Piper is president and W. D. Cochrane is secretary, is as follows:

"Whereas, the Southwest Chamber of Commerce, representing the district south from Slauson avenue and west from Main street, by formal action urged the City Council to grant a franchise to the Santa Fe Railway Company to enter Los Angeles Harbor, and,

"Whereas, the City Council, after taking the necessary steps to safeguard the people's rights, granted said franchise, and

"Whereas, we regard the proposed extension of the Santa Fe to the harbor as of vital importance to the development of the great Southwest, therefore,

"Be it resolved, that this association favors the Santa Fe in the coming referendum contest and that its members be urged to use their individual efforts in support of said franchise."

SANTA FE TELLS SIDE

In an official statement issued yesterday, officials of the Santa Fe pointed out that the concessions which are a part of the harbor franchise will result in a reduction of grade crossing delays along the existing Santa Fe right-of-way on Slauson avenue, as these concessions include the total elimination of daylight switching on Slauson avenue, thus cutting down train movements there 90 per cent. In this official statement, the Santa Fe officials show that the harbor franchise, which is being subjected to a referendum under Proposition No. 7 at the May 1 election, calls only for the crossing of streets by the new line in the harbor district.

"The opponents of the franchise," said the Santa Fe's official statement, "would, by unfair tactics, have it appear that the proposed line will cross a large number of important thoroughfare along Slauson avenue. The argument is entirely misleading. The only streets to be crossed by the line covered by the franchise are situated in the harbor district, eighteen to twenty miles from Slauson avenue.

"It will be of interest to the voters to learn that the Santa Fe is to expend over $600,000 in separating grades at crossings between El Segundo and the harbor, the points between which the new line is to be constructed, a distance of only twelve miles. This record is unequaled by any other railroad in the State of California.

"Furthermore, the Santa Fe has agreed, and the ordinance so requires, that it will separate the grade of its proposed line and the grade of any main thoroughfare hereafter extended across such line in the city of Los Angeles."

NATIONALS TO MINGLE IN CONCERT

American, Asiatic, African and European Musicians Will Give Program

An International Cosmopolitan Concert under the auspices of the University of Southern California Cosmopolitan Club will be given in the chapel of the Old College, University and Thirty-fifth streets next Friday evening. Anton Dahl, Russian pianist of international repute, will present several solos. Mr. Dahl has played before the Czar of Russia, and was decorated by him for his art.

There will be a Chinese orchestra, a male quartet composed of colored Americans, a Polish chorus of thirty voices and a Filipino stringed orchestra. Mr. Freeman, an American Indian will sing. There will be readings and vocal solos by Japanese members of the club. The services of Richard Hedrick of motion-picture fame have been secured, and he will render violin solos.

The club is composed of people of every nationality who come together in an effort to make a better understanding between the foreign and American students of the university. The purpose of this concert is to raise money to send a foreign girl to Asilomar, the Y.W.C.A. summer camp.

The program is in charge of Miss Unice Buckner, L. Sioring and Miss Florence Loo. M. McGregor is manager of publicity. Mr. Lindogan and Miss Helen Burge are in charge of the sale of tickets.

JAZZ EXPERTS REVEAL SELVES

Donald Campbell's Players Please Dancers

Program of KHJ in Lighter Vein Delights

Instrumental Solos Strike Answering Chord

BY BEN A. MARKSON

The mysterious aggregation of syncopators whose rehearsal late at night in the KHJ studio recently was "put on the air," with a resultant guessing contest among listeners-in as to who the syncopators were, came to provide a program last night.

Saturday night was dance night, with music by—Donald Campbell and his orchestra.

Here's the personnel of perfervid pipers who made your brogans restless: Donald Campbell, violinist and saxophonist; Martin H. Seliger, saxophone and clarinet; Howard Moore, saxophone; V. S. Neville, banjo; Ralph Foy, cornet; J. A. Brewer, trombone; Warren Albee, sousaphone bass; Marguerite Campbell, drums, and Amelia Ullman, pianist.

The compelled feet to gesticulate wildly with fox trot numbers, including "Meet Me Next Sunday," "Carolina Home," "Eleanor," "Apple Sauce," "Dumbell," "You've Got to See Mama Every Night," "Peggy Dear," and "Carolina in the Morning."

REQUEST NUMBERS, TOO

This list fails to include numerous request selections, or rather, "insist numbers," which radio jazz fans demanded. Breathing space for a waltz was made to the air of "After Every Party."

Solos included "Gypsy Love Song," Ralph Foy, cornetist, accompanied by Amelia Ullman, and "Lullaby Moon," by J. A. Brewer, trombonist, with orchestra accompaniment. A lively, good-natured spirit prevailed during the entire program.

Of classical mood were the piano selections with which Victor Aller favored Radioland. His performance was of the brilliance calling for high commendation, difficult passages being subjected to the ease and confident accuracy of his touch.

His rendition of Rubenstein's "Staccato Etude" was sharply and melodiously defined. "Revolutionary Etude," by Chopin, was played with zeal, and Brahm's "Rhapsody in G Minor" came with a graceful flow of musical reverie.

"UNCLE REMUS" PROGRAM

"Uncle Remus," otherwise known as E. M. Bonnell, a genius of wit and doubly a genius when it comes to coaxing music from his auto-harp and harmonica, grave a program of ecstasy for the lads and lassies.

Few performers have won such warm regard in the hearts of the children, and of all KHJ listeners as well, as Mr. Bonnell. His spontaneous humor is inimitable. His playing and singing draw a lightning response. He is the sort of entertainer who is always known as the life of the party.

Yesterday evening he thrilled junior Radioland with his music and amused them with his irrepressible conversation.

Jane Mercer, reader, 12 years of age, was the other entertainer on the children's program. Jane is exceptionally talented and has real elocutionary ability.

Her readings included "L'il Black Kid," by Ed Brininstool, Riley's comforting child poem, "There, Little Girl, Don't Cry," and "Little Boy Blue," by Field.

NOON PROGRAM

The noon program was brightened by the stringed refrains played by L. M. Dewitt, master of the guitar. He has played for KHJ before and always stays longer than he intends because of the number of encores requested by his hearers.

Mr. Dewitt's touch awakes a human note in his instrument. A few of his selections were "The Rosary," "Concert Waltz" and "Medley of Southern Airs."

Louise Messenie, soprano, was the noon-hour singer. There is a soft, almost plaintive beauty in her voice, subtly appropriate to songs of the heart, such as "Call Me Back, Pal O'Mine," by Dixon; "Just An Old Love Song," by Schertzinger; "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," and "Somebody's Smile," by Tito Schipa.

Carrie Preston Rittmeister was Miss Messenie's accompanist.

Dr. Harvey Hadlock delivered a talk on "The Passion Play," interesting in its description of the famous drama and eloquent in its interpretation of the them.

Gordon Shallenberger, winner of the Los Angeles High School oratorical contest, spoke on "The Constitution, Our Citadel of Freedom."

BRASS BAND HELPS TO WELCOME GIRL

RESIDENTS OF STREET TURN OUT WHEN INJURED CHILD LEAVES HOSPITAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 21.—All Mulberry street turned out with a fourteen-piece brass band to welcome home 12-year-old Rose Arbia, who had been in the hospital for three years to a day suffering from hip trouble, which followed a fall when she slipped and fell on her way to school.

The neighbors learned that she was gaining and would be home this summer, but even her parents did not know that her homecoming would be on the anniversary of the accident. Rose's father is a well-to-do produce merchant.

The child has been a patient at the New York Orthopedic Hospital. Her treatment has been mostly fresh air and a diet.

BISHOP WILL LECTURE AT UNIVERSITY

Civic Societies Invited to Hear Address Today at Bovard Auditorium

Bishop Francis J. McConnell, who is delivering a series of six lectures at the University of Southern California, will address a mass meeting in Bovard Auditorium this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock to which 200 civic and religious organizations have been invited.

Bishop McConnell, who is one of the most eloquent speakers of Methodism, will use as his subject, "International Relationships." This will be in line with lectures which he has been delivering on the theme "Living Together."

At the mass meeting this afternoon, Dr. R. B. Von KleinSmid, president of the University and a personal friend of the Bishop, will preside. Music will be provided by the College of Music, with Dean W. F. Skeele presiding at the organ. Presidents and representatives from local organizations will occupy seats on the platform.

Bishop McConnell will continue his New Era lecture series at the University during the first of the week and Monday afternoon will speak on "The Reconciliation of Warring Social Classes;" Tuesday, "Can Patriotism Be Saved?" and on Wednesday for the closing lecture "Christianity and the Rising Tide of Color." These lectures will be at 4:15 p.m. in Bovard Auditorium and will be open to the public.

Bishop McConnell will be the special speaker before the session of the Ministerial Association tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in Berean Hall, Philharmonic Auditorium.

TEACHERS' POLITICS PERILOUS

Attempt to Name Their Own Employers and Run Schools, Says Babcock

The subjoined statement regarding the "teachers' ticket" was made yesterday by David T. Babcock, chairman of the Citizens' School Committee. The so-called teachers' ticket is promulgated by a number of high-school teachers who, with Dr. John T. Haynes and other outsiders, are attempting to elect their own ticket, headed by Bromley Oxnam, radical, and comprising other radical sympathizers.

"No one will deny the rights of the teachers as individual citizens to have a preference and work for the election of members of the School Board," said Mr. Babcock. "Neither can it be denied that as citizens they have the right to join any civic body, organization or committee, the object of which is the furtherance of any individual candidate or group of candidates. But when the teachers of the city as a body unite to work for the election of the board which will control the destinies of the local schools for the next two years, and as such be called upon to exercise authority over the teachers, I believe they not only are stepping outside the limits of good government, but are attempting to exercise an influence over the actions of the board which must result in restraining the freedom of action so necessary in any governing body.

"It is just as logical for the members of the police department to name their superiors, for the City Hall employees to select their officers, and, in the last analysis, for the employees of the city to select Councilmen and a Mayor who will follow their dictates in matters of municipal government.

"I have no doubt but that the great majority of the teachers who have subscribed to the indorsement of their candidates are actuated only by the highest motives. The great danger, however, lies in the apathy of the more conservative members of that body, who, like the great body of American voters, are apt to be content to let matters drift along in the hands of a few active members.

"If these leaders are impelled by the highest motives, have high ideals and possess sound judgment, there is nothing to fear other than the usual danger of concentrated power in unofficial hands, but if the leaders of the teachers are actuated by selfish motives and constantly are working for personal benefit and advancement, the teachers' advent into politics is certain to prove of irreparable harm, not only to the teachers themselves, but to the city schools as a whole."

The transfer point in the food system

The quick routing through of your food must not be held up along the line if you wish to avoid serious results

NATURE provides a perfect routing for food. First an appetite is created that makes us eat. Then the food is held at a station along the line until all the valuable freight is removed. This is a transfer point. All the nourishment is extracted and sent along by branch lines throughout the entire system.

FOOD TRACK WASTE
NOURISHMENT

The transfer point is where the nourishment is extracted and the waste is left

What remains is waste. It is no good to the body. It is a menace giving forth poisons that spread throughout the system.

Nature has provided a track for this waste that will remove it if there are no tie-ups or blocks on the food transportation route.

Don't Tie Up Your Entire System With a Blockade

In ninety-nine systems out of a hundred this blockade exists. Waste piles upon waste and the entire system is demoralized.

The blockade must be broken up—the track cleared—the useless and dangerous waste passed out of the body. If not, the whole system is contaminated, the serious results reaching to even the farthermost points of the body.

Temporary Relief Trouble Repeated

Drugs will remove the blockade temporarily. But the system will soon refuse to act without them. More drugs must be taken. A habit is formed. No permanent good comes of it.

Nature, which devised this wonderful transportation system has also provided a method for avoiding tie-ups along the line.

Over a century ago a wonderful spring was found by the early white settlers of California. The remarkable health of the Indians who drank of this spring called it to the attention of the white man. This spring is called Veronica Springs. This water is bottled and comes to you just as it comes from the spring.

The body is like a railroad. When a blockade occurs the whole system is tied up

Nature Offers a Treatment For Permanent Relief

Veronica Water has a remarkable effect upon the human system. It cleanses the colon in a most thorough manner. By ridding the body of poison breeding waste matter it has proved of amazing benefit. The most stubborn cases of stomach disorders have responded to Veronica Water. It soothes the irritated membrane of the intestinal tract. It forms no habit. It gives permanent relief.

The Veronica treatment will give new life to many now ailing—men, women and children who feel dull, listless and lack the ambition and perfect health that comes from correctly functioning stomach and intestines. Get a case of Veronica Water from your druggist. Start this treatment today. Or get a bottle for the temporary relief it will afford you. The results will convince you.

Many will receive a feeling of new life by thoroughly cleansing the system

FILM HAS TWO CASTS

Set in for Prologue of "Ten Commandments;" Another for Modern Part of Picture

Two separate casts of well known featured players will interpret the version of "The Ten Commandments," Cecil B. De Mille announced today. One group will interpret the biblical prologue, the other is to carry on the modern story evolved by Jeanie MacPherson to interpret the Decalogue in its relation to present-day life.

is said that both the biblical modern groups will contain known names. Those who in the biblical section will appear in the mod-announcement has been made who will appear in this picture. Mr. De Mille all filmdom and the for players to fit specific and there are many under for each part. Special being taken in the choice players who will interpret biblical sections the roles of Miriam, and Pharaoh II. These outstanding biblical figures will require players of unusual ability as their performance will be carefully watched by millions of people to whom they are intimately familiar through reading.

The modern characters are also to be extremely interesting, it is announced and will be persons capable of handling strongly outlined roles in a vivid story.

NOTED ACTOR TO SPEAK

Frederick Warde, noted Shakespearean actor, will deliver a dramatic lecture recital at the Columbus Auditorium, South Flower near Sixth street, at 8 p.m. today. The recital was arranged in compliance with numerous requests to the actor, who will be introduced on this occasion by Oscar Lawler.

Elopement Has Unhappy End in Divorce Court

A marriage of two days' duration, which had been preceded by an elopement, was legally terminated yesterday in Judge Summerfield's division of the Superior Court when Mrs. Georgia H. Yeager was granted a divorce from Roy Yeager.

She stated that she eloped with her husband from Santa Ana on Aug. 4, 1921. They lived together two days, she testified, when her husband left her at Whittier and went to Riverside. She asked him to return, but she said he told her that he had business there which would keep him for some time. He proposed, she said, that she buy him a car so that he could run down to see her and she did so. But he failed to carry out his promise, she asserted.

Witnesses for the wife testified that Yeager told them he had had a chance to marry a real woman, but had made a mistake.

TREND OF POLITICAL ACTION AND THOUGHT

By The Sentry on His Beat

Campaign headquarters have been opened by Boyle Workman, candidate for the City Council, at 511 Hollingsworth Building, and his campaign committee, of which C. C. C. Tatum is chairman, Hubert L. Eaton secretary and W. A. Bonynge treasurer, is active working for a large vote for Mr. Workman at the May 1 primaries. The Workman-for-Council campaign committee is a strong one and includes:

Youngworth.

A native of Los Angeles, son of former Mayor "Billy" Workman, long an employee of the City Treasurer's office, former member of the Board of Public Service Commissioners, and president of the City Council of 1919-1921, Boyle Workman has worked unceasingly for the public good, the upbuilding of his city and for the protection of the taxpayers. A strong believer in municipal ownership, Mr. Workman, as president of the City Council, insisted that the city-owned enterprises could be built up only by the Public Service Commission's keeping faith with the taxpayers and paying the interest and sinking-fund charges on the water and power bonds out of water and power revenues, instead of compelling the taxpayers to pay these charges. Mr. Workman was successful in securing agreements from the Public Service Commission, which has resulted in the payments of these bond charges from department revenues, thus reducing the burden on the taxpayers.

Indorsement of Mayor Cryer for re-election came yesterday from the Young Voter's Republican League along with the announcement that the organization has launched a campaign furthering their chosen candidates which will reach more than 10,000 voters.

The indorsement of Mayor Cryer for the office was voted by the executive committee unanimously. The committee made a careful investigation of the records of every man in the race for the Mayor's chair and chose the incumbent.

The Young Voter's Republican League of the Tenth Congressional District will exert a wide influence in favor of Mayor Cryer, Raymond L. Haight, president of the organization said in connection with the announcement of the stand the league has taken. Mayor Cryer has also been indorsed by the Spanish War Veterans and the Municipal League.

To secure a large "Yes" vote at the May 1 primaries for propositions Nos. 2, 3 and 4, providing adequate salaries for the Mayor, City Attorney, and City Auditor, an "Adequate Salaries Committee" of leading citizens has been organized with W. W. Mines as chairman for the sole purpose of working for victory for these three propositions. The committee is taking no part in contests over the other four propositions on the May 1 ballot.

The articles in The Times showing the attempts of the radicals to secure control of the Los Angeles school system are attracting wide attention among the voters and are expected to be a powerful factor in securing a large vote at the May 1 primaries for the Citizens' School Committee ticket, each of the seven candidates on that ticket standing for keeping the schools of the city clear of all propaganda and strictly American. The Citizens' School Committee ticket is as follows: Robert A. Odell, Irwin J. Muma, John B. Beman, Mrs. George (Elizabeth Louise) Clark, Mrs. Norman (Lucia) Macbeth, Frederick R. Feitshans, and Frank O. Bristol.

The United Church Brotherhood has indorsed for the City Council, Councilmen Allan, Criswell, Sanborn and Mallard and C. J. Colden, J. W. Clegg, I. F. Hughes, Greely Koltz, and T. M. Coughlin.

George T. Jeffers, candidate for the City Council, is 35 years old, has lived most of his life in Los Angeles, spent twelve years in the county service and has been secretary to three Los Angeles chiefs of police. He lives at 961 West Forty-second place.

Fred Frank, whose is a candidate for the City Council, at the May 1 primaries, has announced his campaign committee which includes Frank P. Flint, Clare Woolwine, Louis M. Cole, Ida R. Koverman, Mrs. Berthold Baruch, Clara Shortridge Foltz, Louis G. Guernsey, Joseph L. Pedrotti, Seth R. Brown, E. R. Werdin, Judge John W. Summerfield, Judge W. S. Baird, Dr. Lloyd R. Mace, Leo D. Daze, Ernest M. Torchia, and many others. C. E. McDowell, Los Angeles attorney, who commanded Battery F., One Hundred and Forty-third Field Artillery, during the World War, in which battery Mr. Frank served overseas, has issued a strong indorsement of Mr. Frank for the Council.

HOW FARMERS FIGHT RODENTS

Farm Section Today Has Story About Drive on Squirrels

Telling how the Federal and State governments cooperate with the county authorities and the farmers in combating rodent enemies, today's Farm and Tractor Section contains a story of a recent squirrel drive in Antelope Valley, which was conducted by 175 men and horses, and covered a territory of approximately 300 square miles.

The article is illustrated by photographs taken during the drive by one of the Farm and Tractor staff members, together with a map showing the district covered. This is one of the many interesting features of today's big farm department.

EMERGENCY MEDICAL UNIT PLANS OUTLINED

RESERVE OFFICER ADDRESSES U.S.C. STUDENTS WHO MAY ENROLL

Lieut. C. H. Castle of the Medical Department of the United States Naval Reserve spoke to students at the University of Southern California during the week, and presented to them the outline of plans of the Naval Reserve for establishing an emergency medical unit at U.S.C.

On the establishment of such a unit a series of lectures will be given on first aid, minor surgery, operating-room technique and nursing, and will be presided over by various naval doctors. The unit will probably be established this month.

The course is planned particularly for premedic students, although others will be admitted.

OAKLAND - California
where prosperity beckons ambitious people

BACKED by hills which shelter pleasant canyons, fronting the blue sweep of San Francisco Bay and the Golden Gate, Oakland beckons to you. Its invigorating climate and the charm of its physical features alike call Oaklanders to health-giving recreation and play out of doors.

Industry—Commerce—Trade—Creators of Opportunity

Not only in the opportunity for play has Oakland been favored.

In addition to 593 established industrial plants, 68 new industries located in Oakland in 1922. These new plants, in which approximately $6,000,000 is invested, will employ about 2,500 workers and have created opportunities in practically every line of business. Both men and women will find opportunities in Oakland, a city blessed with what Charles M. Schwab has termed "the most perfect working climate in the United States."

Constant improvement of the Oakland harbor, the construction of more modern docks, and the development of shipping interests are bringing to this city an increasing share of the tonnage which passes both in and out of the Golden Gate.

Backed by the fertile lands of The Great Valley and served also by smaller, highly productive valleys, Oakland does a great business in fresh, preserved and canned foods.

Answer Opportunity's Call

In this fastest growing industrial city of the Pacific Coast, are opportunities! They call to the ambitious—leaders who have initiative, energy, foresight.

RUTH, THE FAITHFUL DAUGHTER

RUTH, THE FAITHFUL DAUGHTER—TEXT OF TODAY'S TALK BY MR. BRYAN

This is the Sunday-school Lesson for Next Sunday, April 29

(Ruth, I. 14-22)

And they lifted up their voice, and wept again; and Orpah kissed her mother-in-law; but Ruth clave unto her.

And she said, Behold, thy sister-in-law is gone back unto her people, and unto her gods; return thou after thy sister-in-law.

And Ruth said, Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God.

Where thou diest, I will die, and there will I be buried; the Lord do so to me, and more also, if aught but death part thee and me.

When she saw that she was steadfastly minded to go with her, then she left speaking unto her.

So they two went until they came to Beth-lehem. And it came to pass, when they were come to Beth-lehem, that all the city was moved about them, and they said, Is this Naomi?

And she said unto them, Call me not Naomi, call me Mara: for the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me.

I went out full, and the Lord hath brought me home again empty; why then call ye me Naomi, seeing the Lord hath testified against me, and the Almighty hath afflicted me?

So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabitess, her daughter-in-law, with her, which returned out of the country of Moab; and they came to Beth-lehem in the beginning of the barley harvest.

In our study of the lives of Old-Testament characters we come today to Ruth, the faithful daughter, and the lesson will be considered under four heads.

First, the beauty of Bible literature.

If the word of God were a man-made book, claiming neither inspiration nor divine authority, it would still be the greatest of books. No other publication or compilation approaches it in breadth or depth or height, or simplicity, or clearness, or strength or elegance.

It deals with but two subjects, God and man, and considers man in but two aspects, viz. in his relation to God and in his relation to his fellows; and yet, there is woven into the story of man all that is necessary to life, happiness and service.

The Bible begins with the creation of the world and ends with eternal life. It gives us the most perfect expressions of joy and of sorrow, of exaltation and despair. It draws pen pictures of love, devotion and duty—of hatred, revenge and sin of every kind.

SUPERLATIVE ILLUSTRATIONS

Whatever it deals with it leaves nothing to be added.

If it turns the light upon faith, it gives us the superlative illustration of it—"Though He slay me, yet will I trust Him."

If it condemns ingratitude, it sounds forth a rebuke—"but where are the nine?" which has echoed through 1900 years.

When it measures the priceless value of the immortal part of us it weighs all other things in the balance against it and asks, "What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

It warns against pride "riding for a fall" and exalts repentance rewarded with forgiveness.

In the Psalms we have prayer and praise, thanksgiving and imprecation, agonizing suffering and the songs of victory.

One can find in this one book every mood and passion reflected in language of surpassing appropriateness—the blessedness of righteousness in the first, the comfort of trustfulness in the twenty-third, and the courage and confidence that come with faith in nearly every chapter.

A STORY OF WISDOM

In Proverbs we find a store of wisdom, expressed in epigram, that furnishes warning signs for every dangerous point on life's journey from the cradle to the grave.

No young man can go wrong if he will read and obey the words of Solomon. To his negative virtues, strengthened by Proverbs, he can add all affirmative excellence if he will but build his life on the Sermon on the Mount.

The story of Ruth is told in language that would immortalize any author—even more, a reputation could be built on the two verses which contain Ruth's pledge of love and loyalty to her mother-in-law.

Where has love between Women been so tenderly expressed? Where has assurance of fidelity found language more fitting?

Second: But the beauty and eloquence of the words are less important than the virtue which they embody. The rhetoric is perfect, but the substance is vastly more important than the form.

RUTH'S IMMORTAL WORDS

Naomi and her husband, Jew and Jewess, were driven by famine from Judah into the land of Moab. Their sons, Mahlon and Chilion, married two heathen women, Orpah and Ruth. As the years went by death entered the home of Naomi and carried away her husband and both of her sons.

The widow thought to solve in a very natural way the problem forced upon her; she would go back to her own people to pass her remaining days and leave her young daughters-in-law to make new alliances among their people. When she communicated her plan to Orpah and Ruth, both protested and expressed a very earnest wish to return with her.

When Naomi, sacrificing her own happiness for what she believed to be the best interests of the daughters-in-law, insisted that they should stay in their own land, Orpah reluctantly consented and kissed her goodbye, "but Ruth clave unto her."

Again Naomi urged her to follow her sister's example. To this Ruth replied in the wonderful plea, "Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee." There is dramatic power in each word. "For whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge." The emphasis increases as her purpose unfolds. "Thy people shall be my people." And then follows the climax that meant so much in the years that followed—"and thy God my God."

The attitude of Orpah and Ruth is a splendid compliment to this mother-in-law.

Many families have been disrupted by antagonism between the members of the family united by ties of blood and those brought into the family by marriage. The mother-in-law joke of today is grievously overdone, although there is friction enough to furnish a basis for it, a fact to which many can bear painful witness.

The confidence and affection existing between Naomi and the wives of her sons would indicate that her mother-in-law was broad enough to include the wives as well as the sons, and there seemed to be an absence of jealousy on the part of the wives as well as upon the part of the mother.

It was a happy family, that might well serve as a model at the present time.

All three of these women deserve praise, but in the darkness of this hour of bereavement Ruth shines out as a star of exceeding brilliancy. Orpah turns back and is lost among her kindred; Naomi lingers a little while upon the stage and then retires into obscurity, while Ruth becomes the central figure in the developments that follow.

WOMAN'S NATURAL LONGING

"The hour and the man met" writes the historian—he has written this very often. But "the woman and the hour" also meet—they are meeting more and more—and the same characteristics that make the meeting momentous in the case of men make it momentous also in the case of women.

Third: It is not necessary to follow the story in detail; Ruth sought a husband and found him. Her plans were modest and effective. The heart of Boaz was won by her beauty and by her industry, and it was a generous heart, as proven by the orders that he gave to the reapers when he found Ruth gleaning in the field.

Who shall deny to woman the right to realize the hope that nestles in every normal heart? Marriage is the natural state, a fact conclusively proven by the necessity for it. That without which the race would die must be counted as the normal thing.

Circumstances may suspend the law or consecration to some important task may justify an exception, but marriage is the rule that God has written upon our natures.

Ruth heard the call of the home and responded to it with all her heart, just as men and women have responded before and since her time. The opening of new avenues to women does not close the road of maternity; motherhood must remain the crowning glory of woman, just as man's largest work must continue to be at the fireside.

The fourth lesson is the most important of the group.

When Ruth solved her problem by choosing the companionship of Naomi, identification with Naomi's people and the worship of Naomi's God, she had no idea of the high destiny that that decision ushered in.

Her heart had linked itself to the heart of her husband's mother and she chose to unite herself with the people of her mother-in-law, but she could not look into the future and see how this decision would make her the wife of Boaz—neither did she dream of having as her great grandson the Psalmist, David.

"Despite not the day of small things" is an old adage and it is based upon a great truth. Small things often become the great things. We cannot look very far into the future—"Lead, kindly Light, One step is enough for me" embodies a very wholesome and practical philosophy.

Tolstoy says that God has not given us the power to forsee the results that follow from a single human act, but that He does give us the light to determine where and how to take the next step; that is sufficient.

The Russian philosopher goes farther and declares that most of our failures come from an attempt to decide whether in this particular case—not as a rule, but just in this one case—it may not be better to do wrong than to do right.

We must have "faith in the wisdom of doing right"—we must do right and leave the consequences with God.

IMPORTANCE OF DECISIONS

We have seen how Moses, timid and distrusting his own ability, undertook the task entrusted to him and, speaking the words that God bade him speak and doing the things that God told him to do, liberated a people from bondage—receiving strength for each new step that he was called upon to take. The decision meant everything to him and to his people.

We have seen Joseph following his conscience into the dungeon, and through the dungeon to a position next to Pharaoh.

In innumerable cases in Holy Writ and in daily life we see seemingly trivial decisions become the turning points in the lives and little circumstances shaping destinies. A multitude of seemingly little things made up the chain of events that linked Ruth to the throne of Israel.

A famine drove Elimelech from his home into a heathen land; one of his sons became the husband of Ruth; then the death of husband and sons led Naomi to return. This brought a crisis into the life of her daughter-in-law and she decided to return to her home and Ruth decided to return with her.

Then follows the gleaning in the field, the meeting of Boaz, the marriage, the birth of Obed, and circumstance after circumstance until her blood was coursing through the veins of Israel's greatest king.

If any link had been missing the chain would have been broken, but somehow no link is missing when any great character is needed or any great deed is to be done.

There is but one Naomi, but one Ruth, and one David; but every human life is like the life of Ruth in miniature—full of decisions, the importance of which no one can understand at the time, but decisions upon which lives turn and by which history is written.

We cannot hope to contribute to literature a sentence as exquisite and so thrilling as that into which Ruth poured the full measure of a noble heart, but we can imitate her in devotion—the brightest jewel in her crown.

She risked all when she made her choice—separation from her sister, her people, and the gods

NOTED WOMEN'S MATES DEFINED

Writer Says They're Not Only Somebody's Husband

Men Found to Be Proud of Famed Wives

Interviews Prove They Are "Real Fellows," Too

where, physically and mentally, that she is able to boss the Woman's City Club so successfully today.

Of course, he was a good "suffragette"—and stood by the cause when it meant ridicule. And, of course, being a bright woman, she knows her luck. A man's man in a man's trade is Mr. Cunningham. And his wife can talk just as enthusiastically about him as she can about any palpitating activities of her club.

Or there is Grantland Seaton Long, whose wife is president of Ebell Club. A southern gentleman from Georgia, reared on an old plantation, in a romantic old colonial home. And at 16 he joined the Confederate Army — the Georgia Cadets—and after the war, and the death of his parents, he sold the estate and came to California. That was in 1871.

KNOWS CALIFORNIA

He knows his California, camped among the Indians, went in for sheep ranching, once drove 10,000 sheep from Los Angeles to Colorado, himself—1800 miles—and lost only twelve sheep. His associates were Bixby, Lankershim, Van Nuys, all sheep men in those days, and later the founders of cities. And it was on a cattle-business trip to Texas that he met and married Miss Pearl Baker, just returned from New York, and bubbling on the edge of a career.

After a few years in New York, Boston and San Francisco, he brought the little lady here, who is still his bride and he still her lover—even if she is the distinguished president of our most exclusive club, boasting about 2000 members.

George Goldsmith is the gentleman who owns Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith, who gave up a stage career to marry a "merchant tailor," her "merchant prince," as she often declares. But Mr. Goldsmith is more than a merchant tailor, for he is Past Exalted Ruler of the Elks' Club here, and during his term held fearful power over that club of which his wife is president. For the Philanthropy and Civics Club meets at the Elks' clubhouse by favor of this masculine organization and it behooved his wife to keep very much in the good graces of the Exalted Ruler during his reign.

And, as most people are happily aware, the gentleman who owns Mrs. Charles H. Toll, newly elected district president, and past president of the Ebell Club, is a prominent banker, vice-president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank. And his wife is the first to admit that his large-minded generosity has made her gracious career possible. No one is prouder of his charming wife's achievements than Charles H. Toll. And Mr. Toll wears whiskers, highly becoming whiskers, very masculine whiskers, for whose preservation Mrs. Toll declines to reduce. That is because Mr. Toll admires his wife just as she is and has threatened to shave off those whiskers if she ever grows thin. Nothing would induce Mrs. Toll to wax thin now.

George Leslie Smith has proved himself not only a devoted, but a highly adaptable husband. He says he is proud to be known as "the husband of Mrs. Caroline Smith," she being the lady who enjoys the unique distinction of being the responsible manager for the Philharmonic Orchestra.

EATS AT ATHLETIC CLUB

Mr. Smith is plump, wears tortoise-shell glasses, plays golf and tennis and usually seeks nourishment at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. He was an expert on concrete construction with Arthur Bent for years, but when his wife became confidential secretary to W. A. Clark, Jr., he automatically succumbed to the calls of her career. He is now manager of the Philharmonic Auditorium and appears blissfully happy.

Then there is J. B. Millard, whose wife is president of that millionairy Beverly Hills Woman's Club and also active at Ebell. He has been connected with the Los Angeles public schools for thirty years where he has served on the County Board of Education and as Superintendent of City Schools, and has been the principal of Virgil High School for the past twelve years.

R. D. Shepherd, whose wife is now the head of the Assistance League, that organization which performs charity via the best exclusive society circles, was known as R. D. McClain when he acted in great Shakespearean roles and was leading man with Modjeska for many years. He inherited wealth—otherwise he might well have been our leading Shakespearean actor today.

Dr. J. J. Carter, the proud possessor of that attractive Mrs. J. J. Carter who is particularly known as the godmother of the Hollywood Bowl, and shines at the Hollywood Woman's Club, is a leading physician, whose offices are an example of rich and artistic luxury, and who actually keeps the best up-to-date magazines in his waiting room. Waiting for Dr. Carter to inspect one's innards, therefore, becomes a pleasant and informative recreation. And he is very proud of his clever wife and bears up handsomely under those maladroit introductions.

Joseph Cartori is a banking magnate in his own right, held in awe and respect throughout the country, often presides at national banking conventions and generally enjoys quite a considerable prestige besides being the husband of Mrs. Joseph Sartori, distinguished past president of the Friday Morning Club and prominent in all women's interests. Almost the worst thing anyone can say about Mr. tenl.geumy-Eumeand la Sartori is that his golf is highly inferior. But everywhere else he is a personage of power.

NAME'S IN WHO'S WHO

And last but by no means least comes Dr. Andrew Stewart Lobingier, who occupies several inches in Who's Who, who stands as one of our leading physicians and surgeons, who is ever held as our best example of Chesterfieldian grace and deportment, who is a clever raconteur, a highly well read person, socially incomparable, and claims Mrs. A. S. Lobingier, thrice president of the Friday Morning Club, now glamorful as the "building president" who will enshrine the club in a new $500,000 home and one of the most intellectual and best read women in our midst, for wife.

Of course, you understand there are lots of other distinguished husbands, but some of them proved to be unaccountably shy and retiring when I yearned to shout their fame. As one note received from an anguished wife bears witness "I have a perfectly good husband, but the imagination of man cannot encompass what might happen if he were to find himself written up as the husband of a clubwoman. Desist I implore you."

Well, I have desisted in his case and some few others. But they are old-fashioned dears who really ought not to be humored. However, as I have one at home who suffers from the same complex, I decided to be merciful. Besides, mine doesn't consider me prominent enough to get him included in any such hall of fame at present. I shall have to wait until I am in Mary Roberts Rinehart's class before he will consider me worthy to elevate him. In the meantime he usually reads Mary, but rarely feels called upon to read me. Perhaps th other shy husbands feel that way about it too. Which, of course, is another story.

The Sun Drug Co.

Stores in Los Angeles, San Diego, Pasadena, Long Beach, Hollywood and San Francisco.

A Southern Californ

Hidden Values

From outward appearances many commodities sold in a drug store look alike whether they are full strength, containing a high degree of potency, or whether they are practically inert and valueless.

For instance, Cascara Bark looks the same whether it be one month, one year or several years old, yet this drug should not be sold, or dispensed in any form, until it is at least two years old—age increases its therapeutic value.

There are fluid extracts of Cascara that contain only 240 grains of the drug to the ounce, and others that contain 450 grains to the ounce—they look alike, but the "hidden values" vary a great deal.

Our most important work in The Sun Drug Stores is protecting our customers in the "hidden values" of the thousands of drugs and medicines we sell.

That's what makes Sun Drug Stores SAFE.

Why "Sun" Soda is best

—Only the highest quality ice cream, crushed fruits, flavoring syrups, fresh cream and milk and cold, fizzing soda used in Sun sodas.

—The fountains are clean and sanitary, and the dispensers who serve Sun sodas know their work.

—There is a Sun Fountain near you when you're down town.

JERGENS LOTION
JOHN H. WOODBURY'S FACIAL SOAP

Two aristocrats for the complexion

—both made by Andrews Jergens

Woodbury's Soap 23c—

—Nationally favored by men and women of refinement. It's more than a cleanser—it's a natural beautifier.

Jergen's Lotion, 43c.—

—Contains the benzoin and milk of almonds that whiten, soothe and protect the skin. Also acts as an astringent.

—The Ideal lotion for Spring use.

Christopher's Candies in lb. boxes

—Famous for over thirty years because of their wholesomeness and quality—priced in the "Sun's" fair way:

Chocolate Mints..........49c
Chocolate Caramels..........49c
Chocolate Marshmallows......47c

Strawberries in cream.........59c

The Improved Star Vibrator, $5

—To soothe the nerves, to overcome insomnia, to relieve rheumatism, and neuritis, to bring the bloom of youth to a sallow skin, this form of massage proves a really wonderful help.

"Sodasil"
(Also known as Water Glass)
Preserves Eggs

—A quart of Sodasil, added to nine quarts of water, will cover 16 dozen eggs.

—And 16 dozen eggs, at present prices, will cost you about $5.

—The quart of Sodasil costs 35c.

—That is, say, $5.35.

—A few months later, when eggs sell at 65c or more, you can safely figure that you have saved $5 or more.

—Pint, 20c; quart, 35c; gallon, 75c

ZONE LAW APPROVED

Mayor Signs Ordinance Providing Parking Places for Loading

Mayor Cryer yesterday signed the ordinance establishing the number of thirty-foot loading zones in the downtown congested district to two on each side of each north and south city block and one on each side of each east and west city block.

The Police Department will designate the placing of these zones, which will be shown by bright red painted spaces on the curbs. At these commercial vehicles may stand fifteen minutes and passenger vehicles one minute. The purpose of the loading zones is to eliminate the second line parking of commercial vehicles made necessary by the lack of space at the curbs.

ressman Mondell Says Time Come for Land Owners to Administer Projects

BY HON. F. W. MONDELL,
Director War Finance Corporation

[illegible] has now arrived when there should be a general [illegible] conditions on the government reclamation projects, [illegible] in a manner which will enable the industrious [illegible] settler to meet his obligations at all times, [illegible] the government reclamation enterprises on a basis [illegible] prosperity.

Furthermore, while a long extension of the period of construction repayments might be of assistance to those who now find it particularly difficult to meet their present obligations, this would, in the long run, retard, and even prevent the establishment of permanently favorable conditions on the projects. Such arrangements would not create the essential conditions under which the industrious, thrifty settler would find the opportunity to work out his financial salvation. It would neither be good policy from the government standpoint nor a real kindness to the present land owner to create a condition which would encourage him to capitalize these benefits by increasing the prices of his lands, and thus prevent bringing in new settlers.

MISTAKES INEVITABLE

As a basis of any readjustment there should be a writing off of some of the liabilities which are clearly not collectible. It was inevitable, in this enterprise, which was the first of its kind undertaken by the government, that mistakes should occur. Fortunately, the losses are relatively small. On most of the projects the entire expenditure was justified, and can and should be repaid. Certain areas on a few projects should be eliminated because of unfavorable conditions of soil and topography; or perhaps a reduction in construction charges is advisable to conform with the present values of the reclaimed lands.

A plan should then be worked out which can be depended upon to create conditions under which land owners can pay out. If there are those who believe that the reclamation fund should not have returned to it the money which was expended in this development, such people should be brought to realize that this is not the view of the majority of their neighbors, who have in good faith, co-operated in the effort of the Federal government to aid them in securing a home.

It should also be remembered that the theory of the Federal reclamation policy was the creation of a real home on an area sufficient for the support of a family. The reclamation policy of the government did not contemplate tenantry and absentee "landlordism." Any revision of present plans should have in mind wholly the owner of a farm unit who intends to live upon and cultivate his land.

DEFERMENT NOT WISE

The plan should not, in the majority of cases at least, provide for any considerable suspension of payments. Experience has demonstrated that such a plan would not be wise nor in the long run generally helpful. I doubt that a uniform period of construction payments applicable to all projects would be wise. It would seem more equitable to fix the payments on the basis of the construction costs and the average productivity. It has been suggested that if there is to be any considerable extension Congress would be justified in placing an interest charge on the unpaid balance after a given period, and also that readjustments and reductions might be made with the provision that at least one-half of the construction cost must be paid within a given period, after which the remaining indebtedness should be taken over by the Federal Land Banks and carried as other farm loans are carried, thus getting the Reclamation Service out of the collection business.

In connection with any readjustment it would be most helpful if the settlers would create organizations under which they could take over the control of the projects. It is an unhealthy symptom to have American citizens dependent on government agencies rather than on themselves.

Much might be said about the improvement in farming methods which individuals and organizations on the projects might properly undertake. As a director of the War Finance Corporation my attention has been challenged by some splendid results which have been secured through diversified farming, including dairying, under reclamation. After all, the success of these projects, as elsewhere, depends on the adoption of the best possible methods and upon individual economy and industry as much as or more than it does upon the methods which the government shall pursue in the matter of repayments.

SONS OF REVOLUTION PLAN CELEBRATION

Elaborate preparations are being made by the State Society, Sons of the Revolution, to celebrate the organization's thirteenth anniversary on May 15. A diversified program is being arranged.

Members of the organization are centering their efforts on bringing the membership to 1000 before the date of the event. Thirty-three members are needed to reach the goal. So far the State Society has admitted seventy-five members during this year and is ahead of all other similar societies in membership growth during this year.

—Submitted by L. B. Benson, 1124 Marion ave., Los Angeles.

Averaged over twelve months, TIMES want ads are equivalent to between 5 and 6 separate advertisements for every family in Southern California. While New York, Chicago and Philadelphia exceed Los Angeles in population, no newspaper in these or any other city equals the LOS ANGELES TIMES in volume or number of want ads.

THE TIMES has been a pioneer in developing classified advertising. It has originated methods, devised new ways of usefulness, and made the service an INDISPENSABLE NECESSITY.

Still setting the pace, THE TIMES not only retains world leadership but regularly every month overshadows its own wonderful past records.

PROCEDURE IN REVERSE

Congressmen Find Bucking the Pass Not So Easy as Passing the Buck

BY LOGAN E. RUGGLES
U.S.S. Mississippi

In all our days of salloring, and that has been a great many, we have looked forward to the day when some of our lawmakers would be slammed in the brig, if for no other reason than to give 'em an inkling of what thirty days—more or less—means to the sailorman. We were about to give it up; we were about to cast our desire to Davy Jones's Locker; we were about to quit the thought of the time when some official would be shuffled off to the hoosegow!

But "everything comes to him who waits," provided he waits long enough. And that "everything" came one night in Panama when we were tripping the light fantastic in a cabaret.

During the fleet maneuvers, operations and simulated war conditions off Panama, and also the sinking of the ex-Iowa by the Mississippi, many of the Representatives and Senators were assigned to the ships named in honor of their native States. The lawmakers were guests of Secretary Denby on the Henderson, but when the ships went out for tactical exercises the distinguished guests took their places on board. The Lone Star men were assigned to the Texas, and the Empire State men to the New York. None of the Iowans, however, were assigned to the ex-Iowa.

Following the above plan, Representatives Petersen and Rossedale of New York, were assigned, along with others from their State, to the New York. And while their assignment was considered as anything but official, some of the lawmakers donned the regulation uniforms, had their meals with the crew, swabbed decks, were given jobs as "scullery maids," and some were appointed coxswains of the spud-peeling machines. In this Representatives Petersen and Rossedale took very active part, but when they went ashore with the regular liberty party and remained until after 6 o'clock—the time when all enlisted men had to be on the dock—they found that salloring (overtime) on the beach was not as pleasant as many would imagine.

The deluge came when the two impromptu gobs settled themselves in a thirst emporium where cabaret flappers flitted and flapped. One of the gentlemen was shaking a mean hoof with one of the elite when in walked two officers of the shore patrol. They were backed by a hive of willing gobs, who, as the Secretary of the Navy later said, were simply carrying out their orders—that no man without a pass would be allowed to remain on the beach after sundown.

"Where's your pass?" demanded the lieutenant.

"My partner has it," came the reply.

The other gob came back from the terpsichorean act and seated himself at the table where several of the funmakers were having an orange crush.

"Have you got his pass?" said the lieutenant in a gruff voice.

Mr. Petersen fumbled in the gob pockets, and as he fumbled he got red in the face and his voice quivered slightly at the sight of so many patrolmen about, as he returned: "No, we left 'em on the ship—the steamship New York."

"Well," returned the officer, "you are ashore without passes and besides you're out of uniform—neither of you have on watch marks."

"You say you're on the New York," chimed in one of the gobs. "What do you do?"

"I work in the scullery," said Rossedale "and he works with the engineers."

By the time the "gobs" were ushered to the sidewalk, the "wagon" backed up and preparations made to carry out the threat of locking them up. One of the officials said: "Why you can't arrest me; I'm Congressman Whosis from New York.

"And I'm Seaman Whatsis from the Tennessee," chirped one of the gobs with belt and night-stick.

The patrol wagon started out for the station and upon arrival there the prisoners advanced and told the desk officer that they were being unduly arrested and that they were both Congressmen from New York.

"That might be true," said the officer, "but you're out of uniform, you're overtime from your ship and besides it is not every day that I have a chance to put a Congressman in jail.

The prisoners were given a chance to prove their identity. They were taken to patrol headquarters at the Panama railroad station. Here some one recognized them and they were allowed to continue on their jolly liberty—with passes duly signed.

"While we did not expect to get by very long," said Representative Rossedale, "We had wagered with some of our 'mess mates' that we would stick it out quite a while."

When the arrest was reported to the Secretary of the Navy, he laughed and said: "Well that shows the efficiency of the Navy police patrol. No man, no matter who he is, can get by without a pass and without proper uniform; these boys should have known better."

On board the New York some facts were revealed as to what regular experiences the law-making gobs met with. They were assigned to crews' messes and given jobs with different divisions. In this category some negative results were recorded, especially when the assignments to messes were being made. One yeoman asked the master-at-arms if they objected to some politicians being messed with them. One tough old sailor said: "Yes; there's too many politicians on this mess already."

The Henderson sailed on March 26 for Washington via Port au Prince, Haiti, and other ports.

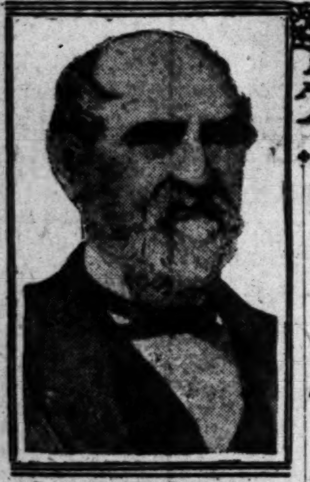
EARLY JUDGES OF CALIFORNIA

First Los Angeles Jurists Recalled

Days When County Cast 377 Votes in All

Pictures of Old-Time Bench Resurrected

Not long after what is now officially the ninth city of the United States had ceased to be known as the "Pueblo de Nuestra Senora la Reina de los Angeles" and had started to follow the star of its American destiny, the new regime was marked by the election of county and district judges.



Judge O. S. Witherby First District Judge

Agustin Olvera was the first county judge of Los Angeles and O. S. Witherby was the first judge of the First Judicial District of the State, comprisong the counties of Los Angeles and San Diego, later divided to include San Bernardino, Riverside, Imperial and Orange counties.

Two interesting pictures of these first judicial officers are shown herewith. The picture of Don Olvera was obtained from Charles J. Prudhomme, who has a famous collection of relics, and the picture of Judge Witherby was taken from a book owned by Grant Jackson, former Superior Court judge, who has an extensive library of California.

DON OLVERA'S HONORS

Don Olvera was chosen at the first county election in Los Angeles, held on April 1, 1850, at which a total of 377 votes were cast. The new judge was widely known in California and Mexico, having been secretary and member of the Assembly under Governors Pico and Flores, and was one of the commissioners who in 1847 signed the Treaty of Cahuenga. His wife was Concepcion Arguello, a beauty of the period. Don Olvera was county judge from 1850 to 1853. In 1855 he was elected a member of the Board of Supervisors, and the following year he was chosen as a presidential elector. He died in 1874.

Judge Witherby was an Ohio lawyer who came to San Diego with the Boundary Commission in 1894. He was elected to represent the southern county at the first Assembly of the new State, held in Monterey in 1950, later chosen as the first judge of the southern district, holding office for three years, and afterward becoming Collector of Customs for the port of San Diego.

FIRST COURT SESSION

The record of the first session of the Los Angeles County Court, at which Judge Olvera presided, is not available, but a complete transcript of the first session of the District Court is in the possession of Judge Jackson. It was held on June 5, 1850, when William C. Farrell, A. H. Clark, Jonathan R. Scott and Benjamin Hayes were admitted to practice law in the First Judicial District.

On October 3, 1850, the first grand jury was impaneled. In the minutes of the proceedings of the first session, many interesting cases are listed, among them the manumission of a slave.

GARDENERS MAY STUDY IN COLLEGE

State University Summer Session Offers Variety of Courses on Soil

Amateur gardeners, through the State university summer session courses to be offered this coming season, will have ample opportunity to study the devious methods of planning and producing a garden that will be a real joy. They may study raising of vegetables and achieve knowledge of the habits of "boll-weevils" and "ant-cows" and methods of suppressing their destructive activities among plants, flowers and trees.

The amateur will have a choice of study courses in landscape gardening, while pomology and animal husbandry courses are also to be scheduled.

The courses to be offered under the head of agricultural education will be adapted to prospective and actual teachers of agriculture and horticulture, and also to the home lover who merely wants to make his garden more attractive.

Additional courses will include rural problems and social and educational surveys. The staff of instructors will include Prof. Frank Albert Waugh, professor of landscape gardening and head of the division of horticulture in the Massachusetts Agriculture College; Prof. Charles Joseph Galpin, economist in charge of Farm Population and Rural Life, United States Department of Agriculture, and Prof. Paul J. Kruse, Ph.D., professor of rural education, New York State College of Agriculture, Cornell University.

Bulletins for the session are now available at 815 Junior Orpheum building, Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone 822-401.

M'ADOO BUSSES BLUNDERBUSSES

"Duck Your Head!" a Likely Juggernaut Slogan

Demonstrations Prove Cars Are "Road Hogs"

Operation Downtown Would Jam Traffic

"Duck your head," will become as familiar a slogan in Los Angeles as "please move forward in the car," if the two-story busses of the McAdoo-Hellman project operate in Los Angeles, according to observations made on an eventful test ride aboard the publicity juggernaut.

While crossing the East Fourth street-bride on a demonstration trip, the bus conductor dashed aloft to the hurricane deck and warned passengers "look out up there!" and pointed to the overhead bridge work. The conductor said there is thirty inches clearance between the rail of the hurricane deck and the bridge cross-pieces, which is rather ominous for a person of average height but is, of course, satisfactory to the school children who would have to pay 10 cents for a ride instead of 2½ cents fare given school children on the street cars.

Despite the printed statements of the McAdoo interests that the busses will not operate in the downtown district, although the bus company is making an effort to repeal the ordinance prohibiting busses in the downtown district, the publicity craft has been making some very strenuous trips through the downtown district.

TO CROWD OUT AUTOS

Incidentally the printed statements of the bus company that it does not propose downtown operation has a remarkable opposite in statements made by W. G. McAdoo in public speeches. He told members of the Friday Morning Club "when the motor busses start down Broadway and Seventh street, they will crowd out the many automobiles that park in the downtown district." Speaking before the Municipal League, Mr. McAdoo said that efforts were being made to amend the jitney ordinance so that "you may enter with busses into the congested districts of the city."

An incident in one of the downtown trips indicates that Mr. McAdoo may have had a very pertenent thought when he said the operation of busses down Seventh street and Broadway would force out vehicles which, at present, park in the downtown streets. At Sixth and Spring streets, an automobile was standing against the curb just beyond the sign which reads, "vehicles must not park between this post and the corner," as is commonly done by delivery autos. There was not room for the bulky bus to pass between this standing machine and the safety zone stanchion put in place by a police traffic officer, so the conductor of the craft had to move the stanchion to let the bus pass through the intersection.

TAKES EVERYBODY'S TIME

The bus takes its own time and everybody else's in loading and unloading passengers. The entrance door to the lower deck of the bus is not wide enough for two people to pass. The stairs to the second floor permit only one-way traffic and two ordinary-size passengers cannot pass between the stairway and the door of the bus, so that the vehicle cannot load and unload passengers at the same time.

The demonstration trips have demonstrated very conclusively that the busses would have difficulty in finding a place to take on and discharge passengers on such streets as Seventh and Broadway, where Mr. McAdoo says they will do such effective work in crowding out the automobiles which now park against the curb. They cannot stop on the near side of the street and pull to the curb without violating the city ordinance, which is intended to keep that space clear. If the ordinance is violated to make these stops, other traffic will be blocked by the bulky busses. Under present traffic conditions there is not one chance in 100 that the bus would find a convenient parking space on the far side of the street, as almost every inch of available space is occupied throughout business hours.

The same situation prevails on Seventh street, usually as far west as Alvarado, on Los Angeles street and on other arteries where the busses would like to run.

On one of the "duck your head" trips to Boyle Heights, the bus several times drew up to the curb where passengers were waiting for street cars and invited them to ride free, in the great outdoors of the second story, as the vehicle breasted the breakers and waves of streets where the pavement is none too good.

The demonstration trips give the indication that the rollicking bus might be used for Navy recruiting, but as a transportation unit it is a long way from home.

NOTABLES BACK RIVER PACT

Nation's Most Prominent Statesmen Will Attend Confab on Treaty at Santa Barbara

Interest in the League of the Southwest conference in Santa Barbara, June 7, 8 and 9 was quickened today with the announcement that a score of the nation's most prominent men have signified their intentions of attending the meeting to solve the Colorado River problem and the Indian situation.

More than 4000 organizations have been asked to send delegates to the conference and several hundred have already notified the league headquarters that they will be represented.

Faced by the imperative demand for flood protection in the Imperial Valley and in many districts of Arizona, it is asserted by the league that thousands of people in the Southwest are hailing the conference as the only immediate solution.

With the failure of the Arizona Legislature to ratify the Colorado River compact formulated by the commission in response to a resolution passed by the League of the Southwest in Denver, 1920, it was decided to call the meeting in Santa Barbara, where those who are opposed to the water division treaty may state their objections and where, if the compact cannot be amended to meet all demands of the various States, a new agreement may be reached.

The constant peril of flood in the Imperial Valley and at Yuma and the growing demand for more power in the Southwest have, however, spurred on members of the league to seek a treaty which may be put into effect immediately, so that the great projects which have been hanging fire for several months may be inaugurated. The administration in Washington has indicated that it cannot sanction any Colorado River treaty until all the States in the river basin have themselves reached an amicable agreement. With this view in mind the conference was called.

The meeting in Santa Barbara will bring together the three major parties involved in the question, the government, the various States and the people of the latter. In addition some of the foremost experts on power development in the country will give their opinions on the subject.

One of the most noted of these experts will be Dr. Robert Sibley of San Francisco, noted publicist and student of electrical and other engineering problems.

Dr. Sibley will make a detailed study of the question in May, touring each of the Colorado River Basin States, after which he will visit New York and Washington and return to the Pacific Coast in time to deliver an address before the conference in June.

The list of statesmen who have notified the League of the Southwest headquarters that they will attend the meeting is growing daily. Included are, Senators Borah, Couzens, Pittman, King, Shortridge and Bursum; Congressmen Free and Barbour of California and Timberlake of Colorado, Gov. Pincnot of Pennsylvania and Director Arthur P. Davis of the United States Reclamation Service are also expected to attend.

The Indian question will be thoroughly discussed, although it will be secondary in consideration of the Colorado River problem.

Lincoln Heights News Warns Public Against Scheme That May Cripple Trolley Service

The Lincoln Heights News, in a first-page article, declares that the establishment of the McAdoo-Hellman bus system in Los Angeles will bring a 10-cent street-car fare, and increase traffic congestion. The article in this newspaper was as follows:

WHAT THE MOTOR BUS WILL FINALLY DO

Will Bring Confusion and a Ten-Cent Fare and Greatly Increase Traffic Congestion

Have you stopped to consider what the People's Motorbus Company, sponsored by William Gibbs McAdoo, will do if given a twenty-one-year franchise to operate? There is a crisis in the railway affairs of this city and competitive transportation will not be for the good of the people and will mean confusion and a 10-cent carfare, in the end. This competing bus line if established, will do as follows:

(2.) Greatly increase the congestion on the present overtaxed streets with large, clumsy, double-deck motor busses.

(3.) Will not develop any new territory, but will operate only in districts already developed by the present street-car lines.

(4.) Will charge a 10-cent fare where the present railways charge a 5-cent or 6-cent fare.

(5.) Will not carry school children for half fare and will limit the carrying free, employees of the police and fire departments of Los Angeles to two per bus, while the electric railways carry any number free.

(6.) Will skim off the cream of traffic which will no doubt eventually force an increase in the street carfares of both the Los Angeles and the Pacific Electric railways.

Their proposal of establishing this additional transportation element is in the face of pledges already given by the existing transportation lines to adequately serve Los Angeles by not only additional rail facilities and the building of a tunnel as an artery of speedy transportation, but to also supply, where necessity exists therefor, motor busses as feeder lines to the existing rail carriers.

Not only is this proposal contrary to the best interests of the public at large, but is not to the financial interest or well being of any of the electric railway employees.

Remember Des Moines and other cities have tried motor busses and have given them up as inadequate and not equal in any way to the problem of a great city's transportation. Think of twenty-one years of confusion and transportation chaos! Go to the polls on May 1 and vote against the motor-bus franchise.

CHAMBER HITS SCHOOL BILL

Discord Between City and County Seen in New District Plan; Fire Aid Measure Favored

Senate bill No. 30 now before the Legislature was up for consideration by the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday which voted its opposition. According to the measure, any county may be organized in a school district if so empowered by the voters, aggregating $17,000,000.

It is said by the bill's sponsors that expenses of administration of school systems will be reduced, if the measure is passed. The following excerpts from the report of the chamber's legislative committee is self explanatory:

"The creation of a single district out of the large number in Los Angeles county would make a cumbersome organization, and would have a tendency to create discord between city and county districts.

"Furthermore, it savors of paternalism to a large extent, taking away from the present districts their autonomy in school affairs."

Assembly bill No. 1009, also an enabling act of more concrete force, was indorsed. This measure involves the following, as set forth in a statement by Dr. George P. Clements, head of the Department of Agriculture of the chamber:

"Enabling Bill No. 1009, is identical with a bill passed two years ago extending State aid in co-operation with the county for further fire break construction. The county forester has at present more than 380 miles of fire break extending over Verdugo Hills, through the Malibu, on the Los Angeles-Ventura line, as well as throughout the San Gabriel Mountains. These fire-breaks have proved their utility.

"In order that the fire break give its full utility it must be kept entirely barren of vegetable growth.

"A firebreak should be built from Newhall to Pacific Mountain down the Santa Clara Range. This should be taken care of by the Federal Forest Supervisor since the territory to its north constitutes one of the greatest menaces to the Los Angeles water shed and has been the origin of almost all of our disastrous fires."

COMING HERE TO LEARN

Missourian Wants to Know Methods That Bring Success to All Year Club

A journey of more than 2000 miles is going to be made within the near future by A. I. Foard, secretary of the Southeast Missouri Agricultural Bureau, so that he may study at first hand the methods of the All Year Club of Southern California and apply them to the development of eight counties of the southeastern section of Missouri.

Mr. Foard will make this journey solely for the purpose of studying the All Year Club. The remarkable compliment to the club in thus regarding it as a model, has been accepted as another evidence of the fact that Southern California leads in still another field, in addition to supremacy in agriculture, growth and community spirit.

The Southeast Missouri Agricultural Bureau is made up of Butler, Cape Girardeau, Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Scott and Stoddard counties. Its headquarters are in St. Louis. In requesting that this organization be allowed to pattern after the All Year Club, Mr. Foard wrote to C. G. Milham, executive secretary, as follows:

"You will probably recall some correspondence which I had with you several months ago. Our people have been watching the success of your organization for some time.

"Our organization is interested in a small territory composed of eight counties in Southeast Missouri.

"I am wondering if I should make a trip to Los Angeles for the express purpose of studying the organization, operations, and particularly the methods, which are used in getting members of your organization, if you would be good enough to allow me this privilege.

"It is not our idea to copy from you, but to get ideas from your splendid and successful organization which we might in some way apply to our organization.

"Should I come I would hope that you could detail a man to me for a day or so in making this study. I shall appreciate a reply from you in this connection."

Mr. Milham advised Mr. Foard yesterday that the All Year Club would be glad to co-operate in every way with the Southeast Missouri Agricultural Bureau.

IMBECILE EXPLOITED FOR GAIN

Main - Street Sideshow Harks Back to Dark Ages of Human Progress

They call her Titania.

Titania, you remember, was the queen of the fairies. In "A Midsummer Night's Dream" she was "enamored of an ass," as other beauteous creatures have been, before her time and since.

Her namesake is one of the attractions of a Main-street sideshow. According to the gentleman who verbally exploits her, she was captured in the wilds of Yucatan, is a descendant of a pre-Aztec race and "a living proof that Darwin was right." She is about as tall as a 10-year-old child, and her head, no bigger than a grapefruit, slants from her eyebrows like a cone. Her hair is clipped short to show the peculiar conformation of her skull, and she wears a topknot. She is the female prototype of the imbecile that Barnum made famous as "Zip, the What-Is-It?" and like Zip, she was probably born on a middle western farm.

Her small eyes are set close to a nose that juts outward at the same angle at which her chin recedes. She stoops forward from the waist and her tottering walk is rachitic. During the time she is exhibited in the sideshow she simpers idiotically and makes vague, jerky motions with her large hands. Mentally, she is perhaps 6 months old.

And they call her Titania!

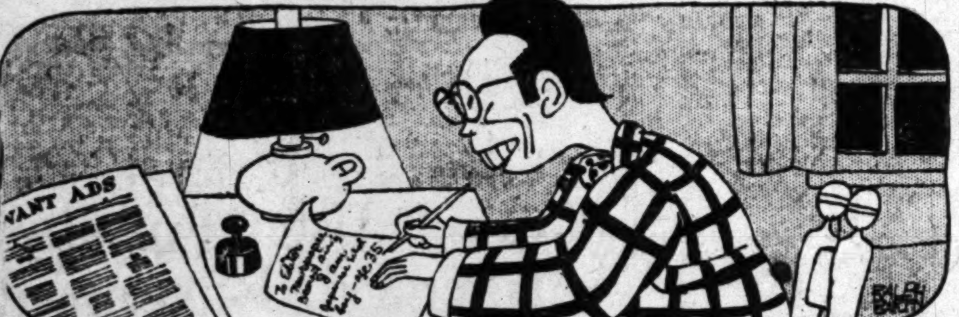
LETTERS OF A JAPANESE SCHOOLBOY

Hashimura Togo Hears Radio Waves and Marvels Thereat

BY WALLACE IRWIN

Illustrated by Ralph Barton



THE RADIO AGE

To Editor Times, who frequently advertise for Truth, Freedom and Human Justus in his Lost and Found Dept.,

Dearest Sir:—

Last Thurdy p.m. Miss Mamie Furioki, who married a gentleman which she met in Lucy Stone League and therefore cannot remember his name, jingled me up by talephone for following sweet invitation:

"O Togo, we are giving rare treat in my home address tonight at 8 o'clock sharply doocome and bring friends."

After that she hung talephone, leaving my brain stranded. Such sudden generosity sound kind of bootleg to me.

Yet hope is stronger thgn liquor (quotation from Lord Bryan) so at hour of 7.66 sharply I took Cousin Nogi under my sleeve and Sally 4th to home of Miss Mamie Furioki who is married.

At lastly we arrive to that dear home, and we had scarcely buttoned the electricity at door when I heard the sound of noise. Something had escaped from Mr. Barnum and was behaving loosely inside Furioki parlor. It gave me feelings of one desiring to go home.

"O Togo & Nogi, how I worship seeing you!" holla Miss Mamie Furioki, opening door with Christianity on her face.

"We adore you also," I negotiate, "but before entrance, Miss Mamie Furioki (married) will you kindly to explain what sort of mammal that is howelling & growelling through your ice happy home?"

RUBBER EARMUFFS

"O such good news!" she ollicute, shaking hands with herself. "I suprise you! My Husband has got a new Radio! !"

"Will it be named after its mother or its father?" I ask for Lucy Stone expression.

"Maybe when it gets older it will stop squeaking," snuggest Nogi while we walk in fearlussly like an American Legion.

Mr. Editor, I am sure you would fold up all your printing presses and stop work if you knew what we saw with all our ears and eyes the very instant our endangered footsteps had entered that domestic rug. Standing in circles was the entire membership of the Japanese Thinking Society while at central middle of room Miss Furioki's Husband sat by a table with a pair of rubber earmuffs on. At firstly I supposed he was wearing them so that he would not hear any more feminism out of Hon. Wife. But I was wronged again. again.

On table befront of him sat one black suitcase all covered with nickel-plated Science. It contained a window with electric blubs doing so inside. It cantained silver pushers, pullers, arrows, & Kodak supplies. It cantained so many wires that I was sure it was connected with Edison somewhere. It had a horn with its mouth wide open as if to speak. It had one of those switchboards which enable Hon. telephone operatress to get your number wrong 13 times out of 11. Taken all together this was a Radio. Or so it seemed to me.

WHERE'S THE STEAM

"O so delightful!" I narrate. "While we are waiting will somebody please to tell me complete hystery of radio and who it radiates? Do it get its name from a radiator maybe? If so, where is its steam?"

Hushy!" That from Miss Furioki's husband who set pushing buttons in circles while pulling out electric strings and looking more & more morbid.

"Wurrrrrrrr! Wah! Weeeeee!" That from Hon. Horn, which just awoke.

"Oh joyful!" exclam Miss Furioki. "He have got Medicine Hat at last!"

"Hooooooo. OOma-trrrrrr!" negotiate Hon. Horn. "This are Medicine Hat Daily Telegram XYZ broadcasting Eddie McCandle, boy soaprano, in selection, 'When the Leaves Come Tumbelling Down.'"

Silence is heard.

"O taffy!" growell Hon. Husband, cranking up buttons, pulling out electricity, putting it back again, turning out lights, turning them on, shaking Hon. Box to see if something is loose again. "Shavings & sugar! We had Medicine Hat and now it is lost. Where can it be?"

"I have forgotten which State it is in." This from me.

"If you would go there & find out," snuggest Hon. Husband peevly, "perhapsly we might continue this Concert without talking about it."

He keep on jamming, holling & cranking machinery. At lastly Hon. Horn clear his throat again.

"Bammmmmm! Screech! Howellllll! Wirra-wirra! POW!" He say that.

"What place have we now, do you sippose?" require Miss Mamie Furioki.

"I am sure it is Ireland." This from me.

Just then Hon. Horn spoke to call me a liar:

"This are the New Orleans Times-Picayune broadcasting A.E. I.O.U. and sometimes W & Y to introduce First Christian Church Choir in selection 'When the Leaves Come Tumbelling Down.'"

ALWAYS FALLING

Then horn choke and complete vacuum arrived.

"If them leaves intend to tumbell why don't they do so?" require S. Sago, Japanese grocer.

"They are like German marks perhapsly," I negotiate. "Always falling yet what of it?"

But Hon. Husband took those rubber muffs from his ears so he could swear better.

"By golly and all the liberty motors!" he snarrel. "Something must be wrong. Hon. Darling, what had became of my screwdriver, soldering iron & electric monkey wrench? Last night this radio was in IXL condition. For three (3) hours we sat here listening to Holy City sung in New York, Baltimore, Denver and San Antonio."

"Which city was holiest of those?" I ask to know, but he looked at me like a furious turkey and snagger on:

"Something has went crisscross."

"Pussibly the Zinc Spark Gap Ends has touched the Grid Leak Condensers, thusly causing shortycircuit with Honeycomb Coils, Binding Posts and Rheostat Windings," snuggest Miss Mamie Furioki with expression peculiar to good housekeeper.

"Maybe-so, dear Honey," retork Hon. Husband. "Would you run to nearest drug store & obtain 25c worth of Litz Wire? If they haven't got it ½ doz. medium rotors will do."

But just then what happen? Hon. Horn Choke up, 2 electric bulbs went out and Radio start doing so again.

"Gr-rrrrrrrr! . . . Next selexion will be Honalulu Royal Yukalally Band in 'When the Leaves Come Tumbelling Down.'"

"How did we get to Honalulu?" requesh Hon. Husband.

"Be quick about it!" snuggest Miss Furioki. "Turn Tickler Dial 2 points toward Howeller and see what happen."

" . . . Dar-ling I am growing old!" Hon. Radio commence singing that almost as good as real.

"Turn on the Accelerator and remove Spark Plug!" holla Miss Furioki like a general. Hon. Husband do so and Old Darling commence singing in bass.

"That is pretty," I renig. "But what sex is it?"

SPRING AND MOONSHINE

At this junction, Mr. Editor, Japanese society became very dishagreeable for me. 1 & all they look at me with coal black looks resembling Battling Siki. Should I go? O yes, most insuredly I should. For Hon. Radio had just picked up Salt Lake in its teeth and was starting Zion Quartet in "When the Leaves Come Tumbelling Down."

Outside it was night & all world was quiet with axception of 2 or 3 somebody shooting at the Police. Nogi went with me because he has promised never to leave my side till I give back the necktie I borra last Easter. How sweet we feel in that silent night with Spring and moonshine inside our souls!

"Hon Edgar Allen Pope, American bookmaker," say Nogi for slight poety, "once wrote a nice poem about Heaven. He described how in that high climate where there is no sin a Jewish angel resides. His name is Israfel. He got a heart which is strung up like a banjo. When feeling musical this Hon. Israfel can open up his chest and play selections on his heart."

"I remember that angel Israfel," I cummute, "and to night I feel considerable sorrow for him. Modern world are getting harder & harder for Angels of every denomination. And what now? How can Hon. Israfel carry on his concert while Hon. Radio have got movie rights to the Great Beyond?

"Sipposing Hon. Israfel should unbutton his breastbone some afternoon @ 8.22 & try to play something? Then what would collapse?

"'Wheeeeeeeeeee! POW-sizzle-Wow-POW!!!'"

MORE LEAVES TUMBLE

"'Get off line, please!' Hon Israfel would say all in vainly.

"'This is Cincinati Times-Star Broadcasting Station WWWXX introducing Abe Finkelburg's Irish Rose Saxophone Quartet in 'When the Leaves Come Tumbelling Down.' Narr-Zip! Howl! Howl!'

"What then would happen to Hon. Israfel who has rented the same cloud for 211,888 years last January? Could you blame him for something or anything else? Would you censor his behavior if he took out his heart and threw it at somebody? There is no answer to this question."

Then Cousin Nogi think again of Marion, O., while he make following poetickal sing-song which you can print in your Weather Report:

"When Angel Harps gets out of tune
It reilly is distressing;
For what is worse than an angel's kerse—
Axcept a Devvil's blessing?"

"You should not feel so peev about Hon. Radio," snuggest Cousin Nogi after he borra my cigar and start home. "Think of the wonderful strides & stretches that science have made in last 2 yrs! Pretty soonly we may be able to hear opera in Berlin."

"I am afraid so," is report from me. "Soonly or later Germany will be obliged to get revenge for the war."

So I leave him feeling that my shoes are growing tighter and tighter.

Hoping you are the same.

Yours truly,

HASHIMURA TOGO.

OLD-TIME FUN-MAKERS IN RETURN

Stars of Sawdust Ring of Former Generation Brush Up Acts for Charity

A score of the sawdust ring stars of yesterday, who furnished laughs and thrills for the elder generation of today when they were children, will be present at the Charity Circus, which will be given for the benefit of the Children's Hospital at Prager Park, May 4 to 13, inclusive.

Heading the list of old-timers will be Poodles Hannaford, who is also a new-timer. Hannaford, the world's most famous trick-riding clown, has been a sawdust ring performer since he was 5 years old. He was secured through the courtesy of Lou Anger, who will star him in a series of comedy motion pictures.

"Poodles" Hannaford

Aiding Hannaford to bring laughs from the crowds will be Tote DuCrow, Cal Cohen and Jim Gilbert, three famous clowns of more than a decade ago. They will don their baggy suits and white make-up especially for this circus and perform again the feats that made thousands laugh when the fathers and mothers of today were children.

Sheldon H. Barrett, Jr., manager of the show, is now scouring the country to secure famous old-time show people. Among those to appear will be several trapeze performers who are still agile enough to perform feats of ability and several bareback riders who left tanbark behind them many years ago. Barrett is himself an old showman. He "trouped" with his father when only a youngster and knows most of the old-timers.

Two modern features will be "The Spanish Village" and "King Tut's Harem." These will be presented by a bevy of society belles and several noted film stars. "King Tut's Harem" will be produced under the personal direction of Marian Fairfax (Mrs. Tully Marshall) and Mrs. Cecil B. De Mille.

CONTEST WINNERS GET SAFETY FLAG

A safety flag was presented to trainmen of Division 5 Carhouse of the Los Angeles Railway at the monthly company dance at Forester's Hall. The flag is the prize for a safety contest conducted by the five divisions for six months.

John C. Collins, supervisor of safety for the street railway, made the presentation, and the emblem was received by Superintendent C. A. Morrison of the division, which has headquarters at Fifty-fourth street and Second avenue.

Perhaps you have asked yourself just what sort of service you can expect from a LaFayette.

Undoubtedly, the answer is to be found in the records of LaFayette owners.

There is one owner who travels over the roads of three states, morning and night, in daily trips between his home and office.

Another covered the 3,011 miles between Indianapolis and San Francisco in seven days without trouble or fatigue.

A third thinks nothing of adding from 3,000 to 5,000 miles to the speedometer total every month in carefree rambles.

They know, intuitively, that the LaFayette will take them where they want to go, and back again, smoothly, easily and as rapidly as they care to travel.

We are confident you will say, in common with other LaFayette owners, that LaFayette performance exceeds your fondest expectations.

The Operation I Avoided—

MRS. IDA M. COFFMAN
SIDELL, ILL.

IF there is one thing more than another a woman dreads, it is a surgical operation, and to be told that one is necessary is very disheartening.

Hospitals are grand institutions, and undoubtedly many operations are necessary. However, we have received hundreds of letters from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after an operation had been deemed advisable.

Every woman who suffers as Mrs. Coffman did naturally wishes to avoid an operation if possible, and the remarkable statements which she makes in her letter will be read with interest by women everywhere.

Mrs. Coffman's Letter Follows:

SIDELL, ILLINOIS.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side which was noticeable at all time but sometimes it was almost unbearable and I could not even let the bed-clothing rest on my body at night. I had been sick for seven years but not so badly until the last 13 months, and had become so rundown that I cared for nobody and would rather have died than live. I couldn't do my work without help and the doctor told me that an operation was all there was left for me. I would not consent to that so my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house and when my two little girls reach womanhood I shall advise them to take it."—MRS. IDA M. COFFMAN, R. R. No. 2, Sidell, Illinois.

Another Operation Avoided

CORONA, N. Y.—"I had a terrible pain in my left side and had to go to bed every so often. Doctors had told me I must be operated on, but I do not believe in the knife and would rather suffer than go through it. My mother also did not believe in it and she made me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because it had helped her. It has also helped me for I am better and am able to do all my work. I recommend your medicine and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial."—MRS. J. BUSCH, JR., 11 S. Railroad Ave., Corona, N. Y.

DR. LICKLEY DENIED WRIT

School Official Fails to Prevent Education Board from Hearing Charges Against Him

Judge Keetch yesterday denied the application of Dr. Ernest C. Lickley, assistant superintendent of schools, for a writ of prohibition to prevent the County Board of Education from hearing charges of unprofessional conduct brought against him by John R. Doyle, a high school teacher.

George Scott, attorney for Dr. Lickley, asked and obtained a ten-day stay of execution to permit preparation of an appeal to the Appellate Court.

Attorney Scott argued before Judge Keetch that the county board is prejudiced and biased and that the charges should be referred for that reason to the State Board of Education. He cited instances to show that the State board has power to try such a case.

Judge Keeth, in denying the application, said that the question before him was merely whether the county board had jurisdiction in this case. "The question of the prejudice of the county board cannot be passed upon by this court," said Judge Keetch. "However, no evidence has been adduced to show that the board is prejudiced."

The hearing of charges against Dr. Lickley has been delayed since a writ of prohibition was granted by Acting President Judge Parker on March 9, last, made returnable before Judge Keetch.

The board has twice attempted to place Dr. Lickley on trial. The defendant stalked out of the room during the first trial, declaring the board was "stacked" against him, and an injunction from the court caused the second hearing to be called off.

Dr. Lickley is charged with attempting to undermine the school superintendent, with slandering several prominent men and women of Los Angeles and with conduct unbecoming a school official.

Counter - charges against Mr. Doyle were made in a statement issued by Dr. Lickley, in which he states that his accuser was dismissed for inefficiency and promised to "get" Dr. Lickley's job.

BUSINESS WOMEN TO MOVE CLUB QUARTERS

The Business Women's Club will move its headquarters from the Chamber of Commerce building to 337 South Hill street on May 1, according to an announcement made yesterday by Miss Gwen Smith, secretary-treasurer of the club. The new location is more commodious than the former headquarters, containing a large auditorium, a reading-room, reception-room and dance hall. The club, which now has a membership of more than 500, will conduct its next meeting the first Monday evening in May at the Mary Louise Tea Room in the Brack-Shops.

A VESUVIUS AT OUR DOOR

Lassen Peak May be Center of Unique Playground for People of the Nation

Co-operation to obtain Federal aid in developing Lassen Volcano National Park through the national park service, by which it is hoped to obtain Federal expenditure of more than $1,000,000 dollars, is asked of Los Angeles and Southern California by the Lassen Volcanic National Park Association. Favorable action by the State Legislature on Assembly bill No. 1041 and its amendment is the first goal of the association. This bill would provide $8000 for State aid in engineering work at the park, later to become the starting of great Federal projects.

Although Los Angeles is not in the immediate vicinity of Lassen National Park, the association points out that to attract the attention of tourists and pleasure seekers to that section and to make it as famous a national park as the Grand Canyon, Yellowstone Park and other centers of scenic grandeur, would redound to the fame of California as a whole.

In a letter to Frank Wiggins, secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, M. E. Dittmar, manager-secretary of the Lassen Volcanic National Park Association, seeks favorable action of the Los Angeles Chamber for the bill making an appropriation by the State Legislature for work at the park.

ASKS SUPPORT

"We have favorable action from the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce" stated Mr. Dittmar "the Oakland Chamber and other large communities of the State, and we are anxious to obtain support on your part as soon as possible."

"Our bill is out of the Committee on State Grounds and Parks and is now in the Committee on Ways and Means," he said.

Assembly Bill No. 1041, and the amendment introduced, would appropriate from the State treasury $8000 for the National Park Service of the United States government for 1923.

"Upon presentation of the certificate of the director of the National Park Service to the State Controller" the proposed amendment to the bill reads, "that the sum of $3000 had been appropriated by the government of the United States, for the protection and improvement of the Lassen Volcanic National Park, California, during the year 1923, and that said sum will be used for the purpose for which appropriated during the year 1923, the controller shall draw his warrant on the treasurer in favor of the Director of National Parks for the money herein made payable and the treasurer is hereby directed to pay the same. The money hereby appropriated and so drawn by the Director of National Parks shall be used for the purpose of making surveys of roads, byways, trails and developments pertaining thereto within the Lassen Volcanic National Park, California and for no other purpose."

Mr. Dittmar emphasizes that the Southwest has been especially favored with the number of national parks set aside by the government.

"The great Southwest, with the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, and Central California have become centers of recreational and educational attractions for all time," he says.

STATE WONDERLAND

"A national park implies the superlative in unique scenic or scientific features, and it is for this reason that a new national park has been created in the region of the Lassen Peak volcano on the upper tributaries of the Sacramento and Feather rivers. The people in that portion of the State have been making a strong effort during the past year to obtain Federal recognition for this wonderland.

"About 125 square miles have been set aside to be maintained in its primeval grandeur for all time, through the efforts of the Lassen Volcanic National Park Association. The chief civil engineer of the National Park Service has only recently recommended a definite plan for physical development, which will make the interior of the park readily accessible and link its points of interest with a splendid scenic boulevard and bridle trails to the remote features of the park.

"The renewal of volcanic activity on May 30, 1914, turned the attention of the scientific world to Lassen Peak. The awe-inspiring evidence of tremendous eruptive forces is not the only interesting feature of the park. Cinder Cone, with its encircling lava flow, is about 150 years old, and Chaos Crags, 9000 feet high, formed by eruptions, is placed by geologists at from 250 to 300 years ago. These centers of volcanic activity illustrate the unique character of the natural attractions to be found in this region.

"On the southerly slope of Lassen Peak, but in the older lava formations, is a geyser region second only to Yellowstone. Accompanying the geyser flow are hundreds of boiling mineral springs, hot, blubbering mud pots, hissing, steaming vents and fumaroles representing latent phases of volcanic activity.

"A unique feature within this sulphuric area is Lake Tartarus, or the Boiling Lake, covering several miles, a seething, boiling caldron, which is believed to have been simmering for ages.

"The entire region is forested except where the peaks rise above the timberline. Scores of mountain lakes and streams are well stocked with trout."

Merciless Neuritis

Imps of Hades armed with red-hot pitchforks could scarcely inflict more cruel, agonizing torture than that endured by many sufferers from neuritis.

The sharp, stabbing pains caused by this disease are usually centered about the shoulder, neck, forearm, small of the back or along the thigh and leg in the region of the sciatic nerve. Sometimes they move from one part to another, sending out lightning jabs which produce untold misery.

If you want prompt relief, apply Tysmol over the part that hurts, and the pain should disappear.

Tysmol is absorbed through the pores of the skin and has a soothing, healing effect upon the inflamed, diseased nerves. Contains no "dope." Guaranteed harmless. Price $1 at leading druggists everywhere. Tysmol Company, Mfg. Chemists, 400 Sutter St., San Francisco.—[Advertisement.

Man's Trouble Arrested

"The past 4 years I have been going down, down, down with catarrh of the stomach and had to give up work a year ago because of my weakened condition. I suffered terribly from bloating and colic attacks. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy was recommended to me. I took a course of it and am now feeling fine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—[Advertisement.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC

Every dentist who advertises is often subject to criticism whether his work be good, bad or indifferent. In conducting a large practice such as ours, any thinking person knows that publicity is absolutely essential.

The outstanding success of this office has not been so much the advertising we do as it has been the quality of our work and the endeavor to please with service. Ninety per cent of our patients are recommended.

No one can know about our quality work and small prices unless he or she has actually visited us. Hence our added feature to our regular campaign in the shape of a "get acquainted" dental order. It is unanswerable in its fairness. And right here we must thank those who have answered our offer. Any delay in receiving your dental order has been due to pressure in handling our exceptionally large business. We ask your indulgence at this time.

Years of success has not given us any idea we can cease our campaign or "let down" in the quality of our work.

Very respectfully submitted,

R. Mitchell D.D.S.

Grain Prices Break; Close Is at Low Levels

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, April 21.—Scattered liquidation was on in the grain markets early and prices dropped sharply to a new low for the week. Buying on the break was of a good class, however, and with week-end evening-up on the part of shorts a strong rally came toward the last and at the finish wheat was ⅛@½c higher. Corn lost ⅛@⅜c and oats ⅛@⅜c, with rye unchanged to ⅛c lower.

All grains showed a decided reactionary tendency the past week, the highest prices being made early and the lowest toward the close, with profit-taking on the better weather conditions in the Northwest and later on rains in the winter wheat belt. Considering the news, however, the markets held up well and at the close wheat was 1¼@2⅜c lower, corn 1⅝@2⅜c, oats 1⅝@1⅞c and rye 1⅝@2c lower as compared with the previous week. Lard lost 40@45c and ribs 47½@52½c.

Government reports showed some moisture had been received in the dry sections of Kansas and Nebraska, with considerable rain in the more eastern sections of the two States. The market was under pressure from the start, with many scattered longs going out of their holdings on the way down. Strong commission houses and some local bulls who sold out Friday absorbed the offerings on the decline and a rally followed, shorts covering on the way up.

Sentiment generally was bearish early, but there was a noticeable change later after values started upward. Unfavorable crop reports continue to come from the winter-wheat territory, with Hungerford predicting a cut of 700,000 acres in Nebraska. Western Kansas received very little moisture, according to government detailed reports. Export demand was only fair. Forecast for the spring-wheat territory was for generally fair and cool.

General liquidation was on in corn by longs early, a broker who generally acts for a local professional selling May heavily, but there was good support on the break with July wanted at 80c on resting orders and a strong rally came later. The May-July spread showed a tendency to widen, with the difference around 2½c at the last against 2c at the close Friday. Shipping demand was only fair, with the basis firmer as compared with May in the sample market.

Oats reflected the action of corn to a great extent and averaged lower, with longs selling freely on account of the generally favorable weather conditions. Seeding is progressing rapidly, although field work will be checked in parts of the West by heavy rains overnight.

ORANGES

LOS ANGELES, April 21.—[Office of the Fruit World.:] The market on California navel oranges shows continued improvement. Good selling weather throughout the entire country has stimulated buying in all lines.

Considerable interest is developing in both seedlings and sweets. Two weeks ago the market was dead as far as these varieties were concerned. On the whole shippers are optimistic over the generally higher trend of the orange market, especially at this time when the Valencia deal is about to open.

There are approximately 4000 cars of navels and miscellaneous varieties of oranges remaining for shipment. It will be well along toward the middle of May before this fruit is cleaned up.

Tulare county's estimated crop of 2500 cars of Valencias started moving in a small way this week. Next will see regular shipments going forward. Shippers report that the Tulare county Valencias will be of high quality. Growers are holding for three cents per pound for Valencias.

There is not much activity as yet in Southern California Valencias. Shippers have preferred to hold back until the supply of navels is more closely cleaned up.

The copious rainfall so far this month has been beneficial to Valencia trees and will hasten the sizing of the fruit. Growers say that there is no danger of a repetition of last season's surplus of small sizes.

Florida advices state that by May 10 practically all of the Florida orange crop will have been shipped.

California crop of 25,000 carloads of Valencias will have a clear field.

F.o.b. California quotations, usual terms, are as follows:

Fancy navels, sizes 80s, 2.40; 100s, 2.90; 126s, 3.40; 150s, 3.90; smaller sizes, 4.25.

Seedlings and sweets, 3.00@3.25 per box, according to sizes.

Tulare county Valencias, 3.00@3.50 per box depending on sizes.

LEMONS

The market on California lemons is steady.

F.o.b. quotations are on a basis of 4.00@4.50 per box for extra choice stock.

There are on hand and available for sale within the next thirty days at all United States ports approximately 93,000 boxes of foreign lemons.

GEORGE RICE DEAD

Funeral services for George Rice were held on Thursday.

For many years he was secretary of the Sixth District Agricultural Association and founded the horticultural magazine, Rural California. He took a leading part in the agricultural development of Southern California.

WEEKLY LIVE-STOCK MARKET SUMMARY

[Furnished by the Federal-State Live-Stock Market News Service.]

Cattle—Moderate receipts for the week, chiefly from Arizona, Nevada and California, and active trading on almost every session finds the market fully steady on strictly good steers, but 10@15c lower on in-between kinds when compared with a week ago. Ten loads of good steers mostly from Arizona feed lots and averaging around 1000 pounds scored 8.00 on three different sessions during the week. Bulk of good steers averaged from 1000 to 1100 pounds and scored from 7.70@8.00. Bulk of medium steers averaged around 1050 pounds and cashed from 7.25@7.40, while common steers were draggy and cashed mostly from 6.00@6.50.

Beef cows held steady with good heifers strong to 25c higher when compared with a week ago. A part load of strictly good 825-pound heifers made 6.25. Several loads of good cows, averaging 900 to 1000 pounds, scored 6.00 on two different sessions during the week. Bulk of good cows averaged 950 to 1050 pounds and cashed from 5.75@6.00. Medium and common cows were draggy, with bulk of mediums selling from 5.00@5.25 and bulk of common ones selling from 4.25@4.60. Cutters and canners were in light supply and are quotable from 1.50@3.50. Bologna and butcher bulls were also in light supply and quotable from 2.00@4.50.

Calves—Following the trend of the dressed veal values the market is weak to 50c lower with liberal receipts for the week when compared with a week ago. A top of 11.00 was made on several sessions through the week on good and choice loads of 150 to 200-pound vealers. Loads of light weight calves grading medium sold for 8.00@9.00. Medium and common heavy vealers were draggy. Bulk averaged around 315 pounds and brought around 8.00, with sales being noted as low as 5.00 and as high as 9.00, according to finish.

Hogs—Slight fluctuations and light receipts coupled with slow trading finds the hog market weak to 15c lower when compared with a week ago. Several loads of good 150 to 200-pound killers cashed at 9.80 during the forepart of the week, while comparable loads cashed at 9.65 at the close. Heavy killers shared in the decline, while light killers held steady with bulk selling from 8.75@9.00 and averaging around 115 pounds. Smooth sows held steady, with bulk weighing around 280 pounds and cashing at 7.75, while rough ones brought around a dollar less. Feeder pigs were in light supply and quotable up to 9.00.

Sheep and lambs—With receipts liberal as compared to the usual run and active trading on good and choice stock the market is strong to 25c higher on lambs and ewes, with not enough wethers in to test the market. A short string of choice 69-pound lambs cashed at 12.75, while another string of good 71-pound kinds cashed at 12.50. Sizable strings of good 59-pound and 66-pound lambs cashed at 12.25 and 12.30, respectively, with culls out at 9.50 and 10.50. A deck of good 76-pound lambs made 12.35, while a load of heavy 87-pound kinds made 11.50. A deck of good 111-pound full-wooled ewes made 7.75, while two decks of good 117-pound kinds made 7.50. A deck of medium and good 101-pound shorn ewes made 6.10, while a half-deck of choice 76-pound shorn yearlings made 10.25, with heavy 99-pound kinds out at 9.00.

—The Big Gushers are Our Neighbors!

LAMBERT No. 1 STRIKES OIL!

The glorious news came to us on Friday that "Lambert No. 1" penetrated the rich oil sands at 3235 feet and is now 20 feet or more, in it. They expect to go 3900 feet with every indication for a 4000-barrel well. This lease is within a few hundred feet of some of the most famous gushers in Signal Hill, including Marine No. 7, Davis-MacMillan, Poole-Hawkins, Keck No. 4, Benwell No. 2, United Haas No. 2, Evans No. 1, and others, which came in at 4000 to 6000 barrels daily and are reported as still holding up on big production.

ACTION IN OIL!

—5 Leases Financed With Private Resources.
—4 Wells Now Drilling at Signal Hill.
—3 Wells More Than 3200 Feet Deep.
—Considerable Oil Found in 2 Wells.
—2 Wells Expected to be Brought in Within 35 Days.
—The Fourth Well Drilled More Than 1250 Feet in 10 Days.
—By the Lambert Syndicates.

ALL IN 90 DAYS!

More than half of the 25 1% Production Interests in L. A. LAMBERT OIL SYNDICATE NO. 2 have been subscribed in 2 weeks., L. A. LAMBERT NO. 1 was privately financed in 30 days. LAMBERT-HAMPTON NO. 1 went in 20 days.

Our safeguarded oil investment is interesting, careful, conservative people—

Because—Our investors get a definite share at a very low price; only $50,000 invited from the public.

Because—Our investors get an actual interest in gross production of all oil and gas produced from a valuable acre lease at Signal Hill.

Because—Our lease is located in the "Lovelady Gusher Pool" district, only 300 to 900 feet from 8 big gushers in proven territory.

Because—We financed our lease with our own resources and drilled this well better than 3000 feet before inviting the public to participate.

Because—We have contracted with the Hogan drilling Co., expert drillers, who have installed the best rotary equipment, and are bonded for completion of the well.

Because—It is managed by careful, efficient business men.

Because—Lambert Syndicate investors get quick action on their investment.

With a 4000-barrel well, on a basis of only 80c per barrel for oil, you should have an income of about $1000 per month on a $2000 investment in a 1% Production Interest; about $100 per month on a $200 investment in 1-10th of 1% Production Interest.

Our oil investment will bear rigid investigation. Bank references. We will be glad to take you to our property in a private car. We have an investment you can recommend to your friends. Don't delay.

FUTURE POWER TO BE ELECTRIC

Application by Railroads is Only Question of Time

Utility Under Severe Tests Fully Demonstrated

Banker Predicts That Coal and Oil Are Doomed

BY D. T. BABCOCK,
Resident Partner Blyth, Witter & Co.

Although the hydroelectric companies of California have extensive building programs for the next decade designed to care for the future power needs of the State, the trend of the railroads toward electrification of their lines bids fair to create a demand for power far in excess of that provided under present plans.

Railroad men agree that the future motive power of the railroads must be electricity. The only difference of opinion is as to how soon this electrification must come.

In districts where coal is plentiful, and in California where oil is cheap, the necessity of power other than steam is not felt as acutely as in the Northeastern and Northwestern parts of the nation, where fuel must be transported long distances at high cost.

As in many other phases of the electrical industry, the West is leading in railroad electrification. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway is now operating the longest electrified railroad in the world, extending from Seattle, Wash., to Harlowton, Mont., with only one gap of 200 miles which is operated by steam. This line crosses three mountain ridges, and at one point attains an altitude of 6300 feet.

The performances of the electric locomotives hauling trains over the mountains more than fulfilled the expectations of officials of the road. It was demonstrated that one electric locomotive not only could handle a train which required the services of two steam engines but it could do so more rapidly and with less effort than its steam rivals. The absence of steam, smoke, and cinders has greatly increased the pleasure of passengers making the trip, and has robbed the numerous tunnels of their disagreeable features.

Not only can the electric locomotive surmount the heavy grades with less effort than steam engines, but on the heavy down grades by means of regenerative brakes it keeps the train in perfect control, and returns to the transmission lines from one-fourth to one-half of the power needed to take it to the top.

It has been determined that two and one-half pounds of coal will produce one kilowatt of electricity. At that rate it would require 53,000,000 tons of coal to produce enough current to move all the freight of the nation for one year. Under present conditions 150,000,000 tons of coal are consumed by our railroads, which represents a net loss of 100,000,000 tons.

The above figures do not take into account the utilization of hydroelectric power, which, if used in various parts of the country where available, would reduce by many thousands of tons the coal consumed. In the three Pacific Coast States there is sufficient potential electric power to care for all industries, and at the same time transport every pound of freight over their railroads.

Although electricity ultimately must be used on the railroads throughout the United States, the change will be slow and will be made only under economic pressure. The first sections to yield to the inevitable will be those where electricity is cheap and fuel expensive. Then will follow other sections, as the supplies of local fuel are depleted, which will entail long haulage at high costs.

Present high production of oil in California, with the likelihood of other larger fields yet to be discovered, makes it impossible to determine the approximate time when the railroads of this State will be electrified. However, when the supply of oil shows signs of depletion, as it must eventually, the railroads will avail themselves of the immense hydroelectric resources of the State and electrification of all its lines will follow within the course of a few years.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Business Reorganizations and the Effect Upon Future Income Tax Liability

An interesting angle of income tax liability is found in the large number of business reorganizations which have been made to meet tax contingencies. The point was discussed yesterday for Trade Talk by Robert F. Purvis, a Federal tax consultant, and formerly acting secretary of the Board of Federal Tax Reviewers at Washington. Mr. Purvis said:

"From the data available in the various annual summaries of income statistics, it is clearly evident that there has been a tremendous decline in the very large incomes of this country reported for income tax purposes. No complete explanation of this decline has been made, but it is safe to assume that it was principally due to the high tax rates applied to large incomes which caused the recipients to resort to every device that legal talent could execute to reduce taxable income. Investment in tax-exempt securities provided the principal avenue of escape for those who were subject to the higher rates of income tax; exchanges of property in lieu of sales, business reorganizations, declarations of stock dividends in lieu of cash dividends, and many other legitimate devices were employed to avoid or defer the payment of income taxes by wealthy individuals.

"The financial columns of the newspapers daily announce new reorganizatons of corporations, many of these involving transactions running into hundreds of millions of dollars. These reorganizations have been so numerous as to literally swamp the corporation departments of many States and the primary cause for a great majority of such reorganizations was a desire to minimize future Federal taxes upon corporation earnings.

"It is therefore apparent that the majority of all classes of taxpayers are cognizant of the importance of adjusting their incomes and manner of organization so as to meet, most advantageously, the tax problems created by, and anticipated from, new legislation. The United States Supreme Court has ruled that if a device to avoid taxation is carried out by legal forms, it is not subject to legal censure, and government officials fully recognize the distinction between tax evasion and legitimate tax avoidance.

"Business reorganizations will continue to hold a prominent place in the daily financial columns during 1923, as many advantageous results can be legitimately accomplished by such reorganizations. Corporation officials have learned that it pays to look to the future and be prepared for new tax legislation just as it pays to be prepared for other business contingencies that years of experience have taught them to anticipate."

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

Government Sets Face Against Overspeculation; Oils Unsettled; Averages Decline

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Expressions of definite hostility to overspeculation in commodities from the government, and the circulation of unqualified predictions by bankers, government officials and a leading market operator of a repetition of the 1919-20 speculative hysteria if the public does not exercise caution in stock-market participation were the influences contributing toward uncertainty in the security and commodity markets during the past week. Prices on all exchanges pursued irregular trends as the result of the inability of the professionals to arouse a preponderance of enthusiasm to either the bearish or bullish parties.

The stock market devoted considerable attention to rails, equipments, sugar and oils during the week, trading in which was affected by a variety of reports and happenings. Bonds moved in narrow ranges, with the speculative issues indicating the most activity, especially in the rail, foreign government sugar and copper lists. The grain and cotton exchanges moved up and down in response to weather and crop reports, while the foreign exchange market was interested chiefly in the downward plunge of the German mark from the pegged price.

The attempts of pools and professional operators in the stock market to invite a larger interest from the public in a continuation of the upward price movement in stocks provoked comment from several sources. Secretaries Hoover and Mellon warned against overextension, but reiterated their views of the existence of prosperity in the country. Other statements expressed anxiety from the greatly increased production in all lines of business, and brought forth the question of a corresponding growth in consumption sufficient to absorb the goods now being placed on the markets. Whilesale consumption has undoubetdly kept pace with production, but some trade, and if prices continue to advance, the appearance of a buyers' strike is held to be possible.

CONTINGENCIES

Upon the absorptive powers of the retail consumers the future of the stock market in the hands of the bull depends. If production and consumption, in the opinion of the market, can proceed in alignment, security prices have some distance yet to travel, but if the rising tendency of prices is to be viewed with serious aversion by consumers, stocks have reached their peaks, and the downward movement is imminent.

This hesitancy to take the buying side, and a preference to be guided by current news was reflected in the market in the past week. Rails were active on the anticipation of better March earnings, and belated recognition of the unusual weather conditions the roads had to confront in February. Union Pacific ended the week at 137 3-4, up 1-4 over the final price of the previous seven-day period. Baltimore & Ohio was strong on Tuesday, selling at 52½, and St. Paul preferred at 40½. Rock Island common at 33 7-8 were active. Atlantic Coast Line, Delaware & Hudson and New Orleans, Texas & Mexico were also popular with the rail traders. The outstanding feature of the group was the succession of new highs made by Canadian Pacific, caused mainly by investment from investment buying abroad. A high of 160 was made on Wednesday, and yesterday, the close was 157 1-4.

General Motors common struck new highs with the same rapidity noticed in Canadian Pacific. The movement culminated on Wednesday at 17⅛, the rise starting from 15 5-8 on Monday. United States Steel common depicted the general market trend with a loss over the week of 1⅛ points, the closing price standing at 105 1-8.

The oils were unsettled from beliefs in further crude cuts, and the announcement of reductions in the prices of kerosene and gasoline. Standards of California and of New Jersey touched new lows, the former losing 1 7-8 and the latter 1 1-8 points. California Petroleum was weak in the early days of the week, but at a final price of 98 3-4 was up 5-8 of a point.

COTTON SELLS LOWER IN SHORT SESSION

NEW YORK, April 21. — The list was again under pressure in today's abbreviated cotton market session but rallied strongly and closed considerably above its low level. An opening bulge of 2 to 9 points encouraged renewed liquidation and it came in large volume, producing a decline, which, while more orderly than yesterday's and with losses less severe, had the market 13 to 48 points net lower at the end of the first hour. An active demand for contracts developed in the second hour and a sharp rally lifted prices above the previous closing level, the crop months leading the advance and showing gains of 12 to 29 points at the high level, while the old crop months were some 5 to 7 points higher. However, in the final minutes of trading, prices fluctuated violently there, with the near months leading the second decline, and final prices were 26 points lower to 5 points higher.

Spot cotton was quiet, 30 points decline, middling upland 27.30. Sales nil.

Southern markets: Galveston holiday; New Orleans, 27.25, 25 points decline; Savannah, 27.50, unchanged; Augusta, 26.75, 25 points decline. Memphis, 28.50, unchanged; Houston, holiday; Little Rock, 27.50, unchanged.

STANDARD OIL MAKES SATISFACTORY REPORT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—The net profits of the Standard Oil Company in California for 1922 were $27,019,812, or 10.31 per cent on the combined issued capital and book surplus of $262,150,578 as of December 31, 1922, according to the annual report of the company issued today. The net profits are reached after deducting depreciation, depletion, interest on debentures and estimated income taxes.

The State's crude oil production increased from a daily average of 314,613 barrels in January, 1922, to a daily average of 497,630 in December, 1922, according to the report. Of the 80,000 barrels a day it was necessary to shut in during December, the company's share was 30,000 barrels a day.

Possessing all the Elements of a Sound Investment

IN analyzing an industrial security it is customary to give first consideration to the following points: (a) Value of assets, (b) record of earnings, and (c) stability of business.

Some investors—those of searching minds—go more deeply into the situation and analyze the future value of the company's assets, its future earning power, and the future of its market.

On all of these points, past, present and future, the Earl Fruit Company checks up so strongly that we especially urge the most critical comparisons. Its assets consist largely of fruit and farm lands in the choicest agricultural districts of several States, which are destined to steady enhancement in value; its earning power is assured by a tremendous annual turnover (last year more than $44,000,000) and low operating costs; and the permanency of its market is guaranteed by the fact that it is international and so wide in its scope (as to both territory and variety of products) that it is stabilized by the law of average.

Bonds of the Earl Fruit Company possess all the elements of a sound investment, which fact gives them high rank and makes them exceptionally desirable on the present price basis.

First Mortgage Bonds Backed By Over 35 Years of Business Success

EARL FRUIT COMPANY
First Mortgage 6½% 15-Year Bonds

ORGANIZATION. The Company embodies a complete operating unit covering every phase of the fruit business from producer to consumer:

It has 23 separately located ranch properties of its own—supplementing these with the products of hundreds of growers who are under contract with it.

It owns and operates 89 packing plants and warehouses strategically located in all the important fruit growing sections of California, Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

A complete sawmill, box and crate plant meets all needs of the Company in this regard and it shows good income from sales to outside interests besides.

Marketing is through Fruit Auction Companies owned and operated in New York and Baltimore—the former handling 40% of all green fruit sold in New York City in 1922.

These Bonds embody, we believe, every attribute that a conservative investment should have—the Company has been in operation many years—it is engaged in a great basic industry—the security is valued at twice the bond issue—net Earnings have been more than twice interest charges every year for the past four years, etc. Ask us to explain further.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 21.—Speculators for the decline launched another attack on prices at the opening of today's stock market, forcing recessions of 1 to 4 points in a number of industrial and railroad leaders, but good buying support made its appearance at the lower levels and a number of the early losses were modified or entirely canceled.

There were no outside developments to influence a resumption of selling pressure, which was merely a continuation of that inspired by a number of unfavorable influences yesterday. Extensive short covering operations set in after the first hour and gave added impetus to the moderate rally in the closing dealings.

Speculative interest again was attracted to the sugar shippers on Himley's revised estimate, placing the Cuban crop at 3,735,000 tons as against an earlier estimate of 4,102,857. Cuba cane sugar preferred closed 2 points higher at 62 after having touched 62 1-4 and registered net gains of 1 and 1 3-8 respectively.

Pan-American Oil issues were strong on Mr. Doheny's announcement of the projected development in the California naval reserve oil lands. The A stock closed 2 1-8 higher at 71 3-4 after having touched 72 5-8 and the B stock showed a net gain of 1 3-4.

The other oils moved within narrow irregular limits. Steel shares had a temporary sinking spell, United States Steel common getting as low as 104 3-8 but rallying later to 105 1-8, off ½. Crucible closed a point lower and most of the others showed a fractional concessions on the day. Some of the other outsanding heavy spots in the industrial list were American Locomotive, American Sumatra Tobacco, General American Tank Car, Manhattan Electrical Supply, Mathieson Alkali and Postum Cereal, all off ½ to 3⅛ points.

Investment rails, which previously had offered good resistance to selling power broke sharply in absence of sufficient buying support below current price levels.

Louisville and Nashville broke 3 1-4 points and Illinois Central, Union Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Frisco and Chicago Northwestern closed 1 to nearly 2½ points below Saturday's closing levels.

Trading in foreign exchange was dull with no important changes in rates. Demand sterling eased slightly to 4.66 1-4, French francs held steady around 6.65 cents and German marks were quoted around .037 cents.

The weekly clearing-house statement showed a decrease of $19,770,000 in loans, discounts and investments and $202,000 in cash in own vaults. Reserve of members in the Federal reserve bank increased by $9,759,000 net demand deposits by $48,393,000 and time deposits by $1,417,000. Aggregate reserve totaled $522,740,000, leaving an excess reserve of $15,596,740, an increase of $3,503,440 over the previous week.

Day's total sales 61,300 shares.

Twenty industrials averaged 101.10, net loss .28, high 1923, 105.38; low 96.96.

Twenty railroads averaged 86.75; net loss .60. High 1923, 90.63; low 84.53.

NEW YORK CURB

Mixed Trading

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 21.—The market varied the last week from pronounced strength in the first three days to unsettled conditions in the last half of the week when many of the early gains were either reduced or lost and the tone abruptly changed from strength to weakness. In the early dealings many stocks, including leading industrials and petroleum shares, were in demand on a large scale, some making new high records, but the strength then shown disappeared, when securities on the stock exchange were placed under pressure and that market was subjected to vigorous bear attacks and called on to stand a substantial amount of liquidation. The motor groups were among the most prominent features, Cleveland making an advance of over five points to the new high record of 34⅝. Hydrox was another strong feature, moving up to the new high record of 25.

Markets React Despite Bullish Trade Reports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 21.—Reactionary tendencies characterized this week's financial and commodity markets. Despite additional reports of record-breaking steel and iron production, building construction and March cotton consumption, there was a noticeable slackening of demand in certain industries and a relaxing price tendency.

Crude oil, gasoline, coffee, rubber, lead and copper prices were shaded during the week. Sugar prices broke sharply on the announcement of the government's suit to prevent speculation on the raw sugar futures, but they made good recovery later on additional reports of a crop shortage.

Money rates continued relatively easy, with call loans dropping as low as 4 per cent towards the end of the week and more time money available at 5¼ per cent for these short maturities. Bankers were still holding out for 5½ per cent for longer dates.

One of the most significant developments of the week was the increased foreign demand for stocks and bonds. The recently announced reduction of British taxes is believed to have given impetus to foreign buying.

BANKRUPTCY PETITIONS

Rodney Benson, a manufacturer of chemical products at Santa Barbara, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court yesterday, giving his debts as $79,735.96 and his assets as $10,500. A pauper affidavit accompanies the petition.

J. M. Hodgen, San Luis Obispo, filed a similar petition. He has debts amounting to $1634.87 and assets $112.95.

A Great Untapped Market

It is estimated that of all the homes in the United States, not over 30% are wired for electricity.

Less than 6% of the homes are equipped with electrical household appliances.

Less than 1% of the farms use electric power.

This shows a great untapped market for electrical energy in the United States, and the investigations indicate that these percentages are general and are not confined to any one particular locality.

With such a field for growth, prosperity is assured the conservative managed utility, and that in turn renders its bonds exceedingly attractive for investment.

In the case of Eastern utilities at the present time the yield is high. Send for detailed information on these desirable offerings.

Wanted—BOND SALESMEN

(Men of Character)

ONE of the leading houses of the Pacific Coast can use immediately two high-grade men. Ex-bankers, or bond men, or business executives with some knowledge of bonds, are preferred. They must be men of good personality, high standing, and capable of inspiring and retaining the confidence of all with whom they come in contact.

An opportunity of this character is rarely open and merits the consideration of the very highest type of man.

Interviews will be granted to those whose letters seem meritorious and include the following information: Age (preferably between 25 and 50;) general business experience; bond or financial experience; present connections, if any; place of residence; how long in California; average earning capacity; present income requirements.

Communications will be held in confidence. Address D.X., Box 331, TIMES BRANCH, Los Angeles.

DIRECTORS: Bankers, Professional men,—known to you

That's the story of FAZIO DEVELOPMENT COMPANY, now drilling according to strict geology on one of the most clearly defined unbroken oil structures in Famous Ventura County.

A former hole drilled to 1150 feet, directly offsetting present operations, blew gas and heavy oil showings; hole was lost through accident when about ready to cement.

We have been approached several times by large interests to absorb our holdings but we consider this a proven lease of high quality paraffin oil and we are determined to develop the acreage ourselves. Some additional capital desired.

$100 per share, offered subject to prior sale. $100 equals 1-10th of 1% of entire enterprise—320 acres.

Earning power of one share with only one 500-barrel well at $2.50 per barrel would be $37.50 per month gross; and we have room for sixty (60) such wells on this big lease, with ample drainage for each well to insure practically unlimited life.

Complete equipment installed, well drilling deeper every minute. Quick action is advised here. Investigation and examination invited; highest banking and personal references. Call FAZIO DEVELOPMENT COMPANY, 918 Stock Exchange Building. Phone 153-54.

We've just acquired Royalties in 7 wells drilling below 3000 feet

This last week we have acquired land owners' royalties in seven wells—all now drilling below 3000 feet. Every one a good safe bet—purchased right, and nearing big production.

Our subscribers share in all the oil produced from all these wells and from all the others we are acquiring, too. No deductions for drilling costs either, because our royalties are paid from gross production, not net profits.

You, too, can share in these returns and help to buy more royalties whether you have $100 or $10,000 to invest. Come to our office—we'll prove the superiority of our methods.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Losses were in the majority among the oil stocks yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, while the mining shares indicated a moderately buoyant tone. Simon Silver, the pacemaker in the mining list, gained 1 cent to 42, and Globe Petroleum featured the petroleum securities by a 3-cent decline to 41.

Recessions were registered in General Petroleum common, Union Oil Associates and Globe. General Petroleum sold down to a low for the session of 36 3-4, and closed at 37 1-4, off 1-4 of a point from the final price of the previous session. Globe moved between 43 and 40 cents and closed at 41. Union Oil Associates was off 1-4 at 47 1-4, and Standard Oil of California was firm at 50 5-8. U.S. Royalties moved up 1 cent to 88.

Trading was active in Gold Ore at 7 cents, up ½, and Tom Reed was quiet at 93. Simon Silver opened at 41 and completed the session at 42, up 1 cent. San Francisco Gold was revived after a long period of neglect, and sales were made at 3½ cents.

Goodyear Tire and Rubber preferred sold as high as 86 3-4 on light offerings. Globe Grain common was quoted at 63.

"CASH" PUT ME ON EASY STREET!

Thousands have asked me the past few days to do this. Here is the answer: I am known by my friends and business associates as CASH STALL. My four-acre lease is located on EASY Street Western extension Santa Fe Springs, on top of the structure. My Geologists, Messrs. Sweet, Reber, Meyers, bear me out in this statement by their report. The trend of devlopment proves it. Take advantage of this opportunity.
"CASH" WILL PUT YOU ON EASY STREET.
"CASH" Stall.

Brains! Geological

Big oil companies know where to buy leases. The best geological brains in the country tell them where. Standard, Amalgamated, Union, Associated, etc., own leases surrounding our property in the Western Extension. Our geologist tells us we are on top of the oil structure. Our President, Mr. "Cash" Stall, believes the Mother Pool of the whole field is under us.

Brains! Organization

No better oil organization ever existed than the C. C. Stall Oil Association. The trustees and their associates, headed by Mr. Stall, are all men of successful business records, good reputation, and long standing in this community. When you invest with them you are in the best company you could possibly find. Investigate their records. Satisfy yourself in every way regarding them.

Their names are:

C. C. Stall
H. G. Flint
H. W. Kelley
Theodore Lindstrom
H. A. Lebihan
J. Russel Berry
Myrtle R. Kelley
C. A. Crow
A. W. Crow

Brains! Drilling

Rogers and Edwards, who will drill our first hole, are the best drillers in California. They are under contract to do a "turnkey job" for us. This means that the hole must be perfect or they will drill another without further expense. Investigate them.

You Want the Best—Here It Is!

The success of an oil investment depends on brains, geological, organization and drilling. In the C. C. Stall Oil Association you have this combination of brains, which means unqualified success. Our interests at $100.00 each are going fast. Take advantage of this exceptional opportunity today. Visit us Sunday. If driving yourself, follow our signs on Telegraph Road to the lease. If not, phone our office for reservation. Will be glad to take you out in a private car. Meet our officers. Talk to them. Satisfy yourself thoroughly, and when you are satisfied ACT! Buy all that you can handle. You will never have this opportunity again.

No Foolin'—

We have a deal on now with some of the best oil men in the State of Colorado to take all of the balance of the Units of the Brazos-Bryan Oil Syndicate at Par.

These men have inspected the property and have already bought heavily. They wanted an option but we wouldn't give it to them. We told them to take as much as they liked and this they are trying to do.

They may take it all—at any rate they will take a good chunk of what we have left. Because we wouldn't give them an option, you still have a chance to get in, so rush us your checks for as many units as you can handle at Par $10.00 each.

Remember the Brazos-Bryan Oil Syndicate is drilling on 1000 acres in a single block and that the entire capitalization is only $100,000. You have a chance to win $500 for every $10 invested.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Foreign Bonds Gain

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, April 21.—Marked strength of foreign government issues featured today's brief and comparatively dull trading in bonds. Mexican 4s jumped 2½ points and the 5s advanced fractionally on reports that negotiations were under way between the United States and the Obregon government and were progressing satisfactorily. French issues continued to show improvement, French-American 7½s advancing a cent and the other issues touching the high marks established yesterday. They reacted slightly at the close. Chinese 5s dropped 1 1-8 points.

United States government bonds moved within narrow limits, fluctuations being confined to 6-32 of a point. Railroad mortgages displayed a reactionary trend, but losses generally were small. Chicago and Alton 3½s were off 1 1-4 points and Western Pacific 5s droped 1 point. Tractions were fairly active, Interborough Rapid Transit refunding 5s gaining a point.

Industrial bonds on the whole held comparatively firm in quiet trading. Punta Alegre Sugar 7s, which lost ground yesterday, advanced 2 points.

Total sales (par value) were $6,114,000.

THIS COMBINED OIL ROYALTY

offering, available for a few days only.

Your single purchase buys an oil-royalty interest in the HEART of the town of Santa Fe Springs; 5 wells, five of them about to be brought in; surrounded by 10,000 and 12,000-barrel producers.

Total drainage area of approximately 5 ACRES, right among the monster wells. All drilling contracts to the Meyer Sand. A bank acts as your depositary and trustee. If you have $1500 or MORE, do not fail to investigate this at once. This is so ultra-in-value, gilt-edged, and elsewhere unobtainable, that all we ask is that you—

WEIGH THE FACTS AND THEN USE YOUR BUSINESS JUDGMENT.

Mr. Oil Royalty Buyer!

Buying Oil Royalties in Santa Fe Springs and Signal Hill that will stand the acid test to which we subject them will make you real profits.

Our long established business reputation, backed by substantial capital, has made possible our purchasing the most desirable Royalty Offerings in Signal Hill and Santa Fe Springs. We buy Royalties in large blocks and divide them up to suit our clients.

All Royalty Assignments purchased from us are direct assignments from Robert Marsh & Co., Inc., as we sell only those Royalties in which we have invested our own capital.

You should investigate our plan of selling and buying Oil Royalties. A thorough knowledge of our methods of handling this business will prove interesting to you and will serve as a safeguard to your investments.

We deal exclusively in the buying and selling of Oil Royalties and Leases and at present we have a number of unusually attractive Royalty Offerings, one of which is in a well now cemented over the Meyer sand at Santa Fe Springs at the very top of the structure—another within a few feet of the Evans well, which has averaged 3100 barrels daily production for approximately 60 days.

We invite your investigation.

FOR SALE—Oil Royalty—Gusher Production!

WONDERFUL OPPORTUNITY to purchase several one per cent Royalties in well now drilling at 3300 feet in rich oil sands in the world-famed Lovelady Gusher Pool at Signal Hill. This well is within 75 feet of a 3000-barrel producer and within 300 feet of several monster gushers that came in at the rate of 4000 to 5000 barrels daily and after several months' production are still producing around an average of 3000 barrels daily. This well will undoubtedly come in at 4000 barrels within twenty to twenty-five days. One per cent of a 4000-barrel well should pay you about $1000 a month. The only reason for selling is that the owner needs cash. Act quickly. Price is right and best of references. We can prove every statement made and will take you to the well in a private car without any obligations. Write for appointment. Address D.V., Box 129, TIMES OFFICE.

19 Money Making Wells Flying the Silver "F"

Checks by the thousands go out every month from the Foster offices distributing returns earned by Foster producing oil wells.

19 of them, day and night, are producing the liquid wealth behind those checks. Here are the wells—practically a score of them—with their orange tops, silvered by a great letter "F"—

12 MORE DRILLING

Shipley No. 1 is making hole at 3000 feet. Huntington No. 1 looks like a million at 3100 feet. No. 50 is passing the 2300-foot mark, while Californian No. 2 is tearing through the Ryder sand at 3650.

Simplex No. 1 is roaring at 3900—Miracle No. 2 has said good-bye to 2300 feet—Miracle No. 3 is speeding by the 3200-foot mark and Miracle No. 6 is making good, clean hole at 3500. Mathews No. 1 is sliding along pretty at 2200 feet—Carter No. 1 is just getting her feet wet at 600—No. 63 is washing over at 3665 feet.

FLASH!

Boeske No. 2—1300 feet from YANKEE, Flows 10,000 Barrels per Hour!

"Tapping what is believed by geologists to be a new oil bearing sand, the Boeske-Wardman No. 2 was placed on production Friday registering a flow said to be nearly 10,000 barrels the first hour." L. A. TIMES, April 21.

This well adjoins Foster's 19-acre Santa Fe Springs lease of which Yankee is a part.

And Yankee

The men who completed those 19 wells—who are drilling 12 more—and have 8 more under contract to drill—Fred B. Foster & Company—those same men offer you for a limited period an opportunity to buy units in Yankee.

Yankee drills two wells on 5 acres that cost $100,000 because they are the closest acreage to the biggest wells that could be bought. They are a part of a 19-acre tract due West of and immediately adjoining the Julian No. 4 and the Russell, both splendid producers. And there are more than 20 giant wells within half a mile.

Yankee has 4000 units at $100 each. It will cost their full price—$400,000—to put Yankee across. Your first returns from Yankee will be a full 100% of your investment, which you will get before the Fosters draw down a dollar. Thereafter, through the years that Yankee may produce, you will share pro-rata in a full 50% of the profits with the Fosters. You can begin to count the hours that Yankee, with a four-square proposition like that, will have any units for sale. They are going fast, because Yankee's wells are being drilled by a company which at the end of 1923 will have doubled the number of dividend-paying wells whose derricks are now crowned by the big, silver "F."

A well said to have come in with an initial flow of 8000 barrels was put on production by the Universal Oil Company on the O'Connell lease in the Santa Fé Springs field at 4670 feet Saturday.

The flow was pinched down and under high gas pressure the well was said to be making 4500 barrels yesterday. The O'Connell lease is near the corner of Little Lake and Butler Roads and is in the district where are located the White Star No. 2, Parkford No. 1, and Getty No. 7.

In New Quarters

The Union Oil Company's production department has moved into new buildings which were erected on the Newland lease on Hampshire street, in Huntington [illegible]. The new camp consist of office, warehouse, large [illegible] and a modern bungalow for the foreman of each department.

Has Seven Drilling

The General Average Royalties Company has expanded its activities to handle a general brokerage business, and has added personnel to specialize in that line.

The company expects to make headquarters in the Haas Building, buying, selling and exchanging oil royalties and leases.

The company announces that it has just acquired land owners' royalties in seven wells now drilling below 3000 feet.

Oil Club Plans Home

The Petroleum Commercial Club of Long Beach, an organization of local oil operators, which represents in its membership a business and private wealth of more than $250,000,000, has just launched a membership drive, at the conclusion of which plans will be made for the erection of a $400,000 clubhouse.

The site for the new structure has been tentatively chosen, it is said. It will front on the ocean, probably along Ocean Boulevard. T. J. Cannon, head of the T. J. Cannon Drilling Company, is president of the club, and Verne Dumas, head of the Blue Tank Pipe Line and Refinery Company group, is vice-president.

Big Deals in Leases

Two transactions which totaled $500,000 took place in the Santa Fe field yesterday, according to reports. Kirkpatrick Brothers' Syndicate No. 4 is said to have paid $400,000 for the oil rights on the twenty-acre lease owned by Oscar Howard. The property is located near Julian No. 4.

Ferdon & Vurpillat are said to have paid $100,000 for the oil rights on a five-acre tract near Julian Nos. 8 and 9, buying the rights from Dave Rosenberg, owner of the property. The tract is listed as the Archer lease.

Trouble with Sand

The Leonard No. 8 well at Orange avenue and Signal Hill Drive in Long Beach has sanded up more than 800 feet in the tubing. Efforts to bring the well in as a producer were started three days ago, but swabbing resulted in frequent short flows by heads and also demonstrated that the well has a complete water shut-off. Another attempt will be made to place the well on production after it is cleaned out. It is down to 3707 feet.

Raise Money to Deepen

Oil operators in the south end of the Santa Fe Springs pool are reported to have subscribed $15,000 to a fund which is to be used in deepening the Ferdon & Vurpillat well on Norwalk Road, according to a statement made today by one of the subscribers.

Drilled to 5251 feet with funds from the syndicate and money advanced by the trstees, work stopped at that depth. Feeling that the Meyers sand can be located at a greater depth, those interested are going to have the well drilled to 5600 feet.

Basing their action on a report prepared by a geologist, the operators believe that a dip of the Meyers sand in the south end of the field will be found at about 5600 feet.

Has Sidetracking Job

The sidetracking of approximately 2100 feet of drill pipe was begun today in Miley-Mills No. 3 well on the John T. Mills lease, in the flood control channel district in Long Beach. The well is 4028 feet deep. It developed a fishing job three weeks ago.

An overshot was run successfully for several days and a total of 2000 feet of pipe was recovered. The overshot and two joints of ten-inch casing were finally lost, but were fished out about a week ago, and fishing for the remainder of the drill pipe was started.

It was discovered, however, that the drill pipe is split and efforts to recover it failed. The well has shown more or less oil coloring.

Will Drill for Stall

The C. C. Stall Oil Association announced yesterday that it has engaged Rogers & Edwards to drill a well for it in the near future. It is to be a turnkey job. Rogers & Edwards are said to have drilled sixty wells without failing to get a producer. Their new job will be in the western extension of Santa Fe Springs.

Penetrates Oil Sand

According to the L. A. Lambert Company, on Thursday night their drill penetrated the oil sands in Lambert well No. 1, showing considerable oil at a depth of 3235 feet. The company expects that the well will be brought in at about 3900 feet.

Lambert No. 1 was spudded in February 14 and is located on Orange avenue, between Burnett and Willow streets, in Long Beach.

This is the second oil showing the Hogan Drilling Company has found for the Lambert Syndicates. In L. A. Lamber Oil Syndicate No. 2, at a depth of 2250 feet, heavy gas pressure and considerable oil was encountered.

Lambert-Hampton No. 1 is down more than 3400 feet. Allied Motion Picture Oil Syndicate well No. 1 is down below 1300 feet, and L. A. Lambert Oil Syndicate's No. 2 has gone below the 3800-foot mark

"My Last Oil Syndicate This Year"

"FOLKS"

"If you haven't yet, you'd better now," for this "three-well offer" I'm laying before you today fills my drilling program for the rest of this year. But even though I have to say this myself, I want to tell you it's the "keenest little offer I have ever yet submitted."

"My $250,000 Cash 5-Acre Lease" is the back-bone of this offer, and that really should be all you need to know, but I'm going to give you the whole story in detail.

My offer comprises the drilling of three wells.

They are all started right now.

I have two leases — one five-acre tract in the heart of the "8000-barrel wells" at Santa Fe Springs and one 20-acre tract at "Compton," offsetting "the Callender Well property of the Union Oil Co. there."

The 5-acre tract is part of the Globe Petroleum Lease where my Numbers 1, 2 and 3 wells are located at Santa Fe Springs. For this choice parcel I paid the Globe Petroleum Company the "handsome sum" of "two hundred and fifty thousand dollars cash." So you can imagine what I think about it.

My 20-acre lease at Compton will appeal to you as a "Wildcat," but don't overlook your "old warhorse" when it comes to picking winners. I know plenty about that Union Oil Company Callender Well that I am offsetting. You know I told you I know ninety per cent of all the drillers of California by their first name.

Don't overlook the fact that these three wells are all started right now and my full crews are at work on all three of them. There are 7500 units at $100 each and each $100 you invest gives you 1-7500 part of my production from the whole three wells.

"On the $250,000 Globe lease" there will be two wells only, and we get 50% of the total production from the both of them.

On the 20-acre Compton lease I am drilling one well and we get "80% of the total production" from it, from the start, but 30% will go in escrow when it comes in to drill us three more wells on this twenty acres, so instead of buying into three wells, "you are actually buying into six wells," providing the Compton Well is a big producer.

"Here's Where I Get Off"

I put up the $250,000 cash and let it ride right through. "I don't pull down a dime of this money or a barrel of production until I have paid you back every dollar you put in, and then I take 12½% only."

What do you think of that?

Did you ever hear of any operator ever doing that before? If you ever did, I'd like to see the color of his eye.

I've heard that several remarks have been made to this effect: "Oh, Julian will never let his backers in on that quarter of a million dollar lease at Santa Fe Springs. You'll see he'll drill a cinch like that himself." But I guess you folks know I wouldn't play the game that way. Any time I've got a cinch, you'll be cut in with me on the ground floor, whether it is today or ten years from now.

Of course, the bank handles this whole deal just the same way as all my previous projects.

You no doubt know I was $397,000 over-subscribed on my last issue, so I go away on this one with an awful start, and I can't impress on you too strenuously that you had better "grab while the grabbing is good." If I told you how long I expect this offer to be open, you might think I was dizzy, but I'm not.

"Let's go, folks." First come, "first served." You know my "slogan:" Make you a gob of money or spend every dime I own trying.

If you haven't met me, I'll be mighty pleased to "shake your mitt."

Speeders' Dramatic Experiences rvings a Three Days' Sentence in the County Jail

What with the onward march of improvements hereabouts, and the straight-front building effects decreed by the City Council, there is only one place left south of First street where you can do the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet." It is back of the ancient building at the northwest corner of Main and Second streets, and is now used for the parking of milk bottles, a dust pan and seven brooms. There used to be a balcony on the front of the building, but it went the way of most things of that kind when the building was remodeled.

LEMON-COLORED BATHROOMS AND TROUSERS FOR GIRL HIKERS

Famous Decorator Says Ugly Furniture Breaks Up Happy Marriages; Navajo Rugs and Figured Wall Paper Are Criminal

BY KATHERINE LIPKE

The reason for unhappy marriages has been found.

It isn't motion pictures—it isn't the flappers—it isn't the degenerating influence of these modern days.

It's the parlor furniture.

There you are.

Cedric Gibbons of Goldwyn's studio, whose sets are noted for their beauty and accuracy and harmony, lays marital unhappiness to the house furnishings. In fact, Mr. Gibbons goes so far as to state that he could take two people ideally suited to each other and who were very much in love, and could design a home which would separate them inside six months!

"You can so furnish a room," said Mr. Gibbons, "that you get absolutely no repose—the walls, the furniture and the whole thing suggesting nothing but argument. Most people follow the suggestion, too.

"Take Bill Hart's home, for instance. It is draped with Navajo blankets and lined with stuffed animals and guns and knives. All very well, but it is the most restless place imaginable, suggesting nothing but fighting and excitement. Well, you know what happened. I firmly believe that in harmonious surroundings Bill Hart and his wife could be happy today. A Navajo blanket is all very well on the back of an Indian with a dull gray desert behind him, but I can imagine nothing worse for a man's edisposition or chances for happiness than a Navajo-blanket, stuffed-animal house."

THOSE WEDDING PRESENTS!

Inferior interior decoration! That is the keynote of the trouble. However, Mr. Gibbons admits that for average people with average taste and an average income the problem isn't an easy one.

He says that "the minute a man marries a girl he gets wedding presents of varying taste and type which must be used somewhere. Then either the girl's mother dies and leaves them her furniture, or the girl brings with her 'mother's' table, which she just can't do without. Now 'mother' may be a very nice woman, but that doesn't improve 'mother's' table a bit. There have to be chairs to go with it, and undoubtedly the chairs which match are quite ugly, but have to be gotten anyway because of the longing for the table. Before one knows it the whole house looks simply fearful.

"Then there is the American family idea of forming attachments for articles of furniture, refusing to give them up. Father just has to have his old chair with the leaky springs, another member insists on keeping the picture of Hope sitting on the top of the world, and by this time the room is absolutely ruined. Many a room has been spoiled because it has been built around one article of furniture which some one had fused to give up."
formed an attachment for and re-

THE HARMONY HITTERS

Mr. Gibbons certainly hits us all on this point, doesn't he? The centerpiece which Cousin Susie made for you when you were married, or the painting of the line-up of pansies which you did your very own self, after only three lessons—these are some of the harmony hitters Mr. Gibbons is talking about. Pansies may stand for thoughts, but, oh, what thoughts! It might be well for all of us to "psych" our homes and dig out some of these mars to a happy marriage.

"The home should be a place of rest," explained Mr. Gibbons. "It should be a hiding place from the world, but there can be no hiding or rest if the whole house is noisy with violent designs. My advice to home makers of limited income is to devote your time and thought to the living-room first, because you spend most of your time there, although the dining-room is also very important. A glaringly discordant dining-room so often affects the disposition that indigestion results.

WALLPAPER NIGHTMARES

"The bedroom should, of course, suggest rest and peace. I don't see how anyone can sleep surrounded by wallpaper atrocities. Figured wallpaper is in my estimation the worst of crimes against harmonious home making! I should think that landlords would realize that plain paper makes a room look much larger and increases its value.

"Once when very ill, the doctor thought a rest would do me good and so installed me in a house where I would be very quiet. My room was festooned with roses of all colors, sizes and shapes. They climbed and crept and did all front of my bed was a picture of sorts of outlandish things. In front of my bed was the picture of a lion, the picture being framed with bars to suggest the bars of a cage. The picture rested heavily on a fragile rose bud on the wall. This phenomenon worried me so much that my temperature went up and they had to get me out of the room to save my life!"

STARK SIMPLICITY

I think Mr. Gibbons caught me taking covert glances around his office, for he hastened to add, "Now this office is absolutely impossible artistically! And my rented house in Hollywood is just twice as impossible. But then, you see, I play around with the right sort of thing all day long and don't need the soothing influence. I haven't a wife either who might get angry

BEES, WAR STRATEGISTS

Naturalist Tells How a Snail Invader of a Hive Was Beaten Scientifically

Did you know that the bee is a past master in the art of war? Did you know that every hive of bees is so thoroughly organized that its entire population of 50,000 to 100,000 responds almost instantly to a call for conflict whenever an invader approaches? The authority for this information is Michael W. Barrett, bee expert, internationally known as the "Bee King" and reputed to be one of the foremost authorities on bees, both from the theoretical and practical standpoints, in America.

Mr. Barrett has been studying and experimenting with bees for forty-five years—ever since his boyhood days.

He has made a special study of the way bees defend themselves. He has made numerous interesting discoveries, some of which he passes along to the public for the first time in this article.

"Next time you go near a bee hive look closely and you will see several bees flying around it in a wide circle," says Mr. Barrett. "If you made an effort to approach, closer to the hive some of the bees in this group would attack you and the rest would hurry to the hive to warn its entire population of the approach of an invader. If you continued to walk toward the hive an army of thousands of bees would swarm out of it to attack you.

THE SNAIL ENEMY

"The bees constantly flying about outside the hive are sentinels or outposts. They are the exterior unit of the bees' superior fighting organization. This organization, as my research work has proven conclusively has its vanguard of shock troops, its regular fighting legions, its chemists, engineers, and a hundred and one other kinds of units that go to make up its fighting force just the same as a nation of humans."

The section of a bee hive being held up by Mr. Barrett in the accompanying illustration graphically portrays the ability of bees to adopt such tactics as may be necessary in each individual instance to turn back an invader.

In this case the invader was a large snail, bent on stealing some of the bees' honey and getting away. The pillager decided that it would be possible for him to enter the hive badly, steal as much honey as he could eat and make away in safety. Evidently, the snail thought that because his shell armor made him immune from stings of the bees they would be unable to find a way to treat with him. The snail did not allow for the wonderful resourcefulness of the bee.

THREW OUT WALL

Mr. Barrett saw the snail enter the bee box, one he had prepared especially so that he could observe how the bees handled various invaders. He watched the bees take care of the snail. Let Mr. Barrett tell how it was done.

"The bees did not attempt to rout the snail by stinging him. The wonderful clairvoyant power, or second sense, that the bees have seemed to tell them that it was useless to try to sting the snail through his shell.

"The leaders of the war forces held a quick consultation, while the main army of the bees threw up a wall of bees around the snail. The decision of the leaders led to a very strange happening. The bees formed in lines a dozen or more abreast, and hurried from the floor of the bee box up into a section where the wax was stored.

ARMED WITH WAX

"Each bee took as much wax as could be carried and hurried back to the spot where the snail was combating the wall of bees that surrounded him. Each bee dropped the wax near the snail and hurried back for more. In a surprisingly short time the snail's shell was stuck to the floor of

FRA JUNIPERO'S SANDALS

Interesting Relics of the Mission Fathers in the Litle Court Yard of the Plaza Church

BY WYNONAH BREZEALE JOHNSON

Where the roar of the city's busy life surges and echoes through the crowded streets, just inside the old brick walls there is a spot so unexpected, so quiet and dim, and so full of memories that it seems as though one were stepping across the threshold of a forgotten land, just as in the old fairy books.

It is only a small court, cool and restful after the beat and roar of the busy city without, with the sunshine golden on its streets; the arches and graceful columns of the ancient building support at intervals the gnarled stems of the grape vine.

A black-clad figure bends above the dwarf orange tree by the fountain. Outside the busy world moves on. Within the shadow of these walls, time stands still and the glamor of the past broods.

THE OLD MUSEUM

The figure raises its head at the sound of hesitating footsteps on the flagstones. The museum? But surely. Come.

Within one of the archways is tucked two tiny cell-like rooms which shelter some of the dearest treasures of ancient California, yet few have found them, where they lie, just ten minutes from the hum of Broadway.

The dignified young Father leads the way into the high-ceiled rooms, cold with the chill of ancient unsunned stone. Against the wall is a tall glass case, and hung within it is the richest and most exquisite of vestments. There are the cream and gold of pontifical robes, embroidered with the patience and skill of fingers long since dust; stoles and scarfs, they hang within their glass case, as shimmering and rich as when fashioned so many years ago.

Above is suspended a massive bell, the first to call the worshippers to mass under the California skies, when the friars brought the Word to the wondering Indians; hanging from a sturdy tree, and struck with solemn force by the blackrobed fathers, its deep tones reverberated over the hills in those days long past.

There is a different gong, too, a curious instrument carved from native wood, and so arranged that when the handle is turned, the cogs give out a creaking noise. It

GIRLS HAVE UGLY HANDS

American Flappers Getting Knobs on Fingers

Figures, Too, Are Damaged by Sports

Famous Sculptor Favors the Hobble Skirts

BY STERLING HEILIG

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

PARIS, April 3.—American girls' hands are, certainly, growing bigger. Such is the admission of American glove buyers in France, whose practice is now, currently, to stock two sizes larger than before the war.

"But the war had nothing to do with it," says Albert Gihon, the American painter in Paris, who, in a way, is a specialist of girls' hands, because he is famous for the beauty of them in his portraits.

"The war is merely a date for it," says Gihon. "American girls' hands had begun to grow big and knobby before 1914!"

As a fact, 1913-14 was the year in which Daniel Chester French, the well-known American sculptor, gave first warning that our girls were in danger of losing the beauty of their hands by the practice of out-door sports. It created quite a stir. Then, soon, the war made it forgotten.

NATURAL BEAUTY

Now, Albert Gihon, known highly both as portrait and landscape painter, has started up again the important subject.

"American girls have, naturally, the most beautiful hands in the world," says Gihon. "They come, with the whole dower of feminine beauty, from the excellent nutrition of American parents and the healthy mixture of bloods which marks out land. We have welded the bloods together and even developed race—that last distinction of beauty, which is capable of resisting mere decadence for centuries. It is a pity that such lovely hands must become distorted and knobby!"

FRENCH HANDS

"American girls' hands are becoming bigger," says Gihon, "but not like men's hands, I regret to say. The facts are worse. The hands of American college girls and generally, those who go in for sports around the age of 15, are becoming ugly and distorted! French girls' hands will go the same way, if the present craze for outdoor sports gains on them."

He told of a conscientious French confrere who painted a millionaire's beautiful bride with her hands behind her back.

"When critics insinuated that it was done because hands are difficult to paint," says Gihon, "the chivalrous fellow answered nothing to justify himself. The girl had a lovely face; and her gown hid any angularites of figure. How could he proclaim that her hands, from squeezing a tennis racket, had developed fingers with knobby joints?"

GRIP ON REINS

Horsewomen obtain knobby fingers, with the knobs situated slightly different. The grip on the reins does its work, by a kind of pulling and squeezing massage.

The shock of the golf stick, repeated continually, evolves outrageous effects of knobs on the extremities of fingers. Not on men, no, no! but on the delicate but perfectly healthy fingers of the society girl.

"If they should push and pull their noses in the same way," says Gihon, "their noses would evolve a hinge. It would swing from side to side, like a door or window. The poor kids would move in arcs or circles first one way and then the other!"

BROKEN FINGERS

"But what would you think of a girl with two broken fingers on her left hand?" continues Gihon. "She is a beautiful girl otherwise, of one of our oldest California families."

Broken fingers, he says, are so common among sports girls that the moment you keep tab on them, you are surprised and shocked.

"Miss X——, of fine old Philadelphia family, has a busted thumb on her left hand, and a stiff middle finger on the right. Miss Y——, horsewoman of Boston, would be painted in mitts, if the painter were conseintious. Miss Z—— of Washington has a broken finger on the right hand."

He shook a finger at us.

the bee box by wax and the unfortunate snail was a prisoner.

"But the bees did not stop there. They did not give up the job until the snail was entirely covered over with a coating of wax."

In the picture is shown the snail fighting a losing battle with the shock troops while the myriads of other bees enter by the right with their loads of wax, deposit it on the snail and then proceed to the left which is the exhit. This steady continuous flow of bee warriors and their labor battalion assistants is maintained until the invader is conquered.

RESERVES CALLED OUT

The six rows of bees in double phalanx formation are the reserves. They keep this position throughout the fight, and are only called upon if the battle seems to be placing the bees on the defensive. Mr. Barrett says they place their heads together from time to time as the battle progresses, evidently discussing the different phases.

Mr. Barrett pronounces this feat of the bees one of the most wonderful he has ever seen in the forty-five years that he has studied the industrious little creatures.

Investigations in the warfare of bees has convinced Mr. Barrett that no sort of animal small enough to enter their hive is a match for them. The mouse, for example, always fights a losing battle when he enters a bee hive. If the animal remains in the hive a few seconds he is stung enough times to kill him. The body is too heavy for the bees to drag out. So the body, for sanitary reasons, is sealed over entirely with wax.

"It is not an unusual thing to see a mouse or other small animal completely sealed over with wax on the floor of a bee box when the cover is lifted," said Mr. Barrett.

SHOCK TROOPS

In discussing the safeguards, the precautions bees take to protect themselves and their homes, Mr. Barrett says:

"They are not satisfied with their outside guards. Inside the entrance a squad is maintained constantly. They are flanked by a squad of fighting bees, prepared to give battle at a moment's notice.

"When a powerful invader appears the whole hive joins in the fight against him. Each bee has a certain duty to perform under such conditions. The bee knows instinctively what the task is and precisely when it should be taken up.

"The nation that could organize its power as the bees do would be unconquerable. But do not get the idea that bees are always aching for a fight. Unlike some of us humans, they have no desire to fight. They never set their war machinery into motion unless they have ample cause for so doing. But they can fight when necessary."

SULPHUR Heals An Eczema Skin

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.—[Advertisement.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles Conquered or Money Back

For 40 years, said Dr. Carey, I have been prescribing my Prescription No. 777 (known for years as Marshroot) for kidney and bladder sickness and now that I have retired from actual practice I have made arrangements with leading druggists to dispense this wonderful prescription at a moderate price, on the money back if dissatisfied plan.

Beware of kidney disease—thousands die of it every year who ought to be enjoying the blessings of life and health. Watch the symptoms. If you have specks floating before the eyes, puffy eyes, clammy feet or moist palms, backache or sideache, you ought to get a bottle of Dr. Carey's famous Prescription No. 777 right away.

It has wonderfully benefited tens of thousands of cases of kidney and bladder troubles and is the medicine you can always depend upon. Results are guaranteed.

NOTE—Dr. Daniel G. Carey was a practicing physician for many years and his great Prescription No. 777 aided thousands of sufferers from kidney and bladder troubles. Hereafter you can always get this effective prescription in both liquid and tablet form at all reliable pharmacists the country over.—[Advertisement.

INGROWN TOE NAIL

How to Toughen Skin so Nail Turns Out Itself

A few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.—[Advertisement.

PEOPLE I MET IN JAIL CELL

11. The form of introduction was just as formal as we use outside of jail—"Mr. Jackson, I want you to meet Mr. Jones."

My short experience in jail bolstered up my faith in human nature. The human heart is kind.

When the 6 o'clock gong woke us up after my first night of imprisonment one of my companions, a boy of about 25, who had already served several months, asked me how I had slept. I replied: "Very well, although that cot sagged so in the middle that I could only lie on my back." Whereupon the boy roundly denounced himself for not having thought to give me his own cot. "I've got a good one," he said. "You can sleep in mine tonight, I'm used to 'em."

HUMAN KINDNESS

Then when we went upstairs for breakfast I had to stop him from buying eggs for me so I wouldn't have to eat the regular prison fare!

"Kind hearts are more than coronets and simple faith than Norman blood."

One thought dominates all others in the prisoners' minds. That is: "When will I get out?" We do not realize the sweetness of liberty until we are deprived of it. Release is the constant subject of conversation. One man is always ready to listen and rejoice if another has optimistic news from the outside.

There is also considerable grim humor in the conversation. If a man is absent from his associates for an hour or so he will be greeted on his return with something like this: "Well, how was the show at the Orpheum this week?" I heard one man tell another that he had better have stripes put on his trousers in order to be in style where he was going.

THE DOPE PEDDLER

Mutual misfortune breaks down reserve and makes it easy and proper to ask a man what he is in for. Most of those I talked to felt that they had been unjustly imprisoned. A man of about thirty-five, whose hair is now gray, told me that it was as dark as my own when he entered the prison several months ago. He was arrested on a charge of having narcotics in his possession and has not yet been tried. His version of the story is that he was clerking in a hotel and that a stranger asked him to keep a package until Dr. So and So called for it. The stranger happened to be a dope peddler whom the Federal authorities were watching. The man who called for the drugs and gave his name as Dr. So and So was an officer. He arrested the hotel clerk, who claims he did not have the least idea of what the package contained. I heard only his side of the story; I don't know what the officer would say. This prisoner never reads the amusement sections of the newspapers; he would rather not know about the pleasant things he is missing. This man grew up with filmdom's best-known scenario writer.

A FRENCH FARCE

In the confidence that night and jail breed, one of my tank companions told me a story that would make excellent material for a French farce writer. This boy had recently undergone an operation in the jail hospital, and thereby hangs a tale. Several years ago, he had been too attentive to an engineer's wife. The husband came home unexpectedly one night, and surprised the intruder, who leaped through the window pane, without stopping to break it first, and sped across the back yard. Just as the fugitive was bending over a fence which hindered his mad flight, friend husband peppered him with a pistol. The boy got back to his rooms, in a hotel, but was afraid to notify a doctor. The chambermaid looked after him until nature healed his wound—with the bullet inside of him. There it remained until the jail surgeon removed it.

An interesting figure about the jail is a big negro warden known as Maj. Loving, who has, I believe, been there for more than twenty years. He is an excellent dresser, sports a shiny gold watch chain across his expansive waist and smokes fat cigars with the air of a born politician. The prisoners speak of him with real affection. The wardrobe trusty said.

MAJ. LOVING

"There's nothing black about the major, but his skin. He bawled me out several times for not raking up some decent clothes for prisoners when they were being discharged. I have seen him take money out of his own pocket to give to men as they were leaving."

Another interesting quality in the major is that he can tell when a prisoner has "fire in his feet," according to another informant. That is, he knows when a man is in the mood to risk escape.

The Los Angeles County Jail is terribly overcrowded. It was built in 1902 to hold 250 prisoners. It now has 514 occupants. Tanks which were made to hold thirty-two prisoners now have sixty in them. This is, of course, indecent and unsanitary. The men are huddled together like swine. At night, rats cavort over those compelled to sleep on the floor. Sheriff Traeger and Jailer Mark Bailey are doing the best they can with a bad situation.

THE BLACK HOLE

Just for the experience, I had myself locked in a "hole" for a few minutes. That was long enough. A "hole" is a steel compartment about six feet square used for the punishment of unruly prisoners. It is devoid of light and seemingly almost airtight. The prisoner's rations—bread and water—are passed to him through a slit in the door. He is allowed to take nothing into the "hole" except a bucket. He must sleep on the steel floor. This domicile is not recommended for those seeking comfort.

Frankly, I am not sorry I went to jail, although I don't intend to go again. It has given me experience, and I am convinced that is all we can expect from life.

My advice to autoists who feel the speed urge coming on them is:

First, make sure there isn't a cop in sight (or in hiding) and then don't do it.

TROUSERS FOR GIRL HIKERS

with me, and so I may be as violent in my home as I please."

I asked Mr. Gibbons what sort of a home he would build if he had millions to put into it! Down came a big book from the wall and he showed me a picture. "If I could build just exactly the sort of home I liked best, I would take the Davansati Palace at Florence for a model. I'd put a monograph of it under my pillow for six months until the real spirit of the thing had reached me and then would try to re-create it here. It is the most ideal sort of home for Southern California." I thought so too. There was sheer stark simplicity in each room. That, according to Mr. Gibbons, is the chief thing we lack.

After all, the home is merely the background for the personalities which live there. That is the principle on which Mr. Gibbons builds each set. "When the set stands out to such a degree," he explained, "that it ceases to assist the director in the dramatic action and hinders the camera man, it might just as well be the interior of any home. And that is what is the trouble with the home. A woman should consider her home as the background by which she presents herself to her husband, and should so arrange the furnishing of it that she stands out as the central optical point of the picture. She should be most careful just what sort of picture she makes, and what kind of suggestion she gives forth!"

Doesn't that make you shiver with dread? With that King Tut dress hanging in the closet, too, with bleeding hearts and pyramids chasing themselves around your waist. Think of the suggestion a row of bleeding hearts could give forth. No chance for happiness there. And does it harmonize with the furniture and walls? There's a lot of worrying to be done.

SNAPPY DRESSERS

Mr. Gibbons has very definite ideas on the subject of clothes, and he looks with absolute disgust on the average "snappy dresser." "Very few women know enough to dress in things that suit them," he said. "They see someone else wearing a certain style of thing and so they wear it! The best dressed women I know are those who dress the same style year in and year out. Take Elsie Ferguson, for instance. The type of clothes she wears absolutely suit her and she never varies. You never see dear Elsie with a lot of little bows and ribbons fluttering behind her.

"Then there's Nita Naldi! Can you imagine her in a baby pink and blue party dress? She has to wear the sort of thing which shows little but reveals much. And she is wise enough to do it. A woman should wear the type of clothes in which she looks best. If she looks well in mediaeval sort of clothes, she shouldn't branch out in a King Tut dress just because the rest of the women were fools enough to do it!

TROUSERS FOR GIRLS

And the subject turned to trousers.

"Tell me," Mr. Gibbons grinned broadly, "why is it that when the female hiker hikes, she has to do it in a pair of khaki breeches? I see them along the road. They have spoiled many a Sunday afternoon's ride for me. If they must wear trousers, why wear khaki, and then again why wear trousers at all? I like to see women looking like women and there is certainly nothing feminine about a pair of khaki trousers. Khaki was made expressly because it looked like nothing at all. It was made for the army to be inconspicuous and not to show the dirt. Even the soldiers aren't very keen about it, and why these beauty-loving creatures should take to it so is more than I can see!"

I gulped! Neatly folded in a dresser drawer I have a pair of trousers—yea, khaki ones. I felt indecent and ashamed.

"Tell me," I begged, "what should women wear in the mountains?"

"Skirts!" he fired back at me! "A full short skirt, or any kind which is comfortable. With this wear stout shoes and a sweater. A lovely sweater. Something serviceable and becoming!"

BACKGROUNDS FOR VAMPS

"A woman can do wonders with herself by simply forming a suitable background!" continued Mr. Gibbons, getting back to the decoration idea. "If I were a woman and wanted to attract a man, I would have a party, invite my woman friends and ask them to dress in green or the pastel shades, and then I would dress in red! What I could do then!"

"The trouble with women is that they like to be original! and there isn't anything they lack more than originality. There isn't such a thing as originality anyway. I have copied the top of an old Florentine chest and made a door out of it, and most people thought I was being original, but I was simply taking an old thing and doing it in an original way.

"It is the same with our homes. We are continually copying and imagining that we are being original. We should copy more than we do.

There is a kitchen in Casa Del Greco in Toledo, Spain, the home of El Greco, the artist, which has a couple of hundred hints for the average housewife.

Why not set an ordinary stove in a deep fireplace niche with a deep shelf overhead with pottery? The walls could be stained a pinkish color with soft blue tile! There is no reason why we shouldn't have the kitchen just as attractive as the rest of the house.

THE BATH ROOM! GOSH!

"And the bath room! Tell me, why under Heaven doesn't some enterprising plumbing firm conceive the idea of making dull blue porcelain fixtures for a bathroom! With lemon-colored walls it would be superb. It would make it less like the inside of an ice chest and more like a real room. The theory that a thing has to be white to be clean is an exploded one. But we still cling to our old-fashioned ideas! Why not be artistic?

"There is certainly a lot of bad art around today. Without a doubt the worst atrocity hunter I know is the chap who cut open Venus de Milo's tummy, inserted a clock, and called it art! This idea of misusing the poor palm is bad art also. A palm is all very well in a graden or lining a drive, but it has no business in a restaurant! It makes a darn good ash tray, but otherwise it is absolutely impossible. If a restaurant doesn't look quite right, and the proprietor can't think just what is needed, he has a dozen palms shipped in to brighten it up, and calls it art!"

I was anxious to see some of Mr. Gibbons' sets and so he showed me around! I asked to see a typical middle-class American type of home, but he shook his head. "The motion pictures," he said, "very seldom deal with the ordinary type of person. They are either very rich or very poor in the pictures. You know we can't be too literal in following the style of the Fifth-avenue home, when we are putting on a picture dealing with millionaires, either. For the real millionaire is rather apt to have a messy home. We simply reproduce the sort of a home the millionaire would have if he had good taste.

"It is the same with the European castles. I have been studying up on the palaces of Russia and I find that for the most part, they show as much evidence of taste as a Harlem flat. The English show great architectural beauty, but spoil it all by the way they furnish their homes."

We were standing then on a set representing an old Tudor castle. It was very beautiful. It told of war, and gallantry and romance. The plaster was still wet, but the spirit of old England was there. I turned with awe to Mr. Gibbons wondering how he did it, but he was deep in a new idea. "See these high walls?" he asked. "If the ceilings could be higher in our American homes there would be less marital turmoil and discord. There is something about distance and height in a room which takes away the crowding feeling of another personality. In comparison to the walls the person seems very insignificant, and there isn't the suggestion of one person towering over another, which is the bane of American life today.

"Of course we can't always have this type of house, but there is a great deal we can do in the way of furnishing, to increase the idea of distance. Plain wall paper is without a doubt the most important. Then there should be few or no pictures, and the sort of furniture which doesn't make a room look crowded. This crowding into a room every type of furniture from early Elizabethan to late Grand Rapids is simply fearful. However we are improving. We are getting back to the period styles and that helps."

Mr. Gibbons laughed. "Please don't think I go around telling my friends just what is wrong with their homes and clothes. It would be fatal. You can tell a woman that she is a rogue or a scoundrel, but you can't tell her that she has bad taste! I've gone around while women tried on hats, and I know what they mean when the say, 'Tell me exactly what you think about it.' They want me to say that it is too beautiful for words. It may not be what I'd like to say, but I say it.

"Very few people can stand perfect taste. It is too wearing on them. They can't live up to it. And to those I say that they can have their Navajo blankets or whatever it is they want, but they ought to give me the privilege of having my Davanzati Palace if I so desire."

And that's that!

With Balmwort Kidn

It would do your heart good to read the happy, grateful letters written by elderly folks who have endured kidney and bladder troubles for weeks, months or years, as the case may be, and who at last found the help sought in quick-acting, mild, balmy Balmwort Tablets. Old folks are amazed; they "fall in love" with this wonderful medicine. Of course, they are good for young and middle-aged, too; but when the dear, old folks need help in this sort of trouble, they need quick, mild, generous help such as Balmwort alone affords.

Dr. Lewis Baker says: "Too many elderly folks are given too much medicine, salts, oils, etc., to 'flush' the kidneys by over-stimulation, frequently doing more harm than good."

Many folks have kidneys and bladders that are easily affected by colds, fatigue, indigestion, worry, exposure to dampness, or even to overwork—hard labor; and right away they wake up in the morning with painful stiffness of muscles, aching back, swollen feet and ankles, puffy limbs, puffs under the eyes, and a general feeling of sluggishness. Then begins bladder torture—urgency that gets them out of bed two to a dozen times a night, and then a constant "worn-out" feeling day after day, with great nervousness.

Columbus, Ohio, Woman Says Balmwort Cleared Up Dark Circles Around Eyes.

Dear Sirs: I want to write a few lines for the Balmwort Tablets. I picked up a booklet on my porch, read it and got a box of the tablets and must say they have helped me. They have helped clear up the dark circles around my eyes and I feel more rested and stronger through the back and region of the bladder. I am now starting my second box. I am 66 years old and writing this to help another soul in distress. Yours truly,

Mrs. C. Pressing, 942 McAllister Av.,

No Rest at Night, Nerves Shattered

Gentlemen: I write you with pleasure to inform you that I have been taking your Balmwort Tablets. I have been suffering with inflammation of the bladder for over two years. I had no rest at nights and my nerves were all gone. I have taken five boxes of Balmwort Tablets and am well again. I haven't taken any for four weeks now and I still feel fine. Thank goodness no getting up at nights now. My age is seventy-four and am a machinist by trade.

A Very Grateful Woman Calls Balmwort "Wonderful Medicine."

Gentlemen: With great pleasure I want to praise your wonderful medicine, Balmwort Tablets.

They do all and more than you claim for them, and may the blessing of God be with you for discovering such a wonderful medicine. For 5 years I suffered day and night with bladder pain that was almost unbearable. I got very little rest at night, so at my age (75 years) I was almost played out. I used one box and all my pain and suffering disappeared. But in fear my trouble would return I got a second box and take one occasionally, which keeps me in perfect condition.

You have my permission to use this letter in any way to help suffering humanity. Yours very truly,

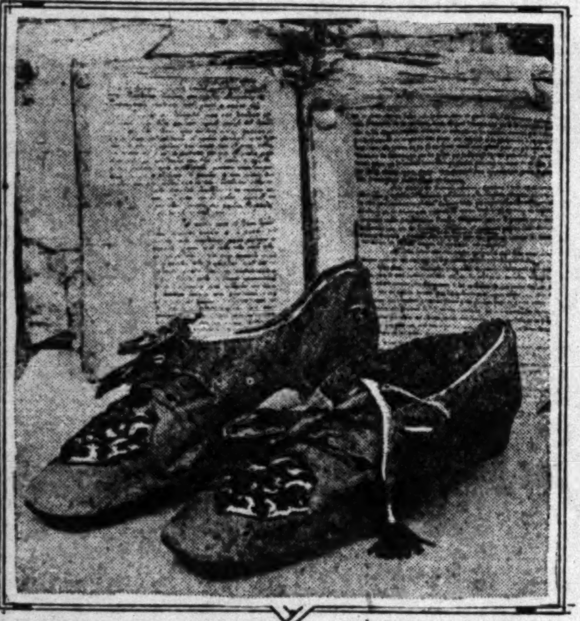
Father Serra's Worn Sandals



Mute Testimony of Devoted Miles
Trod by the good Fray Junipero as he walked the length of California founding the missions.

SANDALS OF FRA JUNIPERO

is accompanied by another carved handle and disc with a leathern thong and weight, which make a harsh sound when vigorously swung, and these, the guide says, were used during the Passion Week, when, according to legend, the bells were silent for Good Friday and Saturday, to peal joyously again on Easter morn; back to Rom for the Pope's blessing they were said to take their flight, and this wooden gong was sounded at the elevation of the Host during their absence, while the other queer instrument simulated the thunder which roared during the crucifixion, and the simple converts doubtless hid their dusky faces when the rough impressive sounds rose on the still air, under the pepper trees.

Here stands the rude bench which the patient Indians carved from California wood for their beloved Father Serra's church; here are carefully fashioned wooden stands, altar pieces, chairs, and mission furnishings laboriously made with native woods and rude tools for the service of the church.

But it remains for two things therein to bring home to the observer the unaltering spirit of the man who was the first Father-President of the Franciscan missions in California. These are the worn sandals which trudged the long, long way between the missions, and the battered breviary he read as he walked.

When little Nell lay at rest on her flower-decked couch in the tiny English village, the bent proprietor of the Old Curiosity Shop picked up her dusty little shoes, and held them to his breast; they bore mute testimony to the weary miles these faithful small feet had trod in their owner's desire to help her grandfather and no scene in literature contains more pathos than the brief description of the worn shoes.

So it is that no monument to the great Father Serra could impress one with the unfaltering coureage of his indomitable spirit as do those old sandals in the glass case in the little Plaza museum.

Born of lowly parentage in the village of Petra on the Island of Majorca in 1713, Miguel Jose Serra had from earliest childhood the vision of what some day would be his chosen work, but it was many years before he was selected to lead the expedition into Upper California, at the head of sixteen missionaries, to bring the word to the Indians.

All readers of the thrilling history of California are familiar with his story; how he insisted on making the long journey overland from Mexico, how he met with disappointments and heartbreak, and yet courageously defied Portala and the dictates of reason, to stay in the desolate land and push the work among the wretched natives they found. The search for the Bay of Monterey, the long wait for the ship of supplies and its final miraculous appearance just when hope had fled from every heart but that of Father Serra — his persistence in the face of almost certain defeat — all the thrilling story is open to read, and when one gazes on those worn sandals with their frayed ties, one realizes again the fearful handicap with which he was confronted.

The missions, established at last, nine of them by him and his devoted brothers, lay along the curving coast from San Diego to Monterey. Between them stretched miles of weary country, flooded, or wooded, sandy stretches, almost impassable, thickets—but, though lame and feeble, and now more than 70 years old, the dauntless Father-President made the long journey afoot, visiting all the intervening missions, and not failing to turn aside into wretched Indian villages, to bestow sympathy and comfort upon the poor natives who came under his charge.

And as he walked, he carried in his hand his breviary, that worn volume which brought peace and comfort to his heart; for long stretches he could trudge along unmolested, and bend his white head over the yellowed pages.

It is brought back vividly to the observer at the sight of the old sandals and the ancient breviary. The foremost character in the missionary history of Spanish California is long since dust, but these bear mute and eloquent testimony to the faith and courage with which he faced the almost unsurmountable difficulties which beset him, serene in his faith that the road would not be too long, the way too dark, for the coming true of his dream beneath the California skies.

of those dangerously beautiful women—the kind of women who make trouble in the world—go in for athletic sports! Tick them off in the newspapers as their portraits are published. You'll find them habitually relaxed, in feline repose. Girls, beauty is not strenuous!"

It seems strange all the same (I told him,) for admirers of classical Greek beauty, like Dan French, the sculptor, and himself, the painter, to carp at sports. Did the ball-playing girls of antique Greece get knobby fingers?

"They rolled oranges on terraces," laughed Gihon. "Unfortunately, we have the example of an athletic race of women nearer home to us. I refer to the English militant horsewomen, golf and tennis fanatics, who go out with the guns, drive motor cars and bust their fingers in gymnasiums. They are athletic, ungainly, angular females, and their hands are more abused than an American girl's foot!"

"It's not the hands alone!" insisted Gihon. "The beautiful lines of the feminine form tend to disappear. Hands, limbs and trunks alike, become angular and muscular. No dimples with which nature dowered them linger. Sports broaden the shoulders, diminish the hips, masculinize the lower limbs, enlarge the feet—and bring lovely woman to the plane of the mere man! The old hobble skirt was a good creature.'

"What, that horror?" I cried.

"It hobbled girls," he answered solemnly. "The only trouble was, it did not hobble them enough — they had their sports skirts. But inasmuch as they wore it, the hobble skirt hobbled them — and inadvertently restrained, while it lasted, the strenuous tendencies which tempts to boyishness. Could Fragonard, Watteau or Pater, could Lawrence, Reynolds or Gainsborough have painted the exquisite women they portrayed from modern strenuous females?"

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY MYRA NYE

Mrs. William A. Fitzgerald, the beautiful president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs will be the chief actor in the historical and artistic exhibit planned by Mrs. C. S. Alverson of San Diego, chairman of history and landmarks, at the State convention at Eureka the third day, the convention beginning May 1.

Mrs. Fitzgerald will wear a golden gown and, carrying a tall gold candlestick, will head the candle procession in which members of the State executive board, district and county presidents and presidents of individual clubs will participate. A prologue for this processional has been written by Mrs. B. F. Walker of Stockton and will be recited by Mrs. Fitzgerald. All those who are in the processional will be in light evening gowns.

This is only one of the many pretty ceremonials. There will also be many small groups getting together for fun and frolic during the convention. The members of the board will have a midnight party, each one has been asked to come in the costume of a "suppressed desire." Considerable mystery surrounds the affair but a few rumors have reached as far south as this.

The banquet will be on Friday night at the Eureka Inn which is one of the most attractive hostelries on the Coast and is admirably adapted for the headquarters of the convention. The lobby and dining-room look out upon a garden square and each contains an immense fire place for cool evenings.

A wild flower exhibit will be one of the most attractive features as arrangements have been made to have a complete exhibit of Humbolt county flowers collected by the clubs and schools of the whole county under the direction of Mrs. H. E. Wilder, San Francisco district chairman of wild flowers and birds. Stretching as the county does from the mountains to the sea with both a cool and warm climate the variety of lovely flowers include, the delicate alpine blossoms of King Mountain and the beach strawberries of Samoa and the dunes. The first week of May, the time of the convention, is the time of all the year for wild flowers near Eureka.

The Digger Indians of Humboldt county, a race rapidly passing from the face of the earth, once were the most skilled artisans of the tribes of California. Their implements, baskets, robes and embroideries show an exceedingly artistic sense of form and color. They will be shown under the direction of Mrs. J. C. Worthington of Arcata, San Francisco chairman of Indian welfare, on Thursday afternoon, when automobiles will take the delegates to Arcata, where they will be the guests of the Arcata Woman's Club. Mrs. Walter Longbotham and Mrs. Alfred Whitely Bright of the Twentieth Century Club of Berkeley will read the Indian legends.

Mrs. George W. Turner of Fresno is chairman of the program committee, the keynote of which is "Conservation, the Hope of Civilization," and will include conservation as it has to do with legislation, public health, American ideals and privileges through a higher standard of citizenship, California history and landmarks, American home life, international understanding, art, music and literature.

Among the notable speakers will be Miss Amy Cryan of England, eminent speaker and international worker, speaking for the first time in California; Edgar E. Robinson of Leland Stanford University, H. B. Wilson of Berkeley, Mrs. John C. Urquhart of Los Angeles, Mrs. George A. Rigg, Alameda; Mrs. A. L. Miller of the northern district, and Mrs. George Turner.

Friday Morning Club

Replete with memories of thirty years ago and charming in its appointments appropriate to the occasion, the charter day celebration of the Friday Morning Club stands out as the most brilliant event of the week in club circles. Four hundred guests sat down to the candle-adorned tables at the Elite for luncheon with Mrs. Andrew S. Lobingier, president of the club, as toastmistress.

The candlesticks were not only beautiful to look upon but were of themselves talismen of the occasion, for they were all—more than 100—made of the old camphor tree which originally grew in the yard of Mme. Severance, the founder of the club, and was then transplanted by Miss Wills, a charter member of the club, to the patio of the old clubhouse which has been moved to make place for the dignified new edifice that is being built at 920 South Figeuroa street.

Tall and graceful they stood, each bearing a candle of varying shades, as many as mark the life of the club—thirty-two years. From the camphor tree, too, were made gavels and each of the past presidents has been presented with one of these, which were in evidence Friday.

Many were the reasons for felicitation among these women but greatest of them was the fact that Mrs. John Osgood, president emeritus of the club, who has been seriously ill for many weeks, was able to be present. Charter day is dear, white, curly-haired, blue-eyed Mrs Osgood's birthday, too, and for many years past both she and her husband have been present at these celebrations and Capt. Osgood has sung, as he did Friday, the old English lover's song, "Mary of Argyle."

The speakers of the occasion were three brilliant past presidents of the club, Mrs. J. F. Sartori, Mrs. Shelley Tolhurst and Mrs. O. P. Clark.

The May bulletin of the club, just issued, promises unusual interest.

Thales, the Greek philosopher, foretold the total eclipse of the sun May 28, 585 B.C. Now the eclipse for August 23, 2044, has been calculated. The eclipse this year will be visible all over California with Catalina Island lying in the path of totality. Prof. B. R. Baumgardt will lecture of this eclipse May 4; and on May 11 all the candidates for the City Council will address the club. May 18 Martyn Johnson, at one time associate editor of the Dial, will speak on "The Movies as a Clew to Modern American Psychology," and the last of the month there will be a charming and youthful day when Marjorie Dodge, who has recently come to Los Angeles from Chicago, will make her first public appearance in the West in a song recital. "The Blessed Damosel," by Debussy will be given by a group of young women from the University of California, Southern Branch.

Benefit Card Party

The members of the Friday Morning Club who reside at the Rampart Apartments will give a bridge-tea there Thursday afternoon for the benefit of the silver and linen fund of the club. The table reservations are $5 per table. The hostesses are Mmes. E. R. Brainerd, O. H. Fithian, J. M. Slemmons, A. K. E. Cook, A. F. Godin and Charles Woyd.

Woman's City Club

Dr. Gurli Mellinthin, who has already served so successfully as a member of the board of directors of the Woman's City Club, is a candidate for re-election, the primary to be held in May and the final election in June. Mrs. Mary Avery Scherfee and Mrs. Charles Glover also are candidates.

These names are in addition to those already published whose petitions were filed last Monday.

District Federation Notes

Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president-elect of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's Clubs, will leave on Friday for the East where she is scheduled to speak at the national convention of the Congress of Mothers in St. Louis, Ky., in May and also at the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Atlanta beginning May. 7. Mrs. Toll asks that all chairmen of departments who make reports at the Eureka convention make a duplicate copy for her that she may aid the new chairmen with their work. She says that until her return thoughts of organization of a new board are in abeyance but she will begin actively in this creation of the band of district workers in the early summer.

At the president council in Santa Monica Thursday, Mrs. Toll spoke briefly for the first time since her election. She told of a delightful function in Washington, D. C., when she attended the opening of the tea room in general federation headquarters there and urged the women to help in the completion of the fund for this beautiful home of the federation in the Capital City.

Mrs. Randall Hutchinson, chairman of art for the district, said that she was greatly discouraged by her unsuccessful efforts to raise the $55 necessary to present a prize at the Annual Exhibition of Art in Exposition Park in May. Mrs. Grace Nicholson, president of the Travel Club initiating the move by a gift and at once more than the stipulated sum was donated by various presidents.

Mrs. H. V. Wurdeman, chairman of soldier welfare, asked that the various clubs work for and support Bills 761 and 2, which take the Whittier school from the institutional class and place it among the educational schools.

Mrs. Milton Steinberger of the Sierra Madre Woman's Club presented a gold federation pin to Mrs. John C. Urquhart as a token of esteem from the members of the board who with Mrs. Urquhart retire from office in June. Mrs. Dan Campbell, president of the Tuesday Afternoon Club of Glendale, said that eight members of her club were going to Eureka.

Mrs. Clayton Taylor reported twelve new clubs for the federation.

Candidates to Speak at City Club

The Woman's City Club will meet in Philharmonic Auditorium tomorrow at 1 p.m. The time will be devoted to candidates for City Council and the School Board.

The meetings are open to the public for a small admission fee. Great interest is being shown in the opportunity given by the club for seeing and hearing the candidates for the coming election.

P.-T.A. report Shows Growth

Showing a total of 31,656 members, an increase of nearly 5000 over last year, the results of the annual membership drive of the Los Angeles Parent-Teacher Federation, has just been announced by Mrs. Myrtle Matters, membership chairman. The Los Angeles organization believes this membership is a record-breaker, and its officers point out the fact that the real worth of Parent-Teacher work is demonstrated in many of the larger schools through a 100 per cent enrollment of mothers.

"In some of the schools the mother of every child in school is a member of the Parent-Teacher Association," Mrs. Matters explained. "For instance, the association with the largest membership in the federation is the Lafayette Junior High School, Mrs. J. S. Trevethick, president. This circle has 1100 members. The association with the largest percentage, according to school enrollment, is Sierra Vista, of which Mrs. A. R. Smith is president. This circle has a 100 per cent enrollment of mothers and teachers, and nearly 100 per cent enrollment of fathers. The second largest percentage goes to Rockdale, with Mrs. E. E. Loop, president.

"The largest gain in membership made durng the past year was by the Virgil Junior High School, P.-T.A., of which Mrs. Gertrude Wilson is president.

"The federation has awarded a $200 scholarship to section 14, the group of associations which contributed the most members in the membership drive. The associations of this group are Buchanan, Rockdale, Yorkdale, Monte Vista, Garvanza, Eagle Rock, Latona and Estara."

Report to Music Chairman

A request has been sent out by the music chairman of the Los Angeles district of Women's Clubs, Miss Anne McPherson, asking all clubs in the district having active choral organizations to report to her at once. This information is needed to complete the plans for music week, which is to be from May 19 to 26.

Cliff-Dwelling Club Luncheon

The Cliff-Dwelling Club was entertained at luncheon last Tuesday at the home of Mrs. C. C. Gibbons, with Mrs. G. H. Few, Mrs. H. C. Terrell and Miss M. E. Elliott assisting her as hostesses. This was followed by a short business session and several piano selections by Mrs. Brown. Mrs. Frances Headlee talked on her experiences with the Y.M.C.A., in Athens, having the entertainment of the Greek army in the Athens region in charge for eleven months.

Bus Problem Questions

A questionaire has been issued by the Clear Streets Protective League in regard to the bus problem which is confronting Los Angeles. These questions are the outgrowth of the recent talks at women's clubs and are well worth repeating here.

(1.) Why should Los Angeles tie up with a twenty-one-year franchise which might hamper its future efforts in solving the traffic problem?

(2.) Might this not make it necessary to purchase the motor bus system at great expense to taxpayers?

(3.) Since the busses promise a seat to every passenger where will the overflow wait, and how long?

(4.) Would you rather stand on the corner and wait for enough busses to go by to finally obtain a seat, or would you rather stand on a street car and finally get where you are going?

(5.) Mr. McAdoo, at the Woman's City Club, stated that "the people" of the People's Motor Bus Company are E. F. Sims and Joseph Rhinock. Why should Los Angeles residents stop driving their private cars down town to allow these "people" to operate a motor bus line?

(6.) Will not the motor busses make crossings more dangerous for school children?

(7.) Does the difference between a 10-cent and a 2½ cent school fare mean anything to those who are educating children? Mr. McAdoo says that it means nothing to him.

With the questionaire comes a letter from a recent resident of New York telling that motor busses there carry only a small percentage of the traveling public and are a menace to street traffic. "In New York," she says, "the busses are not used by the working women, but as sight-seeing busses on Fifth avenue. After 3 o'clock in the afternoon it is impossible to board one homeward bound."

Pictures Pre-Viewed

This week's list of motion-pictures pre-viewed and indorsed by the motion picture department of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's Clubs, according to Mrs. A. A. Hummel, chairman, is as follows:

"The Covered Wagon"—Grauman's Egyptian Theater—"One of the finest pictures ever made."

"The Girl I Loved"—Mission Theater—"Charles Ray's beautiful picture."

"Mighty Lark a Rose"—Kinema Theater—"The haunting melody of the song runs through the picture with wonderful results."

"The Voice From the Minaret"—Alhambra Theater.

"The Young Diana"—Hillstreet Theater.

Two pictures which are coming soon, and have been indorsed, are "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," and "The Tiger's Claw."

Ebell Weekly Doings

Summer is nearly here. Did anyone ever hear more talk about interesting vacations?—Trips to Europe, to Alaska, to our national parks? Another reminder of the closeness of summer is that on next Wednesday wil be the final guest luncheon of the year. During May, there will, if course, be many interesting department luncheons to which guests, distinguished in that department's line of study, will be invited, but there will be no more of the general club luncheons.

A debate on the bus situation is scheduled for the Wednesday lunch program, Zuck Cobb, speaking for the busses and Judge Dana Weller speaking for the street cars. Ebell is just as desirous of hearing this question argued as the Friday Morning or City Clubs.

This luncheon will follow the drama department meeting; at which Mrs. Walter Raymond Gillette will preside. "The Truth about Blaydes," by A. A. Milne will be read at that time by Mrs. George Greene. At the same meeting Miss Elspeth McNeill will read, "Hassan," by James Elroy Fleckner.

Thursday at the music department meeting, Mme. Piana will speak on the music life in Italy as she knows it, after which she will sing a series of real songs of the people, and following this, two operatic numbers, one from Mme. Butterfly, the other from Don Pasquale. Mme. Piana, wife of the Italian Consul, who was commander of the Italian navy when he married this noted Los Angeles girl, has sung in opera in Italy and in England. The folk songs are some she herself collected.

Helen Chute Dill, one of the younger accompanists of the city and organizer of the public school music department of the University of Southern California, will play a group of modern Italian piano numbers. Mrs. A. B. Cooke is curator of the music department.

Monday afternoon's program will be an illustrated lecture on "Medieval Legends in Art," given by Mrs. Bannell Sawyer.

Organizes Mothers' Club

At a recent meeting of the Southern California Alumnae Association of Alpha Gamma Delta, members entertained the active chapter of the fraternity at the University of Southern California. The mothers organized the Alpha Gamma Delta Mothers' Club, the purpose of which will be to assist the new chapter and to aid in the work which the girls are doing for poor children at the summer camp which the fraternity maintains each year at Jackson, Mich. The interesting experiences of camp life, all under the direction of Alpha Gamma Delta members, have been told many times this winter by Miss Della Martin, who attended camp last summer as a worker. This year Los Angeles will have three representatives at Jackson—Miss Marian Foss and Miss Helen Murray from the U.S.C. chapter, and Miss Agnes Newton from the California chapter at Berkeley.

Local Artist Featured

Mrs. William E. Mabee, president of the Wa Wan Club, announced the next creative program for Wednesday the 25th inst., at 2:30 p.m. in the Gamut clubhouse. The Wa Wan Club has always been a help and inspiration to the resident composer, and often many compositions which have become nationally known have had their first hearing in the home club. Members of the club believe a live artist will enjoy flowers the most, and these concerts being given by club members in their home town adds interest and enthusiasm. The works of Sol Cohen, Ann Priscilla Risher and Helen Livingstone will be featured.

A delightful tea has been planned by Mrs. Anthony Carlson following the program and she will be assisted by Mrs. W. H. Bryan, Mrs. G. H. Shaw, Mrs. F. M. Dimmick,

The Photoplaywrights' Club will have for speaker Tuesday night Mr. H. H. Van Loan, the well-known writer. Room 805, Brack-Shops Building at 7:30 o'clock.

Next Tuesday is Reciprocity Day at the Tuesday Afternoon Club of Glendale and a great deal of time and planning has been spent on providing an interesting program. The reception will be at 2 o'clock and the meeting will commence at 2:30. This is the club's first Reciprocity Day in the new clubhouse at Central avenue and Lexington Drive.

The Los Angeles City Teachers' Club will conduct a mass meeting at the Trinity Auditorium tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock to hear all the candidates who are up for election to the school board. This is an open meeting and the public is invited.

Reciprocity Day at Club

La Camarado Club's Reciprocity Day was conducted at the home of Mrs. W. F. Ball, 975 South Manhattan, on Wednesday of last week. The program consisted of a musicale given by talented members of the club, and was as follows:

Piano duet by Mrs. J. E. Croft and Mrs. H. H. Smith; duet by Mrs. E. H. Whitehorn and Mrs. D. H. Budlong; solo by Miss Letitia Williams, and one by Mrs. A. E. Davis; quartet by Mmes. E. H. Whitehorn, D. H. Budlong, A. E. Davis and Mrs Letitia Williams. Mrs. Rae G. Van Cleve gave some delightful readings.

There is to be a club picnic on Saturday, the 28th inst. The members are to meet at the home of Mrs. C. M. Williams, 206 Thorne street. The next regular meeting will be at the home of Mrs. E. B. Machin, Wednesday, May 2, Mrs. J. E. Gribble being hostess.

Highland Park Ebell Club

"The New Challenge" was the subject of a spirited address Tuesday morning at the Highland Park Ebell Club by Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, general director of California. High lights of the address included:

Woman's sphere in the home has been enlarged to that of "mother of many races." The challenge finds its place in woman's activities since the war and a survey of the women who are doing things is given in a recent book of women of 1923. Human problems must be solved by organization. The General Federation of Women's Clubs, having its headquarters at Washington, D. C., is a great factor in the promotion of world peace and the clubs form an unbroken chain in its endeavor.

Preceding the lecture Miss Lois Chambers, daughter of Mrs. W. K. Chambers, sang a group of songs, accompanied by Mr. Edwin Brent at the piano. The fine tonal quality of Miss Chambers's voice was a delight to her audience and the talented young soprano's appearance was especially appreciated because her mother formerly had belonged to the Highland Park Ebell Club.

The morning program was conducted by the public-affairs day chairman, Mrs. James R. Riggins. After the English section class, with Mrs. M. B. Dunn, curator, and Isabelle M. Hanbury, leader, the art section members motored to the studio of Miss Helena Dunlap, where a delightful afternoon was spent viewing the works of art brought from abroad recently by the artist, also her own paintings which display glorious colors and modern ideas of art.

Flower Show Planned

The spring flower show of the Moday afternoon Club of Covina will be held on Wednesday, the 25th inst., from 2 to 9:30 p.m., under the auspices of the Flower Study Section of the club Mrs. J. D. Bixby, curator.

Mrs. William Viney will have charge of it, as chairman of the executive committee, assisted by Mrs. Beattie, Mrs. Crawford and Mrs. Hotchkiss.

There will be a wild flower exhibit, under charge of Mrs. S. S. Aschenbrenner. Mrs. E. F. Gloege will be chairman of the plant sale, and Mrs. E. V. Rice will be in charge of the flower sale.

The club members extend a cordial invitation to all interested in floriculture. There will be no charge for admission. Flowers will be welcomed from any one wishing to exhibit.

NEWSY NOTES

BY THE NEOPHYTE

Who said that the modern woman wanted to be an aggressive, working, executive sort of a person? Woman has been doped out all wrong! She isn't so keen about being thought a working woman as one might imagine! Ask Mr. W. G. McAdoo, he knows!

Poor man, last week at the Friday Morning Club he was treading carefully. He had passed muster at the Woman's City Club and intended to see to it that the members of the Friday Morning Club were with him to a hair pin on the bus question. He then launched the statement which caused his downfall. He appealed to the members as "working women."

Working women! The air sizzled! The thought waves were red hot. Modern woman had been insulted. This was the same woman who resented man's thought of her as his mere plaything, and who during the war proclaimed to all the world that she was a working woman. She denied society and went to work, or at least she talked about it. Since then she has become immersed in politics, in clubs and a dozen other things which she has been prone to speak of as her "work."

Then why all the commotion? Why all the fuss when Mr. McAdoo, who, being a married man, was following what seemed to be a good lead for a compliment. How could he be expected to know that they wouldn't like it? He had had no inkling. They looked most vital and alert and business-like! Little did he know that down underneath the alertness and precision, there lurked within each breast an old-fashioned woman whose liking was for the things of the home and frivolity and who disliked most intensely the thought that she was a "working woman."

Music and Art—And Women!

It takes the women to work the combination of music and art and make them blend. The men are more virile, more positive and their music is inclined to be more vital, but for the beauty and grace they look to the women. This was the Neophyte's thought as she watched the curtain rise on the Women's Symphony Orchestra last week when they gave the second of a group of concerts. Against soft cream curtains the pastel shades of fifty-seven gowns created a rainbow affect which added greatly to the enjoyment of the many numbers played. Shining shirt fronts, and swallow tails may make a neat, respectable frontier but there is something shimmery and dreamy about blended color which creates harmony.

And when Olga Steeb appeared, adding just the touch needed of gold and silver, the effect was completed. The play of her arms and hands against the mahogany of the piano, silhouetted against the movement of the arms of the many violin and 'cello players behind her, seemed to take up the melody and carry it on and on. It was the first time the Neophyte had realized that music can be expressed by arms themselves. They affect the sight as the sound does the ear and completes the harmony. The music itself was excellent, but to the Neophyte, whose stuttered praise of music is merely the babble of a rank amateur, it was the arms which played to her, and the flutter of soft draperies which made for harmony.

Whittier P.E.O.

Following a time-honored precedent, the members of Chapter V of the P.E.O., Whittier, entertained Monday evening with the annual dinner for members and their families, the dinner being served in the social rooms of St. Matthias Episcopal Church. One hundred guests assembled at the tables, and the chapter colors, gold and white, were used in the floral appointments. A playlet, "The Maker of Dreams," was presented by Whittier College students, including Miss Dorothy Williams, Harold Cunningham and Leland Jordan. Folk songs, popular and patriotic songs were sung, with Miss Esther Milhous at the piano.

Chapter BJ entertained at the home of Mrs. Chalmers Newson on East Hadley street Tuesday afternoon with a mothers' day program. Each member was to bring her own mother or some other mother, the result being that one of the largest meetings of the year was enjoyed.

Most appropriate was the selection of Mrs. Florabel Rosenberger as the entertainer for the occasion. She chose for her subject "The Madonnas of Art and History." Mrs. Rosenberger has made a study of this subject for many years and has also had the advantage of travel abroad and has visited many of the most celebrated art galleries in Europe. She divided the madonnas into three broad groups, the historical, devotional and domestic. She told most interestingly of the origin of the madonna in art as a religious symbol. She illustrated her talk with prints of many of the more celebrated madonnas, such as the Sistine, Madonna of the Chair, Madonna and St. Jerome, Madonna Appearing to St. Bernard and others.

Mr. George Sheldon, former Whittier College student, sang "Mother of Mine," with piano accompaniment by Miss Alberta Smith. Assisting hostesses were Mmes. C. H. Pettit, Millie Wood, C. A. Rees and J. R. Hyans.

Whittier Woman's Club

The annual election at the Whittier Woman's Club Wednesday afternoon resulted in the following officers being chosen: Mrs. O. C. Albertson, president; Mrs. Reba B. Smith, first vice-president; Mrs. Sada George Wilson, second vice-president; Mrs. J. Clem Arnold, recording secretary; Mrs. Frank Swain, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Oval Redman, treasurer; Mrs. Will Moore, assistant treasurer. These, with the following, will constitute the board of directors: Mrs. W. G. Reichling, Mrs. Herbert E. Tebbetts and Mrs. George Mitchell, all re-elected. Mrs. C. W. Hislop and Mrs. Myron J. Haig are the new members of the board.

Mrs. Smith, as first vice-president, will be in charge of the various departments of the club. At present there are seven sections, the household economics, literature, music, folk dancing, social junior social and the art section.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Spenser-Kelly gave the entertainment before the club at the last meeting. Mrs. Kelly is president of the Matinee Musical Club of Los Angeles and a vocalist of note. The Kellys were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Samuel Bristol of the Whittier Woman's Club, and also a member of the Matinee Musical Club of Los Angeles. The vocal duets were Gotze's "Calm as the Night," "By the Meadow Gate" and "For All Eternity." Mrs. Kelly's numbers were Gounod's "Queen of Sheba" and Verdi's "Infelice." Mr. Kelly sang "Love Laid His Sleepless Head," "Over the Steppe," "The Cry" and "The Vagabond."

Girls' Business Club

The big event of the season for the Girls' Business Club will be the dinner tonight at the Mary Louise opposite Westlake Park. The event will be in celebration of the fourth anniversary of the organization, charter day, as the young women name it. The toasts about the table with Miss Betty Levine, the president of the club, as toastmistress will be of the beginnings, the hopes and the aspirations of this group of young women who are busy with the affairs of the city and of commerce.

Frank Nichols, chairman of the Veterans' Welfare Board, will speak on: "Success for Business Women;" Glenn Behymer, attorney, will address the assembly on "The Minimum Wage for Women."

The musical part of the program will include violin and singing numbers by Harriett Rahda Levine, secretary of the club; Bertha Mann, contralto; Shirley Taggart, accompanist, and Janeski Robenoff, dancer. Reservations may be made today with the president, phone 67139, and young women who are employed in offices are invited to become acquainted with the older members of the club.

Ballot for Election

The ballot on which the members of the Friday Morning Club are to vote is as follows: President, Mrs. Andrew Stewart Lobingier; first vice-president, Mrs. Arthur C. Wier; second vice-president, Mrs. Randall Hutchinson; recording secretary, Miss Helen Louise Kimball; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Waller Slayden; treasurer, Mrs. Charles L. Lowman, and directors, Miss Alice W. Alden, Mrs. Oliver P. Clark, Mrs. Sarah M. Johnson, Miss Therese Levy and Mrs. David E. Spangler. Five directors will be elected.

THRILLS APLENTY IN FILM

"Hunting Big Game" Carries Sensations of Actual African Experiences

"Hunting Big Game in Africa With Gun and Camera," which starts today at the California Theater, is the same picture which recently ran eleven solid weeks at the Lyric Theater in New York City, with huge throngs crowding the box office.

This extraordinary ten-reel feature is the result of the expedition organized in Oakland, which traveled more than 65,000 miles through Africa, securing more than 125,000 feet of film showing wild beasts in their native haunts.

A curious feature of the picture is that nearly all the fifty species of animals shown are larger than their cousins reared in captivity in zoos and circuses. Sometimes a week would be consumed to secure pictures of animals which occupy no more than a minute on the screen.

Among the thrilling moments promised those who see "Hunting Big Game in Africa," are gigantic elephants charging the camera; elephants taking refuge in the crater of an extinct volcano; a frenzied leopard making furious efforts to kill the cameraman; an enraged rhinoceros bearing down on the intrepid hunters; hundreds of marvelous impala; a man-eating lioness at bay, within a few feet of the lens, and scores of other amazing encounters.

AFRICA FOR QUIET LIFE

Everyone doubtless thinks he has experienced at least one great thrill in the course of his life, but until he has spent a night in the heart of British East Africa, he has the "greatest thrill" still ahead of him, according to Mrs. Martin Johnson, who, with her husband, recently returned to America after more than two years spent in photographing African wild animals in their native haunts. Under the title of "Trailing African Wild Animals," the pictures which the Johnsons secured, will be shown for the first time in the world at Loew's State Theater, starting today.

Mrs. Johnson is the first woman ever to penetrate the heart of "Never-Never Land," and she and her husband are the only white people to discover the lost Lake Paradise, a famous haunt of big game, guarded carefully by the wild natives who exist in its vicinity.

Beset on every side by ferocious animals who held no fear of the unfamiliar white man, the long days were thrilling enough in themselves. But with the approach of the impenetrable African night, the dangers were increased tenfold.

LIONS DEFY FIRE

Guards were posted and huge fires were kept burning throughout the night. The flames helped to keep the lions at a distance, but on more than one occasion, one of these beasts, more bold than its comrades, stole past the guards and made away with some of the fresh-killed meat.

"It would seem that sleep under such conditions would be impossible," states Mrs. Johnson. "And I'll admit that the roar of the lion, the weird laugh of the hyena and the boom of the cock ostrich, all of which broke the stillness of the night intermittently, were not conducive to sleep.

"Eventually, however, I steeled myself to become used to it, and now I can sleep better under such conditions than I can in the heart of civilization with honking taxis and clanging motor cars dominating the noise of the city night life."

STAGE AS HEALTH HELP

the Mason Operahouse for one week beginning tomorrow evening in "The Awful Truth," and whose rapid rise to fame in her chosen profession has been the subject of considerable comment during the past few years, attributes in part her rapid success on the stage to her excellent health. Her own experience proves it.

"The player who is seriously inclined to work and accomplishment," says Miss Claire, "automatically conserves his or her energies and health. Those who spend their days in dancing and contribute to the decoration of cafe tables at night never last. Every successful woman on the stage looks after her health and her work helps her. It might appear that playing a part for a few hours nightly and at two matinees weekly is a lazy occupation; but as a matter of fact it is not.

"We begin to do a considerable amount of work on the stage. We get plenty of wholesome sleep, for no matter how late a player retires, he or she is not required to egt up very early unless there are trains to make. We have plenty of time for leisurely meals, which is something the average society woman, with her multiplicity of engagements, does not enjoy, and we can eat slowly and linger at the table. We eat regularly, too, and drive and motor and walk.

"The regularity of a player's life is conducive to good health. Take the average actress who appears through a season; there are very few, if any, performances missed. Even if you do not feel up to the mark, you go to the theater and do your work, and the necessity of doing your work helps you to conquer indispositions that women in the ordinary walks of life might give up to. The actress or actor unconsciously builds up a routine and profits in health from it."

James W. Horne has completed his latest F.B.O. production, tentatively titled, "Now You See It." Despite an attack of the flu, which forced Horne to stay at home a few days, the production was completed on schedule.

Etiquette for All Occasions

By Mrs Lydig Hoyt

Social Leader of New York's Four Hundred

COPYRIGHT, 1923, NORTH AMERICAN NEWSPAPER ALLIANCE

A wedding is a beautiful religious ceremony which should be planned so as to impress the bride and all the rest present with the solemnity of the occasion. It is not an entertainment or a gorgeous dress parade staged especially to gratify the bride's or the parents' vanity. Simplicity and dignity should be its chief characteristics. All ostentatious display is vulgar.

Beautiful music, however, if it is within the means of the family, can never be called ostentatious. For my part, I would spend more thought and money on that than on any other detail of the occasion.

Since it is the law of etiquette that the bride's family pay the expenses of the wedding, it should be planned within their means.

It is the bride's privilege to name the wedding day and to decide whether she wants the wedding at home or in church, and what clergyman she wishes to perform the ceremony. It is unnecessary to add, I imagine, that in spite of this convention the bride should at least consider the wishes of the bridegroom. In other words, they come to a mutual agreement as to a date and similar details. If the bride has a pet clergyman and the bridegroom also, it is customary for the bride's clergyman to "officiate" and the choice of the bridegroom to "assist" at the ceremony.

Before the invitations are engraved the mother of the bride should make certain that the clergyman (or clergymen) as well as the church (if it is to be a church wedding) are available for the date decided upon.

One should allow the stationer at least a month to prepare these invitations, and they should all be addressed, stamped and sent out fully two weeks before the wedding.

Although the list of invitations is made up by both the bride's and the bridegroom's mothers, the bride's family pays for them as it also pays for the trousseau, the church or house decorations, the music, cost of opening the church, conveyances for the bridal party, awnings, marriage announcements and newspaper notices.

The bridegroom is permitted to pay for the ring; the fee to the clergyman, the boutonnieres, wedding ties, gloves and gifts to his best man and ushers, the bride's bouquet, marriage license, the wedding present to the bride. This last is usually something she can wear at the ceremony. However, I hesitate to set down any rule for as personal and intimate a thing as a man's wedding present to his bride. It really may be anything that personal feeling dictates.

The invitations are engraved on the first sheet of a heavy white plate-marked note paper and are always enclosed in two envelopes. The outer envelope bears both the name and address of the guest while the inner one has only the name of the invited person written across it and always remains unsealed.

Two invitations are issued for a church wedding, one to the church and another to the house. In this case the double note paper is used for the church wedding and reads as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Hale Barney request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter
Geraldine to
Mr. John Robert Butler
on Wednesday the Fifth of June at three o'clock
at St. Thomas's Church in the City of New York

The usual size of this inivtation is 5 1-8 inches wide by 7 3-8 long.

With this invitation also goes a card of admission to the church. It is about the size of an ordinary visiting card and is always inclosed with the church invitation. It reads:

Please present this card
at St. Thomas's Church
on Wednesday the Fifth of June

The invitations to a breakfast or a reception at the house following the ceremony are engraved on a card matching the paper and the lettering of the church invitations, which, by the way, should always be quite plain, and is the size of the church invitation when it is folded and ready to insert in the envelope. This, too, is inclosed in the same envelope with the church invitation where the person is invited to both church and house.

This invitation should read:

Mr. and Mrs. Hale Barney request the pleasure of (hand-written name of guest) company on Wednesday the Fifth of June at four o'clock
at Six East Fiftieth Street
R. s.v.p.

ARTICLE NO. 30

Game and Rubber Values

In the article on justifiable penalties it was pointed out that the only time in which a penalty is justifiably incurred is to save game; that it never is justifiable to incur a penalty when game is in no danger. The next point to consider is: the amount of penalty that may justifiably be incurred to save a game or rubber.

In deciding such a question it is necessary to consider three situations: first, when neither side has won a game; second, when one side has won a game, and third, when both sides have won a game. It should be evident that the size of the penalty that might justifiably be incurred will vary in these three situations. In order to determine the justifiable penalty it is necessary to approximate the point value of a game and a rubber.

The average value of a rubber has been determined by analysis of thousands of rubbers to be very close to 400 points; and a game, being just one-half of a rubber is valued at 200 points. It also is a mathematical fact that if one pair wins the first game, their chances of winning the rubber are just three to one. The basis, therefore, of calculating what is or is not a justifiable penalty is as follows: that the value of a rubber is 400 points, that the value of a game is 200 points; and that the side winning the first game has three times as good a chance to win the rubber as their opponents. With such a basis of calculations the following represent the measure of justifiable penalties:

First, when neither side has won a game—If sure of losing game, a penalty of 200 points may be risked, but no more. If sure of winning game, don't double opponents unless sure of winning at least a penalty of 300 points.

Second, where one side has won a game—The partners who have won a game should not risk more than a penalty of 100 points to save game. If they are sure of winning game, they should not double opponents' bid unless sure of winning at least 200 points. It should be noted, in this connection that the side which has won a game has three chances out of four of winning the rubber, so that it is not justified in risking more than 100 points to save a game.

The side which has not yet won a game has only one chance out of four of winning the rubber, so should not risk more than 100 points to save a game. If they are sure of winning a game, they should not double opponents unless sure of winning at least 200 points.

Third, where both sides have won a game—Under these conditions the rubber is in danger; therefore, either side, if sure of losing the game and consequently the rubber, may justifiably risk a penalty of 300 points, but no more. On the other hand, if either side is sure of winning game and consequently the rubber, it should not double opponents' bid unless sure of winning a penalty of at least 400 points. Nothing is sadder than to see a pair double their opponents, win only 100 or 200 points in penalties when they themselves could have made a sure game and rubber, and then lose game and rubber on the next deal. This happens time after time; so the novice is advised to take a game and rubber when he has the opportunity, unless by doubling he is sure of at least 400 points in penalties.

The foregoing analysis gives a good idea of when a penalty is justified and how great the penalty should be. Don't exceed these limits and don't get the habit of overbidding merely to save game or rubber, unless justified in accordance with this analysis. "Keep the flag flying" is a good slogan if properly understood, but otherwise may be most expensive. Be bold, but not too bold; be cautious, but not too cautious. That sums up the theory of the best players.

Al Christie has assembled a variety of comedy "names" for his first adventure in blackface comedy, "Roll Along." Jimmie Adams heads the list, supported by Babe London, Natalie Johnson, William Irving, Ward Caulfield, Fred Hueston, Don Bailey, Gus Leonard and others. All the troupe is playing in colored make-up all the way through the picture.

FRATERNAL AFFAIRS

Clan Cameron, No. 152, Order of Scottish Clans, will give a concert and dance at the Walker Auditorium on the evening of the 23rd inst. Among the artists to entertain will be John Erummond, Andrew Bowie, William Allen, Mrs. Margaret Tait, Miss Margaret McBubben, Lloyd McKinnon, John McMonagh and George Baumhall. Four candidates were initiated into the clan at the last meeting.

Poinsettia Council, No. 8, Daughters of America, gave an entertainment at the Slauson-avenue playground yesterday evening. The Council meets the first and third Thursday evening of each month at the Walker Auditorium.

STATE SOCIETIES

The Illinoisans will lead in the State events this week as both the monthly social and their largest picnic reunion of the year will take place. In addition to other matters of interest will be the commemorating of the birthday of Gen. U. S. Grant. In-door reunion will be in Music Art Hall and a program of readings, musical numbers and a brief address on the career of Grant, will be followed by dancing. This will be next Friday evenink. The mammoth picnic reunion next Saturday, is being planned for an attendance of 15,000 "Suckers." The features which make the picnics of deep interest to the thousands will be carried out and the county registers and headquarters opened early in the morning at Sycamore Grove Park. Henry J. Brubaker will preside at both gatherings. An address on the work of Gen. Grant will be included in the picnic program. The picnickers will bring basket dinners and all the Illinoisans of California are invited.

The Utah contingent will meet in the Angelus Hotel Hall tomorrow evening and will enjoy a popular program and dancing. County roll call and presentation of prizes will be added features. All Utah people are cordially invited and visitors will be specially welcomed. The same evening the Alaska-Yukon Club will have its monthly reunion in the Disabled Veterans' Hall at 246 South Hill street. The program of music and addresses will be followed by dancing.

The Sounth Dakotans will hold their final rally for this spring in a new hall, the Majestic, at 116 West Fifteenth street. The program will precede the dancing. The date is next Thursday evening.

The Washington State society will omit its indoor socials until fall. The Oregon society will have another of its popular socials next Saturday evening and will announce plans for the annual picnic at Sycamore Grove Park, May 19. Dancing will follow the program. The socials are held at Walker Auditorium.

The Maple Leaf Club will welcome all Canadians and their friends at the weekly entertainment, with refreshments and dancing next Saturday evening at the Gamut clubhouse.

LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

A delegation of Golden State Lodge visited San Pedro Lodge last Monday night when a smoker of the highest order was given. The Los Angeles delegation returned with praise for the harbor lodgemen's hospitality and ability to entertain.

On the 14th inst., about 100 Second Degree Moose met at Golden State clubrooms, where they were loaded into automobiles and taken to Riverbank where Sunkist Legion had its frolic. The party returned to Los Angeles Sunday morning. They are now boosting for the next frolic which will probably occur in the early part of June, when Unity Legion will put on the celebration.

At the regular meeting last Wednesday night the regular initiation was conducted and a feature of the meeting was the surprise birthday celebration accorded "Daddy" Jacquith in commemoration of his seventy-fourth birthday. All the members of Mooseheart Legion, besides the members of Golden State "framed" on the genial custodian of the refreshment stand. "Daddy," unaware of the friendly conspiracy, plied his smile in the clubroom while the members arranged an elaborate birthday cake, a huge box of candy and hundreds of birthday cards on a large table in the lodgerooms. When everything was ready "Daddy" was escorted into the lodgeroom.

Dictator Walter Gould Lincoln congratulated him and thanked him for his untiring services to Moosedom. Three days later "Daddy" was still walking around in a haze. Several of the members, after watching many of the beautiful ladies embrace "Daddy," were heard to observe that they wished their seventy-fourth birthday would soon roll around.

Visitors at the club during the week included R. E. Brown, graduate student of Mooseheart. He has promised to return and tell the members of his experiences at the school. Supreme Auditor James Gahan also visited the lodge, together with Supervisor W. Ward Davies. They met with lodge officers and outlined plans for a progressive campaign for new members.

Jack Arnold and his Ram Jam Drum Corps are receiving congratulations and invitations from several lodges which have had the pleasure of hearing this musical outfit and from others who, having heard of their ability, desire their presence at future functions.

Golden State Lodge will participate in the Children's Hospital Charity Circus. Moose night will be May 5. On the night of May 4 there will be a parade in which all the members of Golden State will participate. A special permit has been obtained to allow the parade to take place on downtown streets.

Members of Mooseheart Chapter No. 108 and the Jazz Drum Corps will assemble at 437 South Hill street on the 24th inst. at 6:30 p.m. and proceed to Pasadena to escort the ladies and men's lodges of that city to Los Angeles, where the Mooseheart chapter will celebrate the fourth annual celebration of the inception of the lodge. The program will include a large electrical number contributed by the Edison company. A dance will follow.

Sister Bradley has more than twenty applications for initiation at the next initiatory ceremonies to be conducted May 3.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Junipero Serra Council, No. 2404, traveled in a body to Whittier last Thursday evening to pay a visit to Whittier Council, No. 1898, and staged the entertainment for the evening.

Los Angeles Council, No. 621, is now in the rush of a carnival, which is well attended and promises to be a success in a social and financial way.

Hollywood Council, No. 2406, will soon act on plans for a new clubhouse to be built in the center of Hollywood.

State Deputy D. Joseph Coyne and delegates of Southern California will leave for the Sacramento State convention in a special train chartered by Pasadena Council for the occasion, May 5.

The second and major degrees of the order will be exemplified to a large class of candidates at San Fernando today at 2 p.m. After the degree work a banquet will be served and addresses will be delivered by State Deputy D. Joseph Coyne, Hon. Paul J. McCormick, Joseph Scott, M. W. Purcell and Frank J. Barry. The program for the day is in charge of District Deputy Henry Borchard of Oxnard.

Cheyenne Mountain

By easy slope to west as if it had
No thought, when first its soaring was begun,
Except to look devoutly to the sun,
It rises, and has risen, until glad,
With light as with a garment, it is clad,
Each dawn, before the tardy plains have won
One ray; and after day has long been done
For us, the light doth cling reluctant, sad to leave its brow.

Beloved mountain, I
Thy worshipper as thou the sun's, each morn
My dawn, before the dawn, receive from thee;
And think, as thy rose-tinted peaks I see,
That thou were great when Homer was not born,
And ere thou change all human song shall die!

EDGAR PAYNE'S WORK FROM THE RIVIERA

A one-man show that comes, post-haste, all the way from Rome is an innovation even for Los Angeles, where we buy "Blue Boy" pictures for a million dollars without the bat of an eyelash and sell our own native products for $10,000 apiece, with the same easy western nonchalance. That's Los Angeles all over. Ask any booster from Iowa. But don't ask anybody from San Francisco.

Nevertheless, all the above statements are true. The exhibition so triumphantly imported for our appraisal opens tomorrow at the Stendahl galleries, Ambassador Hotel, the home of $10,000 sales. It consists of twenty-six canvases painted by Edgar Alwyn Payne along the French and Italian Riviera. Payne left Los Angeles, after conquering the High Sierras in paint, with the avowed purpose of vanquishing the Maritime Alps with the same medium. His exhibition proves that he has apparently done it off the bat.

Mountains are mountains all the world over, of course, but there was much disturbance, with considerable throwing of rocks, at one remote period in the world's eventful history, and some kinds of rocks fell in fine profusion in California, while the rubble that accumulated in Switzerland looked quite different. It just happened that way. Payne, after studying our own crop quite extensively, for its pictorial value, and making his study pay, decided he would use some of the money for a close inspection of the Swiss kind. I think he is going to make that pay, too.

At any rate "across the Alaps lies Italy," to quote another world conqueror, and as Payne is now in Rome, we conclude, from his pictures, that he took the Alps route. These pictures are a splendid record of his itinerary. They have, in fact, something of the big resonant thunder of the Odyssey. Epic, that's what they are—some of them, at any rate, and if we come upon more lyrical brushwork now and again, why, it only goes to prove that the painter stopped to listen to lark even while he kept his eye on the eagle perched on the snowy crest of the Matterhorn. I mean to say—as the Cockneys say—that he kept all his artistic faculties on tap. He was paying his way by the sweat of other mountainous adventures in paint, and he wasn't going to miss a thing.

These mountain studies are "different." So are the mountains. If they remind you of Payne, it is because Payne painted them. An artist can't get away from himself even when he takes the wings of the morning and loses himself in contemplation of Mont Blanc. If he's Smith when he started, Smith he remains. If Payne, Payne he stays. He's an individualist, and an American—even a Westerner—and his native spots are always there. It's because of the spots that we buy his pictures.

Next week we'll look closely at Edgar Payne's spots as affected by a sojourn on the Riviera and a trip over the Alps.

LITTLE EXHIBITING SKETCHES BY PAGES

Though he has been a resident of Paris for many years past, and though his name is as French as may be, Jules Pages still feels that he "belongs" in California. The proof of this feeling of kinship may be found in the visits he pays us whenever opportunity presents itself, and in the "representatives" that he so frequently sends us—truly representative envoys, since they are his own pictures and sketches.

Pages—he pronounces his name as if it were English—was born in San Francisco, the son of an engraver. He became a newspaper cartoonist at an early age, and, of course, was bitten as soon as possible by the "paint bug." He succumbed to his malady, saved his money and went to Paris for more study, and ultimately—very early in his career, in fact—joined the teaching staff of the Julian Academy, where he has remained ever since. From all of which we may judge that he does not pronounce his name in the English way in Paris.

Not a few honors, besides that appertaining to the Julian, have come his way in the great French metropolis of the arts. A few years ago one of his larger canvases, submitted to the Salon, which housed 2500 paintings in all, was purchased by the French government, this picture being one out of five so signally honored—and his was the only one of the five that went into the permanent collection of the Luxembourg.

Last year Little's, 432 South Broadway, exhibited about a dozen of his sketches, tiny bits of life and color that were thoroughly characteristic of the painter's viewpoint and method. Though quick impressions, "done on the spot," they held all the essentials. This year, beginning tomorrow, Little's gives us a dozen more that have been painted in the same spirit of happy observation.

Many of these are from the Brittany coast, where life and color flow plentifully for the brush of the artist—life ruggedly picturesque and primitive, color rich and vivid. Pages, of course, has chosen the quieter aspects of the fisherman's dangerous mode of work and adventure, contenting himself with the color he found along the quays, and with the more leisurely poses of the waiters, the watchers and the loungers. His Brittany titles suggest this—"Waiting for the Boats," "Brittany Coast," "The Return of the Fishing Boats," "Coming Home" and "On the Brittany Coast."

Other sketches, generally quieter in key, grayer in tone, and in subject far removed from Brittany, are "The Village," "Notre Dame de Paris," "On the Field," "Place de la Concorde," "Old Mill," "The Town of Moret." In the most of these, grays are handled with Pages's well-known simplicity and directness. Pages is not subtle, but his work is painter-like, and therefore finely pictorial.

FIGURINES ON VIEW AT THE NORSE CLUB

The sculptures, most of them single figures, and these single figures of small size, that Frank Wamsley has been showing at the Norse Club, 1444½ Wilcox avenue, Hollywood, have not yet been withdrawn. They are exhibited on the shelving along the walls, the wall-space itself being occupied by landscapes from the brush of Paul Lauritz.

Wamsley's figurines have much grace and charm. They indicate a poetic and imaginative quality of a high order in the artist, and this quality is the attractive superstructure of the modeling itself, which is always sure, the result of much study and knowledge. In other words, though poetic in their refined suggestions, the figures, whatever title they may bear—"Wildfire," "Hyacinth," "Meditation"—have both feet, so to speak, planted on realities. Though they may "scan" well as poetry, they certainly never fail to "construct" as sculptures.

The dreamer, the idealist, may be "onto his job" quite as sturdily as the rankest of the realists—in

About the Curtis "Steamketel" at $17.75

—Within itself it is four cooking utensils combined; steam kettle, steamer, roaster and double boiler.

—It cooks an entire meal at one time over a fire equal to the heat of a candle. The fuel saved by this alone, in addition to the elimination of the burning of food and the loss of food value, will eventually pay the cost of the cooker to say nothing of the time and care thus saved.

—We will be glad to demonstrate this cooker for you—$17.75.—The Broadway—Fifth Floor.

Women's Silk Stockings
Wayne Knit
at $1.25 a Pair

—Lustrous, full fashioned silk stockings with lisle garter tops, heels, soles and toes. In black, white, brown, putty, polo and fawn; sizes 8½ to 10 in the assortment, but not every size in each color. Marked as a decided feature for Monday's selling.

Women's Lisle Union Suits at $1.35
—These have a highly lustrous mercerized finish and are to be had in Swiss rib, in bodice or round neck styles with loose fitting knees.
—Sizes 34 to 44 represented; however, not every size in each style. Another headline, Monday at $1.35.

Children's Three-Quarter Socks Less at 29c a Pair
—Socks in three-quarter and seven-eighths length with mercerized finish in black, white and a few colors, 29c. Some with fancy tops. Sizes 7 to 10 in the lot but not every size in every style or color.

Misses' Fiber and Silk Mixed Stockings at 59c
Lustrous stockings in an attractive wide rib. Black, white and brown. Sizes 7 to 10 in the assortment. The low marking is due to slight factory imperfections. For Monday at 59c.

Children's Fiber Plated Half Socks at 25c
—Dainty socks to be had in white and colors. Imperfections account for the unusual marking of 25c for Monday. Sizes of 4 to 9 in the assortment, but not each size in every color.

Misses' Vests at 25c

—A small lot of finely ribbed cotton vests. Because of incomplete size range marked less for Monday at 25c. —The Broadway—Aisles Six and Eight.

OF INTEREST TO ARTISTS

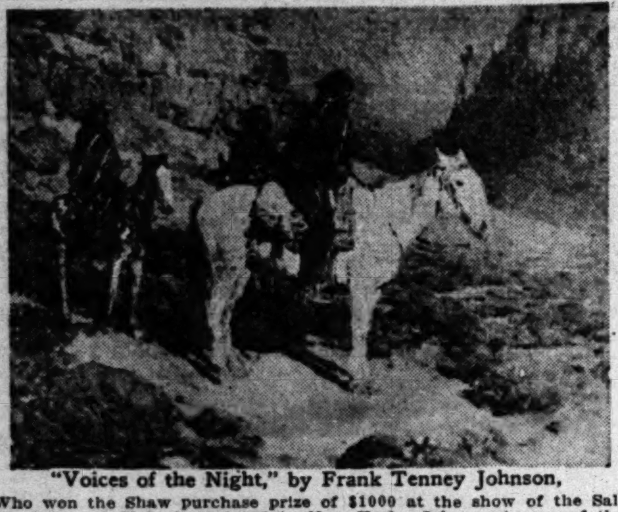
fact, I think he is generally more reliably correct in his work, for if he isn't, his structure will fall into incoherence, in which case he may, of course, label it "symbolism" and let it go at that. Then it may mean anything or nothing, according to the onlooker.

Wamsley has no need to take refuge in such a tideless and waveless haven of nomenclature. His figures are never, so far as I have been able to discover, symbolical, though they often suggest more than they say. But all art does that—all art but the starkly realistic, specimens of what we may term the Main Street School, be they found masquerading as literature, painting or sculpture.

Among the thirty pieces shown you will note such diversified themes as "The Aviator," "Dawn," "Grizzly," "Girl With Squirrel," "Sun Dial Figure" and those mentioned before in this all too brief essay at appreciation. Other sculptures by Frank Wamsley are now being exhibited at the Venice High School.



"Voices of the Night," by Frank Tenney Johnson,

Etchings of the sea are again in evidence at the Cannell & Chaffin galleries, where a group of prints, the mature work of George C. Wales, forms one of the most interesting one-man exhibitions this enterprising print room has shown. Wales first showed his prints in Boston, his native town, in the closing months of 1922, where they were received by a critical and ship-loving public with such enthusiasm that the Print Connoisseur devoted a finely illustrated leading article to them in its January issue.

The subjects are for the most part the sailing ships of a fast departing age. New Bedford whalers, clipper ships historical prints such as the action between the Constitution and the Guerriere, a superb etching called "The Plate Ship," a Spanish galleon going down, her richly carved and painted poop high in air. The moods of the sea fit the action of the ships.

C. Howard Walker, in the Boston Evening Transcript, says of these prints: "They have a unique quality, as they are not only excellent etchings, with atmosphere and the lilt of the sea, but he knows his sailing ships down to the last block and tackle. So much of would-be representation of ships is, to say the least, unnautical, but these etchings will fulfill the desires and satisfy the analysis of 'the old salt.'"

Wales was born in Boston in 1868. He was educated in the public schools and later at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he studied architecture. For three years he was a draughtsman in the office of Peabody & Stearns, and after a year of travel and study abroad he took up the practice of architecture in that city. At an early age he took to the water, sailing, racing and cruising in small boats, hanging about the wharves, with a special interest in square-riggers, not then so uncommon as now, studying their rig and handling. He also built a number of models.

He took many cruises off-shore in the old Boston pilot-boat Hesper (No. 5,) and has always kept fairly close to the ocean. He has drawn boats and ships incessantly, and about five years ago he began etching these subjects, studying the art under William M. Paxton.

Wales lives in Brookline, where he is surrounded by a collection of prints of old ships, models and books on marine matters.

AQUATINTS IN COLOR BY JOHN W. COTTON

Interesting and attractive exhibitions are being held from week to week in the art department at Barker Brothers. A few weeks ago a showing of recent landscapes by Hanson Puthuff occupied the walls of the little gallery set aside for these exhibitions, and this was followed by a showing of aquatints in color by John W. Cotton.

There were thirty-three numbers in the exhibition, among them being a copy of the print that won a prize some years ago at the Art Institute in Chicago, and that is now in the permanent collection of the institute. This fine print is entitled "Evening in Belgium"—it will be remembered that John Cotton did notable work during the war, making records of priceless value. Other excellent aquatints are "Tranquillity," "Birthplace of Jeanne d'Arc," "Old Flemish Mill," "Eucalyptus on the Hillside," and so on.

The prints were discussed at considerable length in this column a few months ago, when they were being exhibited in another gallery. At that time the etcher gave daily demonstrations on his own press as to how prints are made.

Prismatic Costumes

"Ultra-modern designs in prismatic color applied to costumes and the dance," says the little card announcing the exhibition of drawings by Marcella Blood at the Cannell & Chaffin galleries.

In Chicago, at the Academy of Fine Arts, and in Los Angeles Miss Blood, who is a charming and modest young woman reared in our midst, has delved deeply into the laws governing color-rhythm, and in these designs in tempera, with astonishingly clear and thorough workmanship, she has combined this knowledge with gracefully moving figures of girls in costumes which allow her scope to develop abstract shapes into flowered brocades or dress materials.

There is nothing here to disturb the soul or inspire deep feeling, but they make delightful color patches and, might I suggest, the editor of Vogue and similar magazines could make no mistake in using the work of our talented citizeness to decorate his covers.

Wood Blocks and Color Etchings

The combined show of wood-block prints, "straight" etchings an color etchings at the Ebell Club, the work of May Gearhart, Frances Gearhart and John W. Cotton, makes one of the most interesting exhibitions held for some time in the club's gallery.

The work of Mr. Cotton has already been spoken of, more than once, in this column, and so has that of the two brilliant Gearhart sisters, who last year opened a studio in Pasadena devoted entirely to the making of prints. May Gearhart's prints, with their vivid spots of color, are highly decorative in effect. Frances Gearhart, generally working on a somewhat larger scale, offers us some well-drawn and well-massed prints, the blocks printed without color being often the most effective.

Exhibits at Los Angeles Museum

The exhibits now on at the Los Angeles Museum, Exposition Park, will be there till April 29. Through some mistake, another date was mentioned. Those exhibiting are Helena Dunlap, Charles M. Crocker and W. Langdon Kihn. There is great diversity in their work, more so than in the usual exhibits by several artists. Charles Crocker's art is creating considerable comment on account of its vital truth to nature and the "plus" element. Langdon Kihn's is also well worth seeing. He is exhibiting in New York the first of May.

A group of some of the best-known of our pictorial photographers are exhibiting through April at the Hollywood Woman's Club. The exhibitors are Edward Weston, Karl Struss, Otis Williams, Margarethe Mather, Oscar Maurer, Viroque Baker, Phil de Bois and Marguerite Craig.

The Doctor's Advice
by Dr. Lewis Baker

This extract from a letter: "I am a girl 16 years old and work in a store. I have never been strong and about two years ago developed an anemic condition. I went down so rapidly that my parents were alarmed and placed me in the care of a specialist. His reputation was of the best, yet he did nothing that helped me. I was nervous, irritable, weak, and my complexion was a green muddy color that was repulsive to look at. I could not sleep, and after eating I would have a sick nausea. I lost interest in everything. I took Cadomene tablets, on your advice, and oh, how I wish others could know the miracle that happened. In five weeks a most wonderful improvement has occurred, and I shall keep right on with this wonderful treatment, etc. Sincerely, Miss Madge Thomas, 910 Crescent St., Brockton, Mass."

Severe writes: "I have such a very severe cough and cold and have not been able to get anything to help me. It is weakening my system."

Answer: Use the following: Get a 2½ oz. bottle of concentrated essence Mentho-Laxene and take every hour or two. This can be taken pure or made into a full pint of home-made syrup. Full directions as to use will be found on bottle.

R. B. E. asks: "I have tried to cure dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair and baldness with numerous tonics, etc., but in vain. What do you recommend?"

Answer: I have been recommending plain yellow Minyol for the past twelve years and scores of my patients are delighted with the quick, pleasant action of this remedy in stopping itching, falling hair, dandruff, etc.

Advice writes: Let me say that my condition puzzles and worries me. In the last year I seem to have been growing old rapidly, though only 38. My food and sleep do not recuperate my strength and energy, and lately I have dizzy spells, trembling, headaches, loss of appetite, memory and hopelessness. Despondency and worry over my condition are ever present."

Answer: You have impoverished blood (anemia) and failing supply of nerve force. Obtain Cadomene tablets in sealed tubes with full directions, use them, and an agreeable, pleasing restoration should ensue to your entire satisfaction.

N. O. G. writes: "These are the symptoms which lead me to think I need medicine for kidneys and bladder: Severe headaches, bloodshot eyes, chills followed by fever. Frequent desire to urinate, but scanty results of a dark color and bad odor. Also smarting and stinging pains."

Answer: When such symptoms are present, Balmwort tablets are prescribed to tone up and increase the elimination and produce natural functioning. Get them in sealed tubes with full directions.

S. E. C. asks: "Do you think it is possible to reduce my weight from 240 pounds to about 190 pounds?"

Answer: It is impossible to say just how much one can reduce until after trying, but 5-grain Arbolone tablets should be used according to directions with each sealed tube, obtainable at most any drug store. If the flesh is unnatural you should easily reduce as desired.

Matron asks. "I suffer from headache and constipation periodically and my blood seems too thick, causing languor and tired feeling. I will thank you to prescribe for me."

Answer: Three-grain Sulpherb tablets (not sulphur) are most effective in relieving constipation, thinning the blood, and removing the symptoms of langour, etc.

Note: For many years Dr. Baker, College Bldg., Dayton, Ohio, has been giving free advice and prescriptions to millions of people through the press columns, and doubtless has helped in relieving illness and distress more than any single individual in the world's history. Thousands have written him expressions of gratitude and confidence similar to the following:

Dr. Lewis Baker, Dear Sir.—"I have been taking the Cadomene tablets for the past month. They certainly have done wonders for me, as I was so nervous I wasn't able to do my own housework. I was so sick and miserable. Now I can do all my own work and feel good all the time. My daughter and her husband have also been taking them and they help wonderfully. Respectfully, Mrs A. E. Hager, 909 London Road, Duluth, Minn."—[Advertisement.

AN EVENT OF THE UTMOST IMPORTANCE TO THE MEN OF LOS ANGELES AND SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

THIS year's sale promises to be the most successful yet. Our buyer began laying plans many months ago; much careful thought was given to the selection and the co-operation of the manufacturer was secured; as a result, we have to offer 6180 men's shirts in an exceptionally varied array of styles and patterns.

—Extra booths have been secured; extra salespersons have been employed; in fact, everything has been done to make this one of the most important Annual Sales that we've ever had.

SHIRTS
Of Repp or Madras
$1.45
Or 3 for $4.10

—This group is composed of 1548 shirts of repp and finely woven madras in crisp new spring patterns. Repp shirts, as you know, have that fresh and clean appearance. Those of madras are beautifully woven in firm textures. They're both long wearing shirts. Cut in coat style; goodly lengthened sleeves which are accurately tailored by men, for men. Sizes range from 14 to 17. Beginning Monday, $1.45 each or 3 for $4.10.

SHIRTS
Madras with Stripe,
$1.65
or 3 for $4.65

—In this assemblage at $1.65, are 2808 woven madras shirts which have a beautiful lustrous stripe running through them. Distinctively smart and seasonable for, approaches with summer, warmer weather and the time when the vest will be discarded. Accurate cut and careful tailoring make for real comfort. In coat style, full length sleeve, firmly sewn seams, in sizes 14 to 17. On sale beginning Monday, at $1.65 each or 3 for $4.65.

SHIRTS
of Corded Madras
$1.79
Or 3 for $5.00

—And here are 900 corded madras shirts, distinctive and different. The selection here, as in the other groups, is wide, and the colors, varied. These shirts, as the others, have been purchased at special price concessions, which allow the decidedly lower-than-usual markings of this sale. Corded madras is highly favored this season by men of discrimination. Tailored, of course, in the coat style. Usual sleeve lengths and in sizes 14 to 17. Beginning Monday, $1.79 or 3 for $5.00.

SHIRTS
English Broadcloth
—"so-called"—
$3.35
or 3 for $9.80

—These shirts (there are 624 of them) are made of "so-called" English Broadcloth. In the manufacture of this material the thread has been imported from England and woven in the United States, thus giving a fabric with a wonderfully fine finish and a remarkably "high-mileage." These shirts are obtainable in plain colors of tan or gray, white, too; also a number in distinctive stripe effects. Collar to match in the plain colors. Beginning Monday, less than usual; $3.35 each or 3 for $9.80.

SHIRTS
Silk Broadcloth
$4.85
or 3 for $14.25

—300 silk broadcloth shirts at this decidedly lowered marking should not last for longer than a day, if they last as long as that. Men who are familiar with the usual markings will readily appreciate why we suggest early selection. The patterns are really exceptional—quietly rich, seems to be the right term to express it. These may be had in tan, white, gray stripe effects. In coat style, sleeves of good length. Sizes 14 to 17. Beginning Monday, and as long as they last, at $4.85 or 3 for $14.25.

Consoles $9.75
Mantels $15.00

100 Framed Mirrors, made especially for J. W. Robinson Co., will be centered in a Monday selling event of extraordinary magnitude.

If one were to mention the prices at which such Mirrors would ordinarily be offered, the statement would sound exaggerated.

Certainly they will be priced so low that many will purchase several of them, instead of just one or two. And will want to own as many of them as possible, because of their great beauty.

They have been given the same painstaking care in construction and finish, that enters into much higher priced Mirrors. And they are fitted with French plate, of almost unmatched excellence.

Six styles will offer a wide range of choice. All of them fitted with fine French plate, known for its almost unmatched excellence.

There will be two styles of 3-panel Mantel Mirrors, and four styles of Console Mirrors. The former are finished in antique gold, burnished and stippled, and decorated with clusters of soft-toned flowers or fruits. The outside measurements are 14½x43 inches. Priced at $15.00.

The Console Mirrors, in antique gold and polychrome, display fruit and flower clusters, or insets at each corner, in old blue. Outside measurements 14x29. Priced at $9.75.

No C.O.D. or Approvals.

SEVENTH FLOOR

Laurel Brand Linens 100% Pure Flax

BETTER quality is never demanded than Laurel Brand is able to supply. It gathers the strength and security of tradition with every person added afresh to the long list of Laurel patrons.

Table Cloths

Damask table cloths of good weight with the napkins to match, are in three sizes: 70x70 inches are priced at $7.85 each.

70x88 inches at $ 9.85 each.
70x106 inches at $11.85 each.
The Napkins are 20x20 inches at $9.50 a dozen.

Napkins

Damask table napkins of Laurel Brand linen are of exceptionally good weight and firmly woven. A set of six, in the 21x21-inch size is priced at $2.45.

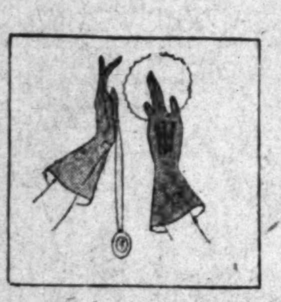
SECOND FLOOR

Men's Golf Hose

PURE Wool Golf Hose, also from Scotland—home of fine yarns—will be a fitting accompaniment to the Sweaters from the same place.

In an almost endless range of patterns and colors, some with fancy tops, others plain, there are Golf Hose beginning in price at $2.50.

FIRST FLOOR



Strap-Wrist Chamoisette Gloves

SOFT Chamoisette Gloves in the trim strap-wrist style. Gloves which look almost like suede, but which can be washed as easily as silk.

For comfort and convenience in the warm seasons, and for beauty as well, they are difficult to surpass.

With spear point or fancy embroidered backs, in these shades: oak, fawn, pongee, mode, mastic and silver.

And their remarkable Monday pricing is only 95c a pair.

FIRST FLOOR

Petticoats at $3.95

SOME are of Radium Silk. The scallop embroidered bottom or embroidered flounces supply adequate decoration.

Others of Jersey are in plain and novelty styles and the Satin Stripe Tub Silks are of equal popularity and merit appreciation both from points of wearing quality and of appearance.

The wide assortment of new shades adds black and navy general brilliant effect.

They are priced at $3.95 each.

FOURTH FLOOR

Robinson's Glove Silk Underwear

AN almost matchless beauty lurks in the shining folds of Robinson's Glove Silk Undergarments.

Made exclusively for J. W. Robinson Co. they may be had in plain styles or in matched sets, trimmed with real filet and Irish lace; Vests, Camisoles, Step-ins, Chemises and Gowns. (These may also be had separately.)

In white, flesh, orchid and maize, the lace-trimmed garments begin in price at $4.50.

FOURTH FLOOR

Suit Blouses at $9.75

OVER blouses of crepedechine, adapted to wear with suits, are to be shown at an unusually low pricing. Their quality rates them far higher than one would be led to suspect from a glance at the price of $9.75.

Braided models vie with beaded ones, and they appear chiefly with three-quarter length sleeves. Some with collars, others collarless.

They are in the following colors, brown, taupe, gray, copen, almond green, black and beige.

The sizes are broken. Accordingly the price is low, $9.75.

THIRD FLOOR

Men's Imported Scotch Golf Sweaters

SWEATERS which every real man will like, partly for their fine, pure wool, Scotch yarns, partly for their desirable designs and colors, and partly for the fine fit and the comfort of them.

Imported from Scotland they are now being shown at Robinson's in sports or conservative styles, and a wide range of colors.

They begin in price at $15.00.

FIRST FLOOR

Summer Furs

THEY do more than just complete a costume. They add that final touch of beauty which means everything.

Robinson's Furs are of the fine sort which women are proud to possess and to wear.

Foxes in platinum, steel gray, tan, cocoa, beige, dyed blue, natural blue, silver, white, red, black, brown and taupe.

Jacquettes of mole, or of caracul in beige, white, gray and black may be had for prices beginning at $135.00.

THIRD FLOOR

Knitted Wool Costumes $14.75

45 Knitted Wool Costumes will have a price for Monday decisively lower than those they formerly commanded.

Costumes in one or two-piece style, designed on long, slenderizing lines. Distinctive, modish and becoming.

The two-piece models consist of skirt and trim belted slip-on, both with borders in contrasting shades. Those in one piece are straight and slender, gracefully belted at the hips and trimmed with contrasting stripes on collar, cuffs and skirt border.

In such combinations as beige and brown, navy and beige, jade and black, gray and Copen, white and green and others. All to be greatly underpriced at $14.75.

THIRD FLOOR

Silk Sweaters at $19.50

SWEATERS of pure silk in those delightful two tone mixtures.

A sweaters of such lustrous color subtly emphasizes a vital personality.

The solid color is concentrated in the back and sleeves with variety introduced by way of checks and ribs of combined colors in the front. The shades include: gray back and sleeves with gray and copen front; Orange with orange and white check front; navy with navy and beige checked front; buff with buff and brown checked front; buff with buff and coral checked front; copen with copen and gray checked front.

One cannot guess what a serious loss it is to be without one until the sensation of possessing one has been experienced.

They are priced at $19.50 each.

Sizes 36 to 44.

THIRD FLOOR

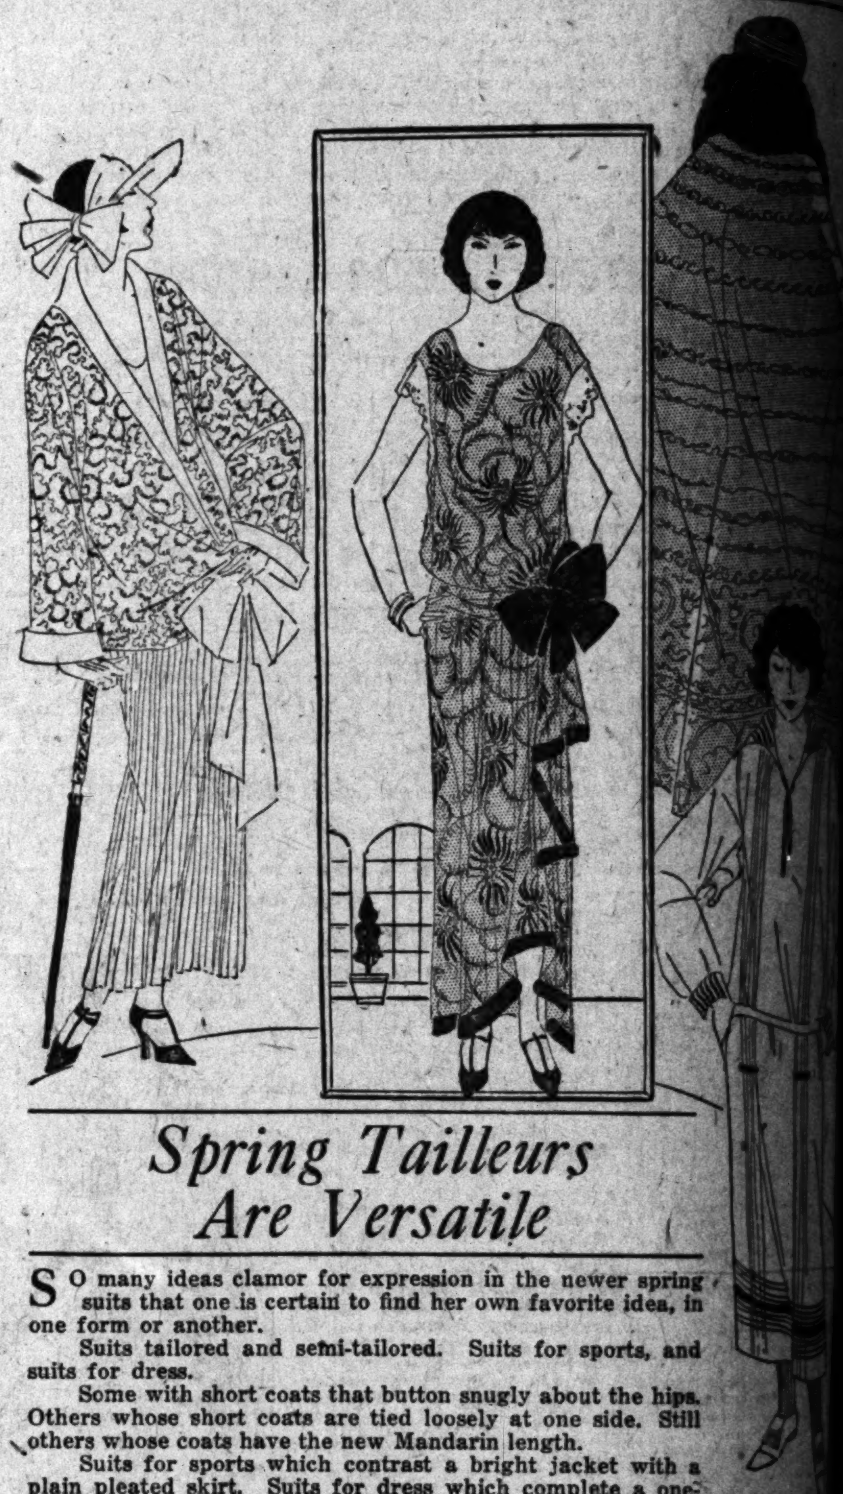
Women's All Silk Hose $2.75

600 Pairs of Women's All-silk Hose will have this very special price for Monday. Their quality and beauty are of the same fine sort—both the result of the excellent fashioning of pure silk.

In beige, turtle, almond, black with clocks and white with clocks. And all sizes.

To be priced on Monday at only $2.75 a pair.

FIRST FLOOR



Spring Tailleurs Are Versatile

SO many ideas clamor for expression in the newer spring suits that one is certain to find her own favorite idea, in one form or another.

Suits tailored and semi-tailored. Suits for sports, and suits for dress.

Some with short coats that button snugly about the hips. Others whose short coats are tied loosely at one side. Still others whose coats have the new Mandarin length.

Suits for sports which contrast a bright jacket with a plain pleated skirt. Suits for dress which complete a one-piece frock with a matching cape or wrap.

Robinson's suits present a choice range hardly to be equalled in point of good taste, beauty and style.

THIRD FLOOR

Printed Frocks

PRINTS for sports, for street, for afternoon, for evening. There is [illegible] no stopping this vogue for prints.

For morning a vivid little chemise frock, almost sleeveless, daring [illegible] line.

And for evening another slim little frock that is perhaps to be distinguished from the first only by a delicate breadth of lace, or an inch less of sleeve.

And here at Robinson's are gathered delightful printed things which [illegible] all over the world have created.

Frocks of light, soft-colored prints. Others almost bizarre in their [illegible] color. Still others subdued, richly dark, for more conservative purposes. [illegible] printed.

Printed on Chiffon, pussy willow, georgette, Canton, roshanara. Printed [illegible] over, or just occasionally. Printed blouses complete plain pleated skirts. [illegible] panels brighten a plain frock. Printed chiffon is scintillant with beads [illegible] ning. Printed satin stripes decorate a chiffon dinner frock.

THIRD FLOOR

New Sports Oxford

IN gray suede with trimming of gray kid, and either low or Cuban heels.

In sand suede trimmed with brown kid, and with high or low heels. And in otter suede, with brown kid, and low heels.

All priced at $12.50.

FOURTH FLOOR

Fur Trimmed Wrap

FUR adds immeasurably to even the most [illegible] ful wrap, for nothing so becomes a [illegible] soft, rich beauty of fur.

And at Robinson's she will find this touch of [illegible] even on the moderate priced wraps.

Wraps of silk, braided in self-tone. [illegible] Pleated. Tucked. Ruffled. Straight. Bloused. [illegible] the side.

Wraps of soft wool fabrics. Of crisp [illegible] In delicate, cobwebby grays. Or rich golden [illegible] or soft beige. Collared in squirrel, dyed to [illegible] wrap. Collared in contrasting squirrel. Or [illegible] Or fox. Hundreds of new fur-trimmed wraps [illegible] seen upon request.

The sketch displays a Cape of black [illegible] embroidered in soft colors and gold thread [illegible] in brown dyed squirrel.

ORIENT AND OCCIDENT

Cross and Crescent Significant in Productions Now Being Completed

The significances of the cross and the crescent are curiously intermingled in the motion picture productions that are being made at the present time. Some of these are exceptional in their disclosure of the exotic atmosphere of the Orient, while others have the solemn background of church and cathedral that belong essentially to the Occident.

Most unusual in their revelation of the fantasy of the legendary Far East are some of the scenes introduced in Maurice Tourneur's picture "The Brass Bottle," which is now being made at the United Studios. This is a modern version of the story of the genie of the bottle, whose release in conservative England in the present era upsets the staid British customs and conventions.

Upon his release the genie is so anxious to serve his master that he transforms his house into a sultan's palace, with dancing girls and Nubian slaves and eunuchs. The hero of the story is transformed into the ruler of the household, and has a thousand slaves at his command.

The scenes showing this harem have been photographed during the last week. Dozens of colored extras have taken the part of the dusky oriental slaves, while a number of dancers have appeared in a picturesque and alluring series of terpsichorean numbers. Julanne Johnston has been the featured dancer.

The prominent roles in the production are played by Harry Myers, Charlotte Merriam, Ernest Torrence, Ford Sterling, Aggie Herring and others.

One of the largest productions of the year, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," is rapidly nearing the final stages at Universal City. The cathedral setting that has been built for the picture is one of the most exact and elaborate that has ever been constructed. In and around this structure transpire some of the most dramatic incidents of the story.

Lon Chaney, who is playing Quasimodo, is achieving possibly the most astonishing interpretation of his entire career in the role of this hunchback. There are great physical difficulties in the portrayal, owing to the deformities that Mr. Chaney has to simulate. His make-up leaves not a single trace of his own personality.

Others in the cast of this picture are Patsy Ruth Miller, Norman Kerry and Ernest Torrence.

MAKE-UP CHANEY'S SECRET

Star of Repulsive Roles Keeps Own Counsel as to Peculiar Art

Lon Chaney, famous character actor and star of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," now being filmed at Universal City, is the principal puzzle of the big studio. "How much is Chaney and how much is make-up?" is asked generally, even by the seasoned professionals who play opposite him in the Hugo masterpiece. And Chaney smiles. He won't tell.

Just as in "The Miracle Man" and others of his famous roles, Lon Chaney twists his agile body into weird contortions. He is a genius at this peculiar art of throwing his entire body into a strange alignment. Just as he can portray emotions by facial expressions, so he portrays conditions of humanity by bodily postures. Chaney's art needs no harnesses, bandages, or shapers. It will be remembered that he exposed this uncanny trick of his in "The Miracle Man," when the twisted wisp of humanity straightened out into a very athletic Lon Chaney.

UNCANNY SKILL

But in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" he applies intricate tricks of make-up to his uncanny skill. "Make-up" takes three hours, with several people to help him. The first time he donned the complicated make-up it took all day to apply.

Victor Hugo's own drawings of Quasimodo are the guide—those and Hugo's descriptions. In the old Hugo volumes, in which the author, who was also a skillful artist, profusely illustrates his narrative and portrayed his characters as he saw them in his own mind, Quasimodo is seen in several poses.

Chaney studied Hugo's brainchild in detail, poring over old woodcuts for weeks, and designing this and that detail of make-up to cover points in the sketches.

Photography is probably half-completed on the picture. So arduous is Chaney's work in the make-up that frequent rests are a necessity. Among others in the cast are Patsy Ruth Miller as "Esmeralda," Kate Lester, Ernest Torrance, Norman Kerry and many others.

VERY EXPERIENCED

Eight of the cast of eleven in "Three Wise Fools" have been on the stage for more than twenty years. Their records are: Claude Gillingwater, thirty-five years, William H. Crane, sixty years, Alec Francis, thirty years, Fred Esmelton twenty-eight years, John Sainpolis and Brinsley Shaw, twenty-five years, Fred J. Butler, twenty-three years and Martha Mattax, twenty-one years.

Miss Cornwall played the lead, you may remember, in Lionel Barrymore's starring feature, "The Copperhead." She showed great promise at that time, but retired on marrying Charles Maigne, the director.

There are other names that are interesting the casting directors these days, and that are mentioned among the leading possibilities such as Maria Draga, Allene Ray, Alma Bennett, Sigrid Holmquist and Lucile Ricksen. Miss Draga played recently in "The Great Alone;" Miss Ray in "Your Friend and Mine;" Miss Bennett in comedies and as Tom Mix's lead; Miss Holmquist in "Just Around the Corner," while Lucille Ricksen, having grown out of the "Edgar" comedies, is now taking part in features.

I PREDICT great things for the gentle art of stump-speaking during political campaigns now that a new advance has been made in talking pictures. Every candidate can have a record made of his voice and have his personality registered on celluloid, and also be sure that he won't gesticulate his arms off at the wrong time, as used to happen in the old days of talking pictures.

I watched and listened in on some movie speakers during the past week at one of the downtown theaters. The occasion was a preview. Because of the synchronization of voice and action, the speeches seemed to be especially effective. On the program were

ANY STORY HAS MORAL, SAYS TOD

Theme to be Found in Every Representation of Human Emotion, Incident

The phrase, "a story with a moral," is absurd, according to Tod Browning, Goldwyn director who is preparing to film Arthur Somers Roche's popular novel, "The Day of Faith."

"Every good photoplay, book or play ever made has a 'moral,' if that's what you wish to call it," says Browning.

"A picture that hasn't some quality from which a serious thought may be drawn is not a good picture. It's not even a fair one.

"Motion pictures are not written with a stereotyped 'moral' in view. Neither are most books or plays. But if they do not have it, or something akin to it, the story must be meaningless.

PURPOSE IN ART

"Any story, book or picture should be more than entertainment alone. A picture or story which does not give the audience something to think about or look back upon, could as well have stayed unwritten.

"By this I do not mean that pictures should preach a sermon. To me, at least, there is nothing more obnoxious than to read a book or see a picture which tries to drill into me some doctrine, creed or theory.

"No person wants shouted at him from the screen or the printed page what is right and what is wrong. Good pictures and stories illustrate the point and let the audience draw its own conclusion."

ASSYRIAN COMES DOWN ON STUDIO

King Tut Excavators Open Up More Than Tomb

Egyptian Themes Flood Halls of Producers

Window Pane for Set, Flower as Costume

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

It is just bound to happen—a deluge of Egyptian pictures! In the vanguard is William P. S. Earle's big feature, "King Tut-Ankh-Amen." Others are being prepared for.

The public just now has the Egyptian disorder. It is getting wise to Egyptian lore, says Mr. Earle, and everybody is up on the King Tut stuff.

"It will soon be so that the public will be so wise that the producers will have to be very careful how they arrange their chickens and buttonhooks on the hieroglyphic walls," he says. "Somebody in the audience will be sure to burst out laughing at an innocent-looking design on the palace walls that is supposed to be a poem or a historic account, but which will turn out to be a laundry list or maybe the advertisement of a fire sale!"

Why, Carmel Myers, one of the stars of "King Tut-Ankh-Amen" became so enthralled with the ancient Egyptian lore that she has actually dreamed out a whole Egyptian story and has written it down. She is devouring all the books she can find on the subject, and is even delving into the mysteries of hieroglyphics. She says sh ecan read only words of one syllable so far, but it's perfectly fascinating. She is learning to write the funny symbols, too. So if you get a letter that looks like a kid's idea of a zoo, likely as not it's an epistle from Carmel wishing you a happy New Year or a merry St. Patrick's Day!

ODD'S THE WORD

Oddly enough, a story of this identical Egyptian Pharaoh was being written by Mrs. Earle at the time of the sensational opening of Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb. It was this that determined Mr. Earle to make a picture of his wife's novel, which is to be published by a large eastern firm.

It looks as though one innovation in the making of the picture will revolutionize certain phases, at least, of picture making. Paintings are being put to the most remarkable use in this production. For the first time in picture making, according to William P. S. Earle, the actors are seen actually walking around back of the columns and emerging on the other side, and passing through the doors in the paintings. Heretofore paintings have been used as mere backgrounds.

Mr. Pinney and his assistants have painted all the scenery used

WHO'S REALLY BETTER OFF?

Some Prophecies Regarding the Future of the Spendthrift Stars

BY HERBERT HOWE
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, April 20.—What's to become of the poor movie spendthrifts when their salaries have waned along with their hair and popularity? It's a matter over which I've brooded many a night in my garret chamber.

Charley Ray once advised me to be a writer rather than an actor.

"An actor has only a few years while he's young," said Charley. "But you can write until you are 90."

"Yea, and I'll probably have to," I said.

Poor old Charley! He may be forced into retirement at the ripe old age of 35 or 40—an old man out of employment with nothing to do but shoot craps with the servants, tour the world in his yacht and flap the beach at Deauville, buying jewels for Peggy Hopkins or playing rouge et noire, as his conscience may dictate. A pitiful spectacle.

And there's Mabel Normand. A financier who has known the industry from the time it had the croup right on up to its present toe-pulling infancy told me that he didn't believe little Mabel had a million dollars to her name. He said she had given away thousands or lent to friends, which is all the same, until he wondered what would become of her.

I became so disturbed about Mabel's imminent poverty that when she was in New York I tactfully pointed out a sign on a bank. It said: "Lay the foundation of your fortune today by depositing $1 with us."

Mabel sighed and said she was a very poor woman. She said Mack Sennett was only paying her about $8000 a week now, so saving was out of the question. I sighed and looked at one of her diamonds which was just the size of the coin referred to by the savings bank.

I am beginning to suspect that Charley Ray was steering me away from the acting career because he was afraid of competition. One Valentino is enough worry.

I think this because Charley may get so old and gouty that he can't dance to pop-goes-the-weasel, and yet he'll be able to direct or play character parts at a salary

Not Fully Coached

His sister was always delighted when the professor got an invitation. So she coaxed him and she coached him, telling how much society could do for him. And he would sigh, get out his dress suit and paddle away. But this time she was surprised when he got back early. He was called upon to explain.

"Then you didn't do well at Mrs. De Style's dinner party?"

"Not so very."

"Really, John, by this time I should think you would know how to behave in polite society."

The professor was very apologetic about it.

"Well, I didn't know how to shoot craps."—[Chicago News.

POLA NEGRI IS DISAPPOINTING

same time, she would not or could not let herself go.

It had the effect of some one furiously beating a silent drum.

The only time she became really convincing was when she wore the dark gown in the house-boat in the scene where the doctor friend discovers her guilt. Then she stood still and did nothing with her face and let it get over.

On the other hand, her great seduction scene in the tents of the wicked Egyptian bordered on burlesque. The sudden stiffening tremor that ran through her frame, supposed to betoken the final excess of amatory excitement, strongly suggested a chicken which has suddenly been deprived of its head.

What is the answer?

How could she be so great an artist on one side of the ocean and so crude a failure on the other.

I fancy that the solution of the riddle is this:

In Berlin, she worked under the direction of Ernst Lubitsch. Mr. Lubitsch is a stocky gentleman with anthracite coal eyes and a positive manner. In fact they tell me that, in his most positive moments, the actors feel trembly about the knees and faint in the region of the heart. There is no doubt in anybody's mind as to what Mr. Lubitsch wants.

PROBABLY TOOK ORDERS

In the Lubitsch studio in Berlin Pola Negri probably had to take orders like a Prussian cavalry recruit.

When she came here it was different. She swept into Hollywood with a regal and insolent air. The first thing she did was to demand that the scenario editor of the studio be turned out of her office to give her a dressing room. Then she ordered that everybody be ejected from the sets she was working. Then she wouldn't have the orchestra that was sent to play while she "emoted."

The making of her picture was one succession of "scenes." One day she went into wild tantrums because some one put an iron ornament on the set that resembled a peacock. She sulked and stormed and generally behaved in a manner that caused one studio employee to murmur, "If this is a sample of the manners and breeding of the Polish aristocracy what can the common, day-coach Polish people be like?"

All this came as a shocking surprise to Hollywood.

Nearly all the stars that Hollywood is used to are sweet, gentle-hearted, unselfish children.

CONSIDER MARY PICKFORD

Mary Pickford, without doubt the most famous woman who ever lived, is as simple and unassuming in her studio as an extra girl. Norma Talmadge is about as "upstage" and temperamental and dictatorial as a kitten. There isn't a workman on her set who hasn't some gentle act of kindness and courtesy to remember from Norma.

You would be killed if you said anything about Viola Dana in the hearing of any of her stage gang. Mabel Normand—impetuous, wild, emotional, devil-may-care Mabel—is an angel of mercy and goodness to the people who have had hard luck in her studio.

I remember one day I found Mabel crying over a sofa pillow that a very old woman had made her for Christmas, in repayment of a sweet little deed of tact and kindness and charity that Mabel had flung to her. It was a queer sofa cushion made with feeble, uneven, crooked old stitches. And it had touched Mabel's tender Irish heart.

Any man in the studio would give his blood for Lillian Gish. I have never seen Lillian leave a set that she did not go in turn to each workman and thank him for his trouble and attention.

SOMETHING OF A SHOCK

In the circumstances, you can imagine that Pola came as something of a surprise.

The first day she arrived in Hollywood she was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by Jesse Lasky to the newspaper men of Los Angeles. I shall never forget Mlle. Negri's supercilious insolent manner at that affair, nor the contemptuous way that she held out a dead fish hand to each of us as we were introduced.

Of course, much can be forgiven to a very great artist.

As a matter of fact there are no people on earth who will get down on their stomachs and wallow before genius as the Americans do. We seem to like being kicked in the face if the boot heels are sufficiently distinguished.

If Pola had turned out a performance like Duse, or Bernhardt we would probably, by now, have been boasting of the insults we had received and treasuring the bruises.

As long as you knock home runs, you can get away with murder with the American public.

But, oh, look for yourself the first time you go to the bat and fan out!

And Pola has fanned out.

'Covered Wagon' Text Book on Winning West

Will "The Covered Wagon" become the official school text-book on the history of the "winning of the West?" Many educators and film enthusiasts believe it will for while the Paramount spectacle which is now showing at Grauman's Hollywood Egyptian Theater is entertaining merely as a photodrama of exceptional merit, it also has an educational value that is immeasurable, in the opinion of several noted educators who have viewed the production here and in the East.

Because it so realistically and vividly portrays the courage and fortitude with which the early emigrants faced the trials, the tribulations and the dangers of the western plains to reach the promised land on the Pacific Coast, it has been suggested that the picture be adopted without change as a text-book in the public schools.

The production is an adaptation of Emerson Hough's novel by the same name. While the story is fiction, it has all been founded on fact and the producers and James Cruze, the director, have remained so close to the original that the result is literally a page from American history.

sufficient to keep the family of twenty-five servants together.

CREDITOR OF NATIONS

Of course, every star can't expect to have a camera waiting around for him at the age of 80 as it did for Sarah Bernhardt. A lot will have only the creditors waiting.

Some realize this. Richard Barthlemess, for instance, isn't going to take any back lot for Rockefeller in the cemetery. He has money invested in bonds of Peru, Guatemala, Liberia, Yucatan and a lot of other places that I always thought were either chewing gum or birds.

But when I looked them up on the map I figured that if there ever was another World War Dick owns enough nations to win. The sun never sets on Dick's investments.

It's a good thing that the film actor has only a few years in which to amass. If he had any more there wouldn't be a chance of any nation finding enough money to pay its debts. As it is, one good bandit can make more marching on Hollywood than the entire French army can get marching on the Ruhr.

Jackie Coogan certainly has a few more years before he needs to get his face lifted.

Even Tommy Meighan has a little future left. Tommy isn't exactly a Civil War veteran, although I dare say he can remember the days before prohibition. And still he's earning more than any sugar-cured product in the Hollywood markets.

Shrewd lamb that he is, he's now planning to switch to directing before the fans discover a gray hair and order him shot like an old cab horse. He's got to keep working because he has a wife to support and he's only been making $5000 a week for the last year or so.

DOESN'T EVEN OWN FLIVVER

Rex Ingram, who started out as an actor, has a dark future. He must be almost 30 now, and if anything should happen so that his pictures wouldn't gross $5,000,000 each he would have nothing to turn to but acting, painting, sculpturing, writing, or posing for Sparrow collars.

He's done all this except pose for collars, and judging from the way Harriette Underhill described him in last Sunday's New York Tribune, he could even pose for suspenders and make Adonis look ridiculous.

Rex doesn't even own a flivver (the one he rides in is his wife's—I have the owner's word for it.) But then why should he buy a car? When his day's over all he'll have to do is sit—and that, pretty

I hear that he owns the controlling stock in the government right now, and could swing the Presidency for Novarro if that youth wanted a cheap job.

As near as I can figure Novarro will only have earned about $750,000 by the time he is 26. Then what will he do?

When I returned from abroad and found Anita Stewart out of work I started rustling around to get her a job, but she told me acidly that she never needed to work again.

Tony Moreno, the Spanish boy, nearly destroyed my appetite the other day at lunch when he told me his income from investments was $250 a week. That is, he nearly destroyed my appetite until I ascertained he was paying for the lunch, whereupon I ordered the entire Lambs Club larder.

A while ago a newspaper carried a story about poor little Lillian Gish being out of work and Christmas coming. The story was as pathetic as that about the little match girl—unless you happened to know that Lillian draws about $300 every week as interest on her savings. Dorothy does the same.

ENTERPRISING RUTH

Ruth Roland came to town the other day, out of work and wearing nothing but sables and platinum. She's wasted her money like poor old Hetty Green. Ruth can't sit down to dinner without buying an apartment-house as an aperitif.

Bill Russell should worry how soon he loses his looks, since he owns Hepner's beauty parlor.

And Mary Miles Minter can go to work any day in her own laundry, providing she doesn't want to break into her million dollars' worth of mortgages, gold notes and bonds. Mary realized she had to make mazuma while young, so now a veteran of 21, she can spend her declining years in her own golden oak rocker, like Lotta Crabtree.

Bessie Love has had terribly hard luck, as everyone knows, but if she has nothing else to do she can spend the rest of her life counting her cows and acres.

I have yet to hear of the Hollywood workman who doesn't own at least one automobile, one oil well, one ranch and one pair of golf knickers.

D. W. Griffith says he only owns a lemon ranch, a watch and a felt hat. Except for the lemons and the watch, he's in the writer's class. That's why I always praise his pictures so generously. The poorer classes should stick together.

I'm glad Mary Pickford has quit playing ragged little waifs. I couldn't feel very sorry for her as Tess because I kept thinking about her $2,000,000, and I wouldn't care how many babies I brought home and couldn't explain if I had $2,000,000. With $2,000,000 you wouldn't have to explain.

Since I learned that Norma Talmadge owns half of the Music Box Revue, for which I had to stand up, I don't care if she never has another diamond. I know it's hard to reach old age without a couple of tiaras and a stomacher, but you can't stand up at a show like the Music Box Revue without wishing some one hard luck.

When Katherine MacDonald, the Scotch lassie, was making $5000 a week she told me she had the same house and the same cook she had when she was making $50. Age and joblessness should have no terrors for Katherine. She can afford a few silver threads among the gold, considering that it's all gold in the bank.

Gloria Swanson walked onto the screen with nothing but a bathing suit to her back and she walks off with more togs than Queen Mary at the Coronation.

Texas Guinan hasn't been flickering regularly, yet lunching with Texas has all the fascination of standing in front of Tiffany's window. Texas blazes like a Litany. She has been getting along on $1000 a week as hostess at the King Cole Club and the Beaux Arts.

I've heard a lot about spendthrift movie stars. I've heard they throw money around like water, but so far as I've been able to observe they are darned economical with water.

Charley is right. An actor has only a few working years, while a writer can write until he's 90. Still, it's hard to think that after working ninety years you aren't worth as much as Tom Mix's horse.

Playground of World Shown in Photoplay

"Enemies of Women" reveals the limitless possibilities of the motion-picture camera. In this picturization of the Ibanez novel there are combined tense drama, superb costuming, settings that are the quintessence of technical art, and natural scenery that ravishes the eye.

Monte Carlo, the playground of the world, beautiful women, a prince and a duchess, the war, looming against the sky with sinister shadows, this is the background of a story of life and love written as only the Spanish author can write it.

The story and picture tell of a pleasure-loving Russian noble and a group of friends. Their false viewpoint is painted brilliantly and without mercy in the telling of a phase of life long existent among the idlers of the world.

Lionel Barrymore, as the prince, gives a superb reality to the character, with Pedro De Cordoba, Gareth Hughes and William H. Thompson as the friends. Alma Rubens and Gladys Hulette are the feminine stars who add their charm to the drama.

Irvin S. Cobb, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis and others. I understand that the Cobb talk is to be presented as part of a regular program at one of the theaters very shortly.

The trouble with most talking pictures in the past is that the perfect timing of phonograph and projection could never be obtained, but in the new invention this obstacle has been very effectually overcome, by connecting up the mechanical device of sound and that of pictures. Further the volume of the phonograph seems to have been amplified sufficiently so that it successfully fills the theater.

IT MIGHT be apropos to ask whether "The Lion's Mouse," a newly announced film, is any relation to the cat's ankles, or the bee's cuffs.

In a casting directors' guide three men have listed themselves as "cake eaters." Frank confession in this instance is probably good for the pocketbook.

Ernst Lubitsch continues to amuse Hollywood. His latest intriguing accomplishment is playing German ragtime on the studio piano. Considering the tunefulness of most studio pianos this must be a riot.

JAMES YOUNG, the director, steps forward with the announcement that he has discovered a really great Svengali in Arthur Edmund Carew, and I hear elsewhere around the studio much applause for the actor's work in "Trilby." It is Carew's first big opportunity and he is putting forth all his best efforts in the role.

It was his own enterprise that enabled him to get the part. "I know I haven't a big name in the films or anything like that," he told Mr. Young, when he approached him with the idea of playing in the picture, "but I want you to give me a chance to show you what I can do with a Svengali make-up." Mr. Young consented, and was immediately captured by the weird character that Mr. Carew evolved by the judicious application of black whiskers and face paint.

Svengali is the first character role of this type that Carew has ever played. He has been cast as straight leads and as villains on various occasions, but has never essayed anything quite as fantastic or sinister as the mesmerizer of Trilby.

OUR department of predictions tells us that it is very likely that Rupert Julian, who has just severed his connection with the Universal organization, where he recently completed "Merry Go Round," will be selected to film the story of "Black Oxen," written by Gertrude Atherton. This is regarded as one of the most interesting opportunities for a director just at the present time.

REPTILES' REPAST

Carmel Myers is the person that ought to weep. Tomorrow she must slide part of the way down the chute toward the reptiles in the pool, but is to be stopped and saved just in time by her lover, Malcolm MacGregor. And oh, she hopes that nothing will stop him from stopping her!

Just now Carmel, clad mostly in a lotus flower, waits to dance while they bring in the leopard! No household was complete in these old days, according to picture lore, without a lion or two around the house.

Every ancient picture nowadays is more or less of a zoo opus. "King Tut-Ankh-Amen" is no exception. Camels, elephants, a lion or two and a leopard are going to take part.

Carmel is working in the peek-a-boo scenery for the first time. She has joined the Naughty Nudes and is doing a modified Betty Blythe for art. And I must say the result justifies the experiment!

"How does it seem to be so clothesless?" I asked.

"Why, I don't know," said Carmel. "Most girls, come to think of it, you know, wear one-piece bathing suits. I don't, because they don't seem feminine enough; but one gets used to seeing them. And really, I wear more than many girls in the ballroom. Then the spirit of the role is so exacting I don't have time to think about it."

Stangely enough, Miss Myers has been a wicked vampire in three pictures and has worn all the clothes in the world. Now they're making her a poor, innocent little slave girl, more sinned against than usual—and she wears no clothes at all to speak of!

They bring in the leopard and everybody gets busy.

"I haven't had time to get a haircut," explains Mr. Earle, rumpling his hair as he crosses the stage.

"He's saving money," grins King Bert Grassby.

"He wants it long so he can tear it," kids Queen June Elvidge.

At all of which the director smiles good-naturedly.

The assistant director "goes after" a girl extra who is chewing gum and an extra man who has kept on his vest with his Egyptian costume!

The leopard gets ready to work and everybody shivers just a bit. Especially Carmel, who must dance very near him. The keeper is close at hand. His hand is tied up. Yesterday the leopard chewed his hand. It seems that somebody on the set had the bright idea of having the keeper stay under a couch on the set from whence to direct the beast, which, by the way, is never chained, because his artistic temperament won't allow him to work if he is tied! Suddenly the animal disappeared. He had vanished under the bed. Noises of battle and distress were heard. When the couch was removed the keeper's hand was chewed up. What had happened to the leopard wasn't clear, but he seemed subdued and there was a big mark on his nose!

Carmel dances. She whirls closer and closer to the beast. He strikes at her; his claw grazes her whirling garments, but somehow doesn't catch. How she does it I don't know—but she keeps on smiling bravely and finishes the dance.

"Well, that was thrill enough for me!" she cries as she snatches up her coat to put around her. "No more circus scenes for me, I hope!"

Carmel and MacGregor prepare for the scene in the love boat.

"Where is the water?" demands Carmel flippantly of her director.

"Oh, you drink that!" answers the director.

Some beautiful light effects are produced in the scene, which is a dramatic one. Gleaming on Carmel's arm is an amulet which came from a real Pharoah's tomb! I don't know how she could sneeze after that love scene, but she did!

Player Needs Distance for Perspective

Among the traditions of the theater is the one that actors are inaccurate judges of new plays. If a cast, in rehearsal, enthuses over a manuscript, the other attaches of the theater are supposed to dolefully wag their heads and hope for the best. Conversely and by the same signs, if the actors say the play is only so-so, then the others cheer up.

How well this prediction lives up to its traditions may be proved in the case of "We Girls," the Frederic and Fanny Hatton comedy success, at the Morosco Theater, anyway. For "We Girls" was far from being the hit with the actors that it proved to be with the public. In fact, in the first readings by Stage Director Augustine J. Glassmier, most of the Morosco players frankly "couldn't see" the play as a success. It was not until after the first performance, in reality, that they changed their doubts to enthusiasm.

"Well, in rehearsals probably we are so submerged in our own parts that we do not see the roles and 'business' related as a whole," explained Harland Tucker, leading man of the Morosco company. "We probably are too prejudiced by the importance or 'fit' of our particular roles. If we have parts that we like we naturally think it is a good show. But if the manuscript has treated us meagerly or indifferently, we don't cheer much for the author's work, because our views are warped."

STAR'S CONTRACT LONGEST OPTION

Kathryn McGuire

A struggling girl's lifetime ambition was realized last week when Kathryn McGuire, Ben Turpin's "side-kick" in "The Shriek of Araby," placed her "Joan Hancock" on a contract with Richard Thomas, the young producer-director, under the terms of which Miss McGuire will play the leading roles in the series of twelve photodramas Mr. Thomas will film for the independent market.

Mr. Thomas will produce six pictures a year and Miss McGuire's contract will expire at the end of the second year. After that Mr. Thomas holds an option on her services for another period of five years, which he must exercise within sixty days.

This is the second agreement Miss McGuire has had with the Thomas organization, the first being a tentative arrangement, depending on the reception accorded Miss McGuire in her first Thomas picture, her first dramatic picture of any kind.

Miss McGuire's first appearance under the Thomas banner was in "The Silent Accuser," six-reel underworld story, just completed. "Other Men's Money," is the temporary title of the second production in which Miss McGuire has the leading feminine role, which is now in production at the Hollywood studios.

Director Bars Music as Aid to Emotions

Rupert Hughes, who directed "Souls for Sale," the feature attraction which opens at the Miller Theater today on its fourth week, is one of the directors who does not believe in using music to help his players work themselves up to emotional scenes.

Although Maj. Hughes is himself an accomplished musician and composer, and, consequently, has a keen appreciation of the powers of music to stimulate courage, tenderness, sadness, romance and the numerous other moods required of actors, he is opposed to the practice.

And certainly those who have been gripped by the realism of the photoplays he has turned out, such as "The Old Nest" and "Remembrance" will concede his point has merit.

Maj. Hughes explained his point thus:

"If your actors won't weep or laugh maybe there is something wrong with the situation.

"I would rather have one tear from the audience than a bucketful from the cast. A great lachrymal shower doesn't necessarily excite sympathy from the spectators."

CUTTING-ROOM ON TRAIN IS SUCCESS

Hereafter Edwin Carewe and Finis Fox are going to do their film cutting on the train. According to a wire received from New York the cutting room fixed up for them on the Los Angeles Limited by Charlie Pike was a great success.

Both the directors completed thier editing en route to the metropolis. Carewe worked on "The Girl of the Golden West" and Fox on "The Man Between."

NURSES HOST OF SECRET SORROWS

Buster Keaton

Buster Keaton, solemn-visaged comedian of the screen, whose latest laughtivity and first three-reel product, "Day Dreams," starts its third week at the Symphony today, has a settled look of sadness, as from a secret sorrow.

This Buster attributes to the fact that audiences want to laugh at him and not with him. "Day Dreams, "written and directed by Buster Keaton and Eddie Cline, has proven itself to be by far the funniest thing that Keaton has done and its great success is due to its originality and the almost endless string of gags that are sure-fire laugh provokers.

Buster goes to the big city to make good and while there essays almost every imaginable role, but try as he will his efforts but meets with failure, however, Buster, as usual turns his failures into a laughing success.

The balance of the current Symphony bill, which includes "The ex-Kaiser in Exile," Reginald Denny in the fourth story of "The Leather Pushers," "When Kane Met Abel," and the latest news events, goes into the third week with the Keaton feature.

NEW STAR DEVELOPED BY COMIC

Filming of "The Gumps" Means of Discvoery of Art Possessed by Child

"Oh, Min! Little Chester's going to be the latest kid film star!"

So remarked Andy Gump yesterday. Dreams of being a president's papa have gone the way of the dreams of Congress—Chester is going to be a juvenile Reginald Denny!

All of which actually happened out at Universal City, when Joe Murphy, who plays Andy Gump to Fay Tincher's Min in the comedies being made, based on The Times' comic feature, announced the latest "find" in child actors.

He's Jackie Morgan, who plays the scion and heir of the Gump menage. The youngster, not yet 10 years of age, is said by Murphy to be the cleverest child actor he has ever worked with.

"Perhaps the fact that in every scene he has a Gump funny page to guide him helps," said Murphy. "We have the strips and pages sorted to match the action of the comedy — thus we have every mannerism and posture as drawn by Sidney Smith before us. Little Jackie imitates Chester perfectly as a result."

Norman Taurog, the director of the Gump comedies, the second of which has been started, and which will shortly be released, predicts a brilliant future for the new juvenile "discovery."

FILM HEROINES GO IN FOR DANCING

Day by day, as the saying goes, more and more film players are going in for dancing. At Ernest Belcher's school there are now more than sixty-five film players learning the art of Terpsichore. Listed among them are May McAvoy, Helen Ferguson, Laura La Plante, Virginia Warwick, Marion Aye, Edna Murphy and Katherine Grant. It is not confined, however, to girls, for Ramon Novarro heads the boys' class.

ALICE BRADY CASTS SPELL

Charming Performance in "Zander, the Great"

Andreyev's "Anathema" Is a Russian Too Many

Ruth St. Denis, Ted Shawn Have Success

BY E. M. KELLEY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 20.—The critics have decided that a long anticipated event has come to pass—Alice Brady has found a good play at last—and the echoes of their cheers are still ringing through theatrical circles.

In "Zander, the Great," Salisbury Field's new play at the Empire, Miss Brady has certainly discovered an adequate and workmanlike vehicle but how much of the delectable entertainment is Alice Brady and how much Salisbury Field isn't altogether simple to decide.

Alice Brady casts a spell. She has that potent personal quality that reaches over the footlights to grip you by the throat and dig in the ribs.

She's a sort of children's classic, or a character by Charles Dickens. You believe everything she does and says because she conveys the perfect illusion of inevitability.

Any character into which she breathes the breath of life is so, whether it is so or not. In private life she is a dark-eyed, rather quiet person with an excellent taste in millinery, but once she is seen as Mamie in "Zander, the Great," it is almost impossible to believe one's memory of her.

Alice Brady is a half-grown girl with braids and a bang, an orphan with an indomitable spirit—and a wink and a smile, who is the self-elected foster parent of the tiny mite Zander, and elopes with him in a rattle-trap flivver to Arizona.

We should have to be invited to her dressing room to watch the actual metamorphosis in order to be convinced that Mamie ceases to exist every night at the last fall of the curtain at the Empire.

"Zander, the Great" has several things in common with "The Old Soak," that joyous bit of drama by Don Marquis, now in its ninth month.

ANDREYEV'S "ANATHEMA"

The Equity Players last week, transplanted Maurice Swartz and his production of Andreyev's "Anathema" from the Garden Theater where it was played in Yiddish, to their own Forty-eighth-street house, with not altogether the success it deserved.

The English translation was admirable, but it is late in the season. There is a certain glamor in a Russian play in a Russian tongue, and the Moscow Art Theater may have left us a little dry of enthusiasim since we gave them all we had—but at any rate, "Anathema" for all its picturesque qualities found the audiences strongly indifferent. Perhaps it is just the one Russian play too much.

"Anathema" at the gates of heaven hurls defiance at the great gray guardian of the place. He is an intellectual devil, and he sincerely wants to know the motivation of things there and elsewhere.

Failing what he considers an intelligent response—and why, oh, why do your Broadway gods with their heads twelve feet in the air always speak unmistakably from the left bowel of the stage?—he starts out to prove that man prey upon each other and sink into oblivion.

He takes David Leiser out of the lowest depths of poverty and squalor and endows him with great riches. Then in the palace to which he is transferred with his family, he takes the position of private secretary, and proceeds to dictate to him the various steps that lead to his ruin.

David gives away all he has, and then because he cannot perform miracles, heal the sick and produce still more riches, he is presently hounded to death. Anathema goes back to the god, whose voice is still fifteen feet away from its natural source, and taunts him with the impotence of human life, only to be informed that David Leiser is immortal after all.

Ernest Glendenning as Anathema was better in his out-and-out devil costume than as the demoniac secretary, but he reached real heights at moments in what is probably the best acting of his career. Too much cannot be said of Maurince Swartz. His work is made of the same stuff as Moskvin's and Stanislavsky's.

"How Come," is the latest negro revue and if it suffers a trifle from its approximation of a typical Broadway musical show, there is still enough of the irresistible abandon and animation to differentiate it from anything but itself and its predecessors.

The choruses may be trying to establish a nonstop dancing record for all we know—it seems entirely probable—and the chorus men had every bit as good a time as the girls, and there was not a second when the girls were not gyrating ecstatically.

These colored performers have brought us something valuable, perhaps the simplicity which we are seeking in all our art forms, personified.

They might also teach us something about that simplicity—that you can't be simple, unless you ARE simple. There is no going back to nature by methods of intrigue.

At any rate, "How Come" is a thrilling performance, and its naive quality couldn't be reproduced by anybody, however sophisticated their theories of art might be.

Ruth St. Denis and the Ted Shawn dancers have added to the list of dramatic entertainments here this week. Miss St. Denis has a gift so histrionic that one almost regrets she hasn't had a legitimate stage career. She impersonates better than she dances, though she has an extraordinary grace, as has also Ted Shawn.

The whole entertainments holds the interest in a manner almost unprecerented for an evening of dancing. There is a variety and pictorial shift in every scene.

The spring dances and legends, with Ted Shawn and ensemble, expressed a grace and lithe movement that was peculiarly beautiful and Miss St. Denis did things with a mammoth shawl that we shall not soon forget.

The Harvard Dramatic Club is giving us still more Andreyev, doing "The Life of Man" very well for amateurs.

Also they are producing Guitry's "Beranger" which we have not yet seen, personally.

We should like to see them in "Merton of the Movies."

Extend Time in Which to Enter Scores

There seems to be little question but that some new American composers will be discovered and set firmly on their feet within the next three months.

The newly organized movement of the Stadium Concerts of New York to find such is already bearing fruit. The prize is a great one. Those who are found worthy will have their compositions played by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra during the Stadium Concert season this summer. The search is for orchestral compositions only.

So many requests have come in, however, from American composers all over the country, and so great and keen has been the interest and attention aroused, that the score committee of the Sadium Concerts, of which Mrs. William Cowen is chairman, and which has is offices in the Fisk Building, Fifty-seventh street and Broadway, New York, has announced that the time for receiving scores would be extended from May 1 to June 1.

The idea has been to give an opportunity to every American composer, so arranging the selection that there should be absolutely no favoritism, and that the composer of the winning score or scores would not be known until after the decision was made.

It was thought at first that May 1 would be ample time to get all possible scores in. But the pleas for an extension of time have been so many that one month's grace is to be given.

HAD SOME PSYCHOLOGY

A young physician was buying furniture for the equipment of his office. The salesman racked his brain to think of something else to sell him.

He had sold almost everything that was appropriate or necessary when he had a happy thought.

"Oh, yes; I nearly forgot," he exclaimed. You need a doormat."

"Not a new one," said the young doctor. "I'll get that at a second-hand store. A worn one will be a much better advertisement for me."—[Pickup.

MULE WOULD NOT TAKE THAT RISK

Marshall Seems to Have the Best of Torrence in Give and Take

Ernest Torrence is even with Tully Marshall for that William Tell act in "The Covered Wagon," in which the latter shoots a hole through the cup on the giant scout's head, spilling the whisky it contains. These two fine character actors are again vieing with each other in "The Brass Bottle," the Maurice Tourneur production—but this time Torrence as the genii turns Marshall into a mule.

DIRECTOR WHOLE SHOW

How L. J. Gasnier, the director, made "Poor Men's Wives," the current attraction at the Kinema, forms a story of devotion to duty which is an interesting part of his character.

"Poor Men's Wives" contains many lavish scenes, calling for hundreds of picture players. After selecting his cast for the production, Gasnier began work. At the end of the first day thousands of feet of film had been used. Gasnier was not satisfied with most of what had been taken. He started the entire scene over again on the following day.

For one week he worked on the scene. While the players had many chances to rest he was on duty continually, using his megaphone, illustrating points by acting them himself, cheering up tired extras.

Finally he began showing signs of illness. His physician ordered him to rest.

"Not until the production is finished," he said. A severe cold on his lungs developed. He was threatened with pneumonia. But still he worked night and day. And then, when "Poor Men's Wives" was completed, he slept for twenty-four hours, packed his trunk and hastened to New York for a rest and a visit with his daughter.

EARRINGS AND SENORITA

"I love my earrings," said pretty Elisa Cansino, who, with her three brothers, Eduardo, Angel and Jose, are appearing at the Hillstreet Theater this week in a gorgeous Spanish dancing act.

"Do you always wear them?" she was asked.

"Except when I sleep," she smiled, touching tenderly the long three-sectioned beads of jet suspended from her pretty ears.

In Spain they pierce a girl baby's ears when she is a few months old, Miss Cansino explained, and the child wears a small gold ring until old enough to adopt the more marvelous dangles which most women and assuredly all Spanish women adore. Perhaps it is because earrings are particularly becoming to the Spanish type that they wear them so much.

"See," said Miss Cansino, pointing to her cheek bones, "High, wide and then small," indicating the sudden narrowing of the face below them. It was easy to see why her sizable earrings seemed to belong on either side of this narrowing contour.

Miss Cansino is really Spanish. Her father, Senor Don Antonio Cansino, for many years Madrid's most famous dancing teacher, is now a teacher among New York's social set. Her heavily-lashed brown eyes have all the subtlety, allurement, softness and depth that human eyes can hold, and they shine like stars. No wonder the little Elisa does not care for diamond earrings. Why should one encourage rivals?

FARCE OF DAY COMING

A genuine treat is in store for theatergoers of Los Angeles and vicinity at the Egan Theater tomorrow night, where it is announced that Avery Hopwood's farcial uproar, "The Demi-Virgin," will be presented.

This production by A. H. Woods at the Eltinge Theater, New York caused more animated comment than all the other offerings of last season and the line at the box office window was unbroken for the entire season—in fact for twelve consecutive months. Mr. Hopwood's reputation as America's leading farceur is further strengthened by this phenomenal laughmaker, which has been translated into five different languages for production abroad. Its dialogue bubbles with laughter, there are excruciatingly funny situations and the sum total of its entertaining qualities has made it the foremost farce of the day.

Heading the metropolitan cast to be seen here will be Miss Nancy Fair, who has made hits through her work in the different A. H. Woods' successes. Among those who will support Miss Fair are John Miljan, Lela Bliss, Elwyn Harvey, Taylor Graves, Lillian Hackett, Gerald Pring, Beulah Monroe, Mildred Caldwell, Richard Blaydon and others. Los Angeles will have the first opportunity of witnessing "The Demi-Virgin," of any city on the Pacific Coast.

The Cortez Sisters, international entertainers, who will offer a novel singing act; Al Abbott and the Royal Sidneys in a unique juggling and riding exhibition, are other features.

The screen portion of the program will include Shirley Mason in a romance of the sawdust ring entitled "Shirley of the Circus," the William Desmond serial, "Around the World in Eighteen Days," news films and Aesop's Fables.

A New Idea

"The Sheik's Favorite," a musical extravaganza in form and material, is featured at Pantages for the coming week. This is one of the much discussed "unit" shows produced by the Shuberts, and the first of them to reach the Coast. Others are en route over the Pantages circuit and will reach California during the summer.

"The Sheik's Favorite" is very elaborate, forty-two names appearing in the cast of chorus and principals, with Margo Raffero and Jimmie Gildea heading the list. Eight scenes carry the audience from New York to Egypt and back, with settings and electrical effects fully in keeping with the name of the show. Costumes, so far as costumes are worn, are mainly oriental in type as becomes the entourage of a sheik.

The lyrics are by William B. Friedlander and the libretto by Harlan Thompson, both well known in their respective spheres of activity. The supporting vaudeville show will be supplied by members of the "unit," and on the screen will be shown Earl Williams's latest starring production, "You Never Know."

Writers' Revue

"The Writers' Revue of 1923" will take place next Friday and Saturday nights. "Hollywood," produced in musical comedy form from Frank Condon's popular magazine story, has a cast of film favorites, headed by Charles Ray, Mrs. Bryant Washburn, Wallace Beery, T. Roy Barnes, Priscilla Dean, Herbert Rawlinson, Clara Kimball Young, Enid Bennett, Virginia Valli, Anita Stewart and others. The principal attraction will be flanked by several specialty choruses among them "Adam's Rib," "I'm Looking for a Leading Man," "Ivan Ivanovitch," "Mission Bells" and others.

In Seventh Week

Romping along with its merry attack on Father Time, "We Girls" today begins the seventh week of its engagement at the Morosco Theater. Throughout the ages mankind has sought to evade growing old and Frederic and Fanny Hatton have made a delightful comedy arrangement of this theme.

The success of "We Girls" is the best tribute to the manner in which the Morosco players are presenting it. Florence Oberle is the mother and Bessie Eyton the daughter. Harland Tucker stirs the fun mixture vigorously as a bashful young physician and Gayne Whitman is the busy Cupid motor cop. Joseph Bell, Joseph Eggenton, Arthur MacDonald, Lillian Elliott, Harry Garrity, Grace Gordon, Elizabeth Mines, Wanda Sibbald and Charles Buck complete the cast.

Shakespearean Title

"As You Like It" will be the next musical comedy production by the Hi Jinks musical comedians at the Burbank Theater. The play is not Shakespeare's, but its plot is said to resemble the proceedings of several of the scenes of the bard's manuscript. The Burbank production will be enhanced with the return to the cast of Lee Bud Harrison. Others who will take part in the amusement are George Clark, Jean Darby, Dot Claire William McKee and Grace Hutchinson.

HUNDREDS HIRED

Although actual "shooting" does not start until shortly after the first of May, several hundreds of persons have been employed and many thousands of dollars already spent in preliminary preparations for the forthcoming film version of "The Ten Commandments," which will be the next Cecil B. De Mille picture.

ABOUT THROUGH

Herbert Brenon will finish "The Woman With Four Faces," for Paramount this week. Betty Compson and Richard Dix are featured in this adaptation by George Hopkins of Bayard Veiller's play.

IN LUSTRE LAND

Leatrice Joy in "You Can't Fool Your Wife," Grauman's Metropolitan.

Maida Du Fusne in "The Sheik's Favorite," Pantages.

Barbara La Marr in "Poor Men's Wives," Kinema.

Mae Busch in "Souls For Sale," Miller's.

Lillian Hackett in "The Demi-Virgin," Egan's.

Joseph Bell in "We Girls," Morosco.

Sun Displays 'Temperament' Just Like Star

An aggravating game of hide and seek, in which the sun did the hiding and B. P. Fineman, his production staff and the cast of "Don't Marry for Money" were the seekers, has finally resulted in victory for the producer.

A sequence calling for color shots of a fashion display in a modiste's salon, caused the trouble. Built outdoors, the salon, beautiful in its kaleidoscopic mass of color, with drapes of softly tinted batistes, was a work of art.

Rubye de Remer and six player models, attired in the latest sartorial creations, were to pass in review before the camera. Each time Assistant Director Charles Dorian signaled the approach of the sun from behind clouds, the septet was marshaled. Then Old Sol would disappear.

When success was finally achieved Dorian retired to his home to nurse a stiff neck, result of his skyward squinting; Director Clarence Brown went searching for his misplaced temper, and B. P. Fineman retired to his office to ponder over the "overhead" which was run up.

WORKING HARD

Charles Maigne is at work on his Paramount production, "The Silent Partner," featuring Leatrice Joy, Owen Moore and Robert Edeson.

NEW DIRECTOR

Ernest C. Warde, son of Frederick Warde, and a director of note, has been signed on a long-term contract by F. B. O.

ANIMAL PICTURES FORGE TO FRONT

Wild animals come in for their share of screen honors this week, with two pictures on view locally taken in the wilds of Africa. One is "Hunting Big Game in Africa With Gun and Camera," a picturization of the H. A. Snow expedition, which is on view at the California Theater, and the other is "Trailing African Wild Animals," the Martin Johnson trip being shown at Loew's.

"Poor Men's Wives," with Barbara La Marr and David Butler, is the new attraction at the Kinema, and "You Can't Fool Your Wife" with Leatrice Joy, Nita Naldi and Lewis Stone is showing at the Metropolitan.

Tomorrow "Quicksands," in which Helene Chadwick and Richard Dix appear, will open at Grauman's Third-street Theater, and on Wednesday the world premiere of "Main Street" will take place at the Mission.

"The Voice from the Minaret" at the Alhambra, "The Covered Wagon" at the Egyptian, "Souls For Sale" at Miller's, "Enemies of Women" at the Rialto, and "Day Dreams" at the Symphony, all continue. "The Flirt" will be given a revival at Tally's.

Holds Over

Struggling between love and duty, beautiful Lady Adrienne Carlyle, wife of the Governor of Bombay, decides in Damascus to forsake all thought of personal happiness and to return to her unloved husband.

This scene in Frank Lloyd's film version of "The Voice from the Minaret," now playing a second week at the Alhambra, is made memorable by the acting of Norma Talmadge in the role of the ill-fated lady of title. Playing the leading masculine role, that of Andrew Fabian, is Eugene O'Brien, whose enactment of the conflict raging within the breast of the young cleric, is clearly defined. In the supporting cast are Edwin Stevens, Claire Du Brey and Winter Hall. Also holding over with the feature production is a droll funfest produced by the Jack White-Mermaid organization, "Blazes," with Lige Conley as the chief comedian.

African Animals

Martin Johnson and his wife braved the dangers of the dense African jungle to bring before the public the actual life habits of the denizens of the untamed wilds. "Trailing African Wild Animals" is the title of the picture, which will have its premiere at Loew's today. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson spent over two years in the heart of the African jungles filming every animal in the Never-Never land. These two explorers stuck to the camera when they were in danger of being crushed by rhinoceroses and elephants or torn to pieces by lions, leopards and tigers.

Dorothy Jardon will render "At Dawning" and other selections in a special stage presentation that will have a "King Tut" atmosphere.

Wild-Animal Feature

Heralded as the acme of African hunt pictures, H. A. Snow's exploits in the heart of the Dark Continent, encompassed in a ten-reel thriller entitled "Hunting Big Game in Africa with Gun and Camera," comes to the California Theater today for its first showing in Southern California. Where other animal films showed the beasts at long range, Snow's production shows them at close range, giving an intimate view of the life and habits of more than fifty species of untamable things of a land which is shrouded in mystery.

Ibanez Story

"Enemies of Women," picturization of the Vicente Blasco Ibanez novel, is a story built against the colorful background of Russia, Monte Carlo and the Riviera.

The cast includes such artists as Lionel Barrymore, Alma Rubens, Pedro De Cordoba, Gareth Hughes, Gladys Hulette and William Collier, Jr.

Following its premiere Tuesday, "Enemies of Women" has settled down at Grauman's Rialto Theater to an indefinite run.

Domestic Theme

George Melford handles a new type of vehicle in "You Can't Fool Your Wife" at Grauman's Metropolitan. The man who produced "The Sheik" and other screen successes takes up the theme of domestic relations in his picturization of this original story by Waldemar Young.

The wife in question is Leatrice Joy, and with her are featured Nita Naldi and Lewis Stone, with a cast further augmented by Pauline Garon, Paul McAllister, Tom Carrigan, Julia Swayne Gordon, John Daly Murphy, Rose Tapley and William Burress.

Creatore, for his second and last week's engagement at the Metropolitan, leads the orchestra in a rendition of the overture "Cleopatra," as arranged by himself. Fred Easter and Ruth Hazelton dance "Pierrot and the Danseuse." Yerkes's Flotilla also render their farewell program of syncopation and Henry Murtagh plays "Steal a Little Kiss While Dancing" on the Wurlitzer.

Border Story

Helene Chadwick, Richard Dix, Noah Beery, Walter Long, Alan Hale, Dick Sutherland and J. Farrell McDonald interpret "Quicksands," the feature at Grauman's Third-street theater, starting tomorrow.

It is a tale of adventure with the locale laid on the Mexican border, centering about a band of smugglers who clash with the government officials.

To surround the feature an atmospheric prologue will be presented. Leonardo Stagliano will conduct the symphony orchestra in the overture "Morning, Noon and Night," by Suppe, and Edward House at the Wurlitzer will play a popular song hit, "You Know You Belong to Somebody Else."

"Poor Men's Wives"

Written by Frank Dazey and Agnes Christine Johnson, directed by Gasnier, produced by B. P. Schulberg and interpreted by an all-star cast, "Poor Men's Wives," the current attraction at the Kinema may be considered one of the brilliant photoplay offerings of the season. Barbara LaMarr, David Butler, Richard Tucker, Zasu Pitts and Betty Francisco, are members of the cast assembled by Gasnier. Two talened youngsters, Mickie McBan and Muriel McCormac, engage in pranks that bring a chuckle or a laugh. Another feature of the bill is a new Lloyd Hamilton comedy, "No Luck." The Kinema orchestra under the direction of Constantine Bakaleinkoff will provide an enjoyable musical program.

"Main Street" Premiere

The picturization of Sinclair Lewis's novel "Main Street" will be enrolled at the Mission Theater on Wednesday evening. The entire cast and many famous stars will be included in the world premiere audience.

"Main Street" is the most talked of novel of the age. Millions have read the book, and their interest in the picturization is therefore tremendous.

Warner Brothers chose Julien Josephson to adapt the story, while Harry Beaumont directed. The novel was transcribed to ten-reels, and its cast includes Monte Blue, Florence Vidor, Robert Gordon, Noah Beery, Alan Hale, Louise Fazenda, Harry Myers, Josephine Crowell, Otis Harlan, Gordon Griffith, Lon Poff, Gilbert Clayton, Jack MacDonald, Estelle Short, Glen Cavender and Kathleen Perry. Gino Severi has composed the musical score, and will also play a violin solo during the run.

For Another Week

Rupert Hughes, according to his custom, has sought in "Souls for Sale," the feature which opens its fourth week at the Miller Theater today, for new applications of reality and truthful characterization on the screen. "Souls for Sale" is basically a story of motion-picture life and tells of a young girl's struggles to make a name for himself on the silver sheet. Eleanor Broadman plays the part of the rising star and she is ably supported by such well-known players as Frank Mayo, Barbara LaMarr, Lew Cody, Mae Busch, Richard Dix and others.

"Flirt" Comes Back

"The Flirt," Hobart Henley's Tarkington boasting an all-star cast Tarkington boasting al all-star cast consisting of Eileen Percy, Helen Jerome Eddy, George Nichols, Buddy Messinger and Bert Roach, comes to Tally's Broadway today for its first engagement at popular prices. Eileen Percy, in the title role, plays her part to perfection. Hobart Henley's handling of the story has brought the theme of Tarkington's book to the screen with such realism that the celluloid version is merely a transposition of the printed pages to the silver screen. A program of meritorious short subjects will be shown as special added attractions to "The Flirt."

Third Week

"The Covered Wagon," Emerson Hough's story of the western plains, will enter its third week at Grauman's Hollywood Egyptian Theater tomorrow.

This production, which deals with the "forties" on the western plains, and one of the most thrilling periods of American history, has aroused the keenest interest.

"Pioneer Days," a stage spectacle, arranged under the personal direction of Sid Grauman, is presented at each performance. The cast numbers more than fifty, of which twenty-five are full-blooded Arapahoe Indians.

The principals in the cast, which numbers more than 5000 whites and Indians, are J. Warren Kerrigan, Lois Wilson, Tully Marshall, Ernest Torrence, Charles Ogle, Ethel Wales and John Fox.

GOING EAST

Ruth Roland, generally known as "the serial queen," plans a shopping trip to New York within the next month. She has been producing here continuously for years.

UNDER CONTRACT

Ralph Lewis has been signed on a long-term contract by the Robertson-Cole organization to play featured roles.

Opinions and Suggestions of "The Times" Readers Concerning Pictures, Plays and Music

Wrong Idea

HOLLYWOOD, April 16.—[To The Theatrical Editor of The Times:] Yesterday some moral tyro, who headed his article "A Morals Committee" and who signed himself Hiram Q. Satterhwaite, informed the readers of The Times that he had a little plan that he thought up all by himself which would regulate the morals of the motion picture people by appointing a Federal Morals Committee whose duty it would be to inquire into the private life of every actor and actress who appeared on the screen.

Now frankly, I admit that the morals of some of our actors and actresses do need a bit of regulation; so do mine, and yours and everyone else's, for that matter. But do you think that it's a question (Ye Gods, another question!) of government control?

Just imagine! Seeing on an announcement the following information. John X. Ray, Gov't. permit No. 1,333,431, Classification 2-C, married; no divorces (yet) and so on, adfinitum.

Furthermore, this gentleman friend of ours has made the whole thing a question of investigation, judiciary enforcement and other external matters.

Now it seems to me, which won't make a particle of difference to anybody, that if the morals of the moving picture industry are to be investigated, that it would be only fair to the investigatees that the lives of the investigators be searched thoroughly as well, and the past and present of the men and women who investigate the lives of the investigators who search the lives of . . . . and so on! Now . . . Who is going to do it?

I recall, "Let him who is without sin—"

Hiram, would you want someone who was employed by your employer to go snooping about your past, digging into a lot of things that were your very own and nobody else's at all? Would you? Or, wouldn't you be more likely to tell your boss to take his job off in the woods and feed it to the little squirrels if they'd eat it?

Now, remember that I am not defending the entire moving-picture industry, because I am more concerned with my own morals and life than I am about that of someone whom I only see once in a while and enjoy less times than that. But emphatically I want to make two points. Firstt, if you want to make Willie be good, tell Willie why and be reasonable, but don't try and make the government spank him for you. Secondly, who will throw the first moral stone in this crusade?

In conclusion I wish to quote a verse from Kipling that starts: "Cry 'murder' in the market-place, and each will turn upon his neighbor anxious eyes asking: 'Art thou the man?' "....and so on.

I suppose that this will be broadcast and published in every newspaper in the world, that the very wheels of the nation will pause and say, "The world trembles, Satterthwaite and Jay do not agree!"

JOHN JAY.

A Solution

DENVER, April 12.— [To the Theatrical Editor of The Times:] Upon your canvas, may flash a few words relative to the solution of the movie censorship problem.

Now in sundry times and diverse ways, we have tried to regulate the show houses, particularly the movies; and as yet they are an unsolved problem either to themselves or the public.

That the influence of stage and the screen has been for evil is evidenced in many ways. One is the great immoral wave sweeping the country, divorce, disrespect for the eighteenth amendment and juvenile delinquency.

As movies are producing and changing scenes so fast, to cut their activities radically, take out stage or train robberies, or weapons, puts them into mild Sunday-school class and forces them to have to repeat often and is unsatisfactory to both patrons and promoters.

I say, turn them virtually loose and let them show almost anything they want to but in the meantime, have interpreters to counterbalance the evil effects, by administering an antidote while the scenes are fresh in the people's minds. It would add to entertainment and instruction, it would add to patronage, if there could be on the scene a live man or woman as interpreter administering an antitoxin, offsetting and killing any misconception or evil suggestion that might arise therefrom.

Let the interpreter be a live wire, a good fellow. Let them see humor where there is humor and pathos where there is tragedy and statistics where there are figures.

The late Frank Robertson and other men of travellogue fame were getting 50, 75 cents and $1 a night for their pictures, when the movies were in the 5-cent class. They gave us a great entertainment. They were men of powerful personalities, eloquent, swung the English fluently, made us laugh with rapture and weep with pathos all at the same meeting. They showed anything from a Mexican bull-fight to a French bawdy house and at the same time administered their antitoxins in a way that killed all possibility of evil suggestion, sent us away inspired, entertained and made us feel that we had been to church.

Any movie house putting on men of this type and for this purpose would become a great benefactor in the community, and draw their competitors' business away and lift the business to a high moral plane.

The Holy Bible is a mixed book, the good and the bad. It has much that is obscene, coarse and vulgar, and yet it carries its own antiseptic by its good. Physicians and ministers can see women under almost any circumstances, converse with them on private things and yet the dignity of their profession is an antidote to evil thought or suggestion.

JOSEPH A. SHIRES.

Our Daily Bread

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—[To the Theatrical Editor of The Times:] Why do conscientious producers of motion pictures worry concerning their esoteric judgment, their dramatic convictions, their doctrines of humor and improvisations, their choice of design, their motivation of plot and character, their care as to detail and fear of the critical repulsions concerning any outstanding and glaring anachronisms, their ability to be correct in every hook and crook, their proper division of sentences by points and stops, their titular and subtitular rhetoric, their avoidance of insistent redundancies, the shunning of compound and overdashed declaratives, their reprints of imperfectly matched scenes, when the exhibitor, through bad and ignorant presentations, slaughters the lamb to the accompaniment of music that reeks of the tomcat's meow, in a poorly ventilated and unwholesome atmosphere where grown-ups read and express in raucous denunciations what "ain't so good," while the young, and more often sophisticated, cough bits of unmasticated peanuts down the back of one's ears that catch the dampened morsels as mud guards retard the progress of wet earth.

As a producer, I appreciate that an exhibitor should not refuse selling tickets to the prolific vine and her accompanying babes, but why do life-giving women cart their broods into the theater, irrespective to play—couldn't the little unbroken ones be chained or checked like coats, or cars, or umbrellas? The idea is practical and safe. The Baby Checkery Insurance and Trust Company would soon pay premiums commensurate to a gusher.

Not long ago I heard a young flapper remark: "I love the movies, but oh you kids."

Lest I forget, permit me to remark that to make pictures alike for little ones and big ones, savors of a joke. I, for one, am content to entertain the grown-ups. The children are satisfied to see things move—if they don't get all the subtitles and nuances they will come back for more.

Why do exhibitors hope to satisfy patrons in an auditorium redolent with peanuts and gum, where even piano and organ dissonances cannot dispel the atmosphere of its foul stench, its hard seats, its bad projection, its hideous lobby displays, its insolent ushers, and countless other disturbances that the advanced producer hopes never to encounter?

Why better pictures if you can't give better presentations? The presentation in some houses is so important that the picture assumes the more modest subjection of an accompaniment. If this were not so, the better producer would lose all hope.

Why lend an ear to the exhibitor who writes to a trade journal and complains that "I had nineteen in my house last Saturday night, and if I don't get better pictures I'll lose those precious nineteen," or the exhibitor who writes to a motion-picture paper that "What my town wants are only the big ones, westerns or comedy dramas"? Perhaps his playhouse suggests a "honky tonk" and one of the fundamentals of all entertainment is that you must make the guy who gives up his dough feel at home. Then this same exhibitor grows introspective and finds the cause "in free band concerts, public dances, radio parties, revivals and love of a cozy warm fire"; but this reaction only exists when he is running pictures that are not "westerns and comedy dramas".

Doesn't that prove that presentation has a great deal to do with it? I have a feeling that that exhibitor has properly synchronized music, that his ushers walk with heavy heel, that the song of the acidifying air and bodily smells are right for scenes laid in stable and dung heap.

And another from Ivesdale, Ill., tells us that his theater has small-town patronage and that there is something wrong with pictures because his house hasn't been doing well. He misquotes the apostle of repetition: "And every day in every way business gets worse and worse."

In a comfy room I perused these complaints, but smelling, seeing and hearing are believing. I went to "look in," and what I beheld would, if conscientiously reported, crowd a fatter tome than the tooled levant that crushes the Pilgrim's Progress.

If we crave our daily bread, let us stand erect like worthwhile vertebrae and extend a hand or foot as the case demands. Poor food has a fair chance on a clean platter. An inviting house brings its return.

There is a Chinese adage: "In darkness there is filth." There is a German pithy saying that: "At night every cow is black." There is a Tunisian proverb: "The nose was born to help the eye to see," and in the Arctic the Laplander knows that where there is perpetual night the temperature is very low, for where it is difficult to see, nature precautions decomposition.

No house should debase a picture that has been seriously and conscientiously produced. The producer, as well as an audience, enjoys proper presentation. As a producer, I beg the exhibitors to project both good and bad, expensive and inexpensive pictures properly and in a building that deserves the name of theater.

A splendid bit of cinema art produced by an excellent company was shown recently in Hollywood and the musical obbligato almost ruined the picture. It was a period story, one that called for beautiful costumes and well-designed sets. In an important episode, a brass band comes down the main street of Salem. The entire scene has the quality and spirit of long ago. To this, "The Invincible Eagle" was played in perfect out-of-step syncopation, and when the scene changed, the black narcissus at the organ created more havoc floundering through three subtitles, trying to become properly stabilized.

Behind me a woman dropped something.

To the right a child cried for nourishment.

To the left spectators moved in and out.

A curtain covering the main entrance, whenever opened, bathed the screen in a soft cerulean glow.

The auditorium suggested a monkey emporium; the cracking of nuts, the forced shrieks of insincere juvenile appreciation, the screen ghost that put in its appearance at the very moment when no one was anxious to see an apparition, and when the big and well-played moment came, that uncalled-for specter deprived the picture of its rights. A big soft piece of fluff that resembled a black centipede crept over the dying woman's body, to the great delectation of the young and displeasure of those sincerely interested, and moved, and not until the operator beheld this new form of double exposure, which jigged through one-half reel, did he stop the machine to remove the dancing demon. He then ran the picture with that hectic impulse that is born of disrespect. The most beautiful work of art, if treated with contempt, will be received contemptuously.

Now, I ask you—who is to blame?

The man who makes the pictures is often a bad producer, but the man who projects them has proven in many cases to be a fierce exhibitor.

The sun travels his diurnal course; days sail away on easy wings. A soft wind kissed the boughs of full-happed branches that moved rhythmically and whispered reverentially that we should enter the dark and chilled nave where incense-stained monoliths supported proudly a gilded roof. A dusky shaft of light crawled across the polished pavement where for one thousand years men had knelt and prayed, and in their prayers had hoped for better things. In silent adoration let us lift our heads and whisper : : : : our daily bread : : :

Ernest Torrence in "The Covered Wagon," Grauman's Egyptian.

Holbrook Blinn in "The Bad Man," Majestic.

Julian Eltinge in "The Isle of Love," Hippodrome.

Scenery Makes Ringer of Hoot for Teddy, Jr.

Many actors are noted for their resemblance to celebrities, but Hoot Gibson missed fame in this direction until he donned spectacles.

It happened in "Pure Grit," film adaptation of "Blinky," the noted novel by Gene Markey, scenarized and directed by Edward Sedgwick. The picture tells the diverting story of the son of an old general who, himself commissioned, goes to a border cavalry camp, and demonstrates that "blood will tell," despite environments of a fashionable boarding school as a start in life. As "Blinky," Gibson wore glasses, and commenced as a "hot-house lily."

ALL IN EYES

The first preview sprung the surprise. Sedgwick, several technical assistants, and publicity men watched the new film. "Blinky" appeared in army garb—with his glasses.

"By Heck, he's a ringer for young Roosevelt!" ejaculated a spectator. The others scrutinized the square, bespectacled face. "By Gee, you're right!" they agreed.

With his spectacles and army uniform Hoot Gibson is in reality, almost a double for Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. Many in Los Angeles who knew Roosevelt when he lived here for some years will recognize this when the film is released shortly.

"I never realized that," remarked Gibson, when informed of the likeness. "Oh well—you know all we great men—."

STUDENTS IN SCENES FROM BARD'S PLAYS

CONDITIONS CHANGE

As a director in Sweden, Victor Seastrom often handled the camera, designed settings, arranged lights and helped in the laboratory. He has a full crop of assistant for his first Goldwyn picture, however.

SMALL-TOWN GIRLS

Two small-town girls—Bessie Love and Claire Windsor—have risen to great heights and brought fame to their birthplaces, Midland, Tex. and Cawker City, Kan., respectively.

Dogs Trained Through Love Are Novelty

While animal acts on the vaudeville stage are not uncommon, it is an exceptional act of this nature that stands out with the prominence of Carlton Emmy's "Mad Wags," at the Orpheum next week.

This novel offering is one of the best animal performances on the stage today and it demonstrates the possibilities of canine performers when trained and encouraged by kindness.

Mr. Emmy introduces his dogs in a song exploiting the talents of each of the little "ladies," as he calls them, before the performers make their appearance. When the song is finished the curtain rises on one of the prettiest sights imaginable. Eighteen little dogs are sitting facing the audience and placed in an artistic manner on pedestals, their bright eyes snapping with anticipation.

Good treatment is the secret of training dogs, according to Mr. Emmy.

"Treat a dog well and he will become your best friend," he says. "See that your dog gets good food, a good place to sleep and lots of time out of doors and he will soon learn to love you. After he gains confidence in you he learns to understand your orders and it is easy to teach him almost any trick."

POPULAR TEAM TOGETHER

Neal Burns and Vera Steadman will team together in the next Christie comedy to go into production. It will be directed by Al Christie, after he has finished his blackface comedy. In the meantime, Scott Sidney is finishing a new Bobby Vernon comedy.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S WHAT

A Department of Questions and Answers Concerning the Pictures and Players

BY MARJORIE PERRY

L.T.A., Los Angeles: You can always depend upon the John Emerson family (60 per cent of which is Anita Loos) for a good story. They are entitled to the credit for the screen version of "Dulcy." This is Constance Talmadge's forthcoming picture, which is being made under the direction of Sidney Franklin.

Mrs. M. W., Los Angeles: "Don't Marry for Money" is the name of the new picture in which Rubye de Remer will be featured. House Peters has been selected to play the leading role opposite Miss de Remer, supported by an all-star cast. Clarence Brown is directing this production for B. P. Fineman.

Doris L., Preston, Ariz.: Richard Barthelmess is married to Mary Hay, who is also an actress. There is a little Miss Barthelmess in the family now.

Clarice W., Ft. Collins, Colo.: Unless you are especially talented, 14 is a bit young to carry out your picture ambition.

Katherine W., Vancouver: "Divorce Coupons" was produced and distributed by Vitagraph, starring Corinne Griffith. Webster Campbell, who is the husband of Miss Griffith, directed this picture.

John R., Los Angeles: Since you ask for my candid opinion—Will Rogers has his limitations in my estimation. As long as the scenarioists keep him outside the circle of romance, he does very well. But, then, I guess I'm spoiled for good-looking heroes. "Fruits of Faith" is one of his latest comedies.

S. E. W., Austin—The Pickford family were formerly Canadian subjects, but they are legally American citizens now. Mary became an American citizen, of course, when she married Douglas Fairbanks, and the rest of the family were granted citizenship rights several years ago.

Jean L., Palo Alto—The family name of Viola Dana and Shirley Mason is Flugrath. Viola is the widow of John Collins, who was her director; Shirley, the younger sister, married to Bernard J. Durning, actor and director. I believe Conway Tearle is about thirty-five years old. He is married to Adele Rowland.

Alice L. C., Los Angeles—James Rennie, who plays the male lead in "Mighty Lak' a Rose," is the husband of Dorothy Gish. Lillian Gish is not married. She is in Europe at the present time working on "The White Sister."

F. H. B., San Francisco—Here are the studio addresses of your film favorites: Bobbie Vernon, Christie, 6101 Sunset Boulevard; Marie Prevost, Warner Brothers, Bronson avenue and Sunset Boulevard; Barbara La Marr, in care of A. H. Sawyer, Metro Studio, 900 Cahuenga avenue; Bebe Daniels and Gloria Swanson, Famous Players-Lasky, 1520 Vine street; Constance and Norma Talmadge, United Studios, 5341 Melrose avenue, all of Hollywood.

Mrs. Elmer L., Los Angeles—"The Infidel" was produced by Preferred Pictures, Inc., and released in April of last year through the Associated First National. The title role was played by Katherine MacDonald, under the direction of James Young.

James L., Wichita—Send your "whale of a title" to B. P. Schulberg, 3800 Mission Road. $10,000 a word is the amount offered for accepted titles, it is announced, and I believe the limit is three words.

James B., Los Angeles—Maurice Tourneur's production, "The Christian," was adapted from Sir Hall Caine's famous novel. The title role of John Storm is played by Richard Dix, while Mae Busch interprets the character of Gloria Quayle. Others in the cast include Mahlon Hamilton, Beryl Mercer, Claude Gillingwater, Cyril Chadwick, Phyllis Haver, Gareth Hughes and Joseph Dowling. Some scenes for "The Christian" were photographed in England.

Mrs. V.B.M., Denver—Rockliffe Fellowes, who was featured in "The Stranger's Banquet," has been signed to play the leading male role opposite May Allison in "The Sign," which will be produced at the Ince Studio. Jane Murfin, who wrote the screen version from her own play, will direct the picture, assisted by Justin H. McCloskey.

Willis J., San Antonio—The two players you mention were not listed among the thirteen "stars of tomorrow" selected by the Western Motion-Picture Advertisers' Association for the Wampas frolic and ball held last night at the Warner Brothers' Studio in Hollywood. The favored thirteen are as follows: Eleanor Boardman, Evelyn Brent, Dorothy Devore, Virginia Brown Faire, Betty Francisco, Pauline Garon, Kathleen Key, Laura La Plante, Helen Lynch, Derelys Perdue, Margaret Leahy, Jobyna Ralston and Ethel Shannon.

Mrs. Clyde M., Van Nuys—It is difficult to state the approximate sum paid by producers for scenarios. Stories are rated entirely upon the merit of the plot. A well known writer, however, can perhaps command a much larger price, even though his ideas are no better than those of the amateur writer—from which it may be deduced that published material has a higher market value. Film rights to successful stage plays have brought as high as $100,000.

WORK DELAYED

After some inclement weather on his arrival at Boulder Creek, Cal., which caused a delay of several days, George Melford is now at work on his production, "Salomy Jane," which will be principally made at this location. In this picture, which is an adaptation by Waldemar Young of Bret Harte's famous story, which was dramatized by Paul Armstrong. Jacquelin Logan, George Fawcett and Maurice Flynn will be featured.

SO MERCENARY

Jean Hersholt, appearing in the Goldwyn picture, "Red Lights," used to be a director. He says acting pays better.

give much thought to. No one else did apparently unless it was Gloria's costume designer.

Now I am numbered among Gloria's greatest admirers. I can enjoy her wonderfully graceful hands and her beautiful eyes no matter how flimsy the picture that carries them.

I will admit that this one was exasperating at times. The good people were such insufferable prigs that any girl with the spirit that Gloria showed early in the picture would have danced away and never come back.

"Daddy" too is a strain on the admirers of its star. He is the only sincere thing about the picture.

Jackie Coogan has now reached the estate of the greatest stars. He needs a great scenario writer.

"Souls For Sale" goes galloping on its way at the Capitol. The only people who do not seem to like it are the actors about town. They say that it makes them feel in a class with acrobats and trained seals. They think that it gives the impression that an actor's life is so full of hazards that he has no time for thought.

Helene's Head Well Furnished Inside and Out

Helene Chadwick plays the leading feminine role in "Quicksands," which comes to Grauman's Million Dollar Theater tomorrow with powerful cast, including Richard Dix, Noah Beery, Alan Hale, Walter Long and a dozen other players noted for vivid acting.

Miss Chadwick in this excellent company, many of whom are veterans of the stage as well as the screen, offers a clever characterization, as might be expected of a young actress who has made remarkable strides in the last few years. Gifted with a striking appearance, it is to her credit that she chose to develop herself as an artist rather than remain one of the pretty girls of the screen. Today she ranks with the commanding figures who really depict emotions with a depth of feeling and real histrionism.

It has meant hard work and study for Miss Chadwick since the time she secured her first engagement in motion pictures with Pathe. She will always be remembered for her portrayals in several Rupert Hughes pictures, where she co-starred with Richard Dix "Dangerous Curve Ahead," being probably her finest picture.

In line with her capacity to portray an intelligent vampire, and not the type who by sheer physical attractiveness batter the bulwark of male resistance, Madeline Hurlock, playing with Ben Turpin in his new Mack Sennett comedy satire, "Pitfalls of a Big City," prefers the writings of Conrad, Tourgenief, Tolstoy, Hauptman and Cabell to the popular fiction and magazines.

Miss Hurlock has been chosen to enact the vampire in the Turpin comedies because Mack Sennett believes that this type does not necessarily call for a woman whose sole thoughts center upon the havoc she can create among males. Away from the studio Madeline is seldom seen in public. She prefers reading and studying.

CAMERA CATCHES PHARAOH'S FEAST

With the successful filming of the big banquet scenes in the replica of the ancient Egyptian feast hall, the William P. S. Earle production, "Tut-Ankh-Amen," being made at the Hollywood studio, has passed the halfway mark in its journey toward completion. For these scenes, which are numbered among the most impressive of the production, several hundred extras were used and the studio for three days was transformed into a carnival of feasting and merrymaking. Among the principals who took part in the event were Carmel Myers, Bertram Thomas Grassby, June Elvidge, Malcolm McGregor, Sam De Grasse and Anthony Merlo.

IN MEXICO CITY

Claire Windson is introduced in her latest picture, Marshall Neilan's "The Eternal Three," as enjoying tea in a cafe in Mexico City. The entire company made the trip to Mexico to get these introductory scenes.

Director Knows About Fair Sex; Had Experience

Whoever said that women are all alike—that the feminine instincts and qualities are all after a fashion, must have been mistaken, according to George Melford, who presents quite the contrary in his latest production, "You Can't Fool Your Wife," at Grauman's Metropolitan.

The three principal feminine roles are played by three contrasting types—Leatrice Joy, Nita Naldi and Pauline Garon.

Miss Joy as Edith McBride is the trusting wife, charming and ingenuous, yet intuitive to the last degree. Her particular type of southern beauty, with her soft brown eyes and dark brown hair, gives just the necessary sympathy to the role of the modern wife.

Miss Naldi is the siren de luxe—a Polish beauty, wife of an eminent surgeon, who seeks social conquests to further her husband's practice. Her raven black hair and alluring eyes produce the desired effect when she sets out to annex a man to her long list of victims.

Miss Garon, chic, blonde, diminutive is the flapper of eighteen but possessing a sophistication that would be a credit to a woman of fifty. She bobs in and out of the picture on a breeze of spontaniety that is a delightful contrast to the action of the other two characters in the story.

PROF. BUEHL SPEAKS

The weekly meeting of the Playcrafters will take place tomorrow evening at 932 South Grand avenue. The guest of honor will be Prof. Buehl of the University of Southern California, who will speak on "Modern Dramatic Construction." Gemma Houston will interpret her latest one-act play, "Cloak of Dreams."

SHORTHAND DIRECTOR

Thomas Heffron, directing Clara Kimball Young in "La Rubia" for Metro, is a shorthand expert and makes use of his knowledge in his work.

CHILD BUILDS HOUSE

Seven-year-old Robert DeVilbiss, one of our younger movie stars, is building his mother a six-room cottage near the Goldwyn studio, where he is working for Charles Brabin in "Six Days." Young Robert has reserved a room for himself in the house sacred to an elaborate system of tracks and switches for the DeVilbiss Railroad System.

NATURAL SURROUNDINGS

Viola Dana, a former stage actress, will feel at home in her next Metro production, "Rouged Lips," a stage story upon which she will begin work shortly.

Dear Mr. Miller:

Permit me to thank you for the opportunity to see "Hunting Big Game in Africa." It is the most remarkable picture I have ever seen, full of the enchantment of the "Dark Continent," but most of all, giving an unparalleled opportunity to see the animals in their native haunts.

Very truly yours,

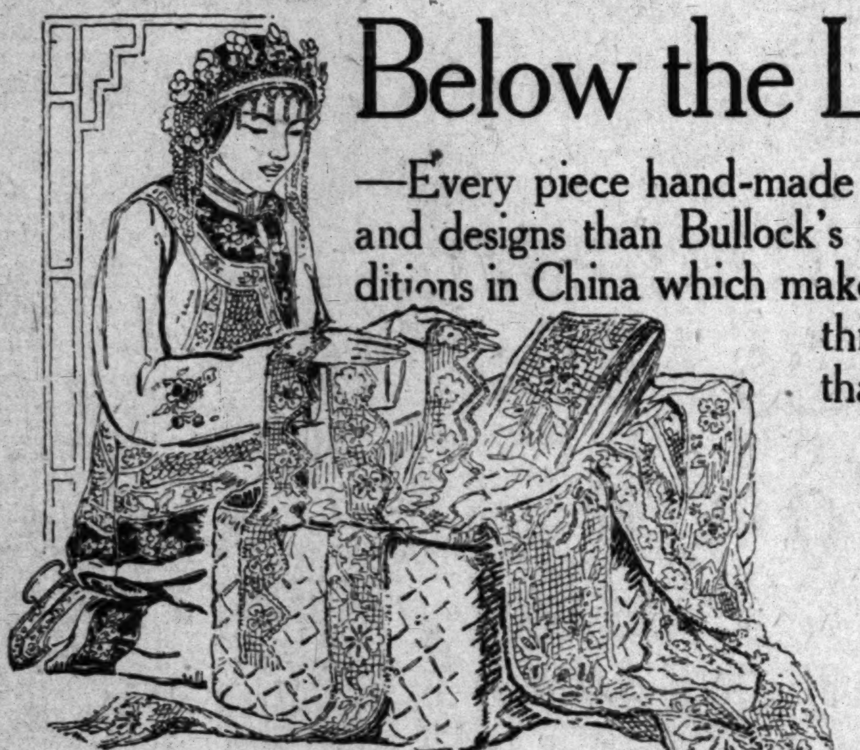
"One o'Clock Saturdays"

18,000 Yards Chinese Filet Laces at Prices Below the Lowest Bullock's Ever Offered



—Every piece hand-made in China—every piece of good quality—a better assortment of widths and designs than Bullock's has ever been fortunate enough to assemble—and in the face of conditions in China which make it almost certain that these laces will become more difficult to obtain, this distribution offers prices that are actually below the present prices that importers are demanding—

½ inch Picot Edging at 10c yard—12 yards for $1.10

½ to 1 inch Edgings and Insertions, 12½c yard, 12 yards for $1.35

Thousands of Yards in widths from 2 to 7½ inches at 30c to 85c yard

—Columns could be written singing the praises of this exceptional Filet Lace Distribution. Coming at a time when Filets are at the height of their splendid ascendancy in Fashion, it is an event which should establish records for Lace buying.

—But let past performances suffice. Build your expectations upon the many Chinese Filet Lace distributions which have made Bullock's Lace Section a center and criterion for Quality and Value and have lent so much to the slogan "Bullock's for Laces."

—And come! With expectations high! It is the purpose of Bullock's that this event in itself shall be a medium through which Bullock's shall reach closer to the goal—"The Satisfaction of Every Customer." Second Floor, tomorrow.

Kayser Union Suits 95c

—600 of them to make women buy them quickly. Made of lisle thread in summer weight.

—Tight knee—flesh or white—with strap over shoulders or regular built-up top styles.

—All have a nice reinforcement and band top finish—think of getting all sizes 34 to 44—at 95c a garment.

Women's Glove Silk Vests $1.95

Women's Glove Silk Bloomers $2.95

—The vests in good length with either the ribbon or self strap in flesh tint—also honeydew and orchid shades. Sizes 36 to 42—$1.95.

—The Bloomers of the same heavy quality with large reinforcement and frill at knee. Flesh or orchid—sizes 5 to 7—at $2.95.

—Women's Knit Underwear Section—Bullock's Fourth Floor.

Iridescent Sequin Voile $2

—One of Manchester's newest accomplishments with fine cotton voile. Ground shades of delicate blue, rose, Copenhagen, heliotrope, turquoise, sand and navy—as well as black—studded with imitation silver and gold sequins—38 inches wide—at $2.00 yard.

Continuing April Selling Activities in Bullock's Section of Oriental Rugs—

All Large Oriental Rugs at Reductions

—This involves many beautiful examples of this splendid and time-honored art.

—People having use for floor coverings about the sizes of 6x12 up to 13x22 ft. should certainly take advantage of these lowered prices. In many instances they will stand comparison to domestic rugs.

—For instance:—

6.6x12 Genuine Beluchistan at $145.
9x12 Royal Arak at $295.
9x12 Kermanshah at $475.
10x14 Sarouk at $725.
13x20 Kermanshah at $1095.

—It is an opportunity as rare as the rare character of these very rugs—one that should be written large in the annals of Oriental Rug Selling in Los Angeles—

—At Bullock's Oriental Rug Section, Sixth Floor.

—P.S.—If you are interested in Worsted Wilton Rugs you should know that Bullock's has a very wide selection in the various sizes and advises early choice against probable price rises—Bullock's Sixth Floor.

James Oppenheim's "Golden Bird" Strikes Ecstatic Notes in the Exaltation of Beauty and T. S. Eliot's "The Waste Land" Wails Over the Tragic Futility of Life

BY LILLIAN C. FORD

GOLDEN BIRD. By James Oppenheim. Alfred A. Knopf, New York.

For a matter-of-fact person who believes in foreign trade and the League of Nations, finds fascinating material in the Statistical Abstract, and derives joy alike from the California climate and from its effect on the appreciation of California land values, to be selected by the author of "Golden Bird," as the fit reviewer of that mystic and alluring poetic achievement is no small cause of embarrassment. It is a book for a poet to review, or for an artist who loves and appreciates poetry.

But the most casual reader cannot fail to find in it beauty and that haunting quality inseparable from true poetic inspiration. Pure beauty—the beauty that brings ecstasy, and that, in the poet, compels song—is alike the inspiration and the theme of this book of golden rhythm.

It is beauty that has enchanted and intoxicated the poet and filled him with a sense of the fullness and mystery and pang of life.

The mockingbird that from the topmost tip of his chosen tree sings and chants and flaunts the springtide of love and life in his full-blooded being until the song lifts him bodily from his perch—this enchanted being is one phase of Mr. Oppenheim in "Golden Bird." But this intoxication and enchantment do not mark the final stage in the poet's consciousness. The enchantment develops into a mystical fervor and it is in this state that he finds his highest inspiration.

The opening poem, "Nausicaa," with its delicate and heart-moving imagery, typifies the daughter of Alcinous as the pagan spirit of sensuous beauty in contrast with the Semitic desire to gain insight into the mysteries of life and death, to be gained only by striving and suffering. Between the two the soul of man, who adores beauty even though it be of the ephemeral type, and who yet craves infinite perfection (ultimate beauty), is constantly tossed.

The poems in the first section of the book are sensuous, ardent, lyrical, warm with the breath of spring and of love, but through them is the belief in the true romance that transcends the material and becomes a thing of the spirit and of eternity. Love is thus the gateway to life, the induction into ecstasy with promise of that higher ecstasy, that more perfect beauty that man glimpses as in a vision and knows to await his taking.

It is free verse that Mr. Oppenheim uses, but it is a melodic and moving free verse, rhythmical and full of music that he has here brought to high perfection. While the note is well sustained, there are, nevertheless, striking lines that for sheer beauty and apt imagery cannot easily be matched in the whole range of English verse. For instance, take this line from "Wild-Rose:"

"Blue seas break in my heart and sun-waters drench the shores of my spirit."

"Of coasts of moonlight the billows of the stars break into faint sparkles,
Night echoes the delicate star-
bloom from far lunar shores
In the desert the tom-toms roll like the dust; death-peril glows; death grows sweet:
"The young white dancer glides with her serpent: she is naked in her glory . . .
And in my soul is the perfume of cool lilies-of-the-valley,
And in my soul the wild rose opens, tears with dew . . ."

Some of the later poems in this little book are reminiscent of the Psalms and the Song of Solomon, though they are none the less original and striking on account of the influence so plainly evident. One can always see relationships among the poets. Whitman is naturally suggested in all lyrical free verse, though "Golden Bird" has a jewel-like quality lacking in Whitman and the ecstatic notes are higher. In spirit the verse recalls Jean Paul's apostrophe to music as speaking of things which man has never seen and which, enmeshed in human consciousness, can never see. It is the world's quest for the ideal, a golden bird indeed.

THE WASTE LAND. By T. S. Eliot. Boni & Liveright, New York.

In this alleged poem the author has out-Joyced Joyce, producing a weird bit of writing that may well be placed beside the longer, but no less involved "Ulysses."

"The Waste Land" is like the outpouring of a volcano in eruption. There are solid rock and earth and molten lava and there are fire and ashes. Reading it one feels the power and the fire, and wonders if by some miracle Mr. Eliot may in the future cool off a little, direct his forces to some settled purpose and so create instead of erupt. It is the lack of restraint, of ordered selection, of clear purpose that makes the incoherency that most readers must feel prevents the poem from being poetry or any other form of literature.

But there is something vital in it, and, now and then, a genuinely tragic note. To Mr. Eliot, as to many of our disillusioned youth, life is a chaos, civilization a farce, old ideals and standards mere grotesques attesting to the futility of human effort.

The author has a right to his philosophy, just as he has the right to challenge us with his motley poem of moods and scraps, in which, like Ophelia, he has recourse to old songs and poems, as often as not deliberately misquoted.

But with all its excesses, its involutions and evolutions, its chaotic lack of arrangement, there is the true gold of poetry here and there, hidden as is gold along with baser matter. And although at first reading it strikes one as an orgy of words, doubtless one might discern some vague phantom of unity in it if one dug and delved for it.

The opening stanza is one that is destined to become trite from much quoting:

"April is the cruelest month, breeding
Lilacs out of the dead land, mixing
Memory and desire, stirring
Dull roots with spring."

CABLES OF COBWEB

By
Paul Jordan-Smith

AN epic novel of the South, which promises to be as widely discussed as "Main Street." It is written in a clear, ironic style reminiscent of Anatole France—a clear piece of writing with a rollicking humor and a devastating satire. Price $2.00.

Robinson's take pleasure in announcing the presence of Mr. Paul Jordan-Smith in their book section tomorrow, Monday, April 23rd, from two to four o'clock, in the afternoon. He will be glad to discuss his book, or to sign such copies as Robinson's patrons may desire.

Paul Jordan-Smith,
Mr. Smith is a resident of Claremont, Cal. His first novel, "Cables of Cobweb" is reviewed on this page of today's Times.

LITERARY GOSSIP

Some Chicago literary lights recently gave a dinner to William McFee, and among those present was Edwin Balmer, author of "The Breath of Scandal," and of "Keeban," "a story of the underworld and the upper," to be published in April. Mr. McFee, innocently enough, asked: "What do the lighthouse keepers on the lake do in winter?" To which Mr. Balmer made answer very distinctly: "They give up lighthouse keeping and start light housekeeping."

Two important spring publications in the field of fiction have just issued from the press of Alfred A. Knopf. They are "Impromptu," by Elliot H. Paul, and "Capitol Hill," by Harvey Fergusson.

Both "second novels." "Indelible," Mr. Paul's first novel, which appeared last year, attracted wide attention and had a large sale. Mr. Fergusson's first book was "The Blood of the Conquerors," published in 1921. The scene of "Impromptu" is Boston; the scene of "Capitol Hill," as is evident from the title, is Washington.

Katharine Fullerton Gerould inscribes her new story, "Conquistador," published by the Scribners, to "the gentleman who unwittingly but graciously sat for a portrait which none will recognize." "Conquistador," a short novel, is the story of a man whose father was an American and whose mother was of an old Spanish family in Mexico. The opposing racial traits within him come into sharp conflict.

Mr. A. L. S. Wood, writing in the Union of Springfield, Mass., says: "Of all the essays of the year (and "On," by Hilaire Belloc is not excepted,) "As I Was Saying" contains the most wisdom, the most wit and the most grace. By all means possess it."

St. John Ervine's play, "Mary, Mary," Quite Contrary," was published by Macmillan a few days ago. The scene is laid at the vicarage of Hinton St. Henry, during the visit of Contrary Mary, a good actress, "both morally and technically," according to young Geoffrey of the vicarage, who hopes she will produce his play.

Mary's whims and moods and ventures in love keep the vicarage in a turmoil and lend humor and spice to the comedy.

Literature gives many an example of the influence of a special experience on the work of a writer, and this appears again, this time in the form of a love of grateful sunlight and a phobia of the northern cold, in the work of Genevieve Taggard, editor and founder of the Measure, and author of "For Eager Lovers" (Seltzer) a little book which went into a second edition very soon after publication. Miss Taggard was born in the State of Washington, but most of her early years were spent in Honolulu, and many of her poems suggest the sultry colors of her background. Many more are a protest against frost and ice. It is significant that perhaps the most highly praised single poem of hers is called "Ice Age." Miss Taggard celebrates a sun-drenched, joyous world. This volume was reviewed in the Times last Sunday by Paul Jordan Smith.

Three years ago Vachel Lindsay author of "Going-to-the-Sun" found "The Golden Book Springfield" classed as a dull book. Now its effects are being felt, for in his tome town of Springfield (Ill.) he is seeing its direct results, a tremendous reconstruction going on and transforming the city. In such papers as the Springfield (Ill.) State Register and State Journal one can follow the story, and other towns wanting to be rejuvenated can start it with this magical "Golden Book." One year ago Vachel Lindsay was distributing Egyptian grammars among his friends, and they were putting them away on their top shelves. Now they are hurrying them onto their library tables and thousands of people are pouring into the Egyptian sections of the museums.

Miss Margaret R. Piper, author of the Sylvia books and "Wild Wings," Page, Boston, writes, on the eve of her sailing for China, that on her arrival she is to be married to Capt. Chalmers, of the British Army. Capt. Chalmers, who is a veteran of the World War, is now stationed at Hongkong. Miss Piper's latest book, Peter's Best Seller," now in the hands of her publishers, will appear in June. We venture the guess that some of her own romance will be reflected in this novel which deals with the labors and love affairs of Peter, a mythical but charming writer of successful fiction.

SHAKESPEARE TERCENTENARY

BY RALPH BRADDOCK

[For pictures illustrative of this article see page 1 of the accompanying issue of The Times rotogravure section.]

The tercentenary celebration of the publication of the "first folio Shakespeare," now hard upon us, is one of those things which should be discussed in the biblical manner, "from the housetops."

However, in this era of closed pores and constriction, the voice raised audibly to the stars in praise is about us provocative of applause as the thump of a flat wheel on the line leading to the rest cure. Allons! There was another time.

Now to give due attention to the "meritorious fact," or to a sequence of such facts, regarding the first folio and Shakespeare.

Tomorrow, by proclamation of those who attend to such things, will be celebrated the three hundredth anniversary of the first publication of Shakespeare's plays in collected form. It is a date and a celebration of more than literary import. It provides each and every one of us with the opportunity, following hard in the wake of prune week, of withdrawing a little from the throng to consider the essentials of dramatic poetry as practiced in these plays, which have been called the greatest birth of time.

DATE AN ARBITRARY ONE

The tercentenary date fixed is an arbitrary one, as study long pursued in private would seem to indicate that the first folio was published late in 1623, probably immediately following November 8, the license date. However, the date is one of happy significance, as April 23 was the birthdate of the immortal man of Stratford, and also the date upon which what was mortal of him was withdrawn from the sight of men into the great silences.

Shakespeare did not live to see the publication of this first folio edition of his plays, nor of the partial collection issued to the world in 1619 by Thomas Pavier and his printer, William Jaggard. Regarding this 1619 collection, it included the text of ten plays more adequately to be set forth in the first folio of 1623, with additions. A copy of this 1619 edition, the sole one known, is in the magnificent Shakespearean collection of H. C. Folger, and is in the original binding, with the stamp of Edward Gwynn, a famous seventeenth-century book collector, on the cover. But to get back to the first folio Shakespeare.

During Shakespeare's life sixteen of his plays had been published in quarto form, and one, "Othello," was issued in quarto form six years following his death. These, with the "Sonnets," "Venus and Adonis," etc., comprised his "works" in 1623, when John Hemminge or Heminge, who had been the book-keeper (custodian of the theater's prompt books) and manager of the Globe Theater, and Henry Condell, a fellow-actor, both of whom were mentioned in Shakespeare's will, decided to issue for "the great variety of readers" the full treasure chest of plays penned by their fellow-actor. The first folio, including thirty-six plays, was thereupon issued, and it is this publication whose tercentenary will be observed tomorrow. One other play was added to the total in a subsequent (third) folio, "Pericles," which Hemminge and Condell were prevented from including in the first folio through what we in these days would call copyright difficulties involving Thomas Pavier, copublisher of the 1619 collected edition.

TEXT FROM PROMPT BOOKS

That Hemminge and Condell supplied most of the text of the first folio from the Globe prompt books, of which Hemminge was the custodian, is to be presumed. The Stationer's Hall license for the publication was issued November 8, though the printing of the books was probably under way long before that time, and it is probable that purchasers or subscribers got their copies immediately following the issuance of the license.

The first folio consists of 454 pages, with stock ornaments, and included a portrait of Shakespeare by Martin Droeshout, which Ben Jonson praised, but which others have found a sorry affair.

But, "reader, look not on his picture but his book." The book was issued in an edition of 500 or 600 copies at a pound sterling, about $5. Nowadays, a perfect copy of the first folio, of which probably a dozen are in existence, is worth $50,000 of any book collector's money, and the price steadily advancing.

Hereabouts, those longing for a sight of the first folio must, for the present content themselves with the Methuen facsimile, in the Public Library.

FOR PUBLIC USE

However, the time is not far distant when the Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery, where Shakespeare rarities in regal array have found a fitting shrine, will be opened to the public. W. A. Clark, Jr., also owns a first folio Shakespeare, which he is to make available to scholars under a plan he now proposes moving his library from his house into a separate building to be constructed on his home grounds at West Adams and Cimarron streets.

Excepting H. C. Folger of Brooklyn, no individual in the world has a Shakespeare collection comparable to that which Henry E. Huntington has gathered in the past decade of his assiduous attention to book collecting.

At present the Huntington collection includes twenty-nine copies of the Shakespeare first, second, third and fourth folios, including four copies of the first folio. H. C. Folger's collection includes thirty copies of the first folio and many copies of the other folios. In other words, to particularize, two American libraries possess thirty-four copies of the first folio out of the 180 copies believed to be in existence of the 500 or 600 as originally published.

But to confine attention to the folios possessed by Mr. Huntington would, in this year of particular attention to things Shakespearean, leave the tale of the San Marino treasure-trove half told.

SOME RARE QUARTOS

Of the quartos the Huntington library possesses "Venus and Adonis," 1599, the sole exemplar; "The Rape of Lucrece," 1594; "The

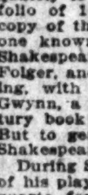
The TEN BEST BOOKS I HAVE ENJOYED MOST



Today's installment of this interesting feature gives the mental autobiography of one of the most celebrated women writers America has produced. For decades Anna Katherine Green—in private life Mrs. Charles Rohlfs—has had a following equaled by that of few authors of our period. Famous mystery stories written by her include "The Leavenworth Case," "The Step on the Stair," "The Mystery of the Hasty Arrow," "The Millionaire Baby" and "The Filigree Ball."

ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

"Pilgrim's Progress" (Bunyan.)
"Little Robinson Crusoe of Paris" (by a forgotten author.)
Shakespeare.
"Les Miserables" (Hugo.)
"History of Ancient and Modern Literature" (Schlegel.)
"The Three Musketeers" (Dumas.)
"The Cloister and the Hearth" (Reade.)
"A Tale of Two Cities" (Dickens.)
The ninth must remain a blank.
The Bible.

I shall have to go back to my earliest recollections if I am to speak of the influence which books have had on my life. At an age when I was so young that I said one day to my mother, "I do not want any-one to be run over, but if such a thing should happen, I should like to see it," I was so enthralled by "Pilgrim's Progress" that I distinctly remember that on finishing it I turned back to the first page and began it all over—and not for the last time. To this day the road traveled by Christian to the Holy City is as well known to me as any I have myself been over. I believe I could make a map of it.

Later, when I was about 11, a little volume came into my hands called, as nearly as I can recollect, "Little Robinson Crusoe of Paris." It was the story of a child turned loose in Paris by an unnatural relative. His adventures as a waif in the wilds of a great city made a strong appeal to my youthful imagination, and when the time came for my first composition and I was allotted the task of retelling in my own language some story which I had read, chose this one. It was my first effort in what afterward became my life work.

Meanwhile, slowly, unknowingly, my mind was being wrought upon by the drama in its highest form. My father was a student of Shakespeare, and being gifted with no mean dramatic power, frequently read his plays aloud. From that time on, the wonders of Shakespearian thought, Shakespearian expression, have held their own with me.

"Les Miserables" comes next. It was given me in my college French class to read or I might not have come upon it so early. Never has it lost its hold upon me. Life was growing very big under this additional tutelage. With it an exhaustive study of Schlegel's "History of Ancient and Modern Literature," which opened my eyes to the whole field of philosophic and imaginative thought. I have forgotten much of it, but the broadening effect it had upon my mind has been retained.

Then came romance, pure and simple—Dumas's "Three Musketeers." All hail to Athos, Aramis, Porthos and the incomparable D'Artagnan!

And here I must mention two other novels which in those early days made a life-long impression upon me, Reade's "Cloister and Hearth" and Dickens's "Tale of Two Cities." The latter is the only story the contemplation of which has brought tears to my eyes long after the reading of it.

Keats? Shelley? Browning? To which shall I give the ninth place? I cannot choose. The ninth must remain a blank, but a very large one, so many noble works crowd forward to occupy it.

Of one book I have made no mention. It contains all—reflects all—the first in my thoughts if the last in my list—the Bible.

RECENT BOOKS

APPRAISEMENTS AND ASPERITIES. By Felix E. Schelling. J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia.

A conceivable reason for the casting of these sprightly reviews of contemporary books—originally written for the Philadelphia Ledger—into the form of the familiar essay, is that their author avowedly admires and enjoys this type of literature above all others. It certainly cannot have been done with a view of attracting potential publishers of his twice-born work, for this alert gentleman tells us that "the skittish tribe of publishers shy at the very sound of the word essay."

Prof. Schelling does himself no more than justice when he says that he is more inclined to appraise the quality of current books than merely to excoriate apparent faults. But it must be added that he does not take these as they come, but in a majority of cases exercises a very competent and cautious power of selection. In the solitary instance where he has neglected to steer clear of doubtful material brought to birth in a vulgar environment, his Olympian judiciousness of attitude and phrase signally fails to function.

This possibility of falling from grace when not self-delivered from temptation is made evident in the criticism of a play written by one Gregory, who, it seems, is either a native or an adoptive citizen of Southern California, and, worse still, his dramatic creation was introduced to the world by means of an unreservedly eulogistic foreword by Theodore Dreiser. In this pronouncement Prof. Schelling brings down to the present era the celebrated query as to whether any good thing could come out of Nazareth by substituting Los Angeles for the Galilean city. For he magnanimously promises that when Gregory has developed "sounder archaeology, the realization of personality, cogency in action, dramatic power, poetic lift, and philosophic vision, we may yet have—from Los Angeles, home of the movies—a superior drama. This sounds suspiciously like making a promise to our ears, but breaking it to our hope. Yet with the vulgarly abounding optimism appropriate to our social station as "the home of the movies," we insist upon interpreting this critic's assurance in a Couean sense and so accepting it without appraisement or asperity.

THE CONFESSIONS OF A WELL-MEANING WOMAN. By Stephen McKenna. George H. Doran Company, New York.

There are certain types of women and of dogs in which each member, in spite of possible ill-treatment and neglect, remains true until death to the man elected by fate to be thus individually adored and served to the utmost, without regard to his personal or social deserts. In the case of women, such men are usually their husbands or their sons, although there are examples, such as that of Miss Mitford, for instance, when the father exists as the idol to whom all else is inevitably sacrificed.

Stephen McKenna's latest book is a clever study of one such woman, who is supposed to have from time to time unburdened her wretched consciousness "to a friend of proved discretion." This, by the way, is the weak point in Mr. McKenna's otherwise impeccable tale, since a woman of the type pictured never has a confidant of either sex and the author ought therefore to have relied on the usual expedient of a diary.

Lady Ann Spenlow was the portionless daughter of an English nobleman and diplomat who left his impaired estate to his only son. His daughter had the choice of remaining an unwelcome dependent on her brother's charity, or becoming the wife of an impecunious younger son, who was her only matrimonial opportunity, and who was a characterless sort of person, earning his precarious living as an ornamental director in various companies, each of which was willing to pay him a trifling salary for the use of his exalted name. Lady Ann made him a prudent and dutiful wife, but lavished herself upon her only son, as worthless, weakly vicious and generally unlikable a young wretch as ever breathed English air. The depths of unavailing meanness, moral degradation and consequent social humiliation to which Lady Ann descended in her efforts to conceal his vices and advance his interests, the manner in which she was at last obliged to turn herself out of the home to which she had always desperately clung as her "fitting niche" and her only remaining badge of social importance

"Cables of Cobweb," by Paul Jordan-Smith, is a ter But Spotted With Subtle Jesting and Mockery at Life's Futilities

BY GORDON RAY YOUNG

Novelist, Short-story Writer and Creator of That Scamp, "Hurricane Williams"

CABLES OF COBWEB. By Paul Jordan-Smith. Lieber & Lewis, New York.

The damnation that will overtake this book will not be that of faint praise. It will be full of defamatory enthusiasm and the zealot's warmth. A nest of hornets about his ears would be pleasant to the sizzling of tongues that will probably fry Mr. Paul Jordan-Smith. If his novel escapes the index expurgatorius, it will fall under the women's clubs; the trampling feet of radicals will do a war dance on it and alumni associations, which are anything but radical, will pronounce anathema.

It touches all the unpopular chords, has the stuff in it to offend nearly all classes, castes and cliques; the title might fittingly be "Ouch." This is one book that anybody can see was written just about as the author wanted it written; I know of no other that is so brazenly indifferent to what makes, or is supposed to make, for popularity, and for such personal satisfaction an author must expect to be heartily stoned.

Without being at all vague or intricate, it will irritate and rather bewilder the average novel reader. It is a serious book, bitter but spotted with subtle jesting and ironic mockery, and much jesting and mockery that isn't subtle—nothing confuses our earnest novel readers so much as a little humor in a grave book—as if some of the most pessimistic and philosophical have not been the wittiest "Candide," "My Uncle Benjamin," "Asmodeus" and a shelf full of others that are better known but equally unread.

I am not trying to compare "Cables of Cobwebs" with these classics; I merely suggest that there is a library of classic precedent (particularly in the older English novelists) for Mr. Jordan-Smith's levity in a book of thoroughly serious design. We Americans have much humor, of a sort, but it is seldom put to a more intellectual use than by Gelett Burgess or Carolyn Wells, but our sense of the ironic, particularly among women, who are really the reading public, as far as novels go, is no greater than the caudal remnant of our arboreal ancestors.

Jeffrey Collingsworth, the leading character, scarcely a hero, comes from a southern family of aristocratic traditions and prerevolutionary genealogy.

"The Collingsworths had been sufficiently at ease about their social standing to be unambitious, and were content with their holdings, the land passing in every case to the eldest son, who, after a few years at Wythe College, or later at Charlottesville, settled down to the business of being a gentleman farmer."

The younger sons became country lawyers, political functionaries, and "occasionally, one more impractical than the rest took a degree in theology." Jeffrey's father is one of those who took a degree in theology.

Jeffrey is guided in childhood by private tutors, and knows some Greek and Latin when he enters college, but little else; he has never wandered far beyond the tether of his mother's apron string, nor read much of anything of which his father did not approve. But in his sequestered and conventional Southern college, he catches echoes of the radical and truth-seeking movements, and, though such things are not countenanced by the curriculum, he plunges heels over head as a forced contribution to a fund raised by her noble relatives to furnish her son an income while banishing him from England on account of a particularly disgraceful escapade, make interesting, if unpleasant reading. We in America may smile at Lady Ann's false social standards, and gasp at her outrageous tactics and deceptions, but we must admire her fortitude and her power of unswerving devotion, although we may deplore her maternal blindness and her disconcerting certainty that where her son's interests were concerned, all inhibitions were automatically waived. But at all events Lady Ann is a gallant heroine, fit to stand beside Lady Macbeth.

This contemplative author's attitude toward the latest, and by all odds the worthiest child of his creative art, is revealed in the text prefixed to his stirring narrative. It is that fervid assertion made by Undershaft in Bernard Shaw's "Major Barbara," and runs thus: "Poverty is a crime and the worst of crimes . . . It strikes dead the very souls of all who come within sight, sound or smell of it."

STORIES, DREAMS AND ALLEGORIES. By Olive Schreiner. Frederick A. Stokes & Co., New York.

Like the heart-stirring strains of a bitter-sweet song heard long ago and now repeated with a different refrain, is this posthumous collection of tales and parables by Olive Schreiner.

From first to last, Mrs. Schreiner shared that spiritual ethos which sustained and directed Shelley and Mrs. Browning. While she lacked the ultimate gift of flowing rhythmic utterance, she was one with those rare spirits, in her love for humanity, her passion for social justice, her appreciation of beauty and her hatred—not, indeed, of oppressors, but of oppression. The burning indignation with which she resented the encroachment of powerful nations upon the territories and the plain rights of "The Little People," was united with a feeling of deep humiliation, because men of civilized races could allow themselves to be so blinded by greed and ambition as to lose sight of those lofty principles which they professed to uphold and cherish.

In her allegory, entitled "Who Knocks?" Mrs. Schreiner expressed the hope she felt for a distracted continent when our intervention in the great war gave her the anticipation of a League of Nations, which might put an end to wars and to the wanton oppression of the weak by the strong.

The final parable describes the torment endured by the unfortunate individual with more vision and a less limited area of consciousness than that of his fellows. The symbol employed is that of a grub which became a butterfly in advance of his comrades. "And one day the lonely butterfly sat upon a rose and died there. . . . None of them knew that he died of a broken heart."

The Huntington library also owns copies of the quartos of the various plays now not included in the Shakespeare canon, as "Locrine," "Edward III," "London Prodigal," "Mucedorus," "Arden of Feversham," 1592, being one of three copies known, and "Sir John Oldcastle," 1600, being one of the same number.

MOST DESIRED BOOK

But to get back to the first folio. In this volume, which in its perfect state is more desired by collectors than any other book in existence, John Hemminge and Henrie Condell, two of Shakespeare's friends and fellow-actors, made the first effort toward a complete and authentic text.

Before its appearance several of the plays had been issued in quarto from pirated versions. In their address "to the great variety of readers," the editors, if they can be so described, remarked that the public had been "abus'd with diverse stolen and surreptitious copies, maimed and deformed by the frauds and stealthes of injurious impostors, that expos'd them." These, they claimed, were now offered "cur'd, and perfect of their limbes; and all the rest absolute in their numbers, as he conceived them."

At long intervals during the next fifty years appeared, with typographical variations, three reprints of this text, known as the second, third and fourth folios, but it was not until the eighteenth century that any attempts at editing in the modern sense was made. Nicholas Rowe at the beginning of that century, was responsible for the first critical version of the plays, and after him came a long line of notable editors, including Alexander Pope, Dr. Johnson, and many others whose names though not so well known to the general public are familiar to every Shakespearean scholar.

APPEAL WIDENS

The work of these critics testifies to the absorbing interest which Shakespeare has for the student of literature. Yet curiously enough, though from the time of the Restoration his plays have been constantly presented on the stage, there has been little evidence in book form of the ever-widening appeal which the poet has made, and still makes, to the theatergoer and to the actor. It was this aspect of the matter which Benn Brothers, Ltd., of London, had in mind when the plan of "The Players' Shakespeare" was conceived by the firm members last year.

In explaining the objects of this new edition of Shakespeare's dramatic work, recently announced, Victor Gollancz, under whose direction it is being published, places first the idea of bringing the theater into the library. The plays occupy separate volumes, which are illustrated by artists, all of whom, interested in the modern stage and working under the general editorship of Albert Rutherston, have endeavored not to produce ordinary book illustrations, but to give expression to their vision of what a stage performance of the play should be and to communicate that vision to the reader.

FAMOUS ARTISTS CONTRIBUTE

Among the artists who have been engaged are Charles Ricketts, Norman Wilkinson of Four Oaks, Paul Nash, Mr. Lowinsky and Mr. Schwabe. Each volume will have an introduction by Harley Granville-Barker, on whose reputation as a Shakespearean producer it is unnecessary to enlarge. These introductions give the results of study, extending over many years, of the practical problems involved in the stage representation of the Shakespearean drama.

Clearly a publication of such importance could not be lightly undertaken, and the ambition of the publishers has been to produce a series of volumes which shall not merely elucidate some of the perplexities of dramatic production, but also combine literary and esthetic value with craftmanship of the first quality. Accordingly, the printing is being done at the Shakespeare Head Press under the personal direction of B. H. Newdigate; the colored illustrations, of which there are five or more in each volume, are being carried out in facsimile collotype by Whittingham & Griggs, and the numerous line blocks are by Emery Walker.

There will be two editions. The first, limited to 100 numbered, signed copies, will be printed on handmade paper exactly similar to that used by the Kelmscott Press; the second, limited to 450 numbered copies, will be printed on pure rag paper.

It remains to add that the text will be that of the first folio. "The Players' Shakespeare" will thus link the earliest collected versions of the plays as written for the stage with the latest results, both literary and artistic, of modern inspiration as applied to theatrical production. In the broadest sense, therefore, it will be a tercentenary memorial which should be prized alike by Shakespeareans, by all interested in the twentieth-century theater, and by the lovers of the perfect book.

RECENT DOINGS AMONG WRITERS

to be published in England. Mr Harold A. Marrot has recently come here from England to gather the necessary information about Galsworthy's American editions. The English novelist and dramatist has now reached the stage of literary eminence when early copies of his books and his "fugitive" writings have a considerable value, simply because they are early and fugitive. The demand for Galsworthy first editions began some years ago in this country and is rapidly growing, although it still is more intense in England.

Arthur Mason, author of the autobiographical narrative "Ocean Echoes," Holt, has been appearing on the lecture platform in New York, telling pirate stories to groups of boys He comes out dressed in a swashbuckling costume, with a parrot under one arm and a banjo under the other, and gives so lively a performance of song, dance and yarn, that the grown-ups as well as the boys flock to hear him. He admits that he makes up the stories as he goes along, drawing upon his inexhaustible supply of yarns, stored up from many years of life on the high seas.

Ethel R. Peyser in her book, "Cheating the Junk Pile," which the Duttons published not long ago, coined a new and interesting word—and a much-needed one—with which to express the modern conception, with its more scientific and professional implications, of the old-time "housewife." "Dominologist" is the term that she has launched into the vocabulary of the country, and it has been very generally welcomed as a valuable addition to the language and to the needs of daily life. The press has lauded it throughout the country and it has already found its useful place. But a professor in Columbia University was offended by it and wrote to E. P. Dutton & Co., the book's publishers, that he considered "dominologist" an "awful and hybrid" word and trusted that it was really a typographical error. But even he capitulated a little later, and said at a home-economics conference that a new word is necessary for the new housewife and that "dominologist" or "domologist" is the best yet!

An eminent British journalist finds Stinnes and Daudet dictating the present policies of their respective governments. Stinnes holds both the French and German industrialists in the hollow of his hand, and Daudet directs each one of Poincare's and Degoutte's moves.—[March Living Age.

Little, Brown & Co.'s next publication date will be April 25. On that day they will issue a new mystery novel by Edwin Balmer, "Keeban," described as "a story of the underworld and the upper;" "A Daughter of the Dawn," by Marion Randall Parsons, a novel of intermarriage between whites and Hawaiians; "Henry Ford, an Interpretation," by Samuel S. Marquis, the automobile manufacturer's former pastor, and one-time head of the sociological department of the Ford Motor Company; "The Fern Lover's Companion," by George Henry Tilton, a handbook on ferns, and "Pemrose Lorry, Radio Amateur," by Isabel Hornibrook, a story for girls.

Henry Holt & Co. report that their six best sellers for the month of February were:

"The Wedgwood Medallion," by E. B. C. Jones.

"Last Poems," by A. E. Housman.

"Love Conquers All," by Robert C. Benchley.

"Human Nature and Conduct," by John Dewey.

"Swann's Way," by Marcel Proust.

"Abraham Lincoln," by Lord Charnwood.

Ednah Aiken, who so humanly discusses the problem of divorce in her new book, "The Hinges of Custom," just published by Dodd, Mead & Co., believes that divorce should be so free that few will care to avail themselves of it; that failure in marriage is going to be like failure in business, bankruptcy, confessing faulty education, lack of preparation, understanding, that rather than free love being the goal to which divorce is tending, it will be to a better marriage, a more honest monogamy. But, as Mrs. Aiken says, that is a long way off!

STORIES OF THE QUAKERS

One day in 1654 Edward Burrough, "a brisk young man with a ready tongue," set out from his Westmoreland home to conquer London—"then a gay little countrified town of timbered houses, surrounded by meadows and orchards." In a letter to a friend at home he wrote: "In this city iniquity is grown to the height There are hundreds convinced but not many great or noble do receive our testimony."

In "A Book of Quaker Saints," L. V. Hodgkin tells how Burrough fared on his mission, of George Fox's power, of the first Quaker martyr, the marvelous voyage of the good ship Woodhouse which carried ten brave Quakers to America in 1657, the adventures of a Quakeress among the Turks, how a French noble became a Quaker, and many other true stories of the Friends of Truth.

The volume is most fittingly illustrated with water-color drawings in the very spirit of the narrative by F. Cayley-Robinson.

People and Their Troubles

THE LAST WORD.

BY ALMA WHITAKER

The Inferiority Complex

It is a curious condition in a country scarcely noted for its national modesty. Yet picture to yourself an immense auditorium filled to overflowing to hear an ebullient lady whose eloquence is devoted entirely to aiding these modest souls to acquire a good conceit of themselves.

There they are, a vast crowd of neat-appearing people, men and women, suffering under an inferiority complex, and earnestly, wistfully listening to this ardent lady who frankly admits she is a corking good saleswoman. She radiates material prosperity and self-confident audacity. She can fill that auditorium any time she elects to advertise a meeting. And she fills it to sell them "classes" at $25 a course—lessons in self-confidence, audacity, personal salesmanship, conceit. And she does it in every city throughout the country. Thousands flock to her "selling lectures" and thousands upon thousands buy her $25 worth of inculcated self-esteem. But she doesn't even give them the selling lecture free—a battalion of sleek ushers pass around the contribution boxes and gratefully, cheerfully, the ineffectual ones drop in a sizeable, tangible bit of evidence of that gratitude which is a lively sense of favors to come.

Nor is this particular lady the only one in the glamorful trade. There are half a dozen of them in this town alone. And they are all thriving. It requires no capital, no outlay, no stock other than that fatal inferiority complex which evidently besets an enormous percentage of our citizens.

It is a curious sight to see this auditorium full of yearning modest souls. They listen with a fearful intensity. They take copious notes. They are pathetically meek and so obviously doubt that the meek shall inherit the earth. But they want the earth, they want power and prosperity. They want that faculty of audacity, that ebullient self-conceit which the speaker is so cheerfully and convincingly assuring them that she can sell them—for $25 at her special classes.

She tells them a little parable about a harassed wife who needs a new dress, who scans the advertising columns for bargains, who skimps hubby's breakfast and Johnny's neck wash and the housework to rush down to the bargain counter, who wears herself out trying to find the dress that will meet her meager pocketbook, who arrives home tired and cross, gives the family a hurried imperfect meal—and is generally a victim of her inferiority complex.

And the moral of the story? Oh, just take $25 worth of lessons from her and the same wife's household will radiate prosperity. She can have adequate help at home. She can go down and buy any expensive gown she wants without even asking the price. She need never be harassed again, never wear herself out and victimize her family hunting for mangy bargains.

And she sees the wives in that audience expand with sighful hope and imaginary glory to come. It is positively pitiful to watch their reaction to this ebullient talk. No one looks cynical, no one sneers, no one dreams of laughing. Amazingly, bouyantly, audaciously, she has sold them their own inferiority complex.

Then she has a half dozen equally engaging stories for the men. Why are they failures? Why are they fretting under piffling business handicaps? Why are they not prosperous and powerful like the men they envy? Oh, because—well, if they will take her $25 course all their troubles will be over. All that is the matter with them is that they are too modest. She herself, she assures them, has only an average brain, average resources. But she knows how to develop them, how to command them, how to sell them in the best market. And for $25 she will pass the secret on.

And that hall full of modest, ineffectual men gaze at her hungrily, with a terrible yearning. How well she knows human nature, how well she understands that inferiority complex. She has made every man present feel that she holds the secret that will save him. Is not her rich red velvet dress a symbol of her radiant power?

One can perhaps envision this sort of thing under a tyrannical monarchy, in some slave-driven effete European country, in some poverty-stricken submerged nation. But that is not where these gay, audacious inferiority-complex exploiters thrive. No, sirs, it is right here in prosperous, free, mighty America; right here in perky, self-confident, ebullient Los Angeles.

It doesn't seem reasonable. But these apostles of a creed of conceit and audacity, self-salesmanship, amiable cheek, are doing a perfectly staggering trade. The country must be weighted down with an inferiority complex.

And I wonder if it works. I wonder whether these inherently self-accepted inferior souls ever do burst forth into power and prosperity on $5 worth of complimentary urge. I can't find any specimens myself. On the contrary, I know one or two people who have taken every kind of "course" that ever was offered, all the way from the mere $10 to the less bargainish $25, and they are still floundering for the secret. But perhaps the ones who responded to treatment do not stand ready to proclaim the source of salvation. Perhaps they have acquired the superiority complex so successfully that they now scorn the ladder upon which they trod to glory.

I am not criticising these exploiters of our inferiority complex. Perhaps they are selling a good thing. Perhaps it is a mistake to be meek. Perhaps modesty is disastrous, perhaps humility really is another word for failure.

And yet—well I also know quite a number of people who by no means suffer from an inferiority complex, who seem to have all the attributes that the apostles of shimmering conceit advocate, who consider that audacity is a good substitute for ability, and somehow they are failures still. The next venture, always the next venture, is going to be the successful one. Former failures are replete with extensive alibis. Usually somebody else's fault, you understand.

And I know quite a number of truly modest people, shy people, meek people, who have made amazing successes.

But, of course, one also does see a lot of "successes" that leave one wondering. Perchance these are they who have shed an inferiority complex under the hearty guidance of one of these amazing apostles, and "when the bashfulness wears off, it shows the brass."

And brass, of course, has a certain market-value. All the same, it is not yet accepted as a worthy substitute for gold.

Question: When is Mother's Day? W. C. C.

Answer: Mother's Day is the second Sunday in May. On this day a red flower is worn for a mother living, or a white flower in memory of a mother who has died.

Q.: Has ice any element of heat? A. G.

A.: Ice is merely water that is below 32 deg. Fahr. in temperature. The absolute zero, at which temperature a body is supposed to have no heat, is 460 deg. Fahr. Therefore, ice at 32 deg. Fahr. has quite an amount of heat in it.

Q.: If a ship is out at sea and it is firing at a target which is out of sight, how can it hit it? G. S.

A.: The Navy Department says that generally speaking, when a person speaks of a target being out of sight, he means out of sight at the level of the gun. A target may still be visible from the tops of the masts and by the firing control system of the ship, the range and direction can very easily be determined, and a hit scored. Accuracy in this comes from constant drilling and practice. If a target is out of sight from the tops of the masts it is necessary to send an airplane close enough to the target to be able to observe where the shots fall and then communicate with the firing shift by radiophone or other kind of signal as to increasing or decreasing the range or firing more to the right or to the left, etc.

Q.: What is the flag of Ireland? J. M.

A.: The official flag of the Irish Free State is three horizontal bands, the top green, the center white, and the lower, yellow. This was adopted in 1922.

Q.: What is the middle verse in the Bible? I. E.

A.: Psalms CXVIII-8.

Q.: How should the name Baal be pronounced? M. M.

A.: It is derived from a Greek word Ball which means a king. It is variously pronounced in English. The letter "a" may be either long or short, and the accent is on the first syllable.

Q.: What material did the Hawaiians use to make clothes before the white man came. W. P. U.

A.: The material was made from the bark of the paper mulberry tree and was called papa. The women used to take saplings of this tree, split the bark, let it float in a running stream to wash out the glue, then take the fiber and beat it into cloth. They used this papa for bed linen as well as for clothing.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES

Bonds Should Carry

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The bond issues for a new county hospital and a hall of justice, and for adequate additions and improvements to the county farm and to Olive View Sanitarium, should be carried with few dissenting votes.

"There is no question as to the civic advisability of adopting the bond issues, one for $7,000,000 for the hospital, farm and sanitarium, and one for $2,000,000 for a new hall of justice, to include an adequate City Jail. Any reader of the newspapers knows that facilities at all these institutions are crowded beyond any reasonable limit, and it is quite apparent that Los Angeles county must make these expenditures without further delay.

Our community is now a world-metropolis, and will not grow less with the years. We must provide amply to meet our civic responsibilities, not only for the immediate present, but with a view to the assured growth of Los Angeles in the next ten, twenty or thirty years.

Then, by the time these bonds expire, or in twenty-four years, the generations which will have had the benefit from these facilities will have paid for them, quite properly, and no one will have felt the burden unduly. If we elect not to employ the bond method, then we must find the money in the only other way, by direct taxation, which, as our Board of Supervisors have pointed out, will mean several years of immediate high taxation, with a levy of 25 or 30 cents for each $100 valuation.

By all means, the bonds should be passed May 1. There is every reason for voting for them, and no good reason for voting against them.

SYLVESTER WEAVER.

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] A perusal of Mr. Sims letter of the 12th inst., at once convinced me of the erroneous conceptions that are held concerning the great law of life, which, in these days we call by the name, evolution.

While we must offer generous thanks to Mr. Darwin for the light and knowledge he brought to the world by his incomparable collection of facts, his width and his power of exposition, and would fain emulate his scholarship, yet to suppose that Darwinism in itself is evolution is an erroneous idea. Darwin in his famous hypothesis of natural selection attempted to explain the reason for the multitudinous forms in which life clothes itself in the realm of nature. Where he succeeded and where he failed is now well known to scientific men; but evolution, the law by which all things unfold, as of old, still reigns supreme in the manifested world. Fundamentally speaking then, scientists can see no possible escape from the conclusions arrived at by Thomas Henry Huxley in his last great contribution to the world—evolution and ethics. A careful perusal of this lecture, with an open mind, will dissipate all illusions as to whether evolution is a myth or a fact in nature. An extract from this lecture will suffice:

"The value of a strong intellectual grasp of the nature of this process lie sin the circumstance that what is true of the bean is true of living things in general. From very low forms up to the highest—in the animal no less than in the vegetable kingdom—the process of life presents the same appearance of cyclical evolution. Nay, we have but to look around us and cynical change presents itself on all sides. It meets us in the water that flows to the sea and returns to the springs; in the heavenly bodies that wax and wane, go and return to their places; in the inexorable sequence of the ages of man's life; in that successive rise, apogee, and fall of dynasties and of states which is the most prominent topic of civil history.

G. S. CROWTHER.

Women Waking Up

BOISE (Idaho) April 12.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Plain, ordinary women are waking up to the fact that securing the right to vote has not given them any rights at all. The franchise for women has only added to the burdens of busy mothers, while it has licensed the political club woman to use the name of womanhood to further her own selfish interests.

The women who clamored loudest for "our right" are the ones who are now, by strategy and winning ways with politicans, taking the rights of the home woman, because, in order to plan for jobs, they create useless bureaus that tax the homes. All this is done in the sacred name of motherhood. If half the time spent in making impractical plans to help mothers was taken to actually help them, the enthusiasm for the "wonderful work" would soon die because the big thing in all this screaming is the job.

Nine-tenths of the voting women don't know about this scheming to create more taxes for the support of women politicians. They don't know that the lobbies in Washington, D. C., and our State legislatures, echo and re-echo with statements that all women voters want whatever it is the women in politics want. The majority of women voters are innocent of the fact that they are said to be ready to back with their votes, those men who do the bidding of "the woman's cause" as though one part of humanity could be more important or any different than the other.

And the baby man in politics who has to be tied to feminine political apron strings should be cartooned that he may see how he looks to the rest of us. Thereafter he is sure to loose for the home women are tired of practicing economy that advisors may be broadcasted in every direction. The home woman will vote for the man who is known to act on the moral and business merits of the matter to be considered, rather than the delusion that the women vote will help him at a future date if the "ladies" are pleased. Such men from now on will be doomed to run on "The Woman's Ticket" because the leading parties will not want them.

Resolutions for all the women in our nation will soon be sent from the convention of League of Women voters now in session in Des Moines, Iowa. These resolutions will not reflect the wishes of the majority of the League of Women Voters. They will not be the result of an independent vote of the national delegates. The resolutions have been seasoning for months. They are simply the wishes of the small circle that runs the Woman's Cause. Then after the national is all over woe be unto the State or individual circle which dares to point out a flaw. This is so well understood that often no further action is taken after the supreme voice of our greatest living women has decreed. Oh, yes, they send out asking for suggestions but that is just a matter of blindfolding because in all clubs the national board knows it all. And the State boards have to help them know it all or other women would be appointed in their places.

Now the next war will not be a "religious war." It will be a woman's war to determine who is to use the "rights" the men gave the women.

MRS. E. R. HANFORD.

COLLEGE OF MUSIC SOCIETY HEARD

The Phi Phi Honor Society of the College of Music, University of Southern California, presented a recital of organ, voice, violin and piano music Thursday evening in the old university chapel. The program was interestingly diversified in content and thoroughly artistic in presentation. An appreciative audience was present.

The Mendelssohn sonatas for organ are among the most famous and musically satisfactory of the literature composed especially for this instrument. Frank Lanterman, pupil of Dean Walter Skeele, opened the program, playing in rhythmic style the second of these sonatas. Bernice Hall, pianist, gave the "Concert Etude in D Flat" (Liszt) with beautiful quality in her melody tones.

Particularly interesting were the two Debussy numbers, "General Lavine" and "The Snow Is Dancing," played by Ivy Goade. She interpreted these with piquancy and sublety, putting into these difficult interpretations a charm often lost by players who find only unusual technical demands in the works of this modernist.

Most brilliant among the piano soli was the work of Elizabeth Copeland, whose clean pianissimo and soft staccato in the "Caprice Espagnole," by Moszkowski, were remarkable.

Margaret Crist played the two movements of the Greif Sonata, Op. 7. This is a beautiful sonata, and it has not been here for several seasons. Chopin's Ballade in A Flat received nice treatment by Mary Taylor.

A beautiful song is "Salutation to the Dawn" (Stevenson,) and it was well sung by Ethel Snavely, contralto. It works from a quiet beginning, significant of the sun's first rays, to a climax full of glow-wartmh.

In her high tones, especially, Frances Orth displayed lovely quality in Chaminade's "Summer." "Le Morte Joan D'Arc" (Bemberg,) sung by Elizabeth Mottern, soprano, showed much serious study; likewise "Le Nil" (Leroux) by Isobel Smith, soprano.

Two violin numbers, "Mazurka" (Zaraycki,) played by Jane Kennicott, and "Allegro Moderato" from a Godard Concerto, by Evangaline Reese, were deservedly well received.

Of course, it was not to be expected that a student recital of this nature would be flawless. There were occasional wrong notes and broken tempos, but this was of negligible importance inasmuch as the students are working hours every day to overcome these very imperfections. Thus far they have attained the ability to play and sing from memory in highly pleasing and artistic fashion.

RUSS MUSIC IDEA WILL BE EXPLAINED

More than ever before an interest in Russian music and Russian musicians has been maintained in song and recital this year. The music of this nation will be treated of by Dr. Bruce Gordon Kingsley this evening at Music Arts Hall in lecture recital. He will give an outline of the history of Russian music, speaking of the folk music, church songs and development of orchestral music, and will explain the reasons for the remarkable growth in Russian musical life. The recent music of Russia shows more real life and verility than that of any other nation. Illustrating his lecture, Dr. Kingsley will play the following:

"Overture, Life of the Czar" (Glinka;) "Symphonic Poem From the Steppes of Central Asia" (Borodin;) "Intermezzo" (Moussorgsky;) excerpt from "The Snow Maiden" [illegible] kov;) excerpt [illegible] "Dance" and [illegible] stein;) "Pi[illegible]" (Glazounov;) [illegible] maninoff;" "The [illegible] sky;) "Nocturne" [illegible] and "Etude" [illegible]

Then there will be [illegible] important works of [illegible] These will include [illegible] Symphony in F [illegible] Cantabile from [illegible] nor and the Pathetique [illegible] Also the Andante [illegible] quartet and "Dance [illegible] of the Sugar Plum [illegible] "Dance of the [illegible] from the "Nutcracker" [illegible] will give the [illegible] overture, the [illegible] sans Paroles" and [illegible] operas "Eugen [illegible] "Pique Dame" will also [illegible] on.

MUSICAL

BANNER CONCERT YEAR

MANY EVENTS PLANNED FOR COMING SEASON

From all appearances the coming year will be a banner one as far as musical events are concerned. The Behymer and Fitzgerald concert courses will in all probability be as extensive as in the past, and the numerous smaller bureaus will be operating in full swing. In addition to these, a new concert course, to be known as the Auditorium Artists series, will bring nine unusual musical events to this city, beginning in the latter part of October.

"The world's great artists at popular prices," is the aim of George Leslie Smith, manager of the Philharmonic Auditorium, and H. M. MacFadden, manager of the Elwyn Concert Bureau, who are sponsoring the series. The nine events will include Jascha Heifitz, violinst; an all Wagner operatic concert with Margaret Matzenaur, Elizabeth Rothwell and Clarence Whitehill, accompanied by the Philharmonic Orchestra; Mario Chamlee, tenor; Maria Ivogun, soprano, Moritz Rosenthal, pianist; Reinald Werrenrath, baritone; Max Rosen, violinist; "The Impresario," a production in English of Mozart's comic opera; and a quartet of Victor artists.

This series of concerts will take place on Monday evenings at the Philharmonic Auditorium.

Ellis Club Program

Felicien David's symphonic ode, "The Desert," will be the outstanding offering on the program to be rendered by the Ellis Club at its next concert Wednesday evening at Philharmonic Auditorium. This composition is in three parts, and included in its rendition are a recitation and a lovely tenor solo. Hobart Bosworth will speak the lines, while Ralph Laughlin will carry the tenor solo part. The Philharmonic Orchestra has been especially engaged to play the accompaniment for "The Desert," with Sylvain Noack as concert master.

Henry J. Schlegel, basso cantante, will be the soloist. Mr. Schlegel is nationally known as an operatic and oratorio singer, and is the possessor of a rich, resonant basso. Mr. Schlegel will render the aria, "Infelice e Tuo credeve," from Verdi's opera, "Ernani."

The club ensemble numbers will include "Unfold, Unfold Ye Portals Everlasting," from Gounod's "Redemption" (Nevin;) "Hunting Song of the Seeonee Pack" (F. Damrosch;) "Kashmiri Song" (Finden,) arranged by Salter; "Three for Jack" (Squire;) "Spring Night Waltz" (Filke,) with tenor solo part to be sung by Harold Procter.

J. B. Poulin will direct the club and orchestra and Mrs. Hennion Robinson will be the accompaniste.

To Sing for Revue

On behalf of the motion-picture industry, Miss Florence Midgley, mezzo-soprano, and Miss Marjorie Ellis, accompanist, will render gratuitous services to the First Annual American Historical Revue and Motion-picture Exposition, to be held in Los Angeles July 2 to August 4.

Recently Miss Midgley sang several solos at the request of W. J. Reynolds, president of the historical revue and of the Motion-Picture Producers' Association, who presided at the World Traders banquet at the City Club Wednesday evening. Miss Midgley is a protege of her brother-in-law, Prof. Anthony E. Carlson, a New York vocal instructor, who has joined the colony of artists of Los Angeles.

In Joint Recital

E. Robert Schmitz, pianist, and Eva Gauthier, mezzo-soprano, will be heard at the Philharmonic Auditorium Wednesday, May 2, in a joint recital.

Eva Gauthier's programs are full of the folk songs of the Orient. She has visited India, China, Japan, Siam, Australia, New Zealand and Java, and she has the distinction of being the first singer to introduce these songs to the European and American public.

Mr. Schmitz, as a French pianist, is often spoken of with Alfred Cortot and Raoul Pugno. He is recognized from his European tours as a player of genius, particularly in his interpretations of Debussy.

The national tour of these two artists is under the direction of the American Field Fellowship Association, an ex-service organization of university men, who drove ambulances with the French armies during the war. The tour is a part of their campaign to promote funds for fellowships to France for any university student who may qualify.

Students in Recital

Members of Margaret Monteville Juny's music class will be presented in recital next Thursday evening at Music Hall, in the Music-Art Studio Building.

Presents Pupils

As a finish to a busy year, John Smallman will present eight of his artist pupils in four recitals which are to be held at the Ebell Club Auditorium at intervals of three weeks beginning Friday evening, May 1, when he will introduce Louis Yackel, tenor, with Eleanor Brayan, contralto. Lorna Gregg will be at the piano and violin solos will be given by Morris Stoloff.

For the second recital Friday evening, May 25, he will introduce George Gramlich, tenor, with Mary Alice Whipple, soprano.

For the third event on Friday evening, June 8, he will present Marion Bean Badenoch, soprano, with Robert Maile, baritone, and for the fourth recital on Friday evening, June 22, he will offer Erma De Mott, soprano, and Mildred Messer, contralto.

Cadman Is Back

Charles Wakefield Cadman returned to Los Angeles on Tuesday and will remain until the opening of his concert season next October.

Mr. Cadman has just completed an interesting and successful tour of the Middle West and Pennsylvania, and is enthusiastic over the welcome accorded him and Princess Tsianina by audiences and critics.

While in Chicago he had the pleasure of seeing his opera "Shanewis" presented by the Opera in Our Language Foundation.

Zoellner Recital

A program of contrasts will be offered as the fifth concert by the Zoellner quartet, to be given tomorrow evening at the Ebell Clubhouse. The program will open with the Haydn quartet, Op. 64 No. 5, followed by a Serenade Op. 56 by Sinding. Smetana's quartet named by him "From My Life," will conclude the program.

Oratorio Society

The Los Angeles Oratorio Society will present "Samson and Delilah" at the Philharmonic Auditorium May 1, with Arthur Hackett as Samson, Anna Ruzena Sprotte as Delilah, Ettore Campana as the High Priest, and Henri De La Plate, as Abimelech.

Ponselle's Program

There should be a thrill for music lovers, musical amateurs and music students in the program which Rosa Ponselle will give as her first Los Angeles concert on May 7. Eastern critics have exhausted all the adjectives in recording the brilliance of this flaming personality, who became a famous prima donna in one night as costar with Caruso at the Metropolitan Operahouse four years ago. William Tyroler will assist her here. Ponselle's program will be:

Aria, "Pace, Pace Mio Dio" (From "La Forza del Destino")	Verdi
"Odorava l'April"	Parelli
"Danza Fanciulla"	F. Durante
"Maria Wiegenlied"	Max Rieger
"Chanson Norvegienne"	Felix Fourdrain
Aria "Suicidio! in questi fieri momenti" from "La Gioconda"	Ponchielli
"My Lovely Celia"	Giles Higgins
"Eros"	Grieg
"Homage to Spring"	Alexander MacFadyen

Studio Recital

Five of Mrs. Lily Link Brannan's pupils gave a program Saturday afternoon at her studio in the Walker Theater Building. The program was:

Theme with variations (Arranged for two pianos by Saint-Saens.)	Beethoven
Mrs. Link-Brannan and Mrs. Rudolph C. Murray.
First movement from Sonata Op. 2	Beethoven
Nocturne in B flat minor	Chopin
Polonaise in E minor	MacDowell
Lucille Stonebrook.
Allegretto	Sgambati
Castilian Dance	Albeniz
Mrs. Ralph N. Harlow.
"Rustle of Spring"	Sinding
"Love Dream"	Liszt
Bessie Mason.
"Moonlight"	Debussy
Impromptu in A flat major	Chopin
Mrs. Thomas T. McCarty.
Ballade in A flat major	Chopin
Mrs. Rudolph C. Murray.

"Discovery" Numbers

One of the special attractions of Grauman's Sunday morning "discovery" concert at the Million Dollar Theater will be a interpretative dance number give by Consuelo Kaelin, known as one of the Wright dancers, with a violin accompaniment played by Rene Hemery.

Dorothy Parker, dramatic soprano, will song "Voi lo Sapete" from the score of "Cavalleria Rusticana," making her debut among Los Angeles musicians. Miss Parker recently came here after an extensive concert tour throughout the country, where she won the highest praise of critics.

Mischa Violin will exhibit his marvelous technique and dramatic sense in Tschaikowsky's "Andante Cantabile" and Sarasate's "Introduction and Tarantelle."

Other artists appearing will be Elbert Veal in trumpet solo; Franz Lisschen, 'cellist, has chosen Popper's "Tarantelle," which is always a superb test for a musician's fluency and technique.

Sophie Fabian, a young Russian lyric soprano, with triumphs from Europe, singing two songs, will also make her debut at this concert. L. Indreani, trumpet, and L. Castellucci, trombone, will play the duet from "La Traviata."

Bollman Recital

Maude Fenlon Bollman presented in recital at the Wellington Apartments Thursday Sophie Simonoff, Helen Hammond, Hilda Block, Elea Urrea and Bess Tallman Musselman, with Ivy Mae Travis at the piano.

Mrs. Bollman lately appeared in a musicale at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Gibbs of Altadena. She is planning her annual recital for May 21 at the Ebell clubhouse and will introduce her unique program entitled "A Song of Life," a descriptive recital.

Notes of Musicians

James Campbell, Jr., pianist and teacher, will give a joint recital with Norma Hewlet, soprano, of Long Beach, during the coming week at Santa Barbara. Several very successful programs have recently been given by Mr. Campbell for The Times radio.

The president of the Beach Wood Seminary for Girls, Mrs. Inez Richardson, is delighted in having Mme. Constance Balfour as a teacher of voice. A singer of note, having studied in America, Paris, Berlin and London, she is well equipped for a wide range of programs in English, French and Italian. Mme. Balfour will be heard in recital as a reception to be given by the president and faculty at the seminary.

A telegram received from Paul Reese, tenor, student of Bertha Vaughn, stated that he has just signed up as leading tenor with the New York success, "Sun Showers," which has opened in Boston. This is the second student from the Vaughn studio to go into the New Yorld field this season and be booked for productions. Miss Alvina Zallee, soprano, was booked for a production which opened last December. Wana Wimmer is playing lead in the performance of "Mikado" at Long Beach High School. Miss Wimmer, contralto, is attracting much attention with her unusual contralto voice. The stuent recital of the Vaughn studio is to be held in May at the Ebell.

Theater Concert

The concert at the California Theater arranged by Carli Elinor for the next week is very well balanced and of broad appeal. Mr. Elinor has chosen for a feature number Liszt's "Second Polonaise" in E Major, and all the more interest will attach since this is its first performance as an orchestral number in Los Angeles. Originally written by Liszt as a piano solo, it is one of the most brilliant and original of his works.

Mr. Elinor has made a charming transcription for strings of Beethoven's "Minuett," with solo violin and duet passages as relief, and it is in most effective contrast with the "Polonaise."

The closing number is another of the "How many do you recall" series.

Whistlers Score

The whistling concert given at the First Methodist Church in Pasadena Friday night scored another triump for "America's Bird Whistling Chorus," the Oriole Whistling Quartet, and Dorothy Edouart, solo whistler, and a return engagement was booked for next season.

Miss Agnes Woodward, the founder and director of this organization, is also the originator of the "Woodward Method of Bird Whistling," the accepted method for whistling used by professionals in California and elsewhere.

In Ancient Setting

Jack Laughlin has arranged a special "King Tut" setting for Dorothy Jardon to work in during the coming week at Loew's State Theater. This is to be the prima donna's farewell week. She will sing Chares Wakefield Cadman's "At Dawning" and other selections.

Under the direction of Riemer, Loew's State Concert Orchestra of fifty will offer for the overture selections from "The Prince of Pilsen," one of the most popular of operettas. "The Serenade," by Titl, will be rendered as a duet by F. Mitz, playing the French horn and J. Dotzel the flute. "Fate," a popular jazz selection, will be the closing number.

De Lara Opera

Indications are that the coming performances of Verdi's "Il Trovatore," scheduled for next Tuesday at the Gamut Theater, and for Thursday at the Pasadena High School auditorium, will be successes. The performances are to be given by the De Lara Opera Company.

In both performances the leading soprano role of Leonora will be sung by Dorothy Grosse, dramatic soprano of Pasadena.

Others who will take principal roles in Los Angeles are Billie Corson, contralto, who will sing the part of Azucena, Miguel Laris, tenor, who will sing the role of Manrico, Harry Ershoff, baritone, as Count di Luna, and Forest Bell, basso, as Ferrando.

In Pasadena, the cast of characters will be the same, with the exceptions of the mezzo-soprano, who will be Vivian Clarke, in the role of Azucena, and Carlo Guidero, tenor, in the role of Manrico.

Minor parts will be sung by Elleck Caminker, baritone, May Montana, soprano, Douglas Cole, tenor, and Edward Brothers, tenor.

Manuel Sanchez De Lara, who is director-in-chief of the company, will be conductor of both performances of "Il Trovatore."

Raisa and Rimini

Raisa and Rimini, premiere dramatic soprano, and premier dramatic baritone of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, will be heard in solo and duet numbers Tuesday evening at Philharmonic Auditorium under the Behymer management. This is the first recital of the two artists on the Coast.

Raisa and Rimini joined their success also in happy marital bonds. This may account for their well-balanced, yet finely contrasted program, which features them in selections for the singing and interpretation of which they have become famous. Raisa, whose first musical love is Italian opera, will also be heard in two groups of Russian and American songs. She sings these Slav songs as only a Russian can give them, while her interpretation of the American songs show her a whole-hearted believer in the music of her adopted country. Rimini is to give the famous Drinking Song from "Hamlet," by Thomas, also two heroic selections by Giordano and Brull.

As a climax to their own vocal art, the two artists will unite in what has been termed the "perfection of duet singing."

In Distinctive Program

Mrs. Harriet Story Macfarlane, mezzo-contralto, prominent concert entertainer from the East and Middle West, will give a song recital and talk under the auspices of the First Emerson Church of Los Angeles, at the Ebell Clubhoue, 1719 South Figueroa street, on the evening of Wednesday, the 25th inst.

The opening number will be "Then Shall the Eyes of the Blind be Opened," from Mandel's "Messiah," to be followed with a song by Schumann, and "To Understand," by Carrie Jacobs Bond. Two songs by Francis Hopkinson, first American composer, arranged by Milligan, constitute the second group, after which will be given a trio of Irish melodies. A group of songs made famous by Mme. Lillian Nordica will be rendered by Mrs. Macfarlane in loving memory of that great singer. A song and story group, in which the singer blends the spoken story with the song, forms a distinctive feature of the program.

MELODY

"Bolero de Concert," for piano, by Mana Zucca (Schirmer.) This is one of the most interesting studies in interpretation in Spanish rhythm that has come out for a long time. Although it is in the easy key of A Minor, yet it is more than of medium difficulty, for the player must be able to grasp the fundamental rhythms through two against three, three against four, or in fact anything against most anything else. However, these difficulties, if such they should prove to be, are rather the exception than the rule in this number, for it is really of good bolero rhythm. It is nicely contrasted in loud and soft movements, although the general effect is of brilliance. There are nice chromatic progressions, but few flights from the tonic key.

SONGS

"Star Eyes," by Oley Speaks, high in G; low in E-flat. (Schirmer.)

A lyric andante number by a popular song writer. The accompaniment is the familiar form of broken syncopation at the first, but works up to a neat climax in common time. There is a nice sentiment.

"Constancy," by Alice Barnett, (Schirmer.) The words of this song are seventeenth century, by Sir John Sukling, and an attempt to compose in the manner of that period has been made. The result is not particularly satisfactory unless one has an unquenchable passion for things classic.

"God's Own Smile," the poem by Robert Browning, music by Roland Farley (Schirmer.) Here is a quiet song of deeper sentiment. It is not long, hence the mood could be introduced for the short time into a program, where, if it were longer, it might be uninteresting. This is the type of song that fine singers like. The accompaniment is really attractive.

"Blue Flower," by Kirk Ridge. (Schirmer.) This song is a lovely lyric in allegretto tempo and "grazioso." It is satisfactory in every way, and the melody, accompaniment and obbligato blend nicely.

All That Can be Desired
In Musical Perfection and
In Beauty of Case Design.

The Sohmer piano is distinguished for the perfect evenness of its scale; the greater roundness and smoothness of its tone—larger in volume and deeper in quality, and with a treble which has resonance and singing quality even to the uppermost note.

Thus, the distinguishing characteristic, "tone," has gained world-fame for Sohmer—and to this supreme musical accomplishment, there has been added the artistic expression in case design surpassed by none.

THE HELPING HAND

"How far that little candle throws his rays, so shines a good deed in a naughty world."

One of the latest projects of Fresno Chapter, Red Cross, is the inauguration of a clinic for colored people at Trinity Center, where a colored physician donates his services one hour a week. The first of the weekly clinics was attended by five mothers who brought their babies for attention. In March eighty-seven children from thirteen schools were treated at the dental clinic operated by the chapter's funds. The Junior Red Cross furnished milk to undernourished children in two nutrition classes at city schools and to the undernourished children of another school, where there is no Parent-Teacher Association. The chapter supplied milk for twenty families who have undernourished children or infants under the care of the chapter nurse.

The will of Mrs. Mary A. Dykes, widow of Joseph Dykes, who was treasurer fo Queens county, New York, for many years, was filed for probate with Surrogate Noble in Jamaica. The will disposes of approximately $150,000 cash. The largest bequest is $30,000 to the New York Congregational Home for the Aged, 123 Linden street, Brooklyn. This will be used for the upkeep of the Isabel Dykes memorial, which was created in memory of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dykes. Mrs. Dykes died in Palm Beach, Fla., February 3.

The Wellesley War Service Committee, of which Miss Grace Crocker of Boston is chairman, reports the gift of 20,000 francs from Wellesley College to the work of the Argonne Association in France. This fund will be an endowment known as the Wellesley College Endowment and will be used for the special education of the older girls being cared for by the association. The money is part of the fund raised by Wellesley College for its war work in France, which was left unspent at the end of the war.

Helping a man to help himself is a constructive piece of work accomplished by the Junior Red Cross of the Chicago Chapter. This is the story:

Albert Franciscus, a newspaper man, suddenly lost his sight. Music had always been his hobby; he had studied the best of it at home and abroad, and he had a large collection of fine phonograph records.

In the hospitals were many bedridden ex-service men possessing a love of music. Mr. Franciscus was engaged to give these men music talks, illustrated with phonograph records. The men forgot their aches when he took them on a "Hearing Europe" trip, during which they listened to the municipal band in the Lisbon Gardens, or folksongs of the Balkan States. It was at first thought that they might not care for grand opera, but they demanded it and asked for repeat-programs. The services of Mr. Franciscus were also engaged for Junior Red Cross groups.

Inyo County Chapter, American Red Cross, Bishop, has demonstrated that it belongs among chapters organized for disaster relief preparedness. It had its first experience in disaster relief operations in February when a windstorm swept across Owens Valley. Thirteen families were made homeless, six persons injured, and eight or ten buildings were badly damaged. The chapter assumed responsibility for urgent need and members of the executive committee in communities in the path of the storm were advised to give immediate relief. The chapter chairman, M. Q. Watterson, headed the committee, which included Judge Lamar, Judge Dehey and Ray Parrott, United States Indian agent. Chapter funds amounting to $1200 were expended in relief and rehabilitation work, according to H. R. Kearns secretary-treasurer of the chapter.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN

Among the servants of the British royal household Queen Mary has the reputation of being a kind and sympathetic employer, but at the same time a strict disciplinarian.

Fort Leavenworth, Kan., has the only organization affiliated with the General Federation of Women's Clubs composed exclusively of the wives and daughters of Army officers.

Under the Turkish law there is no minimum age fixed for the marriage of girls. Any miss who can "walk properly and can understand the necessary religious service" is permitted to become a wife.

Among the Romans, if a man kissed his betrothed, she gained thereby half of his effects in the event of his dying before the celebration of their marriage. If the woman died under the same circumstances, her heirs or nearest kin took the half due to her. A kiss was regarded very seriously by the ancient Romans.

In India there is a rule which says that where there are several daughters in one family the youngest one may not marry until the eldest has found a husband. But sometimes it happens that, while there is no suitor for the hand of the eldest daughter, one of her sisters has a sweetheart to whom she wishes to get married. When this state of affairs arises the difficulty is overcome by a neat ruse. Convention must be observed, so the eldest daughter goes through a mock ceremony, in which she is united to a tree or large flower.

Rescued twice from drowning within a period of twenty-four hours was the experience of Retta Spence, 16 years of age, of Chester, Pa. Becoming exhausted while swimming she cried for help and was finally brought to shore by John Crossett. It was necessary to resort to twenty minutes of artificial respiration before Miss Spence was revived. Later in the day she again entered the water and for the second time strength failed her. Crossett went to her aid and brought her in safely for a second time.

The eight woman members of the Pennsylvania Legislature should be of valuable assistance to Gov. Pinchot in his plan of housecleaning. — [Wilkes-Barre Record.

and John T. Keeley, Grand Knight of San Fernando Council.

District Deputy Louis I. Lefebvre of Long Beach will institute a new council at Huntington Park on Sunday, the 29th inst.

ODD FELLOWS

The one hundred and fourth anniversary celebration of the I.O.O.F. of Los Angeles county will be conducted at Glendale on the 28th inst., starting with a parade at 11 a.m. The grand marshal of the day will be W. J. Royle, and the deputy grand master, Dr. H. C. Smith. Following a basket lunch at the park at noon, a program will be given at 1:30 p.m., when the chief speaker will be Mayor Robinson. At 3 p.m. a ball game will be played by the Los Angeles Odd Fellows versus the San Fernando Valley All-Stars. A grand ball will be given in the evening and music will be furnished by the Hollywood American Legion Post orchestra, directed by H. W. Johnson.

The Los Angeles Odd Fellows baseball team will resume the games for the season, the opening game to be played this Sunday versus Ben Hur Blues at Ross Snyder, No. 2, at 2:30 p.m., Ascot avenue and East Thirty-eighth street.

Comus Sanctorum, No. 216, O.O.H. & P., gave an entertainment and box social last night in Memorial Hall, South Main-street Odd Fellows Temple. The proceeds of the supper go to help pay the traveling expenses of the delegates to the next Supreme Orient, which meets in Iowa in August.

District No. 35 conducted its last district meeting last Wednesday evening in the hall of Rising Sun Lodge, No. 392.

Semi-Tropic Lodge, by special request of Good Will Lodge, No. 323, will confer the third degree on a class of candidates next Tuesday evening at 220½ South Main street for both districts.

Southwestern Lodge celebrated the first anniversary of their lodge with their wives, families and sweethearts in Lincoln Hall, Walker Auditorium, last Wednesday. this lodge has broken the record in membeship gain, having passed the 300 mark and being only one year old.

The initiatory degree contest closed last week in district No. 30, and the judges will hand down a decision this week announcing the lucky winner.

Orange Grove Encampment No. 31, at last Friday evening's camp meeting raised several candidates to the rank of patriarchs in the Royal Purple degree.

Edelweiss Rebekah Lodge No. 67, will give a free dance to members and invited friends next Friday evening in Fraternity Hall, 220½ South Main street.

AMERICAN YEOMEN

Another session of the five hundred tournament will be enjoyed by members of Poinsettia Homestead, No. 1735, on the evening of the 25th inst. at Maple Hall, Fraternal Brotherhood Building.

An initiation and business meeting will be conducted by Union Homestead, No. 2131, Pasadena, on the evening of the 24th inst. at the Macabee Auditorium, Pasadena.

Next Tuesday evening will be social night for Progressive Homestead No. 5934, Belvedere, meeting at First street and Rowan avenue.

Whittier Homestead, No. 1509, meets every second Monday of each month at K. of P. Hall, on South Greenleaf street.

California Pacific Homestead, No. 2124, will give a dance on the evening of the 27th inst., at Lincoln Hall, Walker Theater Building.

Redondo Beach Homestead, No. 5258, meets the second and fourth Tuesday in each month at the home of the deputy, Mrs. Lillian Benzon, 412 South Elena street.

Pomona Homestead, No. 1222, meets every second and fourth Wednesday at Odd Fellows' Hall.

FRATERNAL BROTHERHOOD

The regular business meeting of Los Angeles Victory Lodge, No. 1068, of the Fraternal Brotherhood, was conducted last Monday evening. Several candidates were initiated, and after the business session, as a feature of the campaign which is now in progress, the white escort team entertained the lodge and served refreshments.

Last Thursday evening the red escort team of Victory Lodge gave a benefit dance in Alhambra Hall, I.F.B. Building, and a card party in the clubrooms, the purpose being to raise funds to secure new uniforms for the team. More than 400 persons were in attendance. There were booths of hand-made fancy work and home-made candy. Various entertainments were given.

On the 26th inst. the Santee Players will present a vaudeville and musical program under the direction of Robert Wallace and Walter Rambeck.

NATIVE SONS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

Ramona Parlor had a special initiation last Thursday for the accommodation of candidates whose business would not permit them to appear at the regular meetings of the parlor. Seven new members were enrolled, including J. Anthony Smythe and Edward Gray FitzGerald.

On last Friday evening another class of fifty candidates was initiated.

The Native Son parlors have filed a protest with the Board of Education against the change of the name of the Bandini school at San Pedro. It is proposed to change the name to La Rambla.

The twenty-seventh anniversary banquet of Corona Parlor, last Tuesday evening, was largely attended by members of the parlor and visiting natives. Among the grand officers present were H. C. Litchenberger, William I. Traeger and Edwin A. Meserve. Joseph P. Sproule was indorsed for the office of Grand Trustee, the election to take place at the Grand Parlor meeting which will be at Santa Barbara beginning May 21. The parlor has appointed Hugh Coke as special organizer and will immediately inaugurate a membership campaign.

Bert Farmer night, at Los Angeles Parlor proved to be the biggest event in Native Son circles for several months. A vaudeville entertainment, followed by a banquet, gave those present a very enjoyable evening. Mr. Farmer, who is one of the candidates for Mayor, made an address which was well received.

Past President H. C. Litchenberger addressed the Woman's Prosperity League at their monthly luncheon at the Broadway Department Store cafe last Wednesday noon. He spoke on "The Bear Flag Revolution," an incident in California history.

Von Stroheim Airs Ideas on Reel Stories

What is the right length for a motion picture?

Exhibitors with a fixed daily time schedule prefer photoplays of not more than six reels; directors, to tell the story of their pictures, frequently go beyond this arbitrary limit.

Eric Von Stroheim, the Goldwyn director who filmed "Greed," believes that the picture should depend upon the story for its length, rather than the schedule of the theater.

"If, in the filming of 'Greed,' I was forced to leave out while incidents of the story to get within a certain limit, I would not be telling the story of 'McTeague,'" Von Stroheim points out in discussing this matter of picture length.

"Why purchase the screen rights to this great story and then only use portions of it? Frank Norris was a master craftsman; his 'McTeague' has been hailed by the critics of the world as one of the great classics of American literature. Certainly neither June Mathis nor myself believe that we can tell Norris's story better than he did himself. The best we can hope for is to faithfully translate it to the screen. To do this there can be no arbitrary limit set on the length of the finished picture."

Exquisite complexion is sure, by building more Red-Blood-Cells!

Beautiful complexions come from blood that is rich with many Red-Blood-Cells. Every woman can now have a queenly complexion in a surprisingly short time by using S. S. S., the great builder of Red-Blood-Cells.

Madam, here is just the reason why you have had such a hard time trying to obtain that spotless, queenly complexion that makes half the world drop its work to love and admire! Glorious secret! Glorious, glorious because it's true, because it is based on a law of nature which is absolutely certain, and which never, never fails! It is as old as the hills, yet new to you and to millions! A trial will prove its success in your own case. Beautiful complexions can be made quickly and surely. Beautiful complexions come from "beautiful" blood,—blood that is rich in red-blood-cells. The more red-cells, the richer your blood. The richer and purer your blood, the clearer the skin. The clearer the skin the more spotless is your complexion! It

Miss Margaret Frye, Lapel, Ind., writes: "*I was troubled with pimples and blackheads, was nervous and was losing weight. I took S. S. S. I gained in weight. My skin cleared up. S. S. becomes smooth, velvety. Blood impurities are always pumped by the heart into the face. That is what causes that grainy appearance, that muddiness, sallowness, pimples, blackheads, acne, red spots, and that impossible "something" which no face cream, massage, or face powder can cover up or beautify! The foundation for a beautiful skin simply is not there, and no face treatment can give it to you. But increase your red-blood-cells,—and quickly the ruby tint of purity begins to glow in the cheeks, the complexion becomes venus-like and immaculate! Try it. It will do it every time. S. S. S. builds the red-blood-cells you need for a beautiful complexion. Most of us haven't enough red-blood-cells, even though we may be in fairly good health and have no skin eruptions. Begin using S. S. S. at once, and give yourself what you have been working for, for years. S. S. S. is purely vegetable. It is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

I Set Out to Find the Secret of Iron Muscles Like These

And Found That a Slight Change in Your Daily Meals Will Often Astonishingly Increase Your Strength, Energy, Endurance and Physical and Mental Power

Years ago, I made up my mind that there must be some vital secret that explained the great difference between the muscular strength, health and power of strong and weak people you meet every day. One man has muscles like iron, is full of strength and energy and hits hard both mentally and physically. Another is weak, anaemic and run-down. His day's work leaves him tired out and exhausted and he is always ailing, complaing and doctoring, without ever seeming to get any better.

For years I made a special study of these conditions consulting a great number of physicians and chemists. Science has now proved that your real strength, energy and endurance; that mysterious force that enables you to dominate and control others and win in every walk of life, all depend upon the strength and nature of the millions of cells that compose your body and brain, and the physical strength of these cells depends absolutely upon the food you eat—that is, the material with which they are built, just like a house that is built of boards and mud is not so strong as one built of stone and iron. The most important element in building strong, forceful cells is a peculiar form of iron found in the husks of grains, peels and skins of certain fruits and vegetables, but modern methods of cooking throw these important things away so that today probably not one person in twenty has 100% iron in his body—a most alarming condition.

If you are anxious to build up your strength and bodily powers, you should at once try mixing a little of this peculiar form of iron with your daily food, to help build strong iron-like cells. Surprising results have been obtained in many cases, in two weeks' time. In fact, a former medical inspector and clinical physician of the Board of Health of New York City said to me: "There are countless numbers of men today who at forty are broken in health and steadily going downward to physical and mental decay. Yet there are thousands of the same men who undergo a remarkable transformation the moment they get plenty of iron into their blood." This newer form of iron is comparatively inexpensive and may be obtained from your druggist under the name of Nuxated Iron, to be mixed with your food as directed on each package. Do not make a mistake and get one of the old forms of metallic iron instead of Nuxated Iron, which is a totally different thing. Many a prize-fighter has won championships because professional trainers know the secret of great strength and endurance which comes from having plenty of iron in your blood. It would seem that the average man would realize how much more important it is for him to build up his strength and resistance to disease and go right to the nearest druggist and get a package of Nuxated Iron. I guarantee that you will be delighted with amazing results or your own druggist will refund the full amount you paid.

Luncheon Party

Mrs. G. Horton Singer of Pasadena entertained forty of her friends yesterday with a handsomely appointed luncheon at the Annandale Country Club.

Bridge Luncheon

Mrs. Forrest Stanton gave a bridge luncheon on Wednesday, the specially complimented guest being Mrs. E. Carey of Seattle, who is the house-guest of her daughter, Mrs. Edwin Stanton. Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. C. Q. Stanton that they are now in Paris and will arrive in Los Angeles in June.

Smart Luncheon

Mrs. John D. Bicknell, 1115 West Seventh street, gave a beautiful luncheon Thursday in honor of her grand-daughter, Mrs. John Richardson Stephens. The guests included: Mrs. Stephens's mother, Mrs. Horace G. Gates, and Mrs. Harry G. Stephens, Mrs. Charles P. Bagg, Mrs. Harry Eichelberger, Mrs. E. F. Spence, Miss Spence, Mrs. Bruce C. Bailey, and Mrs. Thomas R. Hayes of Monrovia. Mrs. Stephens is leaving for Lake Arrowhead this week, where she will spend most of the summer.

Going Abroad

Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Rummel and their young son will leave on the 22nd inst., for New York and will sail for Europe on the S. S. Majestic on May 12. They will visit England, France, Italy, Germany, Sweden and Switzerland.

Summer in Europe

Mrs. Henry Dodge Tichenor (Catherine Clarkson) will leave Tuesday with her husband for a summer in Europe. Mrs. Tichenor has shared honors at several affairs here lately with Miss Helen Carden, bride-elect of Robert Perry Johnson. The Tichenors will return in the autumn in time for the Carden-Johnson wedding.

Polo Dinners

Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Hunt gave a dinner in the Palm Grill at Hotel Del Monte for the polo set on Thursday evening. Among those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hately, Mr. and Mrs. Francis McComas, Mr. and Mrs. James Shewan, Mrs. Lawrence McCreary, Mrs. Alejandro Kalme, Miss Louise Burke, Miss Ysabel Chase, Miss Marietta Brown, Hugh Drury, William S. Tevis, Carleton Bufke, Eric Pedley, Richard Schwerin, Col. Winterbone and Guy Cudahy. Mr. Hunt is a member of the Del Monte team which will play for the Pacific Coast championship on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Hughes had as their guests at a dinner in the Palm Grill at the Hotel Del Monte a number of the visiting Army poloists as well as those from the Presidio of Monterey. Those seated around the table were: Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Barrien Hughes, Col. and Mrs. John M. Jenkins, Maj. and Mrs. Clarke M. Chandler, Capt. and Mrs. John Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Dexter, Mrs. Harley Dines, Maj. William A. Robertson, Col. Beverly Browne, Capt. Joe Rogers, Maj. Reynolds and Lieut. Sol Lipman.

Del Monte has been particularly gay during the past three weeks with the Pacific Coast polo championship in progress. The final match will be played on Sunday and a big and interesting gathering is going to be in attendance.

Richard Schwerin, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Schwerin of San Mateo, who has made such a splendid showing this season as back for the Del Monte team, entertained at a dinner-dance in the Palm Grill, of the Hotel Del Monte to celebrate the success of the Del Monte four in reaching the finals in the Pacific Coast championship. Shoemaker-Fleming

In St. James Episcopal Church in Pasadena, at 4 p.m. Tuesday, Miss Audrey Fleming became the bride of Guy Shoemaker. Miss Carol Farr of Detroit and Miss Mary Virginia Inlees were the bridesmaids. Clayton Shoemaker was his brother's best man. The ushers were Thomas Holmes of Toronto, Errot Fleming, Charles Hibbard and Thaddeus Up de Graff. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Fleming of South Pasadena. She is a graduate of Dobbs Ferry School for Girls. Mr. Shoemaker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Shoemaker of Elmira, N. Y. After a motor trip through the Northern States Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker will return to Pasadena to make their home.

Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. William Irving Hollingsworth entertained twenty-four friends at a handsomely appointed dinner at their home Monday evening in honor of Mrs. Charlotte Cameron and Lady Moss of London and Mrs. John Martin Graham of New York.

Luncheon

Mrs. C. L. Waite asked thirty friends to luncheon at the Vista del Arroyo last week to meet Mrs. J. O. Watson of Kansas City. The tables were decorated with baskets of spring flowers.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Carrie D. Hamlin of 1021 South Union avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Josephine, to Frederick Bruce Zugelder. The announcement was made last week to members of the Gamma Tau Delta Sorority at a tea at the home of Mrs. Hamlin. Miss Hamlin is the only daughter of Mrs. Hamlin and the late Homer Hamlin, consulting engineer and geologist. She is a native of California. Mr. Zugelder is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Zugelder of Gunnison, Colo. He is a mining engineer, and is associated with his father in the Zugelder Quarry Company. The exact date for the wedding has not been set, but will take place in the summer.

Junior Bachelors Entertain

The Junior Bachelors' Club, now in its sixth year, is composed of young men of Los Angeles and Pasadena, between the ages of 19 and 26, and are the sons of some of Southern California's most prominent people. Sixty-two in number, they are chosen and elected each year by a board of directors, who are selected by the president to serve during the time he is in office. The original membership plan of this season was to admit but fifty. However, owing to the return from college of a number of former members, the directorate took them in.

A stag dinner and three dances have been given. The next party will be on Saturday evening, May 5, at the Mary Louise, the one following on May 28, a sport dance at the California Country Club, and last a costume ball at the Midwick Country Club some time the latter part of June.

Among the patronesses of this season are: Mmes. H. C. Ashby, William F. Brice, Laurence B. Burck, Herman S. Darling, John T. Donnell, Walter L. Eble, Eric Fowler, Harold Janss, Ethel T. Kennedy, E. L. Lewis, Edward G. Marlow, Nichols Milbank, George W. May, Della B. Morris, Lem J. Selby, J. S. Shepherd, W. Ernest Stevenson, William M. White, George J. Wilson, Belle D. Pearsall and J. Sherman Farrow.

The president is Danforth M. White and the directorate is composed of Danforth M. White, chairman, William F. Brice, Franklin H. Donnell, John T. Donnell, Jr., Jarvis Earl, Reynolds Lewis, Dorman Luke, Cecil B. May, William D. Pearsall, James Stevenson.

Summer in Alaska

Miss Catherine Tilden, attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Tilden of Hollywood, is among those members of the graduating class of Mills College who will return to the south for the summer. Miss Tilden has been active in the social and academic circles at Mills College during her four years there. Together with Miss Esther Caukin, also of Mills College, she recently won the debate against Roscoe Cartwright and Herbert Rausch of Simpson College. Miss Tilden has also been interested in dramatics, and has recently played most successfully the role of Olivia in the college production of "Twelfth Night."

Miss Tilden has been offered a fellowship at Yale University, as the culmination of four years of successful study at Mills College, but it is probable that she will decline this honor and remain with her parents, who have planned a trip to Alaska this summer.

To Return to Southland

Among those members of the graduating class of Mills College who will return to the south for the summer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Modini-Wood, Miss Mona Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Florence Wood Clark and Mr. Perry Wood, together with Miss Catherine Wood of Springfield, Ill., who has been their house-guest, will motor north to attend the commencement festivities at the college.

During the summer months Miss Mona will remain at Lake Arrowhead, where the Modini-Woods have built a charming home, and where many delightful week-end parties have been planned.

Miss Wood's eldest sister, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Stack, will probably return to Los Angeles in the fall, after a year's sojourn in Paris, where she has been studying music and dramatic work. Together with Mrs. Stack, Miss Mona is planning to go abroad next spring, and there she will study both vocal and violin. Miss Wood has been active in dramatic and musical circles in the north during her academic years at Mills College, and has won recognition both as a musician and in her interpretation of many leading roles in college productions.

The "California's" Reputation for Distinctive Home Furnishings

DEDICATED TO BETTER HOMES

The California Furniture Company enjoys a wide reputation as one of the foremost home furnishing institutions of America.

This prestige has been attained not because of the more expensive appointments for the home to be found here although the "California" presents liberal stocks of unusually luxurious home furnishings.

Rather this reputation for pre-eminence has been gained because of the distinctive character of the "California's" offerings which is emphasized throughout all the stocks, even to the most moderately priced.

This distinctiveness, while lending an exceptional personality to every article of home furnishing here, costs no more than does the commonplace available elsewhere. It is a quality for which no charge is made and which patrons of the "California" expect to receive when making their selections here.

An invitation is extended to visit the "California" and view the wide variety of distinctive selections for the home. Value comparisons are urged.

Famous for Perfect Diamonds

THE inherent value of a diamond, its constant convertible worth, depends upon its perfection of color, cutting and quality, as determined under the magnifying glass of the expert.

This is an important factor to consider in the selection of a diamond, for an imperfection which may not be discernible to you, may make a tremendous difference in the market value of the stone.

A perfect diamond is not only a prideful possession—it is a sound investment.

As a definite protection to their patrons, Feagans & Co. confine all their diamond selections to perfect stones. This rigid policy put into effect many years ago, and religiously adhered to, has made this house "famous for perfect diamonds.

The Feagans & Co. diamond stocks are notable throughout America for in very few shops will you find such important gem stones in the square or emerald cutting, in the nauvette shape and other unusual shapes, as well as in the perfectly cut round stones.

Feagans & Co. invite value comparisons.

Very Special: Finely made platinum wedding rings closely paved with 20 cut diamonds, set in beautifully chased, hard platinum, all sizes $150.00

Emeralds and Diamonds Much in Vogue

The vogue for emeralds so strongly stimulated by the Duke of York in making the great green gem the principal stone for his engagement ring, still persists.

Especially does Fashion favor just what the Duke himself selected—an emerald set on either side with diamonds. Both stones gain in brilliancy and color fire by this combination.

The popularity of emeralds and diamonds is shown by the demand for them in all kinds of gem-set pieces, other than rings—pendants, wrist watches, bar pins, etc,—superb examples of which are found in Brock & Company's large collection of exclusive gem-set pieces of their own manufacture.

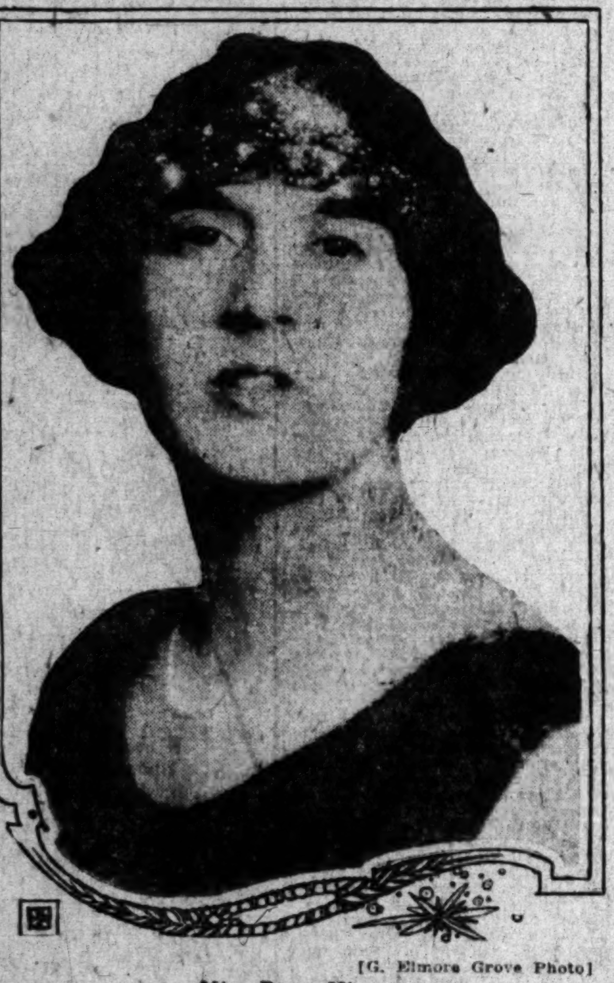
ENTERTAINS WITH DINNER-DANCE

Will Leave for East in Early May



[G. Elmore Grove Photo]

Miss Betty Hixon

A POPULAR member of the younger set, Miss Betty Hixon, will be greatly missed when she leaves in May for the East, where she will spend the summer. She is going first to New York to attend the commencement festivities at the Hotchkiss School, where her brother, George Hixon, will be graduated. She will visit friends in New York for a few weeks before meeting her family at the Hixon summer home in the lake region of Northern Wisconsin. Miss Hixen attended the golf tour-golf tournament at the Midwick nament at the Midwick Country Club every day last week. She is planning a very smart dinner-dance, that she will give at her home in Pasadena just prior to leaving.

of poppies and orange blossoms were used as decorations and on the daintily appointed table. Guests of the club were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gorman and Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Grote. The regular members of the club were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bower, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Lord, Mrs. John J. Granville and Frank Norwood.

Mrs. H. E. Buck of Duarte Road was hostess on Friday to the members of Chapter CK., P.E.O. Sisterhood, who met at her home for their regular monthly meeting. Luncheon was served at noon, covers being laid for fourteen. Among those present was Mrs. Alice Altona, who recently returned from an extended visit in the East.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Yarnell entertained with a dinner and card party on Saturday evening at their home on Naomi Drive, "five hundred" being the amusement of the evening. Hand-painted place cards marked covers for Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Angstead, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hawk, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Yarnell, Mrs. Margaret Marshall and A. A. Carnes. Mrs. Marshall won the ladies' prize for high score and Mr. Hamilton the men's prize while the consolation award went to Mr. Hawk.

Mrs. Donald Sherwood Kramer of Golden West avenue, entertained with a luncheon at the Ambassador hotel followed by a matinee at the Orpheum. Guests invited for the delightful affair were from Los Angeles, Alhambra and Arcadia. Those from this city included Mmes. Vern Ivey, Walter Chenery, James T. McMickens, Roy Chambers, F. Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Treen entertained with a delightful dinner party on Friday evening at their home on Second avenue. A color scheme of yellow and white was used in the dainty decorations and place cards and favors. Those attending included Mr. and Mrs. F. C. McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Walter, and Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Beadle.

AZUSA

Mr. and Mrs. George Belles entertained with a family dinner at their home on Sunday. Guests present included Mrs. L. Eldred and daughter, Miss Edna of El Monte, Mr. and Mrs. George Merritt and son George Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Richard Anthony and daughter of El Segundo, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Robinson and daughter, Gloria May, of Hermosa Beach and Mrs. Katherine Belles.

A most gracious hostess was Mrs. J. C. Muehe Monday when she entertained with an afternoon tea and surprise miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Margaret Crawford, whose marriage to Mr. Owen Callahan took place on Tuesday. The honoree was showered with gifts of silver, glass, china and linen. The rooms were attractively decorated with pink Cherokee roses. Dainty refreshments were served. Mrs. Muehe was assisted in serving by Mrs. Sneyd, Mrs. Charles Stewart, Miss Gladys Post and Miss Edna Richter. The guests at the enjoyable affair numbered about twenty-five.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan entertained at dinner on Sunday in honor of the birthday anniversaries of Mr. Morgan and Mr. W. M. Phillips of San Dimas. The guests at the pleasant affair were Mr. Phillips, son and daughter, Glen and Loraine of San Dimas and Mr. and Mrs. Creighton and sons of this city.

Mrs. Sue Caldwell of Riverside, spent the week-end with her cousin, Miss Helen Taylor. Recently she was the guest of Misses Bessie and Daisy Taylor of Hollywood formerly of Azusa.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Alexander and daughter, Martha Grace, and Mr. Clarence Hasson, motored to Los Angeles on Friday. In the evening Mr. Alexander and Mr. Hasson were among the 500 initiated into the Order of the Native Sons.

Mrs. Gertrude Bear and little daughter Marian of Glendale are spending several weeks with her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Blazer.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Darrow had as their dinner guests on Sunday, Mrs. Darrow's brother, Aaron G. Overholt and wife of Los Angeles, and Claude Browning of Ogden, Utah.

On Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Akard accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Darrow on a motor trip to Hollywood, where they attended the closing night of "Robin Hood" at the Egyptian Theater.

Miss Alice Brown of Pomona spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Adelbert Bellows. On Monday Mrs. Bellows accompanied her sister home for a short visit.

Mrs. John Casey and daughter and her husband and daughter and son were guests of Mrs. Carlton Gatton on Sunday. The Caseys were early settlers in this valley and will be remembered by many here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stevenson and family of Alhambra, were dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. MacDonald. Mr. Stevenson is district Y.M.C.A. secretary of Alhambra.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Culler and Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Spencer and daughter Violet, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stickler of Los Angeles on Sunday. The dinner was in honor of Mrs. Stickler's birthday anniversary.

The annual supper of the Baptist Church was held on Monday evening in the church bungalow. About seventy members were present. Dr. Francis of Los Angeles, was the main speaker of the evening. After supper, a short musical program was enjoyed.

Miss Miriam Hanes attended the Christian Endeavor convention at Pomona over the week-end. While there she was the guest of her college chum, Miss Dorothy Trundy of Pomona.

Roy Hall of Harvard Military Academy and Miss Doris McGlinchey of Page School for Girls, motored from Los Angeles on Sunday to visit Miss Eddyrae Schultz.

Of interest to their many friends here was the marriage of Miss Margaret Crawford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Crawto Mr. Owen Callahan, which took place on Tuesday morning at the Sacred Heart Church in Covina, Rev. B. Dorcas, officiating. Only members of the immediate family were present. Upon their return

SUBDEBUTANTE ASSISTS AT TEA

Miss Elizabeth Brown

One of the most delightful recent events in the subdebutante set was the tea at which Miss Elizabeth Brown assisted the hostess, Miss Eleanor Donan, who entertained fifty guests. Miss Brown was also a guest at the gay dancing party given by Miss Janet Morris at the Wilshire Country Club. Miss Brown formerly attended the Marlborough School for Girls and is now a student at U.S.C. She was an attractive figure at the garden breakfast which her mother, Mrs. Chester Wallace Brown, gave Friday in honor of Mrs. Cordenio A. Severance of St. Paul and Mrs. John Martin Graham of New York. Miss Elizabeth will accompany her mother to Oakland about the middle of May for a short visit.

Society News

from their honeymoon trip they will be at home temporarily on San Gabriel avenue, while awaiting the building of a new home on their property on Steadman place, Monrovia.

SIERRA MADRE

One of the crowning social events of the season was the annual ball given by Sierra Madre Lodge, F. & A. M., Saturday evening last, at the Woman's Clubhouse. Fully 200 guests enjoyed dancing and cards. Artistically arranged floral clusters hung from the rafters and beams of the auditorium, producing a flower-garden atmosphere. Master Mason George B. Morgridge and Mrs. Morgridge led the grand march. Master of Ceremonies Donald B. Ashmore distributed favors consisting of toy balloons for the ladies and miniature cow bells for the men, occasioning much merriment as couples circled the dancing floor amidst the jangling of bells and bursting of balloons. Club women acted as hostesses. During the intermissions dainty refreshments were served.

Luncheon at the Jonathan Club for thirty guests, followed by a matinee party at the Orpheum Theater was given on Wednesday by Mrs. George Latteau, formerly of West Central Boulevard.

On the evening of the 23rd inst. residents of this community will be entertained with a supper and radio party at the Woman's Clubhouse. Local talent will appear at the Los Angeles Times radio auditorium. Musical numbers, readings and lectures will be wirelessed to the radio station now being installed in the main building of the Woman's Club, by Gerald Farman, local electrician and radio expert.

Preparatory to opening the next concert season, Prof. Seiling and quartet gave a chamber concert at the Vista del Arroyo Hotel in Pasadena last Thursday evening.

GLENDALE

Complimenting her sister, Miss Alta Anderson of 423 West Oak street, Mrs. Jennie Hinthorn gave a dinner Wednesday at the Harriet Mae Tea Room. Pink and yellow tulips were used for floral decorations and other table appointments were of pink and yellow. Tiny rosebuds on the place cards revealed the news of the engagement of Miss Anderson and Joseph F. Free. Covers were placed for Dr. Lolita Flewelling, Mrs. Dennie Culver, Misses Buenna Gary, Helen Gettys, Dorothy Smith and Julia Cunningham.

Miss Bess Vorwerk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Vorwerk of North Maryland avenue, and Bardette Rockhold were married last week at Santa Ana. After May 1 they will be at home at 506 Fisher street.

Mrs. Alberta C. Meadows entertained with a smart dancing party last Saturday night in honor of her son, Jack Traffton. Pepper boughs from which were hung oriental lanterns made most effective decorations. The guests included Miss Alice Hill, Lucille Beach, Thelma Barker, Vivian Nay, Elizabeth Walker, Carolyn Ayars, Marjorie Temple, Alice Duey, Marjorie Hart, Beryl Goodale, Henry Grace, Kenneth Hilyer, Paul Cizek, Richard Johnson, Ralph Eckles, Eugene Wernette, Alexander McPerson, Fred Salter and Grahm Traffton.

Members of the Auction Science Bridge Club were guests of Mrs. Harry Powers, Jr., at luncheon given at the Hotel Vista del Arroyo last Wednesday. Beautiful spring flowers attractively decorated the luncheon table. Mrs. Forrest Rogers and Mrs. Thomas Meddick made high scores. There were sixteen members of the club present.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell assisted by Mrs. Ina Randolph, Mrs. Nell Maxwell and Mrs. Amy Timothy, entertained the members of Chapter L of the P.E.O. at the regular all-day meeting Wednesday. The morning was devoted to a business session and after a delicious luncheon an interesting program of music and talks on the Civil War was given.

The engagement of Miss Jeanette McLennan and Joseph A. Wilson was announced last Saturday at a luncheon given at a tea room in Los Angeles. Miss McLennan is the daughter of Mrs. T. W. Preston of 330 North Jackson street and is a graduate of the Glendale High School, having been a resident here for some time. The wedding date is set for June 30.

Mrs. L. O. Carlyle, 621 West Myrtle street, entertained the members of the Navajo Needlework Club with a luncheon at her home. Cecil Brunner roses and sweet peas attractively decorated the rooms. An informal social afternoon was enjoyed by the guests, who were Mmes. M. C. Fuller, S. A. Koontz, J. D. Root, Frank Addison, Mark Carlyle, E. L. Carlyle and J. C. Waite.

The home of Mrs. Roy F. Bancroft, 121 West Eulalia street, was a beautiful setting for the benefit card party Wednesday afternoon for the Thursday Afternoon Club. May baskets filled with variegated spring flowers were placed in every nook and corner of her home. Mrs. McNaughton Barnes, Mrs. F. A. Archer and Mrs. James Cunningham were assistant hostesses. During the afternoon an interesting program was given by Mrs. Evelyn Pierce, Mrs. Thomas Weston and Frances Cline. After the game and program a delicious ice course was served. There were more than forty ladies present.

Mrs. J. J. Liedke of North Columbus avenue was hostess Thursday to the members of the La Amistad Bridge Club. Her guests included Mmes. L. E. Gates, W. L. Andrews, Warren Roberts, Jack Boettner, Mabel Rudy and B. K. Snow and Miss Ann Morgan.

There was a large attendance at the "Federation Day" of the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, held Friday at the home of Mrs. Nathan Rigdon, 224 West Doran street. Mrs. Warren Roberts presided at the business session and presented Mrs. Mattison B. Jones who had charge of the delightful musical program.

DUARTE

Mrs. Arthur Voris returned to her home in this city on Saturday afternoon, after an extended visit in Michigan. Mrs. Voris spent a most enjoyable time, but is glad to get back to Southern California. While in Lansing, Mrs. Voris enjoyed a trip through the Reo automobile plant. Her niece, Miss Jean Williams of Barryton, Mich., accompanied Mrs. Voris home and expects to spend some time here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sarwine of Oakleigh entertained thirty guests on Sunday afternoon at a daintily appointed three-course luncheon in compliment to Minneapolis guests who have been spending the winter in Hollywood. Guests from Los Angeles, Monrovia and Duarte were also present. The large living-room was tastefully decorated for the occasion, masses of roses and ferns being attractively arranged in both living and dining-room.

Mrs. Joseph Fowler and Mrs. C. H. Sarwine were joint hostesses on Monday at Oakleigh, the Sarwine home, to a number of Duarte ladies at a 1-o'clock luncheon. The guests were seated at small tables which were beautifully decorated for the occasion. Invited guests included Mrs. E. D. Northup, Mrs. Charles Jones, Miss Louise Colwell, Miss Rosamond Smith, Mrs. H. B. Woolston, Mrs. E. B. Radabaugh, Mrs. H. E. Maltby, Mrs. Ludie Cross, Mrs. Charles Ander-

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Moore entertained with a delightful little affair on Saturday evening, the guests being invited in for a daintily appointed dinner. Places were arranged for Mrs. Carolyn Childs of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Knowlton, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sarwine, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Woolston, Miss Irma Moore and George Moore.

Mrs. W. D. Woolwine proved a charming hostess on Wednesday when she entertained at her beautiful home on Foothill Boulevard. A most delicious buffet luncheon was served, after which mah jongg was enjoyed. Assembled for the delightful affair were a number of well-known Monrovia and Duarte matrons, and included Mrs. A. B. Downe, Miss Rosamond Smith, Miss Louise Colwell, Mrs. Gordon Maddock, Mrs. A. E. Rutledge, Mrs. J. M. Bashor, Mrs. Carroll Fowler, Mrs. Joe Fowler, Mrs. C. H. Sarwine, Mrs. Perry Byerly and Mrs. E. D. Northup, all of Duarte; Mrs. J. H. Bartle, Mrs. Roger Brown, Mrs. M. R. Conable, Mrs. Alice Castillo and Mrs. C. J. O'Connor of Monrovia.

Mr. and Mrs. Park Densmore of this city were hosts at a delightful little dinner and card party on Wednesday evening, their guests being a number of friends from Pasadena, and Erie, Pa. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Beckman and Mrs. Ludie Cross.

VENTURA

Miss Audrey White was hostess at a dinner party given to celebrate the birthday of her brother Ardell.

Mrs. Fred Mercer entertained with a luncheon at a local tea room Tuesday.

A nice children's party of the week was the one Mrs. W. E. Mercer gave Tuesday on her son Dean's sixth birthday anniversary.

A dance in the near future is to be given under E.C.O. Club auspices as a benefit for the Big Sisters' Hospital. Mrs. C. G. Bartlett, president of the club since its founding many years ago, was given a life membership at Monday's meeting.

A marriage of interest here that took place at Fullerton was that of Miss Irene Hall, daughter of Mrs. J. W. Black, who became the wife of Roy Purinton of Denver.

Mrs. Russell Ree, president of the American Association of University Women, is giving a series of luncheons for her committee women. The first was on Saturday.

Mrs. Nick Hearne was hostess at a large bridge luncheon at her home on Tuesday.

Miss Marion Argabrite was hostess at a prettily appointed dinner at the Pierpont Inn on her eighteenth birthday anniversary. Mrs. J. M. Argabrite chaperoned the bevy of young girls who were present.

Las Amigas Card Club members were entertained at Mrs. Jeannette Mattson's home.

Mrs. Frank A. Jones entertained a number of guests at a party celebrating her husband's birthday.

Mrs. Frank Orr entertained at a large bridge party Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Charles Barnard entertained a small group of friends at mah jongg.

FULLERTON

Favoring the bride-elect, Miss Beth Marshall, who will be wedded to Gordon McLellan Wednesday evening, the 25th inst., in the Christian Church, her former school chum, Mrs. Donald Munger, entertained with a miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon in her home, 315 Marwood avenue. Cards occupied the afternoon hours, the prizes being awarded to Mrs. Arthur Anderson of Placentia, first, Mrs. Kate Peaker, second, and Mrs. Thomas McFadden, third. A book of original verse was given to the honoree, which told of the secret hiding places of many beautiful gifts.

Guests present were the Mmes. Arthur Anderson, Kate Peaker, Thomas McFadden, A. V. Smith, Ralph King, Moore, Raymond Smith, H. L. McLellan, Leo Porter, Paul Green, Leland Smith, A. D. McDavid, and John Ortega; Miss Dorothy Thompson and Mrs. E. M. Proud from Los Angeles; and the Misses Doris Lee, Blanche Jordan, Wanda Jackman, Nina and Virginia McLelland, Mildred Schulte, Ysidora McFadden and Alice Statom; the Misses Ynez and Lucanna Forster, Mrs. John Forster and Mrs. E. Thomas of San Juan Capistrano, and the guest of honor, Miss Beth Marshall. Miss Marshall is the daughter of Mrs. George Forster, 509 North Pomona avenue, and Gordon McLellan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. McLellan of Placentia avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Jaffrey have moved from the California to the newly-completed Benchley Apartments on North Pomona avenue. Jaffray was former secretary of the Fullerton Club, leaving the office this year.

Among the weddings of interest this spring was that of John McClellan Woodward of Fullerton and Miss May Wiggers of Whittier, solemnized Wednesday, April 11 in the home of Mrs. William Prather of La Habra. Woodward is the son of Mrs. Charles Hoyt of East Cypress avenue and Miss Wigger's mother lives in Whittier. The bride, who wore a lovely creation of white georgette and lace, was attended by Miss Marjorie Frickel of Venice, a former schoolmate. Albert Jackman of Placentia was best man. Miss Nancy Handcock of San Jacinto played the wedding march. Miss Katherine McGimpsey of Fullerton sang. Among those from Fullerton present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoyt and their daughter, Marie; Mr. and Mrs. Emery Tate, Mrs. E. S. Gregory, Earl Gage, E. D. Gage, Mrs. W. McGimpsey, and her daughter, Katherine McGimpsey. Rev. W. M. Perry, former pastor of the Fullerton Baptist Church and now of the Long Beach Baptist Church, performed the ceremony. The couple expect to reside in Whittier.

Marking a step in the progress of the Fullerton Community Players' Association, a trio of talented musicians has been secured to act as the official orchestra of the organization. It comprises Mrs. F. E. Moll, 'cellist, Ronald Collis, violinist, and Miss Alla Bollen, pianist. The trio played in the second public production of the association, "Little Mrs. Cummin," given Friday evening in the high school auditorium.

SOUTH PASADENA

St. James Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday afternoon when Audrey Fleming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fleming of Oaklawn avenue, became the bride of Guy Shoemaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Shoemaker, of Elmira, N. Y. Miss Carol Farr of Detroit and Miss Mary Virginia Inloes acted as bridesmaids; Mr. Shoemaker's brother, Clayton Shoemaker, was best man, and the ushers were Errot Fleming, Charles Hibbard, Thaddeus Up de Graff and Thomas Holmes of Toronto. Rev. C. Rankin Barnes read the service, which was witnessed by a few intimate friends, after which an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Kirkland L. Perry, assisted by her daughters, Miss Marguerite and Miss Elwyn Perry, and Miss Dorothy Walton, whose engagement has been announced to William Perry, entertained about forty friends on Saturday afternoon. Bridge and mah jongg were enjoyed by the guests.

Miss Helen Blattner, daughter of Mrs. O. H. Blattner of 1333 Oak street, and Seymour Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ladd Thomas of Beverly Hills were united in marriage at 8:30 o'clock on Monday evening, in the chapel of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church. Mrs. E. B. Walburg was the matron of honor and the other attendants of the bride were Miss Margaret Brinkerhoff of Hollywood, Miss Albert Wingard of Alhambra, Mrs. Harland Beardslee of Oakland, Mrs. George Richards and Miss Katherine George of Chicago, Mrs. Earl Pickle of Arcadia and Miss Ruth Wingard and Mrs. Curtis Bingham of South Pasadena. The ushers were Frank Putnam, Hugh Collins, Curtis Bingham, Harland Beardslee, Benjamin Schiewe, Elbert Wingard, Glen Allen and Earl Pickle, while Harold Curtis acted as best man for Mr. Thomas. The service was read by Rev. Edwin A. Waldo in the presence of 200 guests, after which a reception was held at the home of the bride.

Mrs. Homer J. Sharp entertained informally at her home, 811 Milan avenue, on Friday honoring her aunt, Mrs. G. Spenser Shimmin of Oaklawn avenue, and Mrs. William Bowles of Spokane.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Stellar nad Miss Dorothy Cushman were hostesses at tea yesterday, at the home of Miss Stellar, 1110 Glendon Way. Mrs. Paul Cook of Los Angeles was the guest of honor.

WHITTIER

At a postnuptial courtesy to Mrs. Maxwell Pease, a bride of only a few weeks, her close friend, Miss Garnet Alexander, entertained at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ford Alexander on North Washington avenue, Tuesday afternoon. The affair, which was in the nature of a shower of gifts, was a surprise to Mrs. Pease, the guests having assembled before she arrived. Games, music and other interesting entertainment were planned by the hostess, and a merry time spent in discovering and inspecting the many gifts of linen, cut glass, silver and other beautiful articles of household use and adornment. The guest list included the Mmes. Kenneth Wicker and small daughter Jean, G. D. Hendershot and son Raymond, and the Misses Mildred Dorland, Edythe Johnson, Alice Myers, Janet Craig, Mary Belle Wilson, Margaret Kibler, Dorothy Davis, Margaret Horne, Helen Wilson, Isabelle Aiken and Clarine Powers.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hislop entertained at their attractive home, 517 North Washington avenue, Saturday evening with a dancing party in celebration of the birthday anniversaries of their son Jack and daughter Miss Margaretta, whose natal days are near together. The rooms were beautified with spring flowers and a sumptuous supper was served at 10:30. Those who enjoyed the Hislop hospitality were the Misses Virginia Williams, Katherine Maple, Dorothy Dodds, Ruth Mitchell, Mildred Smith, Alice MacMurry, Helen Lyons, Zelda Hislop, Pearl Leverton, Dorothy Douglas, Armenta Cornelius, Mildred Leverton and the Messrs. Herbert Behnke, Vance Kimmel, Vern Lindsay, Thomas Denay, Walter Wood, Dick Douglas, Howard Gillette, Clinton Harvey, Ned Lewis and John Smith.

Mrs. Flora Hamilton of 229 North Newlin avenue announced the betrothal of her daughter, Miss Louise Henrietta Hamilton, and Mr. Ross Elliott Hatton at an attractively arranged announcement party given at the Hamilton home Saturday afternoon, and she also disclosed the date set for the wedding, which is to be May 4. The guests mere the Mmes. Hatton, mother of the groom-elect; Leo Hale, E. P. Hatton, D. O. Epperly and the Misses Eloise Ware, Martha and Imogene Russell, Mary and Eva Reynolds, Evelyn Reynolds and Ruth Pickenpaugh.

SANTA ANA

Mrs. Harvey Gardner gave a most delightful bridge tea at her home for Mrs. Tibbis C. Hilburn, recently from Kentucky, introducing her to the younger set. Pastel tints were carried out in varicolored sweet peas and forget-me-nots. Meeting Mrs. Hilburn were Mmes. Arthur Shauer, Floyd Knight, Eugene Robinson, Harold Nelson, Felton Browning, J. G. Rose, Z. Bertrand West, Jr., L. R. Kennedy, C. R. Lane, Ward Sutton, C. V. Doty, E. T. McFadden, N. V. Ayers, Peter E. Fluor, Miss Arvilla Ball and Miss Elsie Fluor.

A charming bridge was enjoyed by fifty friends at the home of Mrs. E. S. Gilbert on South Main street, as guests of Mrs. Gilbert and Mrs. Charles Kendall, Sr. Vivid tulips were used in decorating.

Mrs. Samuel W. Nau entertained at St. Ann's Inn with a bridge luncheon. Her guest of honor was Mrs. Adelaide Page Marston of Boston, who has been a house guest at the Nau home at Tustin for some weeks. Assisting were Mrs. Charles P. Boyer and Mrs. Adam Zaiser.

Miss Gladys Burns, who is to marry in May, was the guest of honor at the attractive bridge-tea given by Mrs. Jules Hilton. The guests included Mmes. Jules Hilton, Sr., Elmer B. Burns, Peter Fluor, Ernest Winbigler, Clarence McClintock, Herbert Wagner, Eleanor Elliott, Alfred Ralph, Jack Campbell, Burr Hafer, Alfred Sparks of San Francisco, Mrs. Blaine Gibson of Anaheim, Mrs. John Doty, Fullerton; the Misses Virginia Metzgar, Roberta Dawes, Elsie Fluor, Marjorie Warner, Louise Montgomery, Gertrude Montgomery and Betty Briggs.

The first of a pleasant series of bridge-teas was given by Mrs. Earl Morrow and Mrs. H. T. Duckett at the Morrow home, 1424 Spurgeon street. Mrs. Charles Mitchell scored high, Miss Marjorie Ellis, second, while Mrs. Jack Hayden received the consolation gift.

Mrs. M. Russell Scott and Mrs. James Metzgar received guests for luncheon and bridge at the St. Ann's Inn. Musical features were also part of the afternoon. Many out-of-town guests were present, including Mmes. Arthur Merriam, F. Brooks Cole, Henri J. Van Praag, Harriet Worden, Antoinette Skelton and Miss Lillian M. Wayland of Pasadena, Mrs. Cecil Brisby, Mrs. Lyman King, Redlands; Mrs. Cecil Randolph Lutton, Los Angeles; Mrs. Walter Skillman, Fullerton; Mrs. F. L. Chapline, Mrs. John R. Porter, Mrs. Calvin D. Bartholomew, John Wehrly, Theodore Winbigler, Betty Atkinson, Robert Reid, Eldon Fuller, E. V. Davis, Miss Lida Crookshank and Miss Rosa Boyd.

ORANGE

When the City of Los Angeles sailed from San Pedro Saturday it carried Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Thomson, this city, who are bound to Honolulu, where they will spend two months visiting the various points of interest. The trip is to be one of rest intermingled with pleasure, and while en route the Thomsons will call on Col. Kennedy, who during the World War was in charge of the Letterman Hospital at the Presidio. The colonel is a relative of Mr. and Mrs. Thomson.

Miss Bertha Youngs, who recently returned from Honolulu, was the charming hostess of the U.S.A. Club at her beautiful home on South Cypress street last Friday. After spending a pleasant social hour which included an exhibit of curios brought back from the tropical island by the hostess, the party repaired to the artistically decorated dining-room, where dainty refreshments were served. The following guests enjoyed the affair: Mmes. Hal Brown, Henry Campbell, Earl Crawford, Earl Wood, W. S. Hill, D. J. Youngs, Walter Lovell, Lucien Flippen, Carl Youngs and Miss Gladys Vanhise.

One of the most brilliant afternoon social affairs of the local season was held Wednesday at the charming home of Mrs. George Harper in Nutwood tract, when Mrs. Harper and Mrs. K. V. Wolff of Olive were joint hostesses to the members of the Thursday Afternoon Bridge Club and the La Amistadt Club. A delightful color scheme of pink and green was carried out throughout the rooms, and the luncheon favors and refreshments of ice cream and cakes maintained the same colorful blending. A huge basket of Cecile Brunners centered the daintily ap-

Annette Underwear

Much discomfort has been experienced by women due to a false theory. Ordinary underwear is manufactured and sold on the theory that underwear need not fit perfectly because it is not seen.

Annette Underwear

is made on an entirely different principle. It is made for comfort. It is tailored to fit. Consequently there is no stretching to make it fit thus causing binding and chafing. On the contrary Annette Underwear is curved to follow the lines of the body—big and roomy where needed yet snugly fitting at every point.

Yours for comfort,

Annette

Be sure to purchase by your actual bust measurement. The size is woven into the label of every Annette garment

Annette Underwear is knit underwear sold by most dealers. It is made in both union suits and in separate garments and in varying weights. For Women, Children and Infants. If your dealer does not carry Annette, the manufacturer will see that you are supplied.

West Coast Knitting Mills
Los Angeles, Calif.

Annette Underwear is tailored to follow every line of the body without stretching and straining. Ordinary underwear is straight and is stretched to fit, causing binding and sagging.

A Treacherous Disease.

Appendicitis attacks at any moment even persons seemingly in good health. Usually, however, it is preceded by so-called stomach trouble, constipation or similar disturbances. Often when there is a warning feeling of uneasiness in the abdomen, appendicitis can be guarded against in exactly the same manner in which one guards against the spread of throat infection, because that is just what appendicitis is—an infection in the intestines spreading to the appendix. When one has sore throat, one can often prevent further trouble and the development of influenza or grippe, by using an antiseptic wash or gargle to fight the germs and a laxative to carry off the poisons from the body. Just exactly the same procedure is necessary to fight the intestinal germs and guard against appendicitis. But instead of an antiseptic wash for the throat, an INTESTINAL antiseptic is necessary.

Intestinal Antiseptic.

There is now offered to the public a preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a COMPLETE system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows: It tends to eliminate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacilli in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here.

It is the most complete system cleanser ever offered to the public, acting on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removing foul matter which poisoned the system for months and which nothing else can dislodge. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the alimentary canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and notice how much more foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you. In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach and sick headache, one spoonful Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports From Physicians.

"I congratulate you on the good effect I had from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"I have found nothing in my 50 years' practice to excel Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver.

"I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. Prettyman.

"After taking Adlerika feel better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the AWFUL IMPURITIES eliminated from my system." (Signed) J. E. Puckett.

Adlerika is a constant surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, on account of its rapid, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—[Advertisement.]

ATASCADERO

Mr. and Mrs. James Cornelius entertained a number of friends at their charming home on the North highway Saturday evening in celebration of their fourteenth wedding anniversary. Music and conversation made the time pass pleasantly, and delicious refreshments included a wonderful bride's cake presented by Mrs. J. Protzeller. A number of other gifts were received and admired by the happy young couple, who were given many congratulations upon their achievement of living together for so long a time in these days of changing partners.

Saturday afternoon, the members of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society had a delightful party in the clubroom at the Community Center. They played that each part of the room represented a different nation, at which they stopped for a while and enjoyed some of the games peculiar to that country. The most popular place was Japan, where they were served with wafers and lemonade tea poured from a Japanese teapot by Japanese ladies.

Mrs. E. G. Lewis, accompanied by Mrs. Babcock and little Mabel Grace, has gone to Redondo to spend a fortnight in her beach cottage there.

Prof. and Mrs. G. E. Carlisle and family have gone to Los Angeles to make their home, since Prof. Carlisle has accepted a position in the Franklin High School.

Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Clemence gave a most successful and enjoyable concert in the auditorium of the Community Center, for the benefit of that building. They gave an unusually fine program of songs and readings, each so good that it called for more, and the only fault found with the evening was that it was too short. Mr. Clemence's fine baritone was never better, and Mrs. Clemence was exceedingly happy in her selections and masterly in their rendering.

BURBANK

A very interesting meeting was the last one held last Saturday, by the current event section of the Woman's Club. The topic was "The City We Live In." Those who took part were Mrs. Cora Clark, who spoke on "Form in Government," Mrs. H. R. Coburn whose subject was "The Citizen's Part in Government," and Mrs. C. A. Sherlock's topic was "Replanning Small Cities." At the meeting held yesterday, Miss Jane Thompson gave a talk on "Width and Arrangements of Streets." The subject of parks, schools and libraries were ably discussed by Mrs. F. G. Hutchinson, Mrs. H. L. Johnson and Mrs. T. G. Yale.

Mrs. Roy Campbell was the charming hostess Wednesday to the members of the Sunset Canyon Bridge Club. Her home on Magnolia avenue was beautifully decorated with syringas. Luncheon was served at the card tables preceding the game. High scores were made by Mmes. A. P. Kirkman, Roy Arnheim and Andrew C. Fillbach.

Mrs. A. C. Fillbach and Mrs. C. B. Kahl were cohostesses at a dinner and theater party Friday evening in Los Angeles. The guests were fifteen members of the M. M. Club.

Five new members were initiated in the Eastern Star Burbank Chapter last Friday evening. Mrs. L. A. Davidson and A. C. Fillbach were in charge of the ceremonies.

BUENA PARK

Originality marked the dinner party given Monday evening by Mrs. James Calder for the members of the grammar school faculty of Buena Park. The dinner itself was an el fresco affair, steaks being broiled out-of-doors camp fashion. Added to these was a variety of other dainties. After dinner the party gathered indoors and a message to Miss Martha Patterson sent her from one part of the house to another, following a ribbon trail. She discovered a series of pretty gifts at various points, the whole event really being a surprise shower in her honor. Those enjoying the evening were Miss Patterson, Mrs. John Robertson, Mrs. Miller, Miss Nila Faulkner, Miss Estebrook, Miss Clarisse Carver, Miss Anna Fisk, and Mrs. Calder.

A number of young people from here enjoyed a trip to Brea, Tuesday evening to attend a rally of Christian Endeavorers held there. Included in the group were the Misses Bertha and Mabel Robison, Lillian Bastady, Florence Warren, Dee Calaway, Messrs. Eddie, Carl and Ernest Bastady, Melvin Hilgenfeld and the Rev. S. F. Hilgenfeld.

An evening meeting of the Buena Park Parent-Teacher Association was held Tuesday evening in the grammar school auditorium. Mrs. Earl Morris, president of the Fourth District Congress of Mothers, was the speaker. Her address was on the work of the association. A short musical program was given. After the meeting refreshments were served.

COVINA

The Irwindale Miscellany Club entertained with a very enjoyable and prettily arranged reciprocity luncheon and program at the women's clubhouse on Tuesday. Large reed baskets of syringa and pink roses ornamented the rostrum, while festoons of smilax along the walls were caught with clusters of pink roses. Bouquets of Cecile Brunner buds and for-get-me-nots centered the tables and were also used as boutonierres at each place. Following the luncheon, Miss Irene Harirs, accompanied by Miss Doris Wezer, sang "O Lovely Night" (Landon Ronald) and "Lassie o' Mine" (Edward Walt) and a triple trio of the Covina Lyric Club with Mrs. Henry Damerel as accompanist rendered "Orpheus With His Lute" (Arthur Sullivan,) "The Swallows" (Frederick Cowen) and "Mah Lindy Lou" (Lily Strickland.) Other numbers of the pleasing program were a reading by Miss Violet Brownfield and two interpretative dances by Helen Harris, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Harris. A touching and happy incident of the afternoon was the presentation by the president, Mrs. E. E. Harris, of a basket of roses to Mrs. Anna Meigs, the club's oldest member, whose eighty-eighth birthday was upon that day.

Mrs. F. W. Massey, who has been the house guest of her sisters, Mrs. H. L. Burnham, Mrs. H. N. Webber and Mrs. W. M. Warren, for several months, was the complimented guest yesterday at a luncheon given by Mrs. Burnham. There were present, Mrs. Massey, Mes. M. L. Thurber, Mrs. C. H. Petty, Mrs. George Phillips, Mrs. Warren, Mrs. Webber, Mrs. B. L. King, and Mrs. E. V. Rice.

Miss Maude Blackman left this week to visit her sister, Mrs. Phil Miller of Planada, for three months.

Mrs. B. W. Newton, who has passed six months at the home of her sister, Mrs. D. G. Freeman, returned this week to Reading, Vt.

Prof. and Mrs. B. S. Millikan entertained at dinner Tuesday evening Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Cline, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Paige and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Nash.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Owen of Charter Oak entertained this week Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Tyster of Owensmouth. On Friday Mrs. Owen and Mrs. Tyster left for Kings City, where they are visiting their brother, R. C. Martin.

Mrs. Frank Carroll and daughter, Maud of Tacoma, Wash., were entertained this week by Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Griffith.

Mrs. B. A. Guthe and daughter of Oakland are house guests of the former's sister, Mrs. E. D. Barry, and her family for a month.

Henry Hassheider of this place and his brother, Dan Hassheider of Los Angeles, left this week for the Grand Canyon and a trip of two weeks through Arizona.

Gordon Thow of South Barre, Vt., is a guest at the home of D. S. Hammond and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. William Busbee of Yamhill, Or., have visited this week at homes of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hutchcroft, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Freeman, and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nash of Bassett.

GARDEN GROVE

Celebrating the birthday anniversaries of both mother and son, the friends and relatives of Mrs. J. W. Pugh and Evan Pugh, surprised them Saturday afternoon at their home here. Baskets containing delicious refreshments and two candle decorated birthday cakes were brought by the self-invited guests. A joyous hour was spent in preparing the dinner, which was at 6 o'clock. The party included Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. N. Miller and children, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Pugh and children and Mrs. Frank Halford and children.

A very pleasant luncheon was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. C. M. Knapp, when she entertained in honor of an eastern friend, Mrs. E. Mallor, of Plymouth, Mass., at 1 o'clock Saturday. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Dorr of Eagle Rock, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Christinsen, the J. A. Knapp family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knapp and Elmer Knapp.

Returning Grove people that have been visiting away from home are Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Starr, who have spent ten days in San Diego and vicinity; they arrived Saturday. Mrs. M. A. Winters has returned after a three months' visit with relatives at Modesto, Woodland and Santa Barbara. Mr. and Mrs. Middlebrook have been visiting in Los Angeles for a few days. Mrs. Irvine Germane and baby has returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Noel Hinson of Los Angeles.

Guests at the various homes here for the past few days have been many. Among those noted are: Mrs. W. E. Phillips, Mrs. E. Mayhew, Mrs. T. Mayhew and children and Mrs. Albert Flowers of Chino, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Arrowsmith, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Farquhar and son Donald of Hollywood spent Sunday with Mrs. Farquhar's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hedstrom.

YORBA LINDA

With friends and relatives present, Miss Emma May Wiggers and John McClelland Woodward were wed Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Prather. The ceremony was read by the Rev. Mr. W. M. Perry, pastor of Bethany Church, Long Beach, and the principals were attended by Miss Marjorie Frickel of Venice and Albert Zackman. Pink roses and lilacs formed a beautiful setting for the wedding. Following the plighting of their troth, the young couple were given an informal reception, during which a wedding supper was served. Mrs. Woodward is well known here and among Whittier residents, as she lived here before going to the Quaker city to make her home. Mr. Woodward is from Fullerton, but after he and his bride conclude their honeymoon, which they are spending in San Francisco, they expect to make their home in Whittier.

Thursday afternoon a committee meeting of the Yorba Linda Woman's Club was held at the home of Mrs. S. W. Acker. This club is preparing to entertain all the clubs of Orange county, as the county federation of women's clubs will hold its all-day session in Yorba Linda on May 27. This will be an important event, as the local club will be able to open the doors of its own club home to the delegates. An interesting program has been planned, with luncheon at noon and several hundred women are expected. This coming Tuesday the Yorba Linda club is to have another special meeting, when the members will be hostesses to other clubs in the annual reciprocity day event.

OLINDA

On Saturday evening Mrs. G. S. Hanmore entertained with a dinner party in honor of Mr. Hanmore's father, M. J. Hanmore. It was a family affair and was at the Hanmore home on the Graham & Loftus lease. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Hanmore, Mr. and Mrs. Heath Hanmore and the host and hostess.

A picnic excursion was enjoyed Sunday by a party of Olinda residents from the Santa Fe lease. They motored down to San Juan Capistrano for the day. Included were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Carmine and children, and Frances and Joe Theminger.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Culp of the Standard Coyote lease entertained Mrs. L. F. Lempy and sons for dinner Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Emery Stewart had guests for dinner also on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. John H. Summers and their sons of Richfield spent the evening at the Stewart home.

Relatives of Mrs. Calvin Varner gave her an informal surprise party Sunday evening. They included her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. Armstrong and son, Newell, of Fillmore; Mrs. Frank Floyd of Brea and Mrs. Garfield Lloyd.

Motoring to Redondo Beach, a picnic dinner was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Pope, son Billie, Mr. and Mrs. Cardie Clegg of the Graham & Loftus lease, on Sunday. They were joined by Mr. and Mrs. George Weimer of Long Beach, who spent the day with them. Mrs. Weimer was formerly Miss Ruth Klegg of this place.

LA HABRA

Following the recital of her advanced pupils, the mothers of those appearing gave a happy surprise party to Florence Rhodes Wilson (Mrs. Ashton J. Wilson) Wednesday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rhodes. The recital was held in the auditorium of the La Habra Grammar School, with a large number of friends in attendance. The pupils who gave a series of brilliant piano numbers included Lucile Niemeyer, Effie Siebe, Ruth Hough, Marguerite Williams, Ralph Hendrickson, Marguerite Zike, Marguerite Gourman, Orville Siebe and Pauline Brewster. At the close of the program the pupils and their parents motored to the Rhodes home, where the informal party for Mrs. Wilson was much enjoyed. She was presented with a beautiful picture by her students, this to be an addition in decoration for her new home.

Three birthdays were celebrated Sunday, when a family picnic dinner was enjoyed in the City Park of Fullerton to note the natal days of Lyle Sutton, Eloise Ware and Louise Mitchel. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Sutton and three children, Mrs. M. J. Ware and daughter of La Habra, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mitchell and children of East Whittier and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ware of Whittier.

To honor visiting relatives Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Pickering entertained with a dinner party Saturday evening. Their complimented guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Pickering, who are touring California from the East. In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Pickering those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Ellis of Whittier and Mr. and Mrs. W. Walling of La Habra. Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Pickering have just recently returned from a trip to Honolulu.

ONTARIO

Miss Hellene Kirkpatrick was charmingly complimented on the occasion of her birthday anniversary Sunday afternoon when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Kirkpatrick, entertained a merry group of young people at their attractive apartments at the Charlemagne. Dinner was announced at 2 o'clock and was served in eight courses. Orchids and fernery were used with artistic effect in table decoration. Corsage bouquets of fragrant sweet peas were place favors for the young women while boutonnieres of pink Enchantress carnations were at the places of the young men. Covers at the dinner table were marked for Miss Hellene Kirkpatrick, Miss Helen Clendenen, Miss Esther Epstein, Miss Eleanor Gifford, Miss Helen Chamblein, Miss Irene Minor, Miss Mildred Kirkpatrick, Stanley Martin, Gordon [illegible] ant, Wivian Martin, [illegible] Ernest Kipf, Leon [illegible] wood Kirkpatrick and [illegible] Mrs. H. The young couple plan to make this city their home.

VAN NUYS

Miss Mary Jane Keffer, a junior at Mills College and formerly a student at the Southern Branch, has won the unusual honor of being chosen as cockswain of the junior boat crew that will compete in the annual regatta. Miss Keffer is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Keffer, who are among the pioneers of Van Nuys, and she has spent most of her life here, where she has a wide circle of friends.

Mrs. Hettie A. Dawley, a well-known matron of Van Nuys, has been elected president of the W.C.T.U., and on Saturday was installed at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Louise Arnold of Leesdale street. The affair was an elaborate one and a large number of well-known society women and civic workers were present. Other officers installed were: Vice-president, Mrs. Lillie V. Crosson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lulu B. Fiscus; recording secretary, Hilda Davis; treasurer, Zelda Hunt; Mrs. Edith O. Godham was continued as head of the L.T.L. A trip to the Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle was planned for Memorial Day and a parliamentary contest ended a most delightful and instructive meeting.

During the past week a magnificent hope chest has been on exhibition here by the Woman's Club which has been the center of attraction and which has been much admired. It is to be given as a prize in a contest instituted by the club, and there is intense interest in the race for this handsome and valuable chest.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Taylor were hosts Saturday evening at a most delightful dinner at their pretty home here. Mrs. Arthur Walsh and Mr. and Mrs. George I. Mitchell were guests of honor of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dickey entertained a number of friends at a charmingly appointed dinner on Saturday night at their West Erwin-street home. The table was beautifully decorated and a most enjoyable evening spent. The guests were Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin B. Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Keffer, Mrs. Emily Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Thacker.

The Coming of Age Club held a most enjoyable meeting, followed by a dance, at the Woman's clubhouse on Monday night. The affair was largely attended and was one of the best of the many meetings of this club. The patronesses were Mrs. Charles I. Thacker, Mrs. Emily Kleinhan, Mrs. Frederick A. Kellogg and Mrs. Charles Steere.

The members of the Valley Vista Woman's Club were entertained on Friday evening by Mrs. Frederick A. Kellogg at her beautiful Sherman Way home. A large number were in attendance and the occasion was an exceptionally happy one.

ALHAMBRA

Pleasure and business were happily combined in the unique carnival and entertainment staged at the Woman's clubhouse, Wednesday afternoon and evening, under direction of Mrs. S. J. Kennedy. Many enjoyable features of entertainment including a playlet and a splendid musical program were enjoyed by the club and its guests.

Officers and members of the executive committee of the high school Parent-Teatcher Association were entertained at a delightful tea on Tuesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. H. A. Eckert. Baskets of choice roses decorated the rooms. Present were Mrs. E. G. Harkness, Mrs. T. C. Gould, Mrs. G. Sagar, Mrs. A. Dutcher, Mrs. W. A. Sharp, Mrs. R. W. Rogers, Mrs. H. C. Baldwin, Mrs. A. A. Watson, Mrs. A. A. Lawyer, Mrs. C. I. Ward, Mrs. Frank Berry and Mrs. M. E. Carroll.

Mrs. Louise Harwood complimented Miss Jessie Harwood when she asked a number of their friends for luncheon on Tuesday. Spring flowers adorned the table with places for Mrs. O. H. Schleusener, Mrs. F. Turner, Mrs. H. S. Miles, Mrs. H. C. Richardson and Mrs. H. H. Quinby.

Mrs. E. E. Crandall entertained a number of guests at dinner on Tuesday evening at her home on Wilson avenue. Again on Wednesday Mrs. Crandall presided over a charmingly appointed dinner in courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lease.

Mrs. James Stuart was hostess to the Dos Juevas Bridge Club at luncheon Thursday. Mrs. Daisy Smith was an especially invited guest.

Mrs. E. F. Morrell entertained the hospital auxiliary at a social session Tuesday. A musical program was arranged.

VISALIA

Mmes. Thomas A. Elliott and Frank T. Elliott were gracious hostesses at a smart bridge party given at the attractive T. A. Elliott home on West Race street Thursday afternoon in compliment to Miss Margaret Hannah, whose engagement to Stanley Dickover of San Francisco was recently announced. Beautiful baskets of spring flowers from the lovely gardens of the country home of Mrs. Frank Elliott were effectively used in decorating the spacious living-rooms, where tables were conveniently arranged for bridge. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of cards. Prize for highest score was awarded to Mrs. J. F. Gibson, Jr., while Miss Hannah was the recipient of a handsome guest prize. Those invited to share the pleasure of the afternoon with Miss Hannah were Mmes. James A. Hannah, Dickson F. Maddox, Floyd Cutler, J. F. Gibson, Jr., Nathan Levy, Charles A. Gibson, Rita Murray, Borwick, M. V. Garcia, Fred J. Scott, Earl Lipscomb, T. O. McSwain, F. W. Hunter, R. I. Carruthers, Frank Lamberson, William H. Tipton, Forsyth Bradley, Irvin H. Betts, C. Scott, Mrs. Ernest Kemper, Mrs. James Burke and Mrs. Charles G. Togni.

The country home of Mrs. Porter Davis, near Farmersville, was the scene of a delightful bridge party given by Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Winifred Sims, guests being members of the Good Time Club, on Thursday afternoon. Following cards the party motored to Visalia where the losers entertained the winners with a Spanish dinner.

PORTERVILLE

Monday at high noon Miss Anita Lockett Bradford, daughter of Mrs. Lillian B. Martin, became the bride of William Joseph Ferguson, at the home of the bride on Roche avenue, Rev. B. F. Butts, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Terra Bella, officiating. In an impressive ceremony, beneath an artistic archway of orange blossoms and roses, the bride was given away by her mother, Mrs. Martin. She was becomingly gowned in white crepe and carried Cecile Brunner roses. The decoration scheme of pink and white was beautifully carried out in baskets of Cecile Brunner roses, palms, orange blossoms and softly tinted candles. A dainty wedding breakfast was served at handsomely appointed tables, the color motif being further displayed in menu and decorations. Present were Mrs. A. S. Safley, Tipton, Iowa, mother of the groom; Mrs. Lillian B. Martin, mother of the bride; Rev. B. F. Butts; Irvin Bradford, brother of the bride; Adaline and Alister Martin, sister and brother of the bride, and Mrs. H. A. Peterson, an intimate friend.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson left immediately by motor for Southern California for a brief honeymoon, following which they will be at home to their friends in the Belleview Apartments. The groom owns an orange grove in Vandalia district, where he plans to later erect a home for himself and bride. Mrs. Ferguson was the incentive of a number of delightful prenuptial entertainments, taking the form of showers in which she received many handsome and useful gifts. In this marriage are united two of Porterville's most popular members of the younger set.

UPLAND

Mrs. and Mrs. John G. Jacobs entertained Tuesday evening at their home in Euclid avenue at cards and supper. Graceful bouquets of snowballs and lilacs were used with artistic effect in the adornment of the rooms. Prizes at the card tournament were awarded Mrs. H. G. Humble and Mrs. Charles A. Bell. Supper followed the games. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cushing, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Head, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Couch, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Humble and Mr. and Mrs. John G. Jacobs.

The home of Mrs. Thomas Harris, 517 East Twelfth street, was the scene of a pleasant affair Friday afternoon, when she entertained informally at tea. Roses were used in decoration. The early portion of the afternoon was devoted to fancywork and chat, and toward its close a tempting collation was served. Mrs. Harris was assisted by her daughters, the Misses Elizabeth and Margaret Harris. The guests numbered Mrs. George Aaron Brest, Mrs. George B. Bower, Mrs. Mark Bailey, Mrs. Paul Cushing, Mrs. William B. Duncan, Mrs. Chad K. Francisco, Mrs. George Gregg, Mrs. Perry O. Long, Mrs. C. D. Morrison, Mrs. Fletcher H. Manker, Mrs. N. G. LINDSAY

Word has been received here of the marriage of Edward Brown and Miss Cleo Gray at Santa Ana last Saturday. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gray of Long Beach. Mr. Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Brown of 755 North Sweet Brian avenue of this city. He is employed in the Signal Hill district. Mr. and Mrs. Brown will be at home to their friends at 1424 Cherry avenue, Long Beach.

Mrs. C. J. Carle, president of the Tuesday Club, entertained the executive board of the club at her country home west of Lindsay Tuesday afternoon. Following the business session a social hour was enjoyed, during which dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. Those present were Mmes. W. B. Kiggens, C. E. Henderson, W. S. Cairns, Z. E. Page, J. B. Frisbee and C. H. Boardman.

Mmes. C. S. Rupert and D. H. Davidson were hostesses to about forty-five guests Tuesday at a smart bridge luncheon at the Tulare County Golf and Country Club east of Strathmore. Baskets of spring flowers and ferns were artistically banked about the attractive rooms. Mrs. Earl Smith won prize for high score and Mrs. Herbert Davis of Los Angeles received the consolation prize.

John G. Anderson has announced the marriage of his niece, Henrietta Olivia Pratt, to Montague White. The ceremony was solemnized at the Episcopal Pro-Cathedral in Fresno on Wednesday, April 11, at high noon, by the Rt. Rev. L. C. Sanford, bishop of the San Joaquin district. Only members of the immediate family witnessed the impressive service.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Inns entertained a number of guests recently at a delightful dinner party at their attractive home on Mirage avenue. Cards formed the diversion. High score was won by Mrs. Harry Nutt and Norman Cairns.

IMPERIAL VALLEY

Mrs. W. H. Lavayea, Mrs. T. H. Gebbie and Mrs. Frank Mover were hostesses at an elaborate bridge party Saturday afternoon, the second of a series of springtime parties with which they are entertaining members of El Centro's social set. The home of Mrs. Lavayea on Sandalwood Drive was beautifully decorated for the affair, a charming color scheme of purple and gold being carried out with purple irises, Scotch broom and other spring flowers. The prize scores of the afternoon were made by Mrs. Arthur Edgar, Mrs. William Fleming, Mrs. Rodney Hermon and Miss Ione Sammons. Other guests who attended the party were Mrs. W. W. Apple, Mrs. Ross T. Hickcox, Mrs. E. L. Garthwaite, Mrs. F. B. Fuller, Mrs. Dorsey Whitelaw, Mrs. L. C. House, Mrs. C. E. Coggins, Mrs. Gilbert Preston, Mrs. J. R. Garren, Mrs. C. H. Teas and Receptions

C. E. Harper, R. J. Young and H. A. Charters.

Mrs. W. H. Hardaway was the incentive of a delightful surprise party at her home in Tulare on Sunday, the occasion marking the anniversary of her birth. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. D. Singleton, Mr. and Mrs. Hooks, Mrs. J. O. Frazier, Mrs. Lucy Blankenship, D. O. Dunn, W. C. Cantrell and Rev. McClung, Mrs. Mary Stewart, Robert Stewart and family and Mr. Shanks of Porterville and Ray Hardaway of Corcoran.

An interesting meeting of the Delphian Study Group was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. P. Labarriere. The principal subject for discussion was led by a paper on the work of D'Annunzio by Mrs. Robert Young. Refreshments were served by the hostess following the study.

The "mystery dance" given by the Girls' Auxiliary of the Woman's Club at the clubhouse Friday night proved one of the merriest parties of the season and was featured by many laughable suggestions of age and superstition.

FRESNO

At the J. W. McAllister home on North Van Ness avenue, Mrs. Dudley S. Bates and Mrs. McAllister were hostesses Wednesday afternoon at an elaborately appointed tea. The rooms were decorated with large bouquets made of several varieties of spring flowers artistically combined. In the dining-room Mrs. Carlos K. McClatchy and Mrs. Gerald F. Thomas presided over the tea table. Other friends assisting were Mrs. Herbert Gundelfinger, Mrs. J. Blaine Rogers, Mrs. George Weber, Mrs. Geoffrey Bell of Madera, Mrs. Harold Cushman Lewis, Miss Margaret Cory and Miss Dorothy Forsyth. More than 100 guests were invited.

Mrs. T. M. Hayden was the hostess at a large bridge party at her home on Amador street, Tuesday afternoon. She entertained a group of forty friends. Spring flowers adorned the rooms where the guests enjoyed the card games.

Mrs. Frank H. Short was the hostess at a dinner party at her home Wednesday evening. The after-dinner hours were passed at the theater. The affair was in honor of Mrs. E. E. Manheim, who is planning to leave in the summer for a year abroad. Mrs. Short's hospitality was extended to fourteen guests.

Miss Frankye Reid of Hickman, Ky., a house guest at the Fay A. Hines home, was complimented Tuesday afternoon with a bridge party given by Mrs. Ernest Stedman at her home. On Monday afternoon Mrs. Stedman entertained a group of friends with bridge.

The Midweek Bridge Club met Thursday with Mrs. Theodore M. Stuart as hostess, at her home on Kerckhoff avenue.

Tuesday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Vanderburgh, the members of the Tuesday Card Club entertained their husbands with a dinner and bridge party. A pretty arrangement of wild flowers was in the center of the large table. Covers were lai dfor Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Moulton, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Ratcliff, Mr. and Mrs. Wheaton Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Mortland and Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Leslie.

Mr. and Mrs. William O. Blasingame entertained a small group of friends with a dinner and bridge Monday evening at their home.

Mrs. Glenn T. Willis and Mrs. John R. Turner entertained Wednesday afternoon with a bridge party at the home of the former. Forty guests participated in the games. Snapdragons, syringa, roses and sweet peas were used for decorations. On Tuesday another group of friends enjoyed the afternoon as guests of Mrs. Willis and Mrs. Turner.

OXNARD

Members of the Embroidery Club and two substitutes were entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Percy Dennis at her home on C street. Instead of devoting the afternoon to needlework, the ladies played mah jongg and to Mrse. Alpha Adams went the prize, which was a cunning mint sauce dish of Chinese pattern. Mrs. Dennis served lovely refreshments, a number of Chinese dishes being on the menu. Mrs. Alpha Adams and Mrs. H. C. Marvin were present as substitutes.

A delightful children's May Day picnic was given by the members of the Somis Thursday Club at Seaside Park in Ventura yesterday. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. R. W. Lefevre, Mrs. Ralph Milligan, Mrs. C. Grether and Mrs. H. F. Rey.

Members of the O.D.T. Sewing Club were entertained very delightfully Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Frank Wasserman, her home being prettily decorated with various flowers of the season. Late in the afternoon delightful refreshments were served. Mrs. A. Rummelsburg, mother of Mrs. Wasserman, was present in addition to the club members.

Mrs. Raymond Old returned home last week from Madera, where she was called a month ago by the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. G. M. Underwood, who is now oft of danger.

E. C. Tiffany of Hollister is a guest at the C. F. Blackstock home, coming here to join his wife who is visiting her parents.

The Oxnard Monday Club enjoyed an afternoon devoted to drama and music last week. Part one of the program was a comedy, 'Suppressed Desires," presented under the able supervision of Mrs. F. S. Beaman, president of the Ojai Valley Women's Club. Part two of the program was presented by W. C. Pattison, who gave a very instructive talk on the American Folk song. She was assisted by the following, Miss Ivah Downhour, James Whalen, Miss Prowell, Mrs. F. C. Lee, Mrs. R. Stohrer, Mrs. F. E. Booth, Mrs. W. D. Bannister, Mrs. E. W. Roby, Mrs. N. C. The reception committee was Mrs. Robert Lefevre, Mrs. Guthrie Clark and Mrs. D. Baptiste. The annual election of officers for the ensuing year was held with the following results: President, Mrs. M. E. Cheney; vice-president, Mrs. Ray Snively; recording secretary, Mrs. F. C. Lee; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. Afwood; treasurer, Mrs. F. B. Pettis; directors, Mrs. Herman Zitkowski, Mrs. M. G. Walker, Mrs. E. Cooper, Mrs. Charles Weaver and Mrs. W. Mark Durley.

Wednesday evening the Square and Compass Club entertained its members, members of the Oxnard Lodge, No. 341, F. & A. M., and visiting Masons at a 6:30 dinner and smoker. The Square and Compass Club took over the social and educational activities of the Masonic lodge, and this meeting was the first of a series of important gatherings to be held once each month. The speaker for the occasion was Louis C. Drapeau, past master of Ventura Masonic Lodge, and a prominent attorney of that city.

Stealing a march on their many friends in this city, Miss Belle Elwell and Robert J. Regli went to Los Angeles last week and were quietly married by Father John J. Clifford, former pastor of Santa Clara Church here. Plans of the couple regarding the wedding had been kept a secret and only the families of the two knew of the approaching event.

PASO ROBLES

The Paso Robles Shrine Club dance, which was held Saturday evening in the ballroom of the Paso Robles Hotel, stands out as one of the most brilliant affairs of the year. Members and guests from all parts of the county were present. Frank Williams entertained the gathering with a monologue, "Micawber's Advice to Young Married People," from Dickens, and Walter Hughes and W. A. Funk gave a duet, which was heartily encored, and Byron Morgan gave violin selections.

A wedding of much interest in this community took place on Saturday at St. Mary's Catholic Church in San Francisco, when Miss Helen Forington became the bride of Mr. Stewart Hines of San Francisco. On account of the recent death of the bride's father, the wedding was very quiet, with only members of the family present. The bride has been a resident of this city for years, and is a very popular member of the younger set here. Mr. and Mrs. Hines are spending a honeymoon of several weeks motoring in the southern part of the State.

Mrs. C. J. Trussler entertained the members of St. James Guild on Thursday afternoon, when a pleasant afternoon was spent.

Mrs. G. W. Tape has returned from a four months' visit to various European cities.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kelker, who have been spending the winter with their son, Dr. G. D. Kelker, have returned to their home in Colorado.

SAN LUIS OBISPO

The Misses Noreen and Eleanor Gibson entertained a group of friends Saturday evening with a wiener bake at Pismo Beach, after which the party returned to the Gibson home on Pismo street, where the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

A wedding of much interest took place in Fresno on Tuesday morning, when Miss Katherine Allen and Henry Pezzoni, both of this city, were married at the parsonage of the First Christian Church, with the Rev. Mr. Hutt officiating. Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Allen of Tulare, parents of the bride, and Mrs. Pezzoni of San Jose, mother of the bridegroom, were the only witnesses. A wedding breakfast was served in the Hotel Fresno after the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Pezzoni left on a wedding trip that will take them through the southern part of the State.

Officers were elected at the meeting of the Druid Circle on Monday night as follows: Rose Terry, arch druidess; Dell Canet, first bard; Mary Pezzoni, second bard; Rosa Poletti, conductress; John Estrada, conductor; Clara Villa, secretary; Clelia Genardini, treasurer; Gladys Fournier, inside doorkeeper; Anita Genardini, outside doorkeeper; Gladys Shurragar, chaplain; Mrs. F. L. Butts, organist; Helen Lopez, A. Tognazzini, trustees; A. P. Poletti, auditor.

Mrs. Madge Kieran and E. E. Horn, well-known young people of this city, were married Sunday morning at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. D. A. Klink of Santa Maria. The service was read by the Rev. E. F. Mueller, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of this city, in the presence of members of the immediate family. Immediately after the breakfast which followed the ceremony, the couple left for a wedding trip through the northern part of the State. On their return in about two weeks they will reside in the Warden Apartments. The bride was dressed in a gray silk crepe knit dress with shoes, hose and gloves to match, with a hat of orchid tulle. Her going-away suit was a Harding-blue tailleur.

SANTA PAULA

Genlemen's night of the Ebell has become an annual institution, eagerly anticipated and thoroughly enjoyed. This year the drama section of the club, under whose auspices gentlemen's night is held each year, presented "Belinda," an April Folly in three acts, by A. A. Milne. Miss Mary Boynton directed the clever amateur production, given by a cast of six including Mrs. Edward Loftus, Mrs. Clair Kirk, Mrs. Douglas McPhee, Messrs E. O. Wakeford, Edward Loftus and Douglas McPhee. Through the courtesy of the high school trustees the play was given on the high school stage, since that auditorium holds several hundred more than does the clubhouse, and was filled to capacity.

Fifty-six members of the Foster family met for a reunion at the Walter Sexton home in the Mound district, when relatives gathered from Santa Paula, Ventura, Goleta, Montebello and Santa Barbara. Of this pioneer family in California there were present for the reunion the following members of the original pioneer family: E. P. Foster, the Ventura philanthropist; F. A. Foster of Santa Paula and F. C. Foster of the Santa Paula Canyon and Mrs. Lucy Foster Sexton of Goleta. All of the others were children, grandchildren or great-grandchildren of the original group. A barbecue dinner was served under the oak trees of the Sexton ranch.

The initial journey of a nine months' trip to Europe was made on Tuesday, when Mrs. Maude Thomas of Santa Paula left from Los Angeles for New Orleans. She will go from there to Washington, D. C., then to Schenectady and Alexandria Bay, N. Y., and from there, in mid-June to Europe, sailing on the "Mauretania." Mrs. Thomas will return to her California home about the first of next year.

A turkey dinner for ninety was served on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Perlee for the members of the Artistic Society with Mmes. Perlee, Lincoln and John Timme as hostesses. The dinner was given on the Oak Ridge, and in the evening the guests listened to a radio concert at the Timme home.

THINK COMING. YES! NO!

M. ELLA HARRIS,
IS IN HOLLYWOOD
1531 N. BRONSON AVE.

"BRADBURY BLDG.,
"LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 20.
"M. ELLA HARRIS' WORK ALONG THE LINE OF FACIAL BLEMISHES IS WONDERFUL. CASES TREATED, HAD I NOT SEEN BEFORE AND AFTER TREATMENT, I SHOULD HAVE DOUBTED THE SUCCESS ACCOMPLISHED. I CAN SAY TRUTHFULLY THAT SHE IS SKILLED AND GENTLE IN HER WORK.
"JOHN C. FERBERT, M. D."
BY THE EMINENT WELL-KNOWN PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

NEW YORK.

Dear Mrs. Harris:

Easter morning we open at the Majestic Theater, this city. We run two months. Just as soon as we close I want to leave for California.

Now, dear, I am sorry you couldn't come East this summer, for there are many people crazy about your work, but after my second treatment they will go out to you.

I have not a line to amount to anything around the eyes. However, I want to take a full treatment, including neck. I know you will be pleased when you see how well my face has kept, and to think I used to make-up daily for so long.

Write me at once. I think I can safely say I will be there not later than June 1. I am crazy to see you and tell you how much I appreciate you above all others.

TO ME YOU ARE THE WONDER OF THE WORLD. I wish I were on my way to you now. I know my treatment this time will be great, as the second one always is wonderful.

I want to tell you my face has been the wonder of every one I met and especially my friends.

By the way, I met a gentleman friend the other day in New York; he would have me go to lunch at Shanley's and as we sat at the table he remarked about my face.

He said: "Say, girlie, your face is a wonder; do you know you look younger than seven years ago, when I first met you; not a line in your face. Turn around," (which I did.) He said: "How do you do it?"

I laughed and told him to wait until I returned from California; that he would MEET ME ON BROADWAY IN A BABY CARRIAGE, as I would be so young.

That it had been my luck to meet the wonder of the world, and she made me all over again.

Was he interested to know about it? Well, I guess yes. I will keep you posted as to my plans and will be in California as soon as the "Whirl" closes.

I will close now with love and best wishes to the dearest and best woman in the world.

Yours always,
IRENE HOBSON,
Well-known actress Vaudeville Circuit.

PERSONALS—

A LECTURER and WORLD TRAVELER of RENOWN, who has headed successful expeditions to Alaska, West Indies, South Sea Islands, Mexico, and many other parts of the world, and who possesses references of unquestionable character and most excellent credentials from high government officials, is organizing a new expedition to BORNEO, SIAM, INDIA, and NEPAL, TIBET, SUMATRA and JAVA.

One branch of the expedition will be devoted to collecting zoological, natural history and ethnological specimen and subjects for museums and commercial and private collections, either in single specimen or in groups.

Another branch of the expedition will be for the purpose of gathering material for educational films—special film stories of secluded races based upon their mythology or folklore, also big game hunting with gun and camera, native hunting and trapping, wild animals and bird life in their native haunts.

The most important method of visual education entertainment and enlightenment of the great public today is—motion pictures—a medium that is singularly adapted to reach the greatest number in the easiest and most comprehensive manner. Therefore, to these various collections, Motion-Pictures will be added to illustrate lectures on the platform or in the school room. For example: How various costumes, ornaments, weapons and household goods are used in war, on the hunt or in the daily life, or on ceremonious occasions, and how they are made. The zoological or natural history specimen will likewise be illustrated in their natural life, habits and surroundings.

Besides these purely educational films, film stories will be written and produced for regular theater feature programs by experienced professional writers, directors and cinematographer, in such a manner that they will hold the attention of the audience and at the same time educate and instruct them as to the life, thoughts and customs of races and civilizations others than our own. Natives of the country or races of which the story is written will be used. The films will be sold or distributed according to their classes, either as theatrical, non-theatrical or educational.

The ethnological, naturalistic and hunting trophies will be contributed to museums or sold to commercial and private collections.

The enterprise will be, in addition to its educational and scientific values, a worth-while financial success. This opinion is based upon actual knowledge of the motion-picture industry and upon experience gained from previous expeditions to some of the countries covered by the proposed trip.

I am anxious to be brought in touch with individuals who might be interested, either from an educational, scientific or financial standpoint in such an expedition.

I cannot waste my time on job-hunters; but parties sincerely interested, with at least reasonable means to assist in financing this expedition will be shown every courtesy, and further information and details will gladly be furnished upon request, or, if more convenient, interview can be arranged.

Your participation may be active or passive, according to your wish. All communications will be held in strictest confidence. Address E, BOX 526, TIMES BRANCH.

BUILDING MATERIAL BARGAINS.
For years we have been known as the popular priced building material supply house in Los Angeles and our friends say right well we have earned that reputation.

Not only can we supply your needs in new materials but from our extensive wrecking operations we are often able to furnish you much in salvage material.

BUILDERS' HARDWARE—
Complete stock of all building material requirements including roofing paper at $1.25 to $3 per roll; plaster wall board at $32.50 per thousand feet; corrugated iron at $6 per 100 ft.
Also we carry a complete line of garden tools, including hoes, 65c to $1 each; rakes, $1 each; forks and spades, $1.25 each; wheelbarrows, $6; lawn mowers, $9; grass catchers with metal bottoms, $1 each; grass shears, 60c; pruning shears, 65c; garden hose, 10c to 15c per foot.

PLUMBING BARGAINS—
We have a lot of new factory seconds and damaged plumbing fixtures in addition to the following salvage items:
Range boilers, second-hand, 30 gallon capacity $5 each; bath tubs made of sheet metal on a wood frame, $2 each. Good for horse troughs.
2000 feet of 2-inch second-hand pipe, good for irrigating, at 10c per foot. About 1000 feet of one-inch and about 10,000 feet of 1 1-4-inch used pipe at 5c per foot.

SASH AND DOORS—
Colonial doors, odd sizes, $3 each. Odd size sash, 75c and up; breakfast nooks, $12.50, complete $16.50; colonial doors 2-4x6-6 and 2-4x6-8, $3.25 each. C. C. doors carried in stock.
We also have the following second-hand material. A large stock of cupboards, mantels and drawers.
Doors all sizes, complete with hardware, $2.50 to $3.50 each. Sash, 75c and up. Several art glass doors and sash at a sacrifice. Plate glass sash, $10 and up. Plate glass $1.50 per foot; $1.60 per foot set.

LUMBER—
At this yard we have large stocks of new and low grade cheap lumber in addition to a large stock of good second-hand lumber. This, of course, is in addition to our immense stock of high-grade new lumber carried in our other yards.
Remember, we can furnish the right kind of lumber at the right prices. Lists can be figured at 415 E. NINTH ST., or here at 2260 E. Vernon Ave.

SUBCONSCIOUS MIND TAPPED

New Method Developed by Studying Writing

Talents Unknown to Patient Are Revealed

Beautiful Poetry Produced by Girl in Test

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, April 21.—A new method of tapping that mysterious region, the subconscious mind, is being developed. A young doctor and psychologist, Anita M. Muhl, has made a study of automatic writing, and she has discovered that it can be used to reach depths of the mind which even dreams do not seem to touch.

Automatic writing is a peculiar form of activity which takes place independent of the writer's will. Generally his attention is fixed on something else. He may even carry on a conversation about the tariff while his hand is writing an account of imaginary adventures on a desert island.

By use of this automatic writing device, Dr. Muhl has in a number of cases brought to light significant facts about the very early history of a hospital patient. These early incidents and impressions had long before been forgotten, but their effect had never been thrown off, and they were having a sinister influence on the life of the patient.

TALENTS REVEALED

Automatic writing also sometimes reveals talents and tendencies which an individual had no idea that he possessed. Persons who have never been able to draw, or who have never tried to write stories, sometimes achieve remarkable results by this method. Dr. Muhl explains this by saying that in normal existence some fear or fixed belief has prevented such a person from developing his latent talent. When the conscious mind is distracted the subconscious takes charge and the hand draws or writes freely.

Automatic writing has been frequently associated with persons of abnormal mentality and with mediums who go into trances and write down messages supposed to be direct from the spirit world. Some of the individuals who found that they could write automatically were studied some time ago by scientists and it was concluded that a second personality or several personalities were trying to express themselves in this way. The total personality of the individual was not strongly enough synthesized to dominate completely. There was a conflict of desires. Some hope or characteristic has been repressed, and perhaps forgotten, in childhood. But it had been gathering energy, and when a means of achieving expression was offered the repressed personality revealed itself.

Dr. Muhl discovered new possibilities in automatic writing by accident. It is well recognized that the mental condition of a person physically ill is very important. The doctor had been analysing the dreams of one patient who had an inexplicable fear of sticks and high places. The dreams showed a frightening incident which had occurred when the patient was 9 years of age. But still the cause of the unreasoning fear was not plain.

WROTE WHILE READING

Then Dr. Muhl learned that this patient was able to write automatically. Experiments along this line were tried. The best results were achieved when the subject read a newspaper aloud while writing, and when her hand was behind a screen so that she could not see what was being written.

At first the pencil scrawled only grotesque forms. Then, one day a skeleton was drawn and queer pictures of sticks with heads on them. The doctor had found that if she asked questions in a very low tone the patient's conscious mind would not catch the question, but the subconscious mind guiding the pencil would hear and answer. She asked what the strange pictures meant and the hand began to write a story.

It told how, when the writer was 5 years of age, she and a sister had pored over a book of African adventures. They could not read, but the pictures of cannibals, savagery, and wild animals so stirred their imaginations that the children invented fearful stories to fit the scenes. A story of "the man who got et up and came back in his haunt to scare people," was evolved and often frightened both children at night. As his "haunt," or ghost, appeared as a head on a stick in the sand, a fear of sticks persisted long after the girl had forgotten what caused the fear.

ALARM TOLD OF

Another time the same patient drew a series of diagrams, like the plan of a farm. The writing which followed this drawing told in a childish way of an alarming experience at this place, in the barn. When the patient was showed this account after it was written, she denied knowledge of such an episode. Her parents, however, recognized the diagram as a plan of their home, and they recalled that their daughter had fallen from a high place in the barn at the age of 3 years. The subconscious mind, Dr. Muhl explains, had retained an impression of all this, although only the fear remained in consciousness.

In another case, the doctor succeeded in banishing a ghost by the revelations of automatic writing. Regularly at midnight a certain patient was visited by a specter. It was a very conventional, well-behaved specter. First a bright light appeared on the wall. Then wreaths of vapor began to waver back and forth and gradually to take shape as a vague ghost, without definite form or features. The phantom would stay for an hour and then depart quietly.

The patient was not at all frightened by her unusual visitor, but Dr. Muhl did not approve of the ghost when she heard it described. The patient, who was a young widow, was questioned but she had no explanation to offer. Then the doctor tried automatic writing and the mystery was solved. The pencil of the young woman explained that the writer wished to see her dead husband again, and that the ghost was the result of that wish. So strong was the desire that it resulted in an hallucination, and the young widow really believed she saw the light and shadowy form.

The patient was inclined to doubt this explanation when she saw what she had written. But she tried that night to see the ghost without any success. She never was able to see it again.

From her various experiments with this means of analysing the mind, Dr. Muhl concludes that automatic writing is not peculiar to persons of abnormal mentality. But she makes it very plain that no one should try the experiment of automatic writing except under the guidance of a competent person, and as a means of treatment. Patients, she says, should never engage in this sort of activity alone.

The dangers of playing with this particular sort of fire cannot be overemphasized. It is explained that the more the subconscious influences are released the more powerful they may become and eventually they may gain control of the mind with disastrous results. Only when an expert guides the process of automatic writing is it advisable.

This psychologist believes that automatic activity explains cases of persons who suddenly begin to paint remarkable pictures, to compose music or write novels "under spirit guidance." This is no more wonderful, she says, than the ability to play the piano by ear. The talent to create presumably is in such people, but it has been repressed. Yet all the time the subconscious mind, which seems to observe more keenly than the conscious mind, has been absorbing impressions. If an opportunity arises when the subconscious can take control the results may be astonishing.

Then one of the doctor's cases, a patient, a Spanish girl, developed ability to write really beautiful poetry automatically. She was delighted with the results, but she was convinced that some outside influence must be guiding her pencil until the doctor proved to her that the ideas and words came from her own experience.

The girl herself explained that she had always wanted to write stories and verses, but her parents objected to such a career for a woman. Occasionally she tried to write for her own amusement, but she could never produce any work that satisfied her. She was easily discouraged, and yet the desire persisted. By careful management the power this girl displayed was successfully transferred to consciousness.

Dr. Muhl raises the question of whether this sort of transference is worth while, and suggests that it is a problem for the psychiatrist to consider. Whether it would be wise to attempt to make a subconscious trait or talent conscious would probably always depend on the peculiar conditions of any individual case. The firmly established personality risks nothing less than insanity if its foundations are shaken. The unstable person may in some cases be benefited by a reorganized mind, at least so it seems to this doctor-psychologist.

EARTHQUAKES TO ORDER

Carnegie Scientists to Measure Tremors of Manufactured Explosion

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—A miniature earthquake is created by geologists some time this year by planting tons of plosives a mile or more down in the earth in an old mine and them off. The resultant shock, when measured by delicate now being perfected, with all the accurate knowledge as to the distance of explosion, will yield, it is believed, accurate data to calculate in the future the speed of earth tremors and so locate origin.

This plan was told of yesterday at the meeting of the American Philosophical Society by Dr. Henry S. Washington of the geophysical laboratory of the Carnegie Institute, Washington, D. C. Dr. Washington spoke after Dr. Charles E. Monroe, professor emeritus of chemistry of George Washington University, had described the way in which the explosives left over from the war were being utilized in agriculture, road building and in scientific experiments.

The methods of measuring the effect of earthquakes and charting the position of the earth slide that causes them have been very unsatisfactory, Dr. Washington explained, because the line of cleavage is usually so long that it is not possible to determine distances accurately. Calculations

Women's Club Buys Luxurious London Home

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, April 21.—With only the deed to be signed giving the American Women's Club possession of the $1,000,000 Mayfair mansion built by Edgar Speyer, American women making London stopovers to and from the continent will be assured of a home during their stay here more luxurious than any hotel accommodation.

The purchase of the elegant club quarters is being effected at what the club officials regard as the bargain price of $125,000. The deal was financed by a loan from a London bank, it is learned. An offer of $320,000 was made for the residence when it was first put up for auction, but the property was withdrawn and the highest bid was $130,000 when it again was submitted for sale last January.

STRENGTH OF RAIL SHARES

Profitable Operation Reflects Financial Optimism

Constructive Factors Feature General Conditions

Price Movement Range Narrow; Copper Outlook

BY HERBERT R. JACKSON

The feature of the stock market during the past week was the renewed strength in railroad shares, reflecting not only optimism as to the financial result to be obtained from operations in the ensuing six months or so but also a lessening of fear of what may be done by the next Congress.

Car loadings continued at new high records, the total for the week ending March 31 having been 938,735, which is above the previous week as well as the corresponding week in previous years. In fact, according to figures compiled by Dow-Jones, this total was never attained in any one week last year until September, while in 1921 this point was not reached until October. The average price of twenty railroad stocks declined from 90.63 on the third day of March to 85.84 on April 2. This average has since advanced to 88.56, which indicates a continued rising tendency.

GENERAL CONDITIONS

With the optimistic reports emanating from business centers and the constructive comments of the members of the President's Cabinet, including Secretaries Mellon, Hoover and Davis, it is difficult for professional operators to depress security values. The public does not yet seem to be in selling mood. A symposium of industrial information indicates that sufficient productive capacity has been built up to handle the big gain in business which is now under way so that current profits are in reality available for distribution to share holders or strengthening surplus accounts of the many corporations.

Other constructive forces are the record of consumption of gasoline; the large volume of orders taken by the various steel companies and the record-breaking production of pig iron, a basic industry which is an important business barometer. It is reported also that Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and General Electric Company have together booked something like $500,000,000 of business for this year.

There is practically no unemployment. In fact, labor is receiving high wages and the tendency is for wages to advance, indicating that a great surplus will be available for investment in real estate and securities. Incidentally, this wage advance is an outward symbol of continued capacity operations, although it must be conceded that in many industries such as steel, the peak of production has doubtless been attained. Yet peak production does not necessarily mean an immediate downward tendency in volume of business.

BANKS AND MONEY

Although industrial operations show an increase of probably 100 per cent over a year ago, Federal reserve banks are in an unusually strong position. There has been a sharp contraction in brokers' loans in recent weeks, these loans having declined $150,000,000 in the past six weeks. This does not imply that money rates should decline. Probably the only factor which will influence money rates sooner or later will be industrial needs for credit and while this time is approaching, it is not an immediate prospect.

It is reported from authentic sources that the consumption of sugar is larger than ever. In other words, the advance in price of raw, which is naturally reflected in the price of sugar stocks, is directly attributed to increased demand. We learn, for instance, that France produces about 500,000 tons out of a total of 800,000 tons used by her annually and that the United States is looked to for the other 300,000 tons. The revival in the sugar industry has a marked effect on the price of sugar securities.

Cuban-American Company will hold a meeting in June and it is believed that the company will consider payment of a quarterly dividend of 50 cents to which may be added an extra 50-cent dividend. The company has emerged from the depression in splendid condition having millions of cash on hand and being in a position to show the largest earnings in its history with the possible exception of 1920 when it earned over $11 per share on the common stock.

Another company which should benefit by the rising price of raw sugar is Punta Alegre. One-half of its crop remains unsold. It was recently estimated that an average price of 5 cents for the unsold portion would result in earnings of $15 per share on the stock or at the rate of about 25 per cent on the current market prices.

THE MOTORS

While the March output of automobiles totaled over 345,000 and broke the record of last June manufacturers as yet do not fear that production has reached the saturation point. However, a slight falling off is looked for. The production for the first three months of the year totaled 876,628 vehicles against an estimated total for the entire year of 3,000,000. It would appear stocks of the majority of automobile companies have discounted the good business expected throughout 1923 although General Motors common stock recorded a new high during the past week when it became known that sales for the first three months of 1923 totaled 173,000 vehicles against 71,000 in the corresponding period last year.

COPPER

The outlook for the copper companies looks favorable although there is very little fluctuation in the price of the metal. Nevertheless the American industry has enabled many of the copper companies to show credit balances which not only indicate inauguration of dividends by some companies but the possibility of increased dividends by such companies as are now paying. This condition is reflected in the advancing price tendency for copper shares.

As yet the average price of securities which show a decline of

RADIO MADE CLEAR AS MUD

Kitty Knows Nothing About Wireless, So Tells Tillie All About It in Letter

(Spasm No. 2 of the "Letters to Tillie" series in which Kathryne E. Thompson, KHJ saxophone star, attempts to place the responsibility for radio.)

BY KATHRYNE E. THOMPSON

Dear Tillie: Again I'm here on the air—and may be told to "take the air"—but I've brought you some "inside facts" about radio. I take my trusty typewriter in hand.

I'm going to explain radio in all its deepest astronomical aspect, and will make it just as crystal clear to you as it is—to me. First, I'll take radio in general.

Now radio, my dear, is something we all thought wasn't—and well—it is! The truth of the matter is—we are no longer alone! There is no such thing as seclusion or solitude! The air is full of things! Voices, beings, personalities, are about us every second, filling every little smitch of air. One can no longer so much as take a bath with only the picture on the soap to embarrass him! No siree. There no longer exists that smug feeling of privacy—there ain't no such animal! What used to be simply isn't—anymore.

CAN'T DODGE 'EM

You can't dodge 'em—you can't hit 'em and you can't catch 'em in traps, 'cause the air waves are everywhere, full of singing, of stock reports, bedtime stories and jazz. Lyric sopranos, bay-windowed tenors, villainous basses all are there massed into a chorus. Tillie, ain't nature just wonderful? There's radio in the morning, for our luncheon, for tea and dinner and the wee sma' hours when the milkman wends his way. There's radio to get up by, eye-opening music, for exercises, shower bath suggestions, tooth-brushing music and one's morning prayer. There's gurgling music with your coffee, a cackling chorus with your eggs, easy-flowing syrupy melody for the hot cakes and a juicy jazz jingle when the grapefruit hits you in the eye! So it goes, all day long, radio follows you about like Mary's little lamb.

The studios where these riots start are strange and wonderful places. All are different, some are draped with heavy curtains of velvet, some have walls of burlap, but here at KHJ it is like a big comfortable living-room; cozy, artistic and cheerful. At one end of the studio is the Knabe, and a piano lamp sends its soft glow over the players. Directly in front of the piano is the microphone, suspended from the ceiling by a cord. The artist sings or plays directly into this.

Let me digress long enough, Tillie, to thoroughly explain the meaning of the word "microphone." Now as you may not know, "micro" is derived from that very bitter Peruvian root "microphanexezcoypixzite," meaning to exclude microbes. Hence the little screen right on the middle of the microphone. This screen is planned scientifically and is intended to prevent flies, gnats, coloratura sopranos and youngsters from getting inside and clogging up the works.

DERIVED FROM PHONEY

The word "phone" is derived from the south of Market street word "phoney," and is a very practical radio attachment. It gives the artist a sense of freedom and a wonderful alibi, as it is thus possible to blame everything onto the sending set. The microphone is a round metal affair and was originally placed on a steel pedestal, a method later changed because it was sometimes necessary to move it right in the middle of a solo, and Uncle John would drop to his knees as if overcome by the music—then haul and tug to get the thing over closer to the trembling soloist. This was very disconcerting if one did not understand the reason, and one tender-hearted soprano thought he'd had an attack of adenoids and she kicked a high G clear over the goal in her frantic effort to pick him up. So they take no more chances on Uncle John's safety, and the microphone hangs serenely from the ceiling.

By the way, those canaries at KHJ are the FATTEST things. I'll bet they just wheeze when they try to hook their corsets! But maybe the feather kind stretch more—I dunno much about canaries. But these adorable little birds are happy—Uncle John feeds 'em—and talks to them—and they love him—(well—who doesn't?)

Bye, Tillie—as ever, radioishly yours, "KITTY."

roughly 5 points from the high point of March to the first week in April do not seem to get out of the area of narrow fluctuations, but the advance from recent low prices is sufficient to give the average trader an optimistic feeling. Even yet, it is impossible to predict accurately the course of prices following this recent secondary reaction in a major bull market. The high point of 1923 was 105.38 for industrials, low point was 101.40 on April 4. The recovery since then has averaged about 1 point indicating that the bottom of the present movement has been seen, but not necessarily confirming that indication.

It is reasonable to assume, however, that while business continues at its present rate of progress, no decline of substantial proportions need be feared. The oils, of course, are subject not only to the influence of over production, but to professional manipulation as a result of the price cuts. These should therefore be considered apart from the general market. On the other hand, the railroads are giving a very good account of themselves but must advance on the average at least 8 points to attain the high figures of last September and October.

Order Is Placed by French Firm for New Liner

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, April 21.—The French Line yesterday placed an order for another liner like the Paris, which is a ship of 35,000 tons.

The company also is negotiating with the French government to finance the construction of a number of other huge liners for the New York-Havre service in order that France may have a share of the Atlantic trade. The French government is interested in the war-time value of these liners as auxiliaries.

The French line already possesses 500,000 tons of shipping which stands on the company's books at a cost of only 378 francs per ton.

PHILIPPINES FEAR SHIPPING CHANGES

GOVERNMENT OPERATION MAY CURTAIL SERVICE TO SMALL PORTS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Extension of the coastwise shipping law to the Philippines may result if the government is forced to engage in the operation of the merchant marine. This belief was expressed at the White House yesterday, but it was stated at the same time that the President had no intention of applying this provision of the shipping laws until it had been finally determined whether private interests would refuse to buy the government fleet.

The extension of the coastwise shipping laws to the Philippines, which the Shipping Board has advocated for some time, has been resisted by John W. Weeks, Secretary of War, and other members of the Cabinet. The Philippines themselves have contended that American lines have never been in a position to furnish sufficient service to warrant the application of the law, which the natives believe would result in abandonment of the Philippine route by ships of all other flags.

It is believed that the consolidation of lines, which the Shipping Board has announced as part of its policy, is likely to result in a strengthening of the service to the Philippines with a view of meeting this very situation. It was explained at the White House today that the proposed consolidation would end the present policy of favoring certain ports where the business conditions did not justify it. This was taken to apply to some of the smaller ports which achieved some maritime prominence during the war.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, April 21.—Late today over 1800 delegates to the County Christian Endeavor Union had registered with more coming in on every train and electric car. Pomona had the highest registration of 220; Central Church of Los Angeles was next with 130; Long Beach, 129; Pasadena 120; San Gabriel 100; Whittier 55; West Adams Church, Los Angeles 48; Santa Monica 45; Southern, Los Angeles 40; University, Los Angeles 35; Redondo 40; Hollywood 52; Glendale 78; Boyle Heights 29. Attendance records are expected to be broken.

George Ellingwood Joy, director of religious education of the Temple Baptist Church, Los Angeles; Paul C. Brown, Pacific Coast secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor were the principal speakers today. At the morning session George B. Hanson, director of religious education at the Temple church, spoke at the Christian Church on "Leadership—How to Acquire it." Dr. R. A. Hadden spoke on "The Infallible Word—How to Master It." and Rev. W. S. Buchanan, pastor of Broadway Christian Church, Los Angeles, took for his subject "The Infallible Word—God's Way" at the afternoon session. The evening session was conducted in the Christian Church with President J. LeRoy Pettit in the chair. Dr. John Marvin, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Pasadena, spoke upon "The Infallible Word—Our Confidence in It."

ACCUSES HUSBAND IN DIVORCE COMPLAINT

Julius B. Cone had a good thing, but he spoiled it, according to a divorce complaint filed yesterday by Mrs. Blanche M. Cone. She relates that her husband obtained the management of her property shortly after their marriage and then devoted his time to other women.

The complaint charges that Mr. Cone insisted on managing his wife's income and that when she finally consented he rented a post-office box and there received affectionate letters from other women. When Mrs. Cone learned of this, she says, she removed the property from her husband's control.

PORT NOTES

An unusually large number of maritime accidents and mishaps were reported by radio at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday from all corners of the globe. Among the more important were:

British schooner Edith M. Cavell, from Cadiz for Romes, N. F., seventy-five days from port of departure, put in at Lunenburg, badly damaged by storm and out of provisions.

British steamer Matkhola, arrived disabled New York after experiencing engine trouble during entire voyage from Havana.

Steamer West Canak, from New York for Santos, Brazil, racing for Rio de Janeiro with serious fire aboard.

Steamer Nishmaha, from Galveston for Bremen, put in at Bermuda with defective pump and disabled steering gear.

Tank steamer Pennsylvania, from Cristobal for Philadelphia, arrived Mobile in tow of tug Favorite for survey and repairs of damage incurred by striking reef off Guatemalan coast.

Resignation of Capt. Louis Black, who for several years has been in charge of the towing and lighterage service of the Wilmington Transportation Company, was announced yesterday by the company. Capt. Black, who is one of the most widely known figures in Pacific marine circles, will be succeeded by H. W. Weimers, now chief officer on the steamer Avalon.

To load Southern California products for the United Kingdom, the Isthmian liner Craster Hall is due from the north today. Other important cargo arrivals include the tanker Camden, from Tampico in ballast to load fuel oil for the return voyage; the tanker J. W. Van Dyke, from Philadelphia, and the Luckenbach liner K. I. Luckenbach, with 3800 tons of freight for Los Angeles from Mobile.

Edwin S. Hough, Pacific Coast head of the Bureau Veritas, has returned to San Francisco after a week here for the inspection and survey of several vessels. While at the port Mr. Hough was the guest of H. E. Pickering, local Bureau Veritas representative.

One hundred and thirty-five passengers and 5000 tons of freight went out to Honolulu at noon yesterday on the liner City of Los Angeles, sailing on her ninth voyage in the service of the Los Angeles Steamship Company.

SHIPPING and Los Angeles Harbor NEWS

OVERDUE SHIP MAY BE LOST

Marine Men Fear for Safety of Barkentine Alta at Sea on Coast Trip Since February 20

Lost at sea has been the fate of the four-masted steel barkentine Alta, which sailed from Los Angeles Harbor February 20, last, for Bellingham, Wash., local shipping men believe, following the safe arrival at their ports of destination of the five-masted schooner Vigilant and the four-masted barkentine Makaweli, both of which traversed the same course that should have been followed by the Alta. This morning the Alta was sixty-two days out from this port on a voyage usually requiring fifteen days.

The Alta sailed from Los Angeles Harbor in ballast to load lumber for this port on Puget Sound. She carries a crew of three officers and twenty-two men. The craft is owned by the Pacific Shipping Company of San Francisco. She has a length of 236 feet and a tonnage of 1262 net tons.

HAS DISAPPEARED

Since leaving the Santa Barbara Channel in late February the Alta has not been spoken, although masters of all coastwise and offshore craft have been on the lookout for the vessel on account of her long absence.

Misfortune also continues to be the lot of the barkentine Makaweli, "the ship that sailed north and arrived south." On February 17 the Makaweli departed San Francisco for Gray's Harbor. After being blown off her course and buffeted by gales in which three members of her crew were seriously injured, the old windjammer put in at Los Angeles Harbor March 10, leaking badly and with her rigging in a serious condition.

Not until March 29 were repairs completed and on that date she again sailed for the north.

SHIP'S COOK DIES

On the 20 inst. she put in at Fort Townsend, Wash., to put ashore the body of the ship's cook, Thomas Marks, who died at sea on the northward voyage. She will load lumber on the sound for Los Angeles Harbor.

Although twenty-two days were required by the Makaweli for her trip up the Coast, the five-masted schooner Vigilant arrived at Tatoosh on the 20th inst., making the same run in sixteen days. The Vigilant, one of the finest sailing vessels plying out of the local port, is in command of Capt. "Matt" Peaseley.

Liner Bringing Kin of Salvador President Here

Senora Leonore Quinonez, wife of the President of the Republic of Salvador, and her daughter, Mercedes, will arrive in Los Angeles on the 26th inst., aboard the Pacific Mail liner Venezuela, it was announced yesterday by Clay Hutchinson, Southern California head of the Pacific Mail. On their first visit to the Southland, Senora Quinonez and her daughter will spend the summer in California.

A day behind her schedule on account of unusually heavy freight offerings at Central American ports, the Venezuela is also bringing eighty cabin passengers from New York for Los Angeles. In her local freight list are 800 tons of east-coast products and a consignment of coffee and bananas from Central America.

Four thousand tons of boilers and oil-field machinery will arrive at Los Angeles from New York on the 27th inst., on the Pacific Mail liner, Santa Clara, Mr. Hutchinson announced. Tht Santa Clara is also bringing several thousand spring hats for Los Angeles millinery shops.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—With a total of 318 passengers, the T.K.K. liner Korea Maru arrived here today from the Orient. The liner also brought in a large cargo of general merchandise and the passenger list contained the names of more Europeans than any vessel of the company arriving at this port in many weeks.

The United Engineering Company was the low bidder with $11,465 for performing voyage repairs on the Pacific Mail liner President Cleveland. The contract for dry docking the Shipping Board steamer West Cadron was awarded the Bethlehem yards. The vessel was taken off the mud flats at Benicia last week to be placed in "spot" condition.

ASTORIA, April 21.—After lying in the lower harbor overnight, the steamer Point Lobos, en route to Puget Sound, and the steam schooner Daisy Matthews, lumber laden for Los Angeles, crossed out this morning.

Laden with 750,000 feet of lumber from Westport, the steam schooner Johan Poulsen sailed today for San Francisco.

After taking on 1000 tons of bunker coal at the local terminals, the Norwegian steamer Unita sailed today for the Orient.

The Norwegian steamship Theodore Roosevelt arrived early today from Scandinavian ports, via San Francisco and, after discharging 1000 barrels of cement, left for Portland.

The steamer Iowan shifted this morning from Portland to the Astoria terminals, where she loaded 100,000 feet of lumber and 2000 cases of canned salmon, sailing this evening for New York.

After loading 1,800,000 feet of lumber at Westport, the steamer Olympic sailed tonight for Los Angeles.

PORTLAND (Or.) April 21.—Utilization of refrigerated space on vessels plying to the Northwest from Europe is developing rapidly, according to E. F. R. De Laney, Pacific Coast agent of the Holland-American Line, who was here today. Bananas from Panama are to be brought here on vessels of this line, he said. One shipment has already been carried from Panama to Los Angeles. Another announcement made by De Laney was that within a year all six of the vessels operated in his line from Europe to the Pacific Coast will be motorships of uniform type. The two steamers on the run at present, the Moerdijk and Cardiganshire, are to be replaced with motor-driven craft.

One of the first cement cargoes brought here in years was that of the Norwegian motorship Theodore Roosevelt, arriving today. She brought 4000 bags of cement from Christiania, Norway.

The American-Hawaiian steamer Ipswich, which was scheduled to depart today for Gulf ports, will be held over until next Tuesday to take on additional cargo offerings. The Oregonian, another American-Hawaiian steamer, was still being held in Gray's Harbor today by a rough bar.

The President Hayes of the Swayne & Hoyt South American east coast passenger-cargo line, will dock here about May 9 northbound, to discharge cargo, according to a dispatch received by A. M. Gillespie, Inc., local agents. The steamer will call again southbound about May 20 to load.

TACOMA, April 21.—The Holland-American steamer Moerdijk is expected within the next few days to load for Europe. The steamer has a quantity of glass to discharge here and will load lumber.

The Harrison Line steamer Astronomer is also due from Europe and among her freight will pick up from 500 to 1000 tons of wheat here.

The French Line steamer Nevada is listed for arrival Tuesday to load for Europe.

The American-Hawaiian steamer Floridian, which has been expected here for several days, is now listed to arrive Sunday. The steamer will be here until Monday evening loading, it is thought.

The Alaska Steamship Company steamer Oduna arrived this morning from Alaska with 5000 tons of ore for the smelter.

The Montgomery City will sail tomorrow for the Atlantic Coast, taking 2300 tons of ore and 1,500,000 feet of lumber.

The Isthmian steamers Chattanooga City and Lancaster are listed to arrive early this week and will load 500,000 feet of lumber each among other cargo.

It was reported the Furness Line steamer Persian Prince will be here Monday morning to load copper and 100,000 feet of lumber for Europe.

The Admiral Dewey is due here Monday from California ports and the City of Spokane will arrive tomorrow to load lumber.

The William Chamberlin Jr., with 2,000,000 feet of lumber; the Forest King with 1,000,000 feet, and the Horace Baker with about 800,000 feet, are due to sail tomorrow for California. The Montgomery City is also expected to sail tomorrow morning for the east coast with lumber.

SEATTLE, April 21. — The Garland Line steamship George Allen arrived here today, and after discharging 500 tons of general cargo from Baltimore, most of which was steel pipe, left in the afternoon for the Columbia River to load for the return voyage. The ship made the speediest discharge and departure of any ship in the intercoastal service since the Garland Line entered the field.

The steamship Dorothy Alexander of the Admiral Line left here for San Diego, via Victoria, via San Francisco tonight with 250 first-cabin passengers.

In accordance with a decision to eliminate Galveston, Tex., as a port of call, announced at the local offices of the Luckenbach Steamship Company here today, the F. J. Luckenbach, due here Tuesday, will be the first to omit the port. The steamship Paul Luckenbach arrived from New York at noon today and is discharging 1800 tons of cargo, a large portion of which is tin plate destined for Alaska.

Customs collections of Seattle for nine months of the present fiscal year, which ends June 30, have exceeded those for the entire fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, by $500,000, Collector of Customs Millard T. Hartson announced today. At the present rate collections will probably exceed those of last year by more than $2,000,000, Mr. Hartson predicted.

VANCOUVER (B. C.) April 21.—Arrivals of passengers from China, Japan, Straits Settlements, Fiji, Hawaii, New Zealand, India and Australia here today and Monday will total about 750. The Canadian-Australian liner Makura was to berth this evening with 400 passengers from the Antipodes, Fiji, India and Honolulu. Monday the liner Empress of Canada is to arrive with 350 passengers from the Orient. The Makura encountered a heavy westerly blow yesterday, the first rough weather she experienced in the 6000 miles of her voyage. In her cargo are mutton, butter, wool and a trial shipment of Fiji bananas.

Prince Rupert has received word that the United States tugboat Richard Holyoke lost a tow of poles off White Cliff Island yesterday. She was bound for Alaska.

ALIENS ELUDE GUARDS AT PORT, EXPERT SAYS

COMMISSIONER AT SEATTLE DEPLORES ENTRY OF UNDESIRABLES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, April 21.—More than 10,000 aliens illegally enter the State of Washington from foreign countries each year, Luther Weedin its Commissioner of Immigration for this district, said today. He declared the present immigration force of seventy-six persons was "totally inadequate" to control the situation.

Three thousand Japanese, 2000 Chinese and 5000 persons of other nationalities entered Washington without inspection or check by immigration authorities last year, Mr. Weedin estimated.

"Of course," he said, "we apprehend a great many after they have arrived in Seattle and think they are safely entered, but these constitute a negligible number in comparison with the thousands who are never caught."

Hundreds of stowaways, Mr. Weedin asserted, make their way ashore from foreign ships in Seattle harbor and vicinity despite the utmost efforts of the fourteen inspectors and guards assigned to duty here. Another favorite place of entry, he said, was on the British Columbia boundary line, between Blaine and Sumas, Wash. Along the Montana-Canadian boundary 300 miles of border are practically unguarded, he declared.

NEAR EAST PROBLEMS TOLD CLUB

At Least Ten Years Before Nation Will be Able to Care for Own People

It will be a number of years before the work of the Near East Relief can be discontinued without causing suffering among the peoples aided, declared Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief, at a meeting held in his honor by the Southwestern District Committee at the City Club yesterday noon.

Mr. Vickrey, who is spending three days in Los Angeles in the interests of the organization he represents, went on to say that the volume of the work done would probably decrease about 10 per cent a year, but it would be at least ten years before the nations in Eastern Asia would be in a position to care for all their people.

The large area covered by the relief work and a few of the obstacles encountered, especially in Turkey where feeling against the Christians greatly hampers it was pointed out by Mr. Vickrey as was the fact that practically all the money collected is used for actual relief work, the administrative expenses being negligible.

This morning Mr. Vickrey will speak before the Pasadena Presbyterian Church and Monday will address a meeting of Los Angeles pastors. From here he will visit the principal cities in the north and then will leave for an extended trip over-seas to inspect the relief operations in the various countries. Mr. Vickrey will attend the Lausanne conference as the representative of the Christians in Asia Minor.

During his visit, Mr. Vickrey will make his headquarters and the local office of the Near East Relief committee in the Wright and Callender Building.

INFIELD COMEDIAN IS TO APPEAR AS ACTOR

VERNON BASEBALL PLAYER TAKES ROLE IN PLAY AT THEATER

Carl Sawyer, utility infielder on the Vernon baseball club, whose antics on the diamond have amused thousands of fans, will blossom forth in the role of an actor next Monday when he will play the role of the assistant movie director in Avery Hopwood's comedy, "The Demi-Virgin," now playing at the Egan Theater.

Although this will be Sawyer's first appearance in a legitimate drama, for a number of years he has been the star comedian in the Pacific Coast League, and if he performs on the stage as well as he does on the ballfield, all theatrical producers will be bidding for his services.

It is expected that a large number of his team-mates will be on hand to applaud him in his new endeavors.

MARRIED LIFE SHORT

The married life of Enid Mary Stevens and Albert A. Stevens was brief, but exciting, according to a divorce complaint filed yesterday by Mrs. Stevens. She charges that during the two months they were married Stevens frequently abused her and that on one occasion beat her. He threatened her life, she charges, and once, when he held a gun to her head, she said, she fainted.

ORCHESTRA LEADER TO COME HERE

Bay City Director Will Wield Baton at Grauman's Metropolitan Theater

Herman Heller, for many years conductor of a symphony orchestra and a favorite of music lovers in San Francisco, has been obtained as conductor for Grauman's Metropolitan orchestra to assume direction on the 28th inst., according to announcement from Sid Grauman. Mr. Heller will assume the baton now held by Creatore, guest conductor of the orchestra.

Preceding Mr. Heller's advent into Los Angeles musical circles have come numerous letters and telegrams of congratulation to Mr. Grauman for selecting the orchestra leader and expressing the regret of residents of the Bay City at his departure. Besides leading the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, Mr. Heller formerly played at the old Palace Hotel with his own band.

Mr. Heller is also said to have taken a great interest in civic affairs in San Francisco, always being eager to lend his talent to a public cause or benefit. He is an honorary member of the San Francisco Press Club as well as musical organizations.

FALL TO FLOOR KILLS WOMAN

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, April 21.—Getting everything ready for her son's eleventh birthday anniversary, including the baking of a birthday cake, Mrs. Cecelia Crepin Freeborn went ou to the garage this afternoon where her husband, Fracis M. Freeborn, was working on the car in preparation for a Sunday trip, and started to clean some neckties in gasoline. The gasoline exploded, either from friction or from a spark from the exhaust of the running engine, and Mrs. Freeborn was fatally burned.

Freeborn was working under the the car when the accident occurred, and, although he made frantic efforts to save his wife his help was unavailing.

When the gasoline caught fire, Mrs. Freeborn jumped on the bench at which she had been working. Her clothing burst into flames almost instantly. She fell backward to the floor of the garage.

When Dr. Marion Dillon arrived on the scene, he found Mrs. Freeborn dead, her skull fractured by the fall. The physician declared, however, that the burns were sufficient to cause death. The husband was uninjured.

The body was removed to the chapel of Turner, Stevens & Turner. The Coroner's office was notified, but the date for the inquest has not been set.

Mrs. Freeborn was 37 years old and was prominent in club and social affairs in Alhambra. She was one of the most active members of the Round Ttable Club here. She had lived in Alhambra for eleven years, the family home, where the tragedy occurred, being at 115 North Cordova street. Besides her husband, who is connected with the offices of the Union Pacific Railroad in Los Angeles, she is survived by two children, George, whose birthday anniversary is today, and Marjorie, 14 years of age.

TO OBSERVE NATAL DAY OF WRITER

Children Will Celebrate Birth of Andersen, Author of Fairy Tales

The children of Los Angeles, under the joint direction of the city school, library, playground, park and police departments, are to celebrate the 118th birthday anniversary of Hans Christian Andersen, master writer of fairy tales on May 5 at Elysian Park.

The entire day has been set aside for the children to pay respect to the memory of their own writer. In the morning story tellers from the library department will tell again the stories of Hansel and Gretel, Golden Locks and Red Riding Hood.

Before lunch the physical education department will supervise games. After eating, the children will gather on the hillside behind the lake to await fairy plays, acted by other children. Any child who comes in costume, however simple, will be welcome in the pageant. Four dances representing the different seasons of the year have been prepared by the school and playgrond departments.

INDIAN WINS DAMAGES

Government Charge Awarded Sum Following Accident

John Mack, a Martinez Reservation Indian and a ward of the government, yesterday was upheld in his contention that the statute of limitations is inoperative in his case and was awarded $1163.50 damages.

The Indian was injured while working for Herbert M. Francisco at Thermal, April 13, 1921. He filed a claim against Francisco and the Ocean Accident and Guarantee Corporation through the Industrial Accident Commission. The defendants contended that the six months within which such claims must be filed had expired but the commission has overruled this contention and awarded the plaintiff damages through his guardian, Charles E. Ellis.

CONTRALTO TO SING AT HIGHLAND PARK

Miss Eleanor Lee, contralto, will appear in a complimentary recital Tuesday evening, the 24th inst., in Highland Park. She is a member of the music faculty at Pomona College.

This is her first appearance in Los Angeles this season, apart from the Lyric Club, and the program will be given in Westminster House, Avenue Fifty-three and Pasadena avenue, at 8:15 p.m.

WINDSOR SQUARE SACRIFICE.
Look this up.
IT'S sometimes hard to convey the merits of the particular place we wish to sell. YOU READ SO MANY ADS WHICH SOUND LIKE A MILLION DOLLARS AND ARE SHOWN 30 CENTS. If I gave you the real particulars and full details about the plan, type, construction and conveniences of this beautiful home, you might think I was over-boosting the place. HOWEVER, I'LL STAKE MY REPUTATION AS AN EXPERT OF HIGH-CLASS HOMES that I'll be able to convince you that this particular WINDSOR SQUARE HOME OF 11 ROOMS, 5 BEDROOMS, 3 BATHS, SUN AND BREAKFAST ROOMS, LIBRARY, ETC., is actually worth more than we are asking for it. It will be easy to convince you I'm right after you see the place. I'LL SHOW YOU MORE THAN YOU EXPECT TO SEE FOR $39,500. It takes only a minute to phone me. It will take about half an hour to show you the home. When you read this ad phone A. E. HAUTER, SPECIALIST IN WILSHIRE HOMES, Wil. 165, or eve. 578087.

A WONDERFUL CITY ESTATE SURROUNDED BY $100,000 HOMES TO BE SOLD AT A GREAT SACRIFICE.

This is a rare opportunity for some one to step into one of the city's best homes WHERE ELEGANCE AND CULTURE PREDOMINATES. Surrounded by beautiful terraced lawns, bordered by wonderful ornamental trees nearly half a century old, enhanced by Italian and Japanese Gardens.

Broad terraced steps lead to wide veranda from which can be had MOST WONDERFUL VIEWS.

This grand old mansion built on a TREMENDOUS STEEL REINFORCED CONCRETE FOUNDATION was built to baffle time and weather. Its ivy covered frame is as substantial as it was when it was first built.

THE INSPIRATION OF THE GROUNDS is indicative of the grandeur of its interior, which is composed of a wonderful entrance hall, drawing room, reception room, living room, a large library, dining room, breakfast room with a large culinary department composed of kitchen, store room and pass-pantry, on the first floor is also to be found a servant's suite of sitting room, bedroom and bath.

On the balcony is a JAPANESE TEA GARDEN more delightful than a pen picture can draw. At the head of the main stairway is the master suite composed of living room, bedroom, dressing room and so on through the entire second floor. Among the several features is a large billiard room, SEVEN REAL FIREPLACES, a complete laundry service of three rooms, heavy oak beamed ceilings. Over 10,000 feet of heavy oak used in the massive decorations.

LUXURIOUS WILSHIRE HOME.

This beautiful home in one of the most fashionable streets of the exclusive Wilshire district appeals immediately to the man or woman who appreciates the luxurious comfort of spacious rooms, carefully planned for a maximum of convenience, the wonderful hand rubbed selected hardwoods; and a neighborhood in which anyone is proud to own a home. This stately home which comprises living room, dining room, library, sun room, breakfast room, kitchen, four master bedrooms, two sleeping porches and servant quarters can be had for $25,000 which is less than cost of construction. Good reason for this low price.

CHARMING FOOTHILL ESTATE.

The owner of this "home of dreams" enjoys all the delights of the country and is within twenty minutes of Broadway over finest boulevard or by fast electric. The house is built in form of a hollow square and each of the nine large rooms is a veritable sun parlor that commands a marvelous panoramic view of mountains and valley. Living room 18x23, dining room, library, electric kitchen, large sun porch, four master bed chambers, large pullman sleeping porch, two baths, detached quarters for help. This real home place is set in beautifully landscaped grounds 200x300 and there is an abundance of fruit, flowers, trees and shrubbery. Owner is leaving Southern California and has priced this magnificent property at

THE FRANK MELINE CO.'S
HOME-BUYER'S SERVICE

81 Photographs. No Cost to You.

On request we will send you, by mail, photographs of 81 desirable homes located in the Wilshire District now being offered for sale.

Prices range from $9000 to $40,000. We have inspected each of these properties and seriously recommend their investigation.

The location, interior and exterior description, price and terms, distance from carlines and schools will accompany each photograph.

This service will be of immense value to you in securing the home you are seeking. The Wilshire District is the fastest growing section in Los Angeles. It is directly in the trend of all future developments—and is recognized as Los Angeles's desirable residential district.

This service is free to you. Just make your selections from the photographs and go out and see the properties yourself, or if you have no automobile, phone or call at our office and a representative will take you there.

In sending for this service or a representative you do not obligate yourself in any way.

For home or investment, you will agree that this is an unusual opportunity. Three and one-third acres, located north of the blvd. Improved with a ten-room, modern stucco home, situated on a sightly knoll overlooking the entire city. This home has five master bedrooms, two tiled baths, maid's quarters and bath. The lower floor is finished in solid oak. Beautiful open staircase, etc. The grounds are planted in every kind of fruits: Bananas, oranges, lemons, grapefruit and pineapples. Garage for three cars. The ground value is worth the price asked. Ill-health compels the owner to sacrifice. Shown by appointment.

FOR SALE—I am offering a limited number of very large lots from 50x173 ft. and larger at the very low price of $600 to $1000.

These large villa lots are located in Laurel Canyon in a highly developed section of the beautiful foothill district of Hollywood.

These lots are surrounded by magnificent home places of Messrs. Birkel, Walker, Platt, Manspeaker and a number of others. They have all the city conveniences and are easily accessible. A very remarkable amount of building activity is now going on in the immediate vicinity of these lots.

The property is free and clear of encumbrance and I can make very reasonable terms. Building restrictions are very moderate.

Would be glad to have you call at my office on the property any day, or will give you further information by telephone. Office 439710; residence 438046.

FOR SALE—
We want those who are looking for a wonderful home to know about the beauties of this Hollywood home. Not located at the top of an immense projection, but in the real Foothills, with a view indescribable. It cannot be duplicated anywhere. We cannot describe it so one can appreciate it. There is nothing like it to be had in all Los Angeles. It's just a home with 9 wonderful rooms with every convenience mentionable. Beautiful grounds with wonderful landscaping. We can't express the desirability of this wonder home. See it. Look at the photographs in our office. They are beautiful, but do not do the place justice. We will be glad to show you this. LA PLACENTIA
IRRIGATED ACRES

Little farms of 2½ acres, $1500, $312 down. No finer soil in So. Cal. Suitable for all kinds of fruit, chicken ranches and trucking. Abundance of water. Complete concrete irrigation system already installed. Mutual water company; one share of stock goes with each acre. Electricity available for each lot. Land is level and a deep, soft loam; no alkali or adobe. All under cultivation, with a number of acres set to 3-year-old walnut trees, intersect with apricots.

La Placentia is located on the Santa Susana highway at the town of Santa Susana, about 1½ hours' drive from center of L. A. over good blvd. S. P. R. R. adjoins property; good schools, stores, garage, lumber yard, etc.

Autos leave office at 10 a.m. daily and Sunday.

"SUNNY SLOPE ACRES"
WHY

You want to get away from the noise and bustle of the city, where you can relax and rest, get a good night's sleep, and return to business feeling like a new man, where your family will enjoy every minute of the day, and all of you live in the best of health.

All this is offered to you at Sunny Slope Acres, high above the fog, wonderful view of the mountains, the ideally beautiful 1-4, ½ to 2-acre lots, ranging in price from $650 up. These prices are unheard of in Los Angeles, on the easiest of terms.

Call at 517 Douglas Building, 3rd & Spring. Phone Broadway 1275, and we will take you out in our cars over good roads through Orange groves and flowers, or call at the Tract Office, 100 San Gabriel Blvd., and we will show you a wonderful investment on which to make money.
STODDER & CLEMENTS.

LANKERSHIM PARK.
In North Hollywood.
Offers you greatest value for your money; beautiful hillside homesites and orchard lots; wonderful views; prices $750 and up; only 1-5 cash; we want home builders and will help you to build. Speculators not wanted. Drive out from Hollywood on Cahuenga Pass Road to our signs on Ventura Blvd., the Broadway to all the North Coast. See any agent there. Or we will take you.

FOR SALE—
A RICH MAN'S COUNTRY ESTATE.
A RICH MAN'S COUNTRY ESTATE.

A rare combination Ranch for Pure-bred Stock, Fruits, Alfalfa, General Farming, Golf, Horseback Riding, Hunting and Social Entertaining.

A few miles south of Los Angeles, at an elevation of 1500 feet, surrounded by scenic mountains, in a valley, superb with nature's charms, lies this beautiful property. Yes, both beautiful and productive, yielding ample to nicely carry itself under its present efficient management. Contains 5000 acres.
The owner has been called away on business and reluctantly has instructed me to sacrifice the ranch for $150,000, about one-half its value.
The buildings are adequate and in fine shape, tools and equipment ample; a lot of choice cattle and hogs; excellent water, glorious climate, wonderful scenery; in fact, a perfect property for a man who can afford such an estate.

MOUNTAIN, CANYON PTY.
For Sale, Exchange, Wanted

FOR SALE — Mountain cabin sites located in the most beautiful spot in Southern California, adjoining and surrounding the beautiful home place of Madame Modjeska in FOREST of ARDEN, Cleveland Forest Reserve, Orange County, Cal.
These sites are located in a beautiful grove of olive trees set out by Madame Modjeska more than 35 years ago. These lots are practically level and good roads lead to them. Water is piped in from mains in front of each lot. They command a magnificent view.
These lots are offered at the very low price of $200 to $300 on terms of 1-10 down and 1-10 semi-annually until paid, which brings them into the purchasing power of practically everyone. In addition, these lots are located in the center of development, which was commenced by Madame Modjeska more than 35 years ago. It is accessible by good roads at all times of the year, has a moderate altitude and has an ideal all the year climate.
There is a limited number of lots and we would advise an early investigation. Our representative can be found at Madame Modjeska's home every day. Booklets, maps and price lists will be sent you free on request.
Considering development, accessibility, beautiful environment, water supply, especially the low price and very easy terms these sites offer an opportunity for investment in a mountain home that is without parallel.
Modjeska's home and its beautifully parked grounds are now available for day visitors for picnic parties and you are cordially invited to visit Madame Modjeska's home.

OIL INVESTORS

DO YOU KNOW?

That one of the largest oil companies in the world have quietly leased a large acreage and are already down with a well about thirteen hundred feet in what promises to be a wonderful new oil field. Close to this well we have 300 acres of choice farm land, which we are offering in 5 to 40-acre tracts at $400 per acre in fee. If this well comes in, what will this land be worth? If not, you still will have a good piece of farm land. Remember what Santa Fe Springs was a year ago and buy ahead of development for big profits. This is a good sound investment and this small acreage won't last long.

WONDERFUL OIL OPPORTUNITY! ON ABSOLUTELY GROUND FLOOR BASIS!

This is a chance to get in on the GROUND FLOOR with a group of responsible men and experienced oil operators in an absolutely proven lease in SIGNAL HILL — AMERICA'S MIGHTIEST OIL FIELD—A few hundred feet from several big gushers producing thousands of barrels daily. Unusual opportunity to get in on the pre-organization of a reliable company, backed by people with successful reputations and whose slogan is "action in proven territory." Our references are positively the very best.

Will consider investments of from $500 to $5000. Should pay you remarkable returns in a short time.

Careful investigation invited. For appointment write P. O. BOX 1626, STA. C, LOS ANGELES.

TORRANCE.

EVERY DAY NEW WELLS ARE PUT ON PRODUCTION. DON'T LET ANOTHER SIGNAL HILL OPPORTUNITY GET AWAY FROM YOU. We are authorized to sell for immediate acceptance, one to four acres, 100 ft. from the Chaslor-Canfield lease where drilling is to start at once. Oil rights included. This is quoted much less than surrounding property.
INVESTIGATE THIS. TERMS.

J. A. FITCH,
POMONA.

TWENTY YEARS IN THE REALTY BUSINESS AT POMONA, CALIFORNIA. Numerous real estate sales consummated annually. Accurately posted on realty values in Pomona and the entire Pomona Valley. Here are several high-class real estate offerings, mostly exclusive listings, which I offer for sale or for exchange for suitable Los Angeles income property, clear for clear. These are CASH SELLING PRICES AND YOURS MUST BE LIKEWISE. NO INFLATED VALUES ENTERTAINED. Only strictly first-class property considered. Owners submit your exchange offerings to my affiliated agents; GRAM-KROHN & EMDEN, 609 S. VERMONT AVE., LOS ANGELES, or communicate with the undersigned at Pomona.

$250,000—First time offered for sale; owner contemplates removing to Los Angeles. High-class orange and walnut grove, none better anywhere. Clear. First-class condition, 108 acres, 65 acres in walnuts, in good bearing; mostly budded variety. Two good pumping plants on property; high-class modern improvements; fine lawn, flowers and grounds.

$30,000—Valencia crop included; first-class full-bearing orange grove, excellent condition; good citrus growing location; big crop producer; 7-room house, not new, but has electricity, gas, etc. Property clear; owner Los Angeles resident; 11½ acres, part Valencias, part navels; navels picked; Valencia crop estimated about 3500 boxes.

$18,500—Beautiful home at Pomona; finest residential location; clear; strictly modern buildings; built about one year ago.

$6500—Mtge. $1500; modern finely located bungalow home in Pomona; under term lease; owner Los Angeles resident.

$4500—Mtge. $1000; close in; furnished house in Pomona; good rental property; present income over $60 monthly. Owner Los Angeles resdt.

$50,000—First-class orange grove; good location, excellent condition; 19 4-5 acres; 10 acres 19-year-old Valencias; rest mostly 8-year-old navels. Modern 2-story 8-room house, double garage.

Beautiful orange grove country home of 5 acres; one of the show places; first-class producing condition; heavy crop producer; elegant 2-story 8-room bungalow, strictly modern in every particular; interior superbly finished, some rooms finished in cedar; hardwood floors throughout; costly electric fixtures; good garage; fine lawn, flowers, etc. The owner has been growing oranges successfully about 25 years, now up in years and in poor health; wants quick sale of the property. Can be bought at about the value of the improvements; some of you wealthy oil men should buy this property. The owner prefers to sell the property outright, but will trade for strictly first-class Los Angeles income property.

ENOMENAL RECORD MADE BY LOS ANGELES COUNTY

tion of New Structures Started During March Exceeds Combined Totals of Thirty-three Counties of California

[illegible] value of building operations started in thirty-three towns and cities of Los An- [illegible] during March exceeds the combined total of thirty-three of the most progres- [illegible] prosperous counties of the State, according to figures obtained by The Times from [illegible] sources in all parts of California. This survey, the result of a careful compila- [illegible] available data, shows that building operations in the thirty-three towns and cities of [illegible] reached an aggregate of $29,819,081, while the total for the thirty-three counties [illegible] reliable estimates could be obtained was $29,534,882, leaving Los Angeles county a [illegible] more than $250,000 over its thirty-three competitors.

[illegible] the counties from which figures were obtainable were San Francisco county, Ala- [illegible], Contra Costa county, San Diego county, Santa Clara county, Sacramento [illegible] Fresno county, all of which are centers of considerable population and wealth.

[illegible] & Hibbard have [illegible] to prepare [illegible] for a new eight-story [illegible] building, to rise at [illegible] corner of Fourth [illegible] to accommodate [illegible]. The Biltmore [illegible] is in charge of [illegible]. Reinforced concrete [illegible] be used in its con- [illegible] stone exterior and [illegible] roofing.

The Los Angeles county record exceeded that of its nearest competitor, Contra Costa county, by more than $20,000,000, and the total was approximately eight times that of San Francisco county.

If an accurate check of the entire State could be made, and if reliable figures concerning the building activity in the rural districts of Los Angeles county were obtainable, it is believed that the county would come very close to equalling the remainder of the State in value of new buildings started during the month.

No returns were available from twenty-three counties of the State. Of these counties, however, fifteen were located in the northern and eastern part of the State, in the mountainous regions, where, on account of heavy snows, little or no building activity has been carried on since the first of the year. The mountain counties not reported include Alpine, Sierra Amador, Butte, Calaveras, Del Norte, Eldorado, Lassen, Mariposa, Nevada, Trinity, Plumas, Siskiyou, Tehama and Tuolumne.

The eight remaining counties where no reports were available were Napa, San Mateo, Glenn Monterey, Imperial, Merced, Solano and Santa Cruz. Some of these latter counties, notably San Mateo, Merced, Imperial and Santa Cruz, are important centers of population and wealth, but available information indicates that the March building record in these and in the mountain counties enumerated was not sufficiently large to materially affect the total, particularly when it is remembered that figures for a large portion of Los Angeles county are not available.

EXCEEDS SEVEN COUNTIES

The record for the city of Los Angeles alone during March, a total of $21,196,087, exceeded that of the combined record of the seven leading counties, Contra Costa, Modoc, Alameda, San Francisco, San Diego, Santa Barbara and Orange. In these seven counties, building operations for March were valued at slightly more than $20,500,000.

Estimated on the basis of the figures compiled for the entire State building operations in California during March were between $65,000,000 and $70,000,000, nearly half of which centered in Los Angeles county, and of which nearly two-thirds centered in Southern California.

The record for Los Angeles county is the more remarkable when it is considered that the county contains about one-fourth of the total population of the State, and that the area of the county is only about 2½ per cent of the area of the entire State.

Figures for other communities of Los Angeles county, neighboring cities to Los Angeles, reveal the fact that some of these cities exceeded entire counties in value of

FACT AND COMMENT

The fact that a large stream of San Francisco and eastern capital is pouring into Los Angeles for investment in real estate is no secret; in fact, every week several large deals are announced which involve the expenditure of large sums of money by men whose business interests are located elsewhere, but who see splendid investment opportunities in Los Angeles.

It is a subject of common knowledge that the average resident of Los Angeles, the "old timer," is the most difficult person with whom the realty broker has to deal in putting through a real estate transaction, for the old-timer, looking backward over a period of twenty or thirty years, is convinced that prices are too high; he cannot realize that the city has gone far since 1900, and that Los Angeles real estate will ever be little, if any, lower than it is now.

Last week a piece of property on Broadway, between Sixth and Seventh, and extending through to Hill street, was leased for ninety-nine years at a rental of nearly $18,000,000. The men who paid this enormous rental were not residents of Los Angeles; they were business men of San Francisco and of the East, who don't know and don't

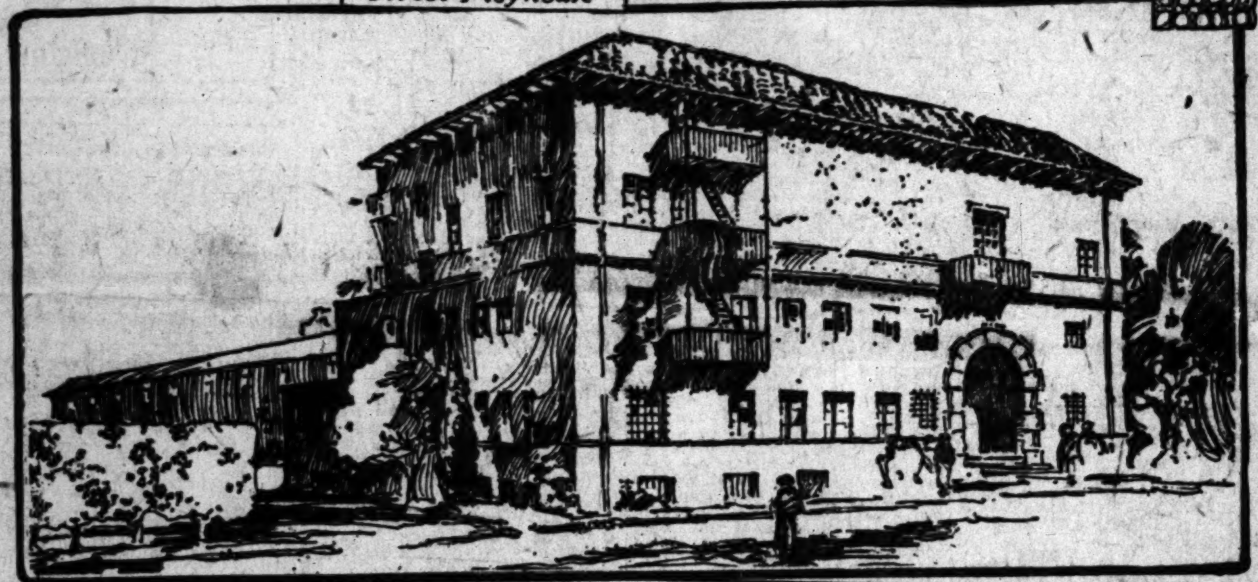
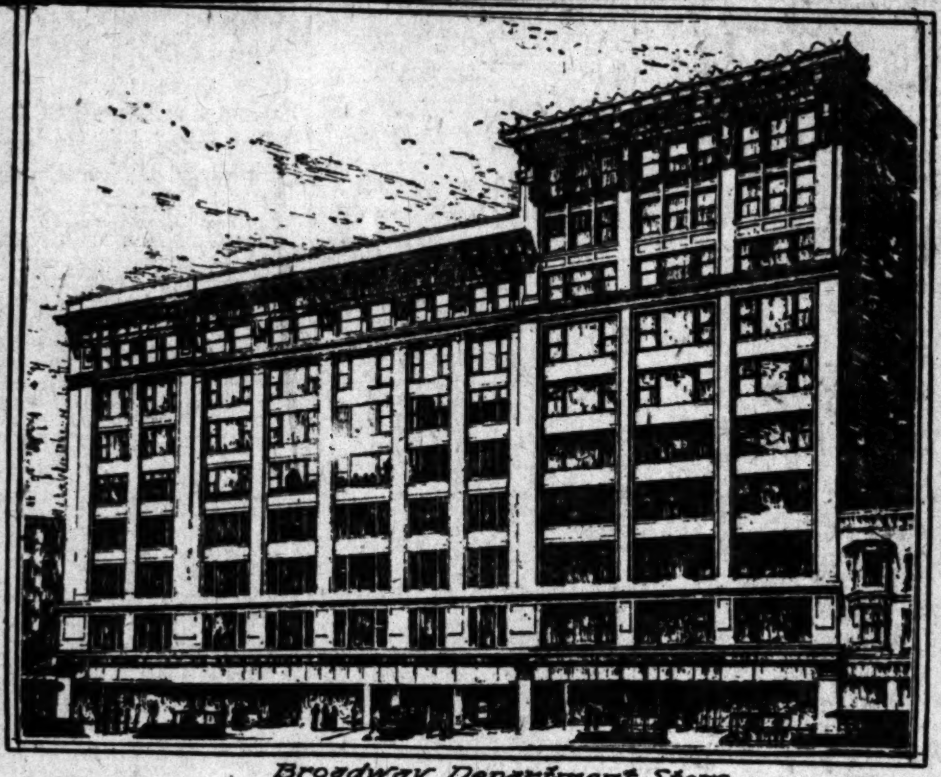
New Washington Street Playhouse



Anderson Memorial Home



Broadway Department Store

Buildings to be Erected in Near Future

The theater shown at the top is to be erected by West Coast Theaters, Inc., on the north side of Washington street, through the block extending from Vermont avenue to New Hampshire street. It has been designed, engineered and will be built by Meyer & Holler. Plans for the Anderson Memorial Home to be built at Ninth and Mesa streets in San Pedro have been completed by John J. Frauenfelder, local architect. The drawing of the Broadway Department Store shows the building now occupied by the store and the addition to be built on the property adjoining the store on Fourth street, now occupied by the Sherman Hotel.

MILLIONS FOR NEW BUILDINGS

Department Store Addition Plans Are Completed

Attractive Memorial Home for San Pedro

Medieval Design Feature of Huge Theater

Several million dollars will be spent in erecting and equipping three new structures which are contained in Los Angeles' building program for the spring. These structures are, a large addition to the Broadway Department Store, the Anderson Memorial Home for San Pedro and a $1,000,000 theater to be erected on West Washington street.

As the result of increased activities in merchandise selling and resultant need for additional working space, announcement was made yesterday by the Broadway Department Store that tentative plans have been formulated for the immediate erection of a height-limit building adjoining their Fourth and Broadway structure on the west at an approximate expenditure of $600,000.

Arrangements have been completed for the commencement of work within the next ten days, including the removal of existing structures on the property and excavation for three sub-basements to extend fifty feet below the level of the street. According to Harry Philp, vice-president and general manager of the store, the new addition will be ready for occupancy next March.

SERVICE UNIT INCREASED

It is the intention of the owners to devote more than one-half of the proposed building to the service departments, including the receiving and distribution divisions. Plans also have been made for the installation of two huge freight elevators that will have a carrying capacity of more than 30,000 pounds and room for delivery trucks twenty-five feet in length.

Two entrances will be located on the Fourth-street side to care for delivery cars that will enter the building on elevators, loading and unloading their goods in the basement where every modern facility for speedy distribution and handling of material has been provided. Three vertical freight conveyors extending from the basement to the fourth floor have been planned to efficiently carry goods to the shipping department in the basement from various departments.

Space on the first floor will be devoted exclusively to the underwear, hosiery and optical departments with the adjustment offices and art department on the second. Special preparations have been made for the construction of thirty-seven rooms on the third floor to be used by hair-dressing and manicuring patrons. The rooms will contain marble floors and partitions.

A complete junior department will be located on the fourth story including an enlarged toy and children's barber shop section. Remaining floors will house the stockrooms and general offices. In terms of land acreage the new building will provide additional space of three acres to the present floor space of eleven acres making a total of fourteen acres.

Exterior decorations will follow closely the design used in the main building with the use of terra cotta and glazed brick for facing. Fireproof material will be used in the construction including an expensive fire-extinguishing system and incinerator apparatus. The incinerator will be thirty feet long and will be the largest furnace of its kind in the West.

It was also announced that a

TWO MILLIONS IN DEALS

Leasing and Sale of Valuable Close-in Realty Holdings Reported by Local Firm

F. W. Kadletz of W. I. Hollingsworth & Co. reports that final negotiations have been completed for the sale of the property at 1130-40 West Seventh street to W. M. Petifils, by a syndicate headed by W. I. Hollingsworth. The property has a frontage of 265 feet on Seventh street and a depth of 600 feet extending through to Eighth street. The consideration was $650,000. B. O. Miller represented the syndicate in the transaction and F. W. Kadletz, the purchaser. It is Mr. Petifils's intention to immediately improve the property with a class A building.

Mr. Kadletz also reports the sale of the property at 1325 South Flower street to Alfred Schaber. The property, improved with a two-story class A building, is at present occupied by the Howard Automobile Company. The cash consideration was $135,000. Lillian Hawkes was the seller.

The property at 832 South Grand avenue, size 60 by 155 feet, has been sold to Frank Schreiner for

PLAN NEW CHURCH

Architect Harry L. Pierce has been commissioned to prepare plans for a new building for the El Sereno Presbyterian Church, to be erected on Portola avenue in El Sereno. The structure will contain an auditorium to seat 350 persons with rooms for various classes, social gatherings and entertainment. The building, which will contain a pipe organ, will cost approximately $30,000.

START MAY WAREHOUSE

May Brothers have announced that work has started on their new warehouse at Jefferson and Grand and that the addition of three stories to present Hamburger Building at Eighth and Broadway has commenced. Architect Martin is supervising the construction and installation of equipment.

Los Angeles Has Great Area to Draw From

City Fortunately Situated for Expansion

March of Progress Aided by Big Banks

What are the foundations of a great city? Like the foundations of any structure, they are of utmost importance, but, unlike the physical foundations of buildings, they may rest undeveloped for years before a city really uses them.

Potentially the foundations of our own city, Los Angeles, have existed since the foundation of the Pueblo, though it is only within the last decade that they have in fact become the foundations of Los Angeles. Geographically they have been here since the beginning of time. It required the hand of man and his machinery, directed by the vision of the greatest leaders and pioneers of the West, to make them in concrete reality the active foundations of our chosen city.

It is upon the back country that a city rests. The first is a primitive reason, food, for men cannot exist in large groups without having closely adjacent to that group habitation an ample supply of fresh fruits, vegetables and produce. The second requirement of the back country is a supply of raw materials whereby the industries of the city may be supplied with their fundamental needs that factories may be kept in operation and profitable employment furnished.

CIRCLE WIDENING

As a consequence we find the foundations of Los Angeles stretching in an ever-increasing radius, for as the city grows the genius of man impels a search for raw materials farther and farther afield.

This is illustrated in the growth of every great industrial center in civilization. As a manufacturing nation Great Britain finds her foundations resting in India, in China, in Africa, Australia and Canada. Almost the entire world furnishes raw materials to keep the factories of the "tight little island" in operation. It has been said of New York City that the whole United States is her back country, of New Orleans that her strength and wealth is the strength and wealth of the entire South. That the secret of Chicago's tremendous accomplishments industrially is to be found in the wide prairies of the great Middle West.

Not infrequently the foundations of cities overlap. Fortunately, indeed for Los Angeles sufficient distance lies between us and our nearest metropolitan neighbor to have avoided serious difficulty from any overlapping of foundations before our own size and strength enabled us to successfully defend our rights.

MUST AID NATURE

It is not always the natural advantages that make an industrial city. Los Angeles, with an adequate harbor and the right back country or foundations has speedily achieved metropolitan size and overcome by development nature's shortcomings at the harbor. Indicative of the fundamental importance of these foundations is the plight of the city to our south, which with one of the finest harbors in the world, finds itself shut in by mountains and arid regions combined with national border lines that have handicapped its metropolitan development. Its local natural advantages of harbor and climate have been insufficient to, of themselves, make possible the development of a true metropolis.

A city without a foundation is indeed in a sorry plight. The ultimate future of its growth is limited and the possibility for income from investment in real property in such a city is, to say the least, hazardous.

As we look outward from Los Angeles to survey its foundations we find them first in the citrus and rich agricultural and horticultural lands of Riverside, San Bernardino and Orange counties. As we look further into the mountains we find precious metals, minerals and mineral deposits. As we reach out toward the desert, even this barren area contributes its quota in borax and minerals of the alkali family.

THE BACK COUNTRY

Turning our eye further afield lies the man-developed riches of the once desert, now the Imperial Valley; further to the east, the cotton fields of Arizona, and further still a newly tapped foundation, the cattle ranges of Eastern Arizona and New Mexcio, which now finds a profitable market in and contributes to the wealth of Los Angeles. Tracing our steps backward for a moment as we proceed up the Coast we enter the bean fields of Ventura and Oxnard districts.

Crossing the mountains we enter the fertile valleys of Central California, rich in agricultural and other resources, from which raw materials are drawn to supply the industrial section of our metropolitan life.

WHITE GOLD?

Two factors we have overlooked purposely. From these same mountains which furnish mineral and timber we also draw the "white gold of California," or hydroelectric power, the steady, continuous, low-priced power which stabilizes and makes possible the continuous operation of industries. Neither must we overlook the tremendous oil fields of such extent that it almost seems true that all of Southern California is underlaid with oil. So great a factor has this become that Los Angeles stands today as the greatest oil shipping port in the world, to whose docks come tankers from the seven seas.

Few of these things would have become concrete realities in our day were it not for the development of our Aqueduct and the building of the Panama Canal. Los Angeles had a harbor, it is true, before the canal, but the harbor had little shipping. In our article of last week we pointed out the tremendously important position the harbor of Los Angeles occupies today in the intercoastal trade of the United States.

Not only do all these foundations contribute their quota of raw material, but they also furnish a market for our manufactured products. The average person starting on a first-hand investigation will be surprised to discover to what extent Los Angeles and her "foundations" are self-contained. Within our own borders we create the raw materials, manufacture them to finished products, and to a great extent furnish a market for their consumption.

MUST SEEK MARKETS

This alone would not, however, develop a very large city. There must be the continuous influx of raw materials. We must search further afield for markets for our manufactured products, for our raw materials, for our agricultural crops, which are ever increasing in size, and as we expand that circle so do we expand the foundations. The proposed steel and iron mills, which will operate on a combination of iron ores from our near-by mountains, coal from Utah, electricity from the Sierras and crude oil from the wells of Southern California, will once again expand our industrial foundation.

We may accept as fundamental that a city resting securely on such commercial foundations as we have mentioned has her future assured. Los Angeles, having an adequate supply of raw materials, constantly increasing industrial facilities for manufacturing, adequate transportation, a stabilized supply of power, ample pure water combined with the most wonderful climate in the world, speaking now industrially, certainly has a future that makes investments in income real estate here one of certain profit.

Under such auspices with the record of successful growth that is open to the inspection of all, we can conservatively look forward to the future of Los Angeles industrially and economically without the least sign of fear.

BANKS GIVE AID

That these foundations which I have illustrated are recognized by great financiers is exemplified by the action of one of the largest local banking institutions, which has but lately completed an arrangement whereby branches of its central organization are to be found in each of the centers of the prime foundations I have set forth. This in order that the financial strength of Los Angeles, the money we have available for investment and financing may be available in the tributary territories. It is significant, too, of our widely diversified agricultural foundations that as stated publicly by one of the officials of this banking institution, there is scarcely a month in the year when money is not needed by some one of these districts for the harvesting of a crop or for their planting. So that when money is flowing in from the sale of Fresno's raisins, it is available to finance the marketing of Riverside's oranges. Likewise the return from the sale of the oranges will again serve its purpose in other regions.

While this but sketches the subject, it will give an inkling of the soundness of our expectations for Los Angeles' future. Perhaps the greatest handicap today to the real estate investor is his seeming utter inability to look further than the figurative "end of his nose." The great basic truths which are the secure foundations for such investments seldom attract attention, and yet they of themselves can make or defeat the future income from realty investment.

HANFORD ON VERGE OF BOOM

Plans Are Completed for Erection of New Business Buildings in Near Future

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HANFORD, April 21.—Building operations in this city are on the boom and all the building trades crafts have more work than they have men to handle it. Two large remodeling jobs on business buildings are now nearing completion, the McFarland building for the dry goods store of the Perkins Company and the Gallaher building for the Horton Furniture Company.

The Artesia Hotel property was recently purchased by the Rosenthal Sales Store Company of San Francisco, which will at once begin remodelling work requiring a large expenditure of money. W. D. Trewhitt is erecting a new brick business building, the upper story leased to the Southern California Edison Company, for a clubroom for its employees.

F. N. Isaacs will on May 1 begin the erection of a large store and office building. Work on construction of a new building for the Bank of Italy and another for M. B. Washburn, on lots in the business district which they have just purchased, will begin as soon as the present tenants of the property vacate. The purchase has been arranged, but not yet consummated, by one of the largest automobile concerns in the city, for lots on one of the main business streets on which is to be erected a modern building, and there are quite a number of other new business buildings in prospect.

New residences are going up all over the city. There never has before been the amount of building construction going on in Hanford that there is today and the future looks especially bright in that line. New business firms are coming in and those already here are enlarging or remodeling to take care of increased trade. The year 1923 bids fair to be the most prosperous in the history of the city, with large investments being made here of outside capital as well as by local business men.

FORM INCOME DEPARTMENT

Lute G. Gillelen, wholesale tire dealer and real estate dealer, and C. R. Edwards, local business man, are now associated with Pannel & Callahan, realtors, who recently aquired a lease on the quarters at the southwest corner of Pico street and Western avenue, where they are doing a tremendous realty and building business. Messrs. Gillelen and Edwards will have charge of the income department, handling flats, stores, apartments and other income properties.

MAYO ARCHITECTS

Making practical the beautiful is the task set our Architects. Because: Clients expect beauty in Mayo built Apartment Houses and Hotels.
And they demand that they be practical, for thus are tenants made comfortable and contented. And, satisfied tenants are the source from which revenue flows.
For better than ten years Mayo Architects have been creating plans for distinctive Mayo buildings which, built to Mayo Standards of construction have won the position of leadership for the Mayo Organization.
Proof of which is evidenced by the tremendous volume of our building activities and hundreds of satisfied Mayo clients to whom we will cheerfully refer you.

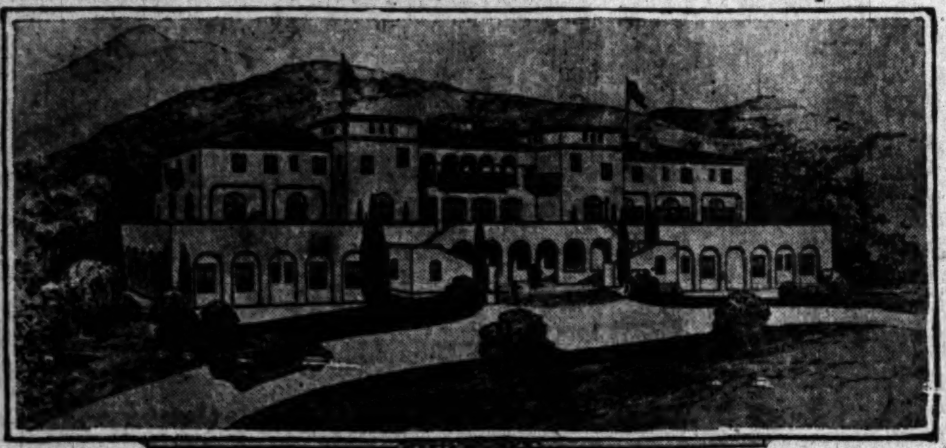
Palatial Home of Country Club Soon to Be Completed



Architect's Drawing of the Encino Country Club

This structure will be completed in the near future, according to Arthur L. Acker, local architect, who designed it. The site for the building is in the midst of the club's property, four miles north of the Hollywood Country Club and one-half mile above the Ventura Highway. In addition to billiard, card, dining and club rooms the building has thirty sleeping rooms, each having an individual bath adjoining.

Will Open New Hillside Tract in Hollywood

Announcement of the intention of the Taft Land and Development Company to develop 325 acres of foothill property adjacent to the Weid Canyon dam as a new subdivision was made yesterday. The tract is to be known as Hollywood Knolls.

Improvements will include concrete streets, lights, trees, gas, water and electricity. The houses, terraces, gardens, walks and the streets are to be planned as an integral part of the entire development, according to subdividers.

In order that a new standard in planning might be set and the site be developed with skill and science, the Taft Land and Development Company announces that several months in search for a planner of the tract were spent. Franz Herding, formerly of Switzerland, will prepare the design. Mr. Herding brings to Southern California his years of experience in the development of hillside properties, both in Europe and in America.

REPORT RESULTS OF SETTLERS' CAMPAIGN

WILL ERECT GROUP OF HOMES IN NEW SUBDIVISION AT VAN NUYS

The campaign for settlers, launched last week by the business men of Van Nuys, has proved successful beyond all expectations, according to the report of A. E. Streeter, organizer and active head of the project. A very satisfactory number of Los Angeles people have bought lots and announced their intentions of building homes in the West Van Nuys subdivision in the immediate future and a large number of inquiries have been received from different parts of the country, showing the wide range of the Los Angeles newspapers.

Some time ago the Van Nuys business men learned that fifteen to twenty prospective home builders were lost to the community each week because of the scarcity of improved vacant land in small plots.

Though West Van Nuys has been open only one week, plans for many homes have already been drawn and it is said that construction will be started immediately on most of them. Ten of these homes will be built by the Van Nuys business men and the rest by the purchasers of lots. A. E. Streeter plans to erect one of the most beautiful homes in the tract for his family.

The tract is a short distance from the center of the business district of Van Nuys. It is located on Sherman Way, the drive which runs west from Van Nuys to Owensmouth. Vanowen street, which runs directly through West Van Nuys, will be paved before June 23, according to the guarantee of the contractor.

CULVER CITY SCHOOL

Architect Albert C. Martin has finished the plans for a parish hall and school to be built in Culver City at a cost of $15,000. Frame and plaster will be used in the construction, including tile for roofing. Bids are now being received by Mr. Martin.

SECURE HOLLYWOOD LEASE

A. C. Blumenthal has secured the lease on the property at the northwest corner of Hollywood Boulevard and Cherokee avenue and expects to erect a $250,000 store and office building on the site. The lot is 90 by 106 feet.

Builders' Questions Answered

By Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America

[With the view of rendering assistance to prospective builders and for the purpose of giving sound advice on problems arising in connection with building projects The Times has instituted this department, which will be conducted as a weekly feature. All questions should be sent to the Real Estate and Building Department, Los Angeles Times.]

Question: I wish to build a three-unit court, each consisting of four rooms divided into two-room apartments and to rent for $25 a month. The size of each building would be about 22 by 28 feet. Could you give me an idea of the cost of same?

Answer: It is impossible to give any kind of an estimate without more detail as to class of workmanship and materials, but you can form an idea of the approximate cost by assuming cheap construction at $2 per square foot and ordinary good bungalows at $3 per square foot. This would make the cost range between $3700 and $5050 for these two classes of work.

Q.: Perhaps you can solve in a satisfactory way my little problem. I have a six-room bungalow with stucco exterior. The finishing coat is of cement and shows cracks in many places. How can this defect be best remedied? Is there a paint that can cover up these cracks? About two weeks elapsed between the application of the second and third coats so the cracks are evidently confined to this last thin coat. I am told climatic conditions caused the cracking as the walls with north exposure are in perfect condition.

A. There are a number of paints upon the market intended for coating exterior plaster walls. It is suggested that you get in touch with several of the leading paint dealers, explain what you desire to accomplish and see how far they will go toward insuring satisfactory results from the use of their respective paints.

If your exterior coat is thin, it is most likely that the cracks originated in the thicker under coats and did not develop until after the finish was applied. Delay in applying the final coat is the best-known method of preventing the appearance of cracks on the surface, for it allows the finish coat to fill up and hide the cracks that have developed. Of course, if the cracks have not fully developed before application of the last coat, they will show through the latter as they continue ot develop.

Such cracks come from several causes, from a movement in structural portion of the building, such as shrinkage of lumber or settlement, from shrinkage or warping of the lath, from shrinkage of the plaster because of too rich or too lean mixture, or unfavorable atmospheric conditions during its application and seldom occur only in the finish coat. However, the fact that your north walls are in perfect condition would seem to indicate that the sun dried out the plaster of the other walls before it had set and there they may be in the finish coat only. If so, they would be "craze" cracks, not long ones, comparatively straight, as would usually appear when cracks extend into all coats.

PRE-OPENING SALE of SUPER-HOMESITES at FRANKLIN PARK

Within the 5½ mile circle

In Many Ways

The Most Unusual Offering
Ever Placed Before the Public

Unless you have the gift of an artist to visualize—to paint mind pictures of indescribable beauty—you will never appreciate what we are offering you today, without a personal visit to this wonderful, newly opened acreage.

It is a genuine discovery—yet it is right here in Los Angeles, within the 5½-mile circle. It has just been awaiting the cutting through of a road to lay it before you.

Think of being able to see the mountains, the ocean, neighboring cities, verdant hills and winding roads—all from one hillside. But you can't picture it. Words fail to do it justice. You must come out and see it for yourself.

You'll Be Amazed—You'll Be Delighted

Take our word for it—it will exceed your fullest expectations. Once you glimpse the wonderful view visible from this hillside domain, you will never want to leave.

A gentle sloping, winding road leads to the crest—giving you all the thrill and pride in possession of owning a vast country estate. The roads will all be widened, oiled and lined with shade trees. All improvements paid for by the owners—including gas, water, electricity. Near a high school, two grammar schools, a college—and 5 cent fare car line. Just twenty minutes from town. Twenty-five minutes by yellow car.

Small First Payments—Very Low Monthly Payments ($10 to $15)

And the prices are low. Large hillside lots, with 50-foot frontage, as low as $550. Large 60 and 75-foot front lots, $1000 to $1700, with sensible building restrictions. Just pay 10 per cent down and small monthly payments will take care of the rest.

Bring your children here and teach them how to live. You can buy and build—or buy and sell at a profit. $10 will hold YOUR lot.

EL MONTE TO TELL VIRTUES

Advertising Campaign Will be Undertaken

Spring Drive to Prepare for Another in Fall

Strive to Accelerate Growth of Community

El Monte will undertake the task of informing 200,000 residents of the East of its many advantages and possibilities through the medium of newspaper advertising, according to the statement of the Chamber of Commerce of the San Gabriel Valley city. In preparation for an extensive advertising campaign which is to be undertaken this fall a smaller campaign is to be instituted this week.

Details of the management of this work have been left in the hands of a committee of the El Monte Chamber of Commerce. The members of this committee are: P. J. Cooney, author and educator; George A. Stingle, H. C. Strachan, C. C. Haltman and Earl W. Porter, secretary of the commercial organization. Mr. Stingle is the chairman of the committee.

The spring campaign, according to the announcement, will consist of eight advertisements to appear in The Times. The fall drive will be much more extensive.

It is the ambition of those interested in the work to make it possible to increase the building-permit valuation of the community to the million-dollar mark. El Monte has made an enviable record during recent years, according to the Chamber of Commerce, but one which is to be short lived. In 1921 the total for building operations in the city was $45,000. This figure was increase to $206,000 in 1922 and to $171,000 during the first three months of 1923. It is anticipated that the $600,000 mark will be left behind before the close of the current twelve months.

One of the factors which the Chamber of Commerce will stress in its campaign is the advantageous location of El Monte. This community is situated twelve miles east of Los Angeles, nine miles from the mountains and thirty miles from the beaches.

In addition to these attractive qualities El Monte owns its own water system which supplies the city with abundant mountain water. The sewer system is one of the most complete in the State and is said to be adequate to take care of the future growth which it is anticipated that the city will make during the next few months.

El Monte was founded in 1882 by a band of pioneers. The many attractive features possessed by the San Gabriel Valley are said to have been responsible for the first settlement of the community as well as the growth which has been made in recent years.

PLANS COMPLETED

Edwin Bergstron, architect, has completed plans for the co-operative apartment-house to be built at the northwest corner of Third and Atlantic streets, to cost $600,000, for the Concord Mansions Building Company and Mrs. H. T. Church. It will be ten stories in height and will be constructed of fireproof material.

BRAZILIAN COTTON EXPORTS

Exports of cotton from Brazil during 1922 were 33,947 metric tons compared with 19,097 metric tons in 1921 and 37,424 tons in 1919. Exports of cotton from Brazil after earlier periods of expansion have never shown such encouraging development as in the past few months, according to the Jornal de Commercio.

Guasti House to be Erected Near Ontario

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, April 21.—Construction was started this week on a residence for Secondo Guasti, head of the great Italian Vineyard Company, which is to occupy the site of the old Guasti ranchhouse at the eastern gates of Ontario. This promises to be the finest structure of its kind in San Bernardino county.

The dwelling, which will cost approximately $75,000, will be of the low Spanish type with spacious interior patio. The dwelling will cover on area of approximately 101 by 160 feet and will be of one story in height. The patio will be 62 by 30 feet.

The Campbell Construction Company of Ontario has been awarded the principal contract for the building. The construction will be principally of brick.

The finish, while all the keeping with the Spanish architecture, will be elaborate, with much hand-carved and wrought iron work. Three fireplaces will be a feature of the dwelling, one of these being placed in the patio.

The dwelling will contain some twenty rooms and six baths. The dwelling room is to be 24 by 48 feet and this, with the dining-room and bedroom of the owner, will have arched ceilings. The interior finish will provide wall niches for the figures of Spanish saints. A clubroom is to be a feature of the great dwelling.

Morgan, Walls & Morgan of Los Angeles are the architects for the new building.

Riverside Out to Make New April Record

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, April 21.—With a total of $14,160 in building permits issued during the past week by the City Engineer's office, the total for the month now rises to $46,910, which is over half the amount issued during April, 1922.

The first week of the present month was the highest, the past week fell far below the mark set by the $31,750 issued from April 1 to April 7. But if the remaining two weeks of April do not fall below the $15,000 mark, the amount will easily equal that of April of last year.

Indications seem to point to an increase in building during the remainder of the month, and it is expected by local building men that the total for April will far surpass that of any previous year.

Building permits issued since the first of the year now come to $508,044. January had a total of $217,486; February, $116,135, and March, $134,113. This is greater than the amount of permits issued during the entire year 1913.

MAIN-STREET BUILDING

Morris Harris expects to erect a seven-story Class-A loft building at the southwest corner of Eleventh and Main streets. C. J. Kubach has the contract to build the structure, which will be of reinforced concrete construction, with pressed brick and cast stone for exterior facings. Harwood Hewitt drew the plans.

NEW COMPTON HOTEL

The Southland Hotel Company is planning to erect a three-story hotel at Compton. Drawings as prepared by S. H. Brown provide for four stores, lobby and restaurant on the ground floor, with sixty-four rooms on the remaining floors. The building will be ninety-five feet in depth and width.

PLAN BUILDING AT OCEAN PARK

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

OCEAN PARK, April 21.—A business block which will represent a total investment of more than $60,000 has been started on Main street south of Ashland avenue by Hirsh Brothers, San Bernardino merchants. The plans provide for the erection of a brick business block which will contain space for more than six stores.

The property was purchased from the Osborne estate. David Hirsch, who conducted the transaction, gave his opinion that this city is on the eve of tremendous development.

START ELECTRIC LINE

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HOME GARDENS, April 21.—More than 200 poles have been distributed in Home Gardens, which will soon be placed in position by the employees of the Southern California Edison Company, after which the work of stringing the wires will be commenced. As soon as connections are made with the South Gate lines, the residents then will have electricity for lighting purposes. Small power will also be furnished along California street, and for four blocks on Tweedy Road, in addition to the power for lights. The community is now without a street lighting system, although there are several hundred families residing in that territory.

Will Erect Fine Church at Van Nuys

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VAN NUYS, April 21.—The first movement toward new and modern church buildings has been inaugurated by the Baptist congregation here, which has purchased two lots at the corner of Hamlin and Sylmar streets and will begin in a few days the erection of the first unit of the group of church structures which will eventually occupy the new site.

The first building will be of stucco finish and will be eventually a Sunday school and social building. It will be 45 by 80 feet in size with a commodious basement to be used for various activities of the church. The auditorium will be used as a Sunday-school room in addition to numerous class rooms.

Until such time as the main church building can be erected the auditorium will be used for services. The old church structure is to be sold. The new building will cost $10,000 and will be rushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

$5,000,000 INDUSTRIAL BUILDING BEGU

VAST TERMINAL TAKES FOR

Work Starts Today on $5,000,000 Industrial Proj of Incalculable Importance to Los Angeles.

Work starts today on the first unit of a great warehouse and manufacturing terminal, which will cost ultimately more than $5,000,000. It is being erected on Loma Vista avenue, between Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth streets, east of Downey Boulevard, in the central manufacturing district of Los Angeles. F. L. S. Harman, general manager of the enterprise, made the announcement yesterday.

It is to be known as the warehouse and manufacturing terminal of the district and may properly be called the parent building, for it is the forerunner of hundreds of factories and industries of all kinds that are to follow in this East Los Angeles industrial district.

WORK RUSHED ON FIRST UNIT OF FACTORIES

Largest Structure on Pacific Coast Planned as Center for Distributing All Freight

Construction of what is declared will be the largest industrial building on the Pacific Coast, to cost as a whole $5,00,0000, was started yesterday, according to announcement made by F. L. S. Harmon, manager of the Central Manufacturing District of Los Angeles, where the structure will be erected.

This is the first of a number of similar buildings to be erected in the new district by the financial interests that own the Central Manufacturing District, Union Stockyards and Junction Railway in Chicago.

It is planned to erect the initial building in units, the first of which will be rushed to completion to provide space for a group of Eastern manufacturing concerns. It will also serve as a distributing center for the freight that is expected to develop there.

The building will be located just east of Downey boulevard, three blocks southeast of administration building of the Union stockyards.

Four tracks of the Los Angeles Junction Railway, which will serve as a feeder to all the rail lines entering this city, will pass through the proposed structure, which will bear the same relationship to the other manufacturing

These Clippings Show the Way!

A LEADING editorial of last Sunday's Times says, "Of the many signs pointing to the future of Los Angeles, no one is more encouraging than the erection of a mighty warehouse and freight terminal to meet the needs of an industrial district already merging into the Pittsburg and Chicago class."

The clippings on this page all refer to the starting of this mighty Freight Terminal and Manufacturers' Building—the parent building around which will grow hundreds of great industries and factories.

With the tracks of FOUR railroads running into this building, it is well called "The Freight Post Office!" Thousands of carloads of raw materials will come in and thousands of carloads of processed goods will be sent out.

Here, logically, will become the focal point for Los Angeles manufacturing. Hundreds of manufacturers will operate their plants in this Central Manufacturing District and in the near-by Union Pacific Industrial District, and these industries, together with the Union Stockyards, now operating with astonishing success, will demand 50,000 workers, according to authoritative statements.

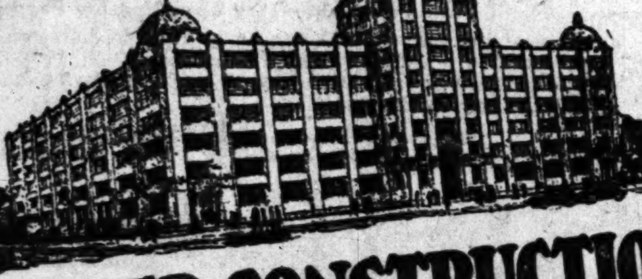
NOW figure for yourself the sequence of events.

Fifty Thousand Workers! That means 250,000 new population for the East Los Angeles Industrial District. Their trade will demand at a low estimate, 5000 stores, banks, office buildings, amusement and other business houses.

THE BUSINESS CENTER IS UNION PACIFIC MANOR

Which is of extremely limited area. If each business required only ONE lot, imagine the competition for sites and the prices that will be paid!

CENTRAL MFG. DISTRICT $5,000,000 Terminal Warehouse and Manufacturers' Building



UNDER CONSTRUCTION

And TODAY, business sites can be bought for as little as $1495 and frontage on Downey Boulevard, destined to become another Broadway, for $150 a front foot. In a few years it should be worth $1000 a foot or more.

The limited amount of RAILROAD FRONTAGE close to the great business district it will serve, should soon command a heavy premium. Mercantile houses will bid against each other for railroad frontage to handle their own carload shipments, while the nearby Central Mfg. District will give quick service on less than carload shipments.

THIS is the wonderful meaning of this vast development to YOU—the opportunity to start YOUR profits as these vast industries start.

Hundreds of people have laid the foundation for enormous profits here. YOUR opportunity is Here and NOW! This is no time for delay. Investigate—then invest! TODAY!

were the pioneer mer-of that thoroughfare, re-between First and

Court streets to their present location on the west side of Broadway between Third and Fourth, and the old-timers shook their heads and considered it a most dubious move.

Along in 1875, a real estate concern, Kimball & Bancroft, advertised some "bargains." Let us take a look at them and see if they would not be considered such in the light of 1923:

"Five acres of choice land adjoining the Washington Gardens; an elegant building site; one acre in alfalfa and the rest in fruit trees and vines. Price, $2600."

As any sort of land in the vicinity of the "Washington Gardens" is now worth several hundred dollars a front foot, we'll let you be the judge. The spot is at the corner of Main and Washington streets. The price in 1875 was about $500 an acre.

Here's another:

"Splendid new cottage dwelling house and lot, 50 by 165, situated on Fort street (Broadway) near St. Vincent's College. House has ten rooms, all hard finished; gardens and fruit trees. Price, $3750."

St. Vincent's College was located just south of the Owl Drug Store at Sixth and Broadway. Land there is probably worth today in excess of $12,000 a front foot. In 1887 that entire block between Sixth and Seventh, extending through to Hill street, sold for $100,000. Was it a snap? Oh, boy!

And this one:

"Very desirable lot on Fort street near First; lot, 82 by 140, price, $3600."

That could not have been far from the present location of The Times Building. We think any investor would today probably be very glad to pay that price per front foot for property near First and Broadway. "And there are others."

Fort street property seems to have been an especial eye-sore to real estate men of those days. Hark to this appeal:

"House and lot, 120 by 165 on Fort street; fine location for a residence; Price, $2650."

"Choice building lot 120 by 165 on westerly side of Fort street, near Fourth. Price, $2200."

And on the 9th inst., property adjoining the Story Building at Sixth and Broadway, sold for $11,500 a front foot! Now don't you feel like kicking yourself?

How about this one:

"Plot of ground fronting on Main and Spring street with frontage of 200 feet on each street; near the proposed terminus of the Truxton Street Railroad; only $3800."

Wonder what this little snap would be worth today?

"Good house of four rooms situated one-half block from the Spring-street railway. Price, $1800."

Add about two more ciphers and you may come somewhere near its present worth.

And if you wanted some acreage—if you only had bought it and hung onto it—like these bargains, for instance:

"Forty-acre tract of fine farm land near the race track (now Exposition Park,) $25 per acre; eighty-acre tract near the above at $10 per acre."

Here's another:

"Two and one-half acres on the corner of Washington and Figueroa streets; fine location for a suburban residence; property offered for $1500, or will exchange for a city lot."

There is much grim humor in that "ad." Figueroa street today, as far as Washington street, is solidly lined with automobile salesrooms, and the land is worth probably $1000 a front foot—perhaps more.

Here's another poor chap who wanted to unload:

"Two and one-half acres of improved land on Main street, three blocks below Washington Gardens. Lots planted to walnut, orange, apple and peach trees and small vineyard; nearly all vines in bearing condition. Price, $2250."

Washington-street property today is worth real money. In 1875 'twas oh, so different! Hark to this:

"Fifty acres of choice fruit or farm land on Washington street, near the city limits; $80 per acre."

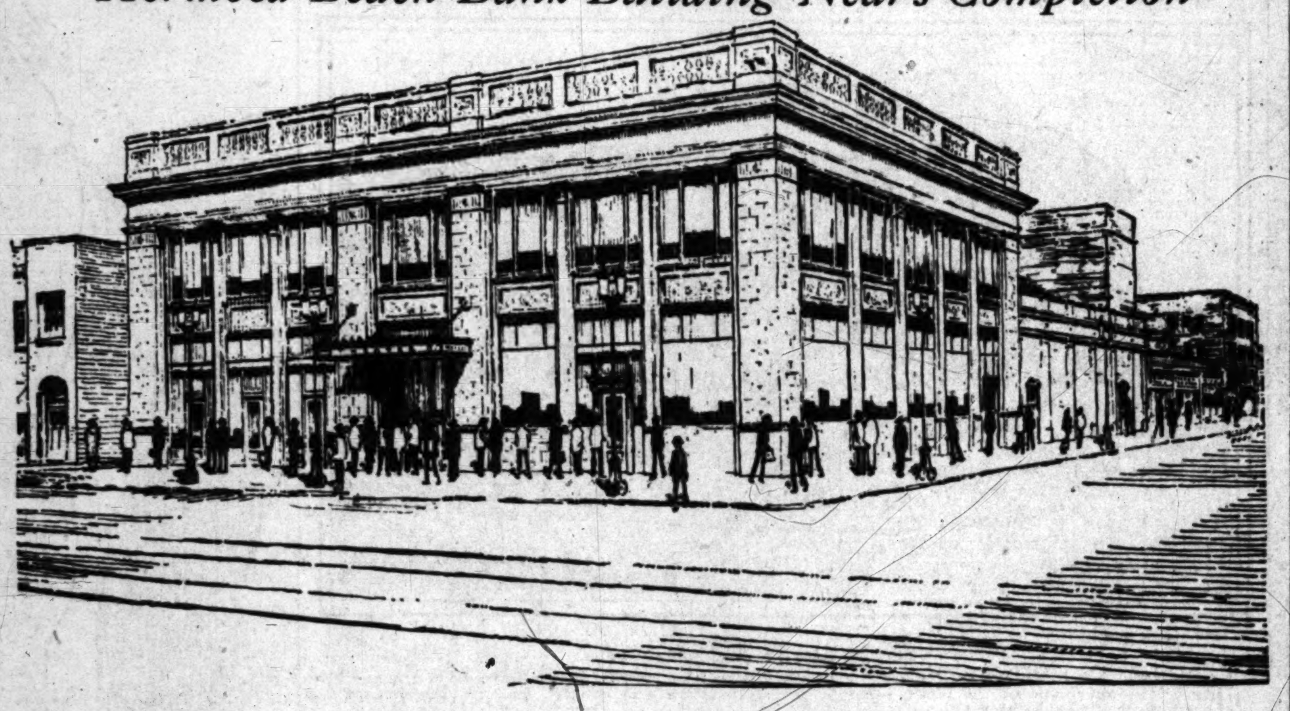
The "city limits" in those days would have been well east of Western avenue. Go out there today and price frontage—not acreage!

But here is the real bargain:

"Two and three-fourths acres, one block from the Spring-street railroad, with frontage on three streets, $850."

If we could only have looked ahead a few years! We'd all be millionaires forty times over, riding around in something better than a tin Lizzie, and able to afford strawberry shortcake and fried eggs three times a day!

Hermosa Beach Bank Building Nears Completion



New Home of the First Bank of Hermosa Beach

Notable among the recent additions which have been made to the beach community business district is the building which is being erected for the financial institution at a cost of $200,000. The structure is three stories in height and is to be arranged for the bank and a theater in addition to a storeroom on the first floor; offices on the second and the Masonic lodge room on the third.

Wilshire and Sixth Street Realty Sold

The sale of the property at 610 West Sixth street by the Anna Baumgartner estate to J. H. Woof for a consideration of $75,000 was announced yesterday by W. I. Hollingsworth & Co., agents in the transaction. The property was immediately resold by Mr. Woof to Dr. J. M. Comegys for $81,000.

The lot has a frontage of thirty-one feet on Sixth street, with a depth of fifty feet, and is improved with a three-story and basement brick building. Dr. Comegys purchased the property as an investment, and no new improvements are contemplated by him at the present time, according to the agents.

Through the same realty firm, the northeast corner of Berendo street and Wilshire Boulevard has been sold to Abram Post and Senator I. H. Roseberry, vice-president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, for $90,000. The Hollingsworth Company represented the buyers, while the seller, J. A. Alexander, was represented by Laack & Williams, realtors.

The lot, unimproved, has a frontage of 150 feet on Wilshire Boulevard, with a depth of 130 feet on Berendo street. Mr. Post, according to the Hollingsworth Company, has also bought the northwest corner of Wilshire Boulevard and Berendo street, improved with two residences. Both properties were bought for investment, it is stated.

NEW GLENDALE BLOCK

Plans are being prepared for a two-story store and apartment building to be built in Glendale for W. C. Seal. It will contain five stores and four three-room apartments with baths. Architect Rittenhouse states that the building will cost $25,000.

Knolls

One of the pretty stretches of land around Los Angeles is the knolls of Pico.

It is perfectly natural that country clubs should choose them for club sites.

Where these knolls commence Pico Boulevard Heights is beautifully situated. It slopes three ways, is nearest to the center of town and has main arteries direct to all principal points.

It is being built up with good homes by a good class of people. It is very valuable property and will be much more so when the tunnel is in. It is comparatively cheap now.

REALTOR MUST BE SPECIALIST

Broker in One Field Knows Needs of Clients

Matter of Proper Rental of Great Importance

Every Location Has Its Own Line of Business

BY W. ROSS CAMPBELL

[The following article is, in part, a reprint of an article by Mr. Campbell published in the current issue of the California Real Estate, the official publication of the State Real Estate Association.—Ed.]

A population of 875,000 is now claimed for Los Angeles by a well-informed local organization whose business it is to have the facts."

W Ross Campbell.

The last time we called an official halt in our daily routine to take public cognizance of our population figures, they were nearer the 800,000 mark.

Just visualize the process of picking up a city the size of Long Beach, with all its diversified interests, lines of business, etc., shuffling it into Los Angeles without spilling any of the cards on the table, and you will have pictured what it means for Los Angeles to have absorbed and assimilated upward of 75,000 people in the course of a year's time. This is the problem of Los Angeles year by year as her growth is now measured.

It is only natural, therefore, in this great rapidly growing city, where business, industry and population are getting an unprecedented pace, that the business of aiding and directing this assimilative process should become work for specialists.

If history has ever repeated itself, it has constantly reiterated the fact that the story of the development and progress of any great city, community or organization is a story of "specialists" and "specialization."

So in Los Angeles we find our sub-division specialists, our hotel and apartment-house specialists, our residential property specialists—and last, but by no means least—our specialists in "Nothing but Business Properties." All of whom come under the one general classification of realtors—provided they have acquired the necessary standing.

WHAT MERCHANT CAN DO

The business property specialist, by the very fact of his experience, is often in a position to know what a merchant can do or cannot do in a certain location, better than the merchant himself.

The business property realtor has watched the coming and going, the progress and development—or fall and decline — of firm after firm. Being on the ground and in intimate contact with executives, he knows the contributing fatcors to outstanding successes, to mediocrity — or to the occasional failure. He knows if the business has suffered from too much overhead. He knows if the buying traffic past the door was not sufficient to support the business. And, incidentally, he is often in a position to know if lack of foresight and resourcefulness — lack of executive ability or good salesmanship—has wrecked the ships that have gone on the rocks.

KNOWS RENTAL HE CAN PAY

Looking at this from the standpoint of the prospective tenant or buyer, lessor or seller, the business property specialist is in the very best position to know what rental a certain line of business can afford to pay. He will not permit his client to pay a higher rental or price than his business can stand—for no one gains in the long run by so doing. On the other hand, he will not permit the owner of the property to accept a rental or sale price below that which the property justly should command. What one line of business could not afford to pay for a given location might represent but a nominal rental or sale price for another, for whom the particular location presented unusually attractive possibilities.

So it becomes the duty of the business property specialist to place that particular business in the particular location where each will profit most. In this manner the interests of both clients are guarded.

In the desire to dispose of his vacant storeroom or property, at the earliest possible moment, the property owner is often inclined to turn it over to the first prospective tenant or purchaser who comes along, regardless of the ability of the lessee to make the location pay his rent or meet his payments on the property. Consequently the owner is burdened with the expense of frequently remodeling his premises to suit the needs of his changing tenants, as well as the loss of rental during the interim, or that caused by the inability of the tenant to pay. Yet another line more peculiarly adapted to the location would find no difficulty in prospering there.

RIGHT LOCATION

The right business in the right location, moreover, could readily afford to pay a constantly increasing rental as the location demonstrated its ability to contribute to the success of that business. There is a right business for every "right" location, and effecting this happy combination is one of the outstanding features of the business property specialist's service.

There are a hundred and one factors entering into the matter of "location," however, and it has been estimated by well-informed observers that as between location and "premises"—the two purely physical factors influencing the buying public—the former is upwards of 85 per cent responsible for the degree of success of the business.

Location naturally involves accessibility to the particular trade upon which the business is dependent. There are men's streets and women's streets; men's sides of streets and women's sides of streets. There is the shopping district, and the financial disdistrict. The textiele district, the wholesale district, the light manufacturing district and many more. A 100 per cent location for one business may be only a 50 per cent location for another. Some of the strangest paradoxes of success and failure are demonstrated by this one fact, just as the blind man with his tin cup will reveal to you the surprising fact that he has far better fortune on a shady side street than on busy Broadway where thousands pass him hourly—but just pass.

The foregoing are all facts with which the business property specialist is intimately acquainted, and it is his practical working knowledge in this direction which makes it very much worth while for the prospective tenant and lessor, buyer and seller, of business property, to place their problems in his hands.

POWERFUL ORGANIZATION

In addition to his intimacy with the problems of location, the business property specialist usually has the advantage of a powerful organization behind him that is constantly combing the city for available locations. Since that organization is perhaps composed of a large number of more or less influential men, all of whom have their particular coteries of friends and acquaintances among the executives and business men of hundreds of organizations, in toto, it is evident that the business property specialist is in touch with, and aware of, a great number of available locations before the information is given to the general public.

It is with no small degree of satisfaction, therefore, that the business property specialist renders his services to his clients and he is pleased to contemplate the fact that the splendid growth and progress of Los Angeles are in a measure due to his work in smoothing out the path of, and enabling the great process of assimilation, which will some day make Los Angeles the greatest city in the world.

BUS LINES WILL TAKE OFF CREAM

Paying Traffic Would Go to Automobile Competitor, Says Rail Head

Both sides of the bus question are to be heard by the members of the Los Angeles Realty Board as a special luncheon has been called for next Tuesday noon at the Elite to hear William G. McAdoo present the viewpoint of the interests that he represents.

At the last luncheon of the board, General Manager G. J. Kuhrts and George B. Anderson, manager of transportation of the Los Angeles Railway Company, frankly discussed the situation with the realtors. Mr. Kuhrts told the Realty Board members that ample equipment provision had been made for a normal rate of increase in population; that new cars cost $16,000 each in comparison with $6000 before the war; that with the exception of two cities all other local car lines in the country had been unable to haul people at the 5-cent fare; that 17,000 school children were hauled daily at 2½ cents; that fifty cars were used for this purpose alone, and that the longest lines were the heaviest losers, the Garvanza line, for instance, operating at a loss of $175,000.

Mr. Kuhrts pointed out that the Los Angeles Railway paid $865,000 in taxes each year, while the proposed bus companies, operating at fullest capacity all the time, could not pay more than $70,000 per annum. He said that half of the cars now used by his system were manufactured in Los Angeles, while all the proposed busses would be made in the East. He stated that the projected routes for the busses would take the "short haul" or most profitable traffic and thus remove the cream of the patronage from the already existing transit lines.

Mr. Anderson said that the pay roll in the local shops where cars were being made totaled $7,250,000, and he called attention of the realtors to the fact that for many years the Los Angeles Railway operated without paying dividends on its capital stock.

RECEIVING SCHOOL BIDS

Bids are being received by the Board of Education of Alhambra for the building of a new auditorium and administration structure for the Alhambra High School. The auditorium will have a seating capacity of 2000 persons with two classroom wings on each side of the hill. Construction will cost in the neighborhood of $350,000.

POSTOFFICE BUSINESS SHOWS CITY'S GROWTH

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HUNTINGTON PARK, April 21. The growth of a city may be judged by the business of the postoffice, it is said. If this is true, Huntington Park is growing by leaps and bounds, the growth of the postoffice being shown in the statement that the receipts for the month of March, this year, ran 30 per cent ahead of the rceipts for March of last year.

For some time, fourteen carriers have been employed to handle the mail for the city, but this number has recently been reduced by two, and the dozen carriers now employed are loaded down each day with deliveries when they leave the local office.

PASADENA CIVIC GROUP BOOSTED

Realty Board Approves New Crown City Project

More Than Three Millions to be Spent on Work

State Realtors' Convention Being Sought

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, April 21.—A unanimous resolution indorsing the proposed civic center for Pasadena was passed by the realty board at its meeting this week.

The need for a new City Hall, auditorium and library was forcefully brought home to the board by Stuart W. French, chairman of the City Planning Commission. He pointed out that the proposed site for the buildings is not commercially valuable ground and that a civic center would be a business as well as an esthetic asset to the city.

Though the project is estimated to cost $3,250,000, Mr. French stated that no accurate figures can be given until competitive bids for the construction have be made. According to the present plan, he said, the proposed civic center will allow for the construction of additional units as the need for them arises.

PLANS OUTLINED

Tentative plans for the project as recently outlined, call for a new City Hall, a municipal auditorium, and a new public library on Garfield avenue between Green and Holly streets. A large plaza will front the City Hall.

Leslie Henry, director and chairman of the finance committee of the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce, also spoke in favor of the project at the realty board meeting.

"The day this plan is defeated Pasadena may as well take a back seat among other enterprising communities of the Southland," he said. "While Pasadena is one of the most beautiful cities in America, it has done less to beautify itself than the average municipality of half its size. Only through private enterprise has the city gained its present sightliness. This is the first organized effort of its kind to improve the downtown district.

Charles F. Crick, chairman of the convention committee, reported at the meeting that letters were being received here from numerous realty boards of the State extending their co-operation in bringing the 1924 realty convention to Pasadena. A large number of delegates from the local board attended the convention in Long Beach today.

LARGE RANCH SOLD

Improved Property in Delano District Bought by Oakland Man

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DELANO, April 21.—The 260-acre ranch, know nas the Brown and Northey Ranch, owned for several years by Frank Schiltz, has been purchased by Edwin C. Graff, prominent Oakland contractor, for a consideration of $100,000.

This improved property is considered one of the finest in this district. There are eighty-five acres planted to Thompson seedless vines, ninety acres alfalfa and the balance to barley. Four pumping plants and four miles of cement pipe, two houses, one a modern six-room residence, the other a tenant's house, barns, corrals and other equipment incident to the dairy industry, make up improvements. Mr. Graff, the new owner, plans to stock the place with forty head of superior Holstein dairy cows and a large herd of hogs. He expects these animals to consume the alfalfa crop.

The eighty-five acres planted to barley will be put into orchard, a portion to be planted this spring. While no definite decision has been made as to variety of fruit, it is expected that apricots and peaches will make up this orchard. Chester Hagan of Fresno has taken charge of the property.

LEASE IS SECURED

The Quakeriene Oil Company, dealers in lubricating oils and greases, have taken a lease through A. Brashem of the J. W. Lewis Company, on the one-story brick building at 1211 Santa Fe avenue. PASADENA CIVIC GROUP BOOSTED

lty Board Approves New Crown City Project

More Than Three Millions to be Spent on Work

Realtors' Convention Being Sought

"Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, April 21.—A unanimous resolution indorsing the proposed civic center for Pasadena was passed by the realty board at its meeting this week.

The need for a new City Hall, auditorium and library was forcefully brought home to the board by [illegible] W. French, chairman of the City Planning Commission. He pointed out that the proposed site for the buildings is not commercially valuable ground and that a civic center would be a business as well as an esthetic asset to the city.

Though the project is estimated to cost $3,250,000, Mr. French [illegible] that no accurate figures can be given until competitive bids for the construction have be made. According to the present plan, he [illegible] the proposed civic center will [illegible] for the construction of additional units as the need for them [illegible].

PLANS OUTLINED

Tentative plans for the project [illegible] outlined, call for a new City Hall, a municipal auditorium, [illegible] new public library on Gar[illegible] between Green and [illegible] streets. A large plaza will [illegible] the City Hall.

[illegible] Henry, director and chairman of the finance committee of the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce, also spoke in favor of the [illegible] at the realty board meeting.

"The day this plan is defeated Pasadena may as well take a back [illegible] among other enterprising [illegible] of the Southland," he [illegible]. "While Pasadena is one of the most beautiful cities in America, it has done less to beautify [illegible] than the average municipality [illegible] its size. Only through private enterprise has the city gained [illegible] present sightliness. This is [illegible] first organized effort of its [illegible] to improve the downtown district."

[illegible] F. Crick, chairman of [illegible] convention committee, reported at the meeting that letters are being received here from [illegible] realty boards of the State [illegible] their co-operation in [illegible] the 1924 realty convention to Pasadena. A large number of delegates from the local board attended the convention in Long [illegible] today.

LARGE SUM PAID FOR FRONTAGE

Film Companies Purchase Corner of Sunset and Wilcox

Charles Eyton and the Cecil B. De Mille Productions Company have purchased from the Lindsey Estate heirs, the property at the southwest corner of Sunset Boulevard and Wilcox avenue for $104,000. This property has a frontage of 191.6 feet on Sunset Boulevard and a depth of 171.6 feet on Wilcox avenue.

C. Schrockley of the C. Schrockley Company represented the purchasers in the transaction and the sellers were represented by S. Clark Patchin.

Through this deal one of the largest remaining parcels of close-in Sunset Boulevard property was transferred and the selling price, according to the agents, established a new high mark for Sunset frontage, surpassing per foot that of the Jewitt estate recently sold near Cherokee street.

The west portion of the land is improved with a ten-unit bungalow court which runs in a L-shape to Wilcox avenue. The corner, unimproved, is available for business improvement.

The Lindsey property was purchased about seventeen years ago by the late Capt. B. N. Lindsey and has been held in the estate ever since. It is almost directly opposite the remaining large parcel held by the Beveridge Estate, at the northeast corner of Wilcox avenue and Sunset Boulevard.

This marks the fifth sale of Sunset Boulevard property during the last two weeks including the corner of Sunset and Gordon street recently purchased at auction by Harold Lloyd.

Mr. Schrockley who represented the purchasers in the above deal has been active in both sales on Sunset Boulevard and Vine street during recent months and has sold considerable frontage on both thoroughfares. He has also represented the De Mille interests and Mr. Eyton in several realty transactions.

WORK ON FLORENCE AVENUE IS STARTED

Work on the widening to 100 feet and paving of Florence avenue between Central and South Park avenues, started last week. At this point Florence avenue, one of the city's seven east-to-west cross-town boulevards, is bounded on the north by W. H. Daum's Southwest Industrial Gateway Terminal, a $100,000,000 project, and on the south by Greater Goodyear Park, owned and being built by the DeWitt-Blair Realty Company.

Florence avenue, according to plans of the City and County Planning Commissions, will eventually extend through to the west coast beaches as a 100-foot paved highway.

Just east of Huntington Park it connects with Cudahy avenue, which in turn connects with Pasadena avenue. This combination of traffic arteries furnishes a new short cut between the West Coast beaches and the harbor at one terminus and Pasadena, Monrovia and the mountain country at the other.

LARGE ACREAGE SOLD TO PACKING COMPANY

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HANFORD, April 18.—A sale of land involving about $40,000 in the deal was made when the Kings County Development Company deeded to the Kings County Packing Company 1280 acres of land near Murray, in the western portion of Kings county. The Kings County Packing Company owns and operates a large packing plant at Armona, three miles from Hanford, and is engaged in developing considerable acreage to fruit in the section where lies the land transferred.

PHOTOS OF HILLS

The development now going on in the Hollywood foothills is said to have created a demand by the public for adequate illustrations showing the possibilities of this section. To supply this demand, the F. A. Hartwell Company has had a large number of aerial photographs taken, which are to be mounted as window and display cards, and used in various forms of advertising.

TRUCK FACTORY TO BE ERECTED

Kleiber Firm Locates Branch on San Pedro Street

First Unit to be Started Tomorrow

Will be Among Largest of Plants on Coast

Ground will be broken tomorrow for the new plant of the Kleiber Motor Truck Company on a site at the corner of Eleventh and San Pedro streets. The building is the first of two units which the firm will locate in Los Angeles. It is to be one of the largest structures of the kind on the Pacific and with equipment and site is to represent an expenditure of $600,000.

The plant is to be used for the manufacture of Kleiber trucks. It is the third factory of the firm which was originally organized in San Francisco. The other plants are operated in San Francisco and in Atlanta, Ga. The local building will be the largest of the three.

The site for the structure has a frontage of 250 feet on San Pedro street and a depth of 400 feet along Eleventh street. Some months ago the purchase of the site was announced exclusively in The Times. At that time it was stated that the purchase price was $140,000.

The building will be 150 by 250 feet and one story in height. The center bay is to be eighty feet wide. In the bays at either side there will be crane runways. The Austin Construction Company of California will erect the building. Plans for the factory were prepared by this firm in conjunction with E. B. Rust, architect of the company. Across the entire front of the building there will be plate-glass windows designed so that it will be possible to see through the entire plant. The front will be of brick and architectural stone.

The capacity of the factory will be 300 trucks a year, according to officials of the firm.

The Kleiber Motor Truck Company was organized twenty-five years ago in San Francisco by Paul Kleiber and for a period of years the products of the firm consisted of wagons and similar vehicles. In 1913 the first truck was manufactured; it is still in operation.

The officers of the company are Paul Kleiber, president and Gustav Wogrner, vice-president. The board of directors is made up of some of the best-known business men of San Francisco.

The Austin company will also erect a foundry for the Earl Hardware Company on Fifty-first street near Santa Fe avenue. The building will be 50 by 100 feet and of brick, steel and concrete construction. This structure will cost approximately $10,000.

In addition to the motor truck factory and the foundry the construction firm is to build an addition to the Bay-Brunner Steel Casting Company's plant on Frederick street near San Fernando Road. This structure will be 50 by 200 feet. It is the second unit of the plant to be erected by the Austin company during the last few months.

TWO MILLIONS IN TRANSFERS

$200,000. It is improved with a three-story apartment-house, known as the Amhurst. Elizabeth and Thomas Berry were the sellers. Frank S. Kadletz represented both parties at the transaction.

The northeast corner of Sixth street and Lafayette Park Place has been sold through Mr. Kadletz to the First Baptist Church. The property has a frontage of 227 feet on Sixth street and faces Lafayette Park. The cash consideration was $100,000. The church intends to improve the property immediately with a beautiful edifice to cost approximately $500,000.

FOR KRESS COMPANY

Final leases have been signed, and construction commenced, on two buildings to be occupied by S. H. Kress Co. Store No. 2 will be located on the southwest corner of Forty-second and Moneta avenue. The leases call for two-story class B buildings to be occupied entirely by lessees. The lease runs for a long period of years and involves a rental of $100,000. Store No. 3 will be located at 539 South Western avenue and have a frontage of sixty feet. The building will be two stories, of class C construction, and will serve the needs of the Wilshire district. F. A. Carpenter is the owner of the property. The lease calls for a total consideration of $100,000 and involves an expenditure of approximately $10,000 for the building. All parties were represented by Mr. Kadletz.

The property at 1023 South Hope street has been sold to a local syndicate for T. F. McGrath, at a consideration of $60,000. The new owners intend to improve the property at once with a commercial building, tentative plans for which have been already drawn.

The northeast corner of Sixteenth and Albany streets has been sold for Lillian Kerchival to Garrett Brothers Mortuary Company, which is having plans drawn for a two-story class C building for its own use.

When completed the building will be one of the finest in the city. The cash consideration was $22,000. Clarence Norton represented the buyers and F. S. Kadletz, the seller.

LONG-TERM LEASE

Final papers have been signed for a fifty-year ground lease on the property located at 916 West Eighth street, owned by T. A. Gamble. The lease has been taken by Benjamin Fahy to be used in conjunction with the property recently acquired through the same agency on Figueroa street. Mr. Fahy will improve the property immediately, building to meet his needs. The total consideration involved is $150,000. Mr. Norton represented the owners of the property, and Mr. Kadletz the lessor.

Leases have recently been signed by various tenants for stores on the ground floor of the new Metropolitan Building at the northeast corner of Sixth and Hill streets, among the new tenants being the American Dye Works; the Very Confectionery Company, and Siegel, the Hatter. The leases run for a period of from seven to ten years, and involve a total rental of $463,000. All parties in the transaction were represented by Mr. Kadletz.

COUNTY MAKES GREAT RECORD

new buildings placed under construction.

Long Beach, with a record of $1,974,618, for March, established a record greater than that of all of San Diego county by a margin of several hundred thousand dollars. Glendale, the third city in the county in value of new buildings, carried on more extensive operations than all of Sacramento county, and Pasadena, which ranked fourth in the county, started more new buildings than all of Santa Clara county, leaving a considerable margin of safety for the neighboring community.

BIG PER CAPITA RECORD

On the basis of an estimated population of 800,000 for the city of Los Angeles, per capita building operations within the city during March reached a total of $27. The county per capita record, based on the totals compiled for the thirty-three communities included in the survey, was $23.

Los Angeles city during March established a new high monthly building record, exceeding the previous high record, made in April of last year, by nearly $8,000,000. The city also continued to hold third place among the large cities of the country in volume of building activity, being outranked only by New York and Chicago.

It is estimated that valuation of new buildings, as shown by permits issued, ranges from 10 to 40 per cent below the actual construction costs, since in the majority of cases the cost of the average building is underestimated, and frequently, also, changes which involve additional expenditure are made in the plans after construction work has actually been started.

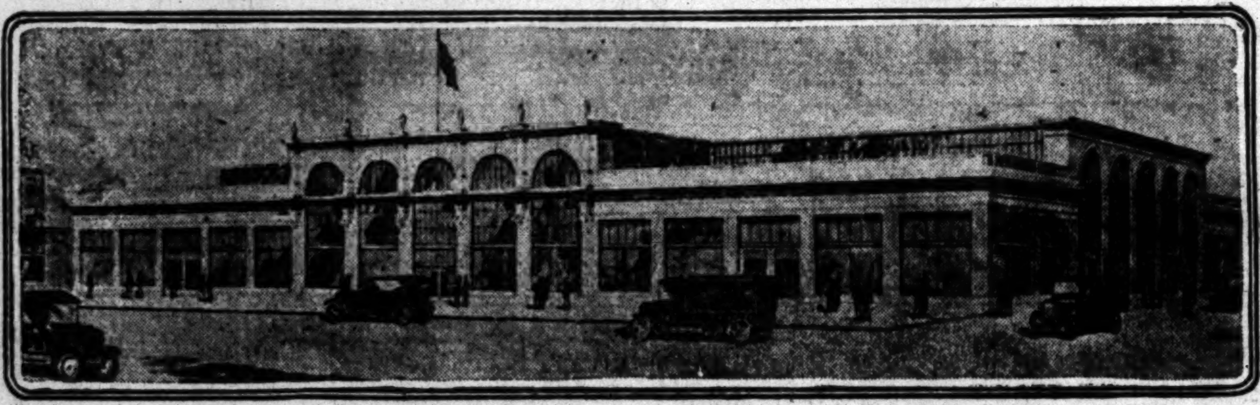
REPORTS LONG LEASE

The Simonds Saw and Knife Company, newly incorporated in California, has secured a long-term lease throubh C. A. Kurlander of the J. W. Lewis Company, on the two-story brick building at 416 East Third street, owned by Mrs. Lou A. Palmer. This location will be headquarters for the territory served by the company, which consists of Southern California, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Utah and Nevada. A complete stock will be installed and maintained on the second floor of the building, in charge of experienced men brought here from the eastern factories for this purpose.

Motor Truck Firm to Erect Large Factory in City



The Kleiber Motor Truck Company's Plant

This structure is to be built by the Austin Construction Company for the truck company on a site at San Pedro and Eleventh streets. The ultimate plans for the factory include two units, the first of which will be started at once. The cost of this part with equipment will represent an investment of approximately $600.000. E. B. Rust, local architect, prepared the perspective.

FACT AND COMMENT

care what the property could be had for ten or twenty years ago. What impressed them was the fact that the property offered splendid investment possibilities, with every indication of a liberal return on their investment, and on that basis they proceeded to do business without unnecessary dalliance.

Thirty or forty years ago frontage on Broadway could be bought for about $200 per front foot, and old residents of the city are fond of relating, not without a tinge of regret, how they could have bought, in the '80's, for a few hundred dollars a Broadway corner now worth millions. Broadway frontage is now far beyond the reach of the man of average means, but there are other opportunities available—and it is very likely that, in 1950, many of the young business men of today will be singing a song of unseen opportunities very similar to that of some of the old timers of today.

No Sign of a Drop

The argument is advanced that property values are unreasonably high; that the present owners are basing their valuations not upon present worth, but upon future worth. Probably this is true, to a large extent, but surprising things happen, and even some of these high prices may be justified by business conditions earlier than the present owners anticipate.

Whether realty prices are higher than conditions warrant or not, it seems evident that they are going to remain at their present level for some time. In a recent article on the future of real estate values, John Moody, economist, expressed the opinion that any decline in realty values is a prospect of the future, and not of immediate moment.

"We may expect the next sharp decline in real estate prices whenever the next major or very severe business depression occurs," said Mr. Moody. "Existing conditions are that this should not be until after we have experienced a minor trade depression some time between now and the Presidential election and also after another boom following the election.

"Thus the main post-war decline in real estate prices so far as we see now, appears to be several years away. It is suggeted then that those who hold real estate at high costs should place themselves in a sound position by setting aside enough of its earnings within the next four or five years to write down its costs to about 125 per cent of prewar values. This in the typical instance would be writing off 20 per cent of the high-peak real estate prices of 1921, or about 15 per cent of the present market values. The evidence appears to indicate both that present values will not permanently hold, and that a write-down to 125 per cent will place one in a sound and conservative position. The exact percentage nevertheless must be determined in each case by local conditions."

Owner Should Prepare

This, of course, is sound advice; realty owners who bought at high prices, should prepare themselves for any contingency, despite the fact that Los Angeles seems immune from the depression and business stagnation which has affected the remainder of the country during the last two years.

Los Angeles is growing at a rapid and consistent rate, and there is no evidence that this growth will diminish. Realty values, in cities, hinge largely upon population, and at the rate Los Angeles is growing, any sudden drop in values seems very unlikely.

The worst that can happen, in the opinion of experienced realtors of the city is that the present active market may give way to a period of comparative dullness. The best that can happen would seem to be a continuation of the present active and very healthy market, but surprising things occur in Los Angeles and what seems the best today may be considered only mediocre, when regarded in retrospect a few years hence.

INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS IN BRIEF

Government Finds Figures for Record During March; French Metal Plants Hampered by Lack of Fuel; South Europe Makes Progress

Domestic Condition. Early figures received on March business conditions indicate record activity in production. Pig iron production, generally regarded as the most accurate single indicator of productive activity, made a new high record in March at 3,521,275 tons, exceeding even the war-time production of September, 1918. Steel ingot production, allowing for companies not reporting, amounted to 3,888,897 tons in March, the highest since March, 1920. Locomotive shipments were the highest since the end of 1920; while unfilled orders for locomotives made a new high record.

Bituminous coal production in March was at about the same rate as in February, while lumber production exceeded any month in recent years. The letting of building contracts increased over February, with the last week of March showing the highest value let since last July. Wool receipts at Boston for the last week of March were the highest in over a year.

Wholesale prices continue their rise, but at a slower pace, with slight advances in most of the important commodities during the past week except copper, which made the first decline since early in January. The retail food index continues the steady decline noted since the end of February.

Business failures are still declining, and for the past week were the smallest since the week of July 8, 1922, which were abnormally small on account of the holiday. Loans of the member banks of the Federal Reserve System are continuing their expansion to meet business needs. Stock prices have receded during the past three weeks, while bond prices recovered slightly last week. Sales of mail order houses were the largest since March, 1920, at the height of the price inflation, and chain-store sales made a good increase in March.

Foreign Conditions. European cables to the Department of Commerce indicate that in France metallurgical industries are hampered by lack of coal, forty blast furnaces having closed down since the Ruhr occupation, but that supplies for the Ruhr are now increasing. It is believed that the fuel crisis is past. The textile situation is calm. Total imports and total exports of France are both increasing. Industrial stagnation continues in Austria with some labor troubles, but progress of the rehabilitation plan and subscriptions to the preliminary loan, with improved commercial relations with neighboring States, cause encouragement. The adoption of a new constitution in Rumania is expected to have a steadying influence on the business situation, which is at present still greatly depressed. The constitution nationalizes undeveloped underground resources. Food is scarce and the export of cattle has been prohibited. In Jugo-Slavia financial and business improvement is seen as the result of the present economic policy. Imports and exports are slowly approaching equality. Economic negotiations with Austria have been satisfactorily completed.

BOARDS ROSTER LIST

A special call to all local realty boards of California to send in their lists of active members to the National Real Estate Journal for publication in the annual roster number was issued today by W. I. Hollingsworth, director of the National Association of Real Estate Boards for the Southwest. The National Real Estate Journal is published at 139 North Clark street, Chicago. The names must be mailed in immediately to insure publication.

ENGLAND SEEKS MEXICAN TRADE

Past Year's Business of Two Nations at Low Level

Officials of South Republic Survey Tehuantepec

Control of Railway Goes to English Interests

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MEXICO CITY, April 21.—The British commercial interests of Mexico are giving serious attention to the problem of rehabilitating trade between Great Britain and Mexico, which has now fallen off to a figure lower than in 1910.

In 1910 the exports from Mexico to Great Britain totaled 28,[illegible]4,000 pesos and the imports [illegible]251,700 pesos. In 1921 the exports amounted to 48,999,750 pesos, while the imports increased to [illegible]878,900 pesos, mainly because of heavy shipments of machinery for oil drilling, distilleries and power plants. Although the official government figures for 1922 have not yet been issued, a compilation from consular invoices shows that the imports from Great Britain have fallen to 18,949,908 pesos.

It is reported that the British government is considering sending traveling commercial representatives to make a complete study of the production, merchandise imported, and the leading firms and their financial standing.

COMPLETE INLAND SURVEY

MEXICO CITY, April 21. — A commission consisting of Jose Maria Cappio, director general of the National Railways of Mexico, and Leandro Valdes, chief of the freight department of the lines, have returned from a month's sojourn in the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, after having made a complete survey of conditions in order to make the necessary improvements in the railroads and reductions in the freight rates to aid in the development of the natural resources of the region. One of the principal points studied is the production of valuable woods in the States of Vera Cruz, Oaxaca, Tabasco and Chiapas, which, in spite of the great demand in Mexico, cannot be brought to the central and northern parts of the country because of the poor transportation facilities. There is also good market for the woods in foreign countries, but here again the question of poor transportation to the ports prevents their exportation in large quantities. The railways plan to place a larger number of cars on the lines in order to adequately accommodate all shipments of woods.

Another problem which received a great deal of attention was the question of transportation of the product of the constantly increasing banana industry. In the El Hule district, the center of the banana region, it has been decided to construct a branch line of the railroad from El Hule to the Papaloapan River, from whence the bananas may be taken in small boats. It was also arranged that instead of bringing the fruit direct from the Isthmus to Vera Cruz it will first be taken to Cordova and distributed from there to the various ports and the interior of the republic. The banana planters have also been discussing the feasibility of shipping their products from Puerto Mexico instead of Vera Cruz because of the labor difficulties and high costs in the latter port.

It was also stated that a powerful American company has received a favorable report from a commission which it sent to explore the district covered by the Pan-American Railroad in order to ascertain the possibilities of the cultivation of bananas. According to the report, the company now plans to make large investments throughout all the region. A great interest is being displayed in the banana lands of Mexico at the present time, due to the plague which has destroyed the plantations of Central America.

PURCHASE RAILROAD

MONTEREY (Mex.) April 21.—Negotiations for the purchase of the Mexican Southern Railway by the British interests headed by Vincent W. Yorke of London, Eng., which own the Mexican (Vera Cruz) Railway, are practically concluded, according to authoritative information received here. While the terms of the transaction are not publicly known at this time, it is understood that the Mexican government invited the opportunity to rid itself of administration control of the Mexico Southern.

The government took over this system several years ago and merged it into the National Railways of Mexico. The physical condition of the property is badly run down and a large sum of money will have to be spent in repairs, it is stated. The main line of the Mexican Southern runs from Puebla to Oaxaca, 228 miles. It has several branch lines, with an aggregate of 200 miles, making a total of 428 miles for the system. It connects with the Mexican (Vera Cruz) Railway at Puebla.

It is stated that the Mexican Southern will be extended south from Tavicha to some point on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, probably Salina Cruz, or to a direct connection with the Pan-American Railroad, which runs from Gamboa to Arutla on the Mexico-Guatemala border. The acquired road was constructed by British interests and was owned and operated by them until it became a part of the national railways. It penetrates one of the richest mineral regions in Mexico.

SMELTER TO GIVE BONUS

MONTEREY (Mex.) April 21.—The American Smelting and Refining Company has just put into effect a co-operative plan with its employees in the operation of its smelter at Avalos, adjacent to Chihuahua. It is stated that under this plan the employees are to receive as their share of the net earnings of the smelter from 1 to 4 per cent, depending on the length of their regular employment.

Although the State of Chihuahua has one of the most radical labor laws in Mexico, it is not known here that the co-operative system as announced by the American Smelting and Refining Company is in compliance with any of the provisions of this act. It is expected that the new plan will cause the employees to render more constant and faithful service than formerly. Heretofore one of the difficulties in operating the plant has been the numerous strikes and the uncertainty as to keeping a working force on hand.

MILLIONS FOR POWER

Porterville Will Benefit by Edison Extension; Industries to Be Provided For

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

PORTERVILLE, April 21.—Improvements planned by the Southern California Edison Company for Porterville district in 1923 will total about $690,000, according to District Manager Ralph R. Walbridge. Of this, $460,000 will be spent in the High Sierras and upon the transmission lines that bring power to Porterville, and about $230,000 will be spent in the district itself.

Out of the company's total budget of $26,000,000 for 1923, about $16,000,000 will be spent in the mountains for new power development and for transmission lines to bring power to points of use. A total of 125,000 new horsepower will be added to the system during the year and Porterville's portion of this amount, when connected up and made to do service for various purposes during the year, will be adequate to take care of 900 new houses, sixteen new industries and to provide for an increase in population of 5000, besides providing for more intensive cultivation of 12,000 new acres of land, which could be made more productive by electric irrigation.

Mr. Walbridge states that he does not believe that even this large capacity will be more than adequate to care for Porterville's growth during the next two or three years.

"New business additions are estimated to call for extensions or lines totaling $70,000," continued Mr. Walbridge, "while $60,000 is provided to build a new Porterville substation. The Woodville substation will be reconstructed and modernized at a cost of $20,000 and $5000 will be expended for a modern office at Porterville and $23,000 for land, buildings and furnishings for a new store."

Speaking of the company's general budget for 1923 of $26,000,000, which was just recently approved by the board of directors, District Manager Walbridge said: "The appropriation of $22,500,000 for 1922 was by far the largest that had ever been made up to that time by any western utility. Receipt of a large amount of cash from the city of Los Angeles in payment for the purchase of its Los Angeles distributing system made possible a little speeding of even this enormous program.

"Actual expenditures for new construction for 1922 were $24,00,000, an average of $2,000,000 for each month of th eyear. The present budget exceeds that colossal total by another $2,000,000. Of this sum about $12,000,000 will be spent in hydroelectric development in the mountains; about $4,000,000 for transmission lines and system to bring power to principal points of use, and about $10,000,000 for local improvements in the various districts, such as new distribution lines, substations, offices, stores, garages and improvements of this nature."

TO RECEIVE BIDS

Bids for the first unit of the giant warehouse to be erected in the central manufacturing district are to be received about May 7, according to Frank D. Chase, architect for the structure. When completed the entire stucture will represent an expenditure of $[illegible],000,000.

ORANGE RANCH DRAWS STATEWIDE INTEREST

DAVID HEWES PROPERTY BEING DIVIDED INTO SIXTY PARTS BY OWNERS

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ORANGE, April 21.—Recent announcement of the subdivision of the David Hewes ranch, near here, has attracted wide interest and since that time the tract has been visited by hundreds of prospective ranch owners and many sales of tracts have been made, according to D. Eyman Huff, general manager of the ranch company.

The Hewes ranch, purchased many years ago by David Hewes, a well-known pioneer of the State, and developed by him through the various stages of sheep raising, vineyards, deciduous fruits and finally into a highly productive Valencia orange and lemon grove, comprises a total of 675 acres, and nestles up against the foothills east of Orange in the famed "frostless belt" of Orange county.

Along with his ranch activities, the late Mr. Hewes also developed a hill site into a park. Hewes Park, maintained at his private expense, was opened to the public and has been visited by many thousands of people who have enjoyed the view from the park and the beautful scenery within the fifteen-acre park itself.

After Mr. Hewes's death, a corporation was formed and purchased the ranch, and the development of the property has been continued until now it ranks high among the valuable groves of Orange county. At a recent meeting, the stockholders voted to divide the ranch into sixty parcels and this division, with improvements, is now under way.

PLAN PACKING PLANT

De Giorgio-Earl Interests to Erect Modern House at Delano

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DELANO, April 21.—The De Giorgio and Earl Fruit Company tract of 1000 acres developed to fruit and grapes, northeast of Delano, is in excellent condition and a big crop is expected from the land this summer. The owners plan to erect a big packinghouse o nthe property preparatory to this season's run, and of sufficient size to handle the crops of the large holdings adjoining the Delano townsite.

The Southern Pacific Railroad Company has agreed to build a four-mile spur track into the land and has asked and received permission to do so from the Supervisors of Tulare county. The spur will run from Richgrove to the property, and work is expected to be started within a few weeks so that the entire line may be ready for summer operations.

ANNOUNCE LECTURES AT POULTRY COLONY

A large tent has been erected at the Runnymede poultry tract and lectures are given every Sunday afternoon on the various subjects in which the Runnymede colonists are interested.

Among the speakers announced for today's lectures are: P. Fuller of the Great Western Milling Company, who will talk on feeding methods; R. C. Todd, secretary of the Runnymede Purchasing and Marketing Association, whose subject will be berry culture, and D. C. Summers, tract superintendent of Runnymede, who will talk on poultry and the Runnymede plan of co-operation.

GLENDALE AIRPORT LAND TRANSFERRED

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDALE, April 21.—The city of Glendale will not lose money on the recent purchase of an airport, bonds for which were voted down at the recent election. A syndicate of Glendale men will purchase the land, consisting of thirty-three acres, from John Ratcliff of Burbank at the same sum of $66,000 paid by the city.

Arrangements are being made whereby the city will be reimbursed for the money spent on improvements and developments by this syndicate. Members of the syndicate are Roy L. Kent, A. L. Baird, A. R. Eastman, W. E. Hewitt, Peter L. Ferry, Dr. T. C. Young, W. L. Truitt and J. K. Crawford. The rental rate for space will be the same as planned by the City Council.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR SAN BERNARDINO

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

SAN BERNARDINO, April 21.—A new industry, nineteen miles north of San Bernardino, was announced today. The project is for the development of rich lime deposits near Camp Cajon by the Cajon Lime Products Company.

More than $200,000 will be invested in the first development unit, backed by eastern capitalists. William L. Urschel of Toledo, O., is president of the corporation, and with him are associated E. Bricker and W. F. Farmer, former residents of Baltimore.

The corporation has been working in preliminary development for two years. It was only recently that it was able to acquire full rights to 400 acres one mile west of Camp Cajon in Cajon Pass and near the Santa Fe and Union Pacific transcontinental lines. The company will manufacture four products—lime, hydrated lime, plaster and stucco. An analysis shows that the ground contains 97.8 per cent pure lime, a chemist announced. Approximately 150 men will be employed in operating the properties.

Corporation offices will be maintained in Los Angeles.

FLINTRIDGE TRACT PLACED ON MARKET

The property of Clarence Day in the Flintridge district has been subdivided and placed on the market by the Davis Baker Real Estate Company. The tract consists of forty-two lots and is now known as Commonwealth Park.

The subdivision was formerly a lemon grove, which was in full bearing at the time that it was placed on the market. The trees have not been removed and, according to the subdividers, enhance the beauty of the home sites into which the property has been divided.

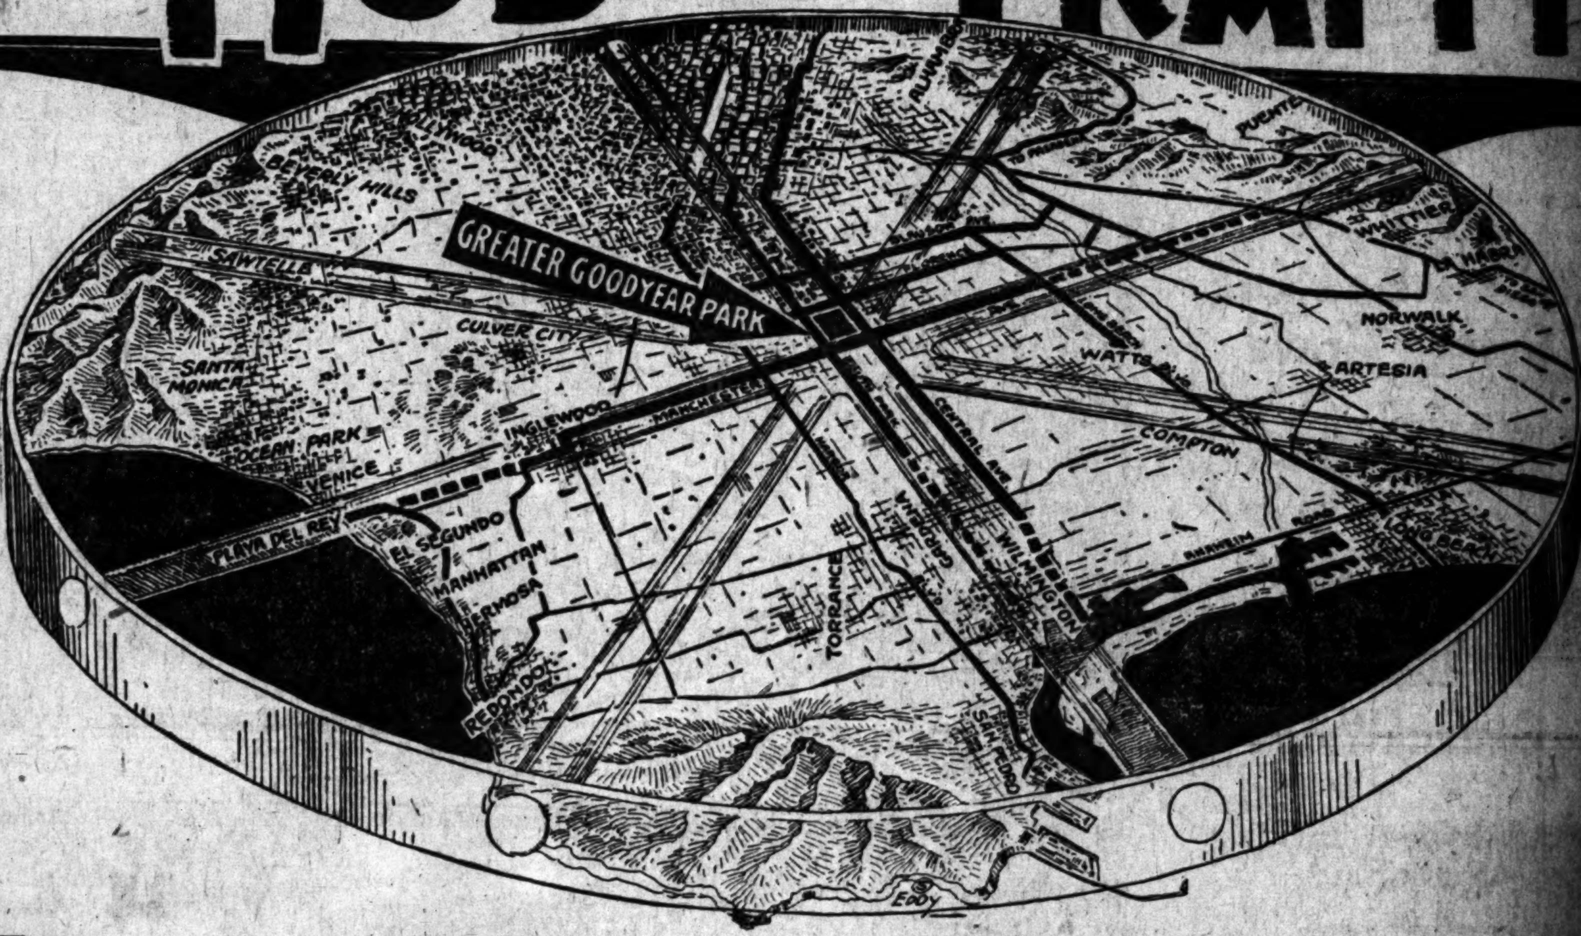
GREATER GOODYEAR PARK

THE HUB OF TRAFFIC



For the Metropolitan Area

The Vital Part of a Wheel

is the hub. All the spokes radiate from it. When it is gone the wheel is gone. And cannot be replaced. Because the spokes lead to it, the hub is the CENTER OF ACTIVITY.

Highways are to communities what spokes are to wheels. They transmit the energy that keeps things moving.

Where those highways CENTER, HUBS OF BUSINESS FORM. Traveling on each separate highway persons are far apart. But where those highways meet and cross THEY COME TOGETHER.

That is the place to build a store—a theater, catching trade from ALL DIRECTIONS.

It is also an ideal place to live.

From the hub of the wheel it is an equal distance to any part of the rim. From the HUB OF THE HIGHWAYS one has the DIRECT route to his destination.

In early days all roads led to Rome and Rome became the center of civilization.

Study the above map. It reveals that Greater Goodyear Park is the hub of the metropolitan traffic system.

The Vital Part of a Community is the point where its highway system centers.

At Greater Goodyear Park, Central and South Park Avenues, highways to the Harbor cross Florence and Manchester Avenues, connecting links between the west coast beaches and the desert, the San Gabriel Valley, Pasadena and the mountain country. All four of these highways are scheduled for extension.

The importance of this traffic center is recognized. The Southwest Industrial Gateway Terminal, a $100,000,000 factory district where 14 plants already have purchased sites, lies just across Florence Avenue. The $1,250,000 John C. Fremont combination grammar and high school lies just across South Park Avenue.

We have business frontage on Central, South Park and Nadeau Avenues. Nadeau Avenue lies squarely in the heart of Greater Goodyear Park. THINK!

Homesites are high and dry, and will be served by extension to 77th street of the yellow carline.

ARCADIA WILL HAVE THEATER

Architecture of Egypt to be Employed in Playhouse

Hundred Thousand to be Spent on Project

Old Baldwin House Will be Converted Into Hotel

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ARCADIA, April 21.—A $100,000 theater and store block, to be started at once, will be built at the corner of First avenue and Huntington Drive, according to plans announced today by the Southern California Realty Finance Company which is back of the big project. The blue prints show the design to follow the Egyptian style of architecture popularized by Mr. Grauman in his famous Hollywood playhouse. The new building will cover the 150 by 150 corner owned by R. G. Cowham. Detailed working plans are being prepared by Stacey Judd, architect, who has designed many large theaters.

There will be six stores in the block which will also have an arcade with shops. The theater will have a seating capacity of 700.

The Southern California realty Finance Company will finance the construction of the block. Definite announcement to this effect was made by Charles E. Page, general manager, who stated that his company, said to be rated as a $3,000,000 concern, is so impressed with Arcadia's prospects from an investment point of view that it has appropriated the sum of $250,000 for the financing of improvements in this city.

The old Clara Villa on First avenue at the corner of St. Joseph street, historic landmark of "Lucky" Baldwin days, has been bought by the Southern California Realty Finance Company from the Baldwin estate and will be remodeled into a rest hotel, according to Mr. Page, general manager of that concern. Work is to be started at once so as to have the new hostelry in operation this summer.

The company intends to erect another building later as a second unit, Mr. Page stated, an ultimate investment of $32,000 being represented in the plans that have been worked out. The two buildings will be joined at the rear and will have a court in between, like the St. Annes Inn at Santa Ana, he said.

The hotel will specialize in old-fashioned cooking and will cater especially to jaded city folks who wish to stay at a quiet home-like inn where they can get good food and congenial surroundings. It will appeal particularly to tourists.

The villa property is 150 by 150 feet and is ideally situated for hotel purposes. The building is of stucco construction with heavy solid foundations of masonry which imparts a distinctive appearance. It is a well-built structure erected on substantial lines. There is a fine roof garden above the building over the rooms.

Lemon Cove to be Site of Big Storage Plant

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LEMON COVE, April 21.—Work has started on the community cold-storage plant, to be erected here by cattlemen of Lemon Cove and Three Rivers. The old building previously used by the Lemon Cove Mercantile Company, a landmark in this section, is being razed. This was the first store in Leman Cove and was erected in 1889 by J. W. C. Pogue & Son, who conducted the store for some time. Later the present building was erected by the Lemon Cove Mercantile Company. This site will be used for the cold-storage plant.

A well is being bored on the lot back of the building by Roy Davis of Woodlake. The building is expected to be ready for use within ninety days. Directors for the plant are Frank Finch of Three Rivers, president; Thomas Homer, Leonard Bequette, Alfred Hengst of Three Rivers, and Mr. Taylor of Three Rivers.

HOME GARDENS ASKS FOR NEW SIDEWALKS

A number of petitions are being circulated among the property owners in Home Gardens, which will be presented soon to the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county, these petitions calling for the installment of cement sidewalks and gutters in the following territory; On the east side of State street; both sides of Dearborn, Victoria, Elizabeth, Virginia, California, San Antonio, San Carlos, San Gabriel, San Juan, San Luis and San Miguel; both sides of San Vicente from Tweedy Road northerly to the city boundary of South Gate, also the north side of Tweedy Road, both sids of Duncan Way and both sides of Duane Way from State street easterly to San Vicente.

This improvement, if made, will cover several miles in that community.

ANNUAL PICNIC FOR SAN JOAQUIN BOARDS

The second annual San Joaquin Valley Realtors' basket picnic will be held Saturday, the 28th inst. at Mooney's Grove on the county highway between Visalia and Tulare. State President Frazier O. Reed, Henry P. Barbour and other realty notables will be guests.

The picnic was assured at a big meeting of realty boards of Hanford, Porterville, Selma, Bakersfield, Tulare, Visalia and Exeter held in Visalia. Over $400 was pledged for the picnic by the local boards.

Thomas W. McManus of Bakersfield, president of the picnic association, declared that it would be in the nature of a farm lands conference of the valley realtors. C. E. Taylor whose good work in arranging for the first picnic a year ago was complimented, was re-elected secretary of the association. He has issued 2500 invitations to realty brokers to attend the picnic.

Barely ten days old, yet one-quarter of the lots in this residential knoll have already been bought. Little wonder! You, too, will be fascinated with the magnificent outlook from the tract.

Stanley Knoll is divided in large, level homesites for single and double houses. Each lot faces a prominent boulevard. The average distance from the car line is only a block and a half.

The Los Angeles High School, the Page Military Academy and two new grammar schools being planned by the Board of Education are near the tract.

It takes no imagination to appreciate the profitable advantage of owning a high-ground lot directly in the intensified westward growth of the city. The first buyer is the one who profits most from the steady demand for lots in the best part of town.

REPORTS LIST OF DEALS

Transactions Include Sale of Industrial Site for New Sash and Door Plant

Transactions involving local business property and $150,000 in rentals and transfer considerations were reported yesterday by the Central Realty Company.

The building at 1225 South Flower street has been leased by William Garland to the Liberty Auto Works. The term lease provides for an aggregate rental of $66,000. The building is 100 by 160 feet and was formerly occupied by the Winton automobile agency.

Sale of the property on the south side of Fifty-ninth street between South Park and Central avenues to Carlow & Gilker is also reported. This property is in the Southwest Industrial Gateway Terminal, which is being subdivided by W. H. Daum. The site for the sash and door plant which this firm will erect is 65 by 300 feet. The ground, together with proposed improvements, will represent an expenditure of approximately $20,000. This transaction was handled by Martin Carlow of the Central Realty Company.

The new building at the northwest corner of Sixteenth and Imperial streets has been leased to John T. Dickson for a period of three years. The structure is 38 by 148 feet. The total rental was announced to be $5000.

The property at 1033 East Ninth street has been sold to a group of eastern investors for $15,000. The property is 34 by 184 feet and is improved with a one-story building.

The properties at the northwest corner of Eighth and Whittier streets have been sold for a total consideration of $65,000. The corner, which is 100 by 105 feet was purchased by a group of eastern investors for $45,000. This property is unimproved.

Adjoining the corner on Eighth street is a lot 55 by 105 feet which is improved with a one-story building. This was purchased by a local investor for $20,000.

All of these transactions were handled by the Central Realty Company, and information regarding them was given out by this firm.

SEES BRIGHT FUTURE

Santa Monica Destined to Become Great Recreation and Residential Center

BY S. H. CREAGER

Three elements fix Santa Monica's destiny in the history of the race—topography, geography and climate. Los Angeles is destined to be the first city of the world—both greatest and best. It is wholly natural that it should be so. Location, resources and climate will establish its place among the cities of the world. The logical development of the race foretells its character.

Santa Monica city may become merged with Los Angeles, but the name will live. It is the name of the mountains, a canyon and a great bay which shall be known as the beginning and the end of more short and long pleasure cruises than any other harbor in the world.

The name and the idea, Santa Monica, covers more than fifty square miles of land and 137 square miles of bay. It is the front entrance to the world's future greatest city. On one hand the entrance will be by boat or private yacht; on the other hand by the skyline drive on the crest of the mountains, or over the mesa and scenic Beverly Boulevard, or down the coast highway and into the city over the world's greatest monumental way—the archway—the enlarged and beautified Wilshire Boulevard, studded with artistic monuments, the work of the artists of the world.

What manner of life shall we find at Santa Monica? This is determined by the topography of Santa Monica and the physical layout of Los Angeles. The industrial area of Los Angeles follows in a general way the valley of the Los Angeles River—from Burbank to San Pedro. Its high-class residence area lies on the high ground, foothills, mountains and mesas on the south slope of the Santa Monica Mountains from Wilshire and Hollywood to the sea at Santa Monica, where the mountains form the beautiful crescent coast.

The cream of Los Angeles life will rise to the elevations of this crescent coast as naturally and definitely as cream does to the surface of a jar of milk. Behind it will be the everlasting urge of the race to go west. In front of it the ocean, the crescent coast and the equable and almost perfect summer and winter climate are an irresistible attraction.

The mountains and foothills will be dotted with beautiful estates. The mesas will be covered with the attractive bungalow homes.

A great Christian community and the rustic club home and recreation grounds of a large representative group of Los Angeles business men are on adjoining properties. Great hotels and apartments, long in embryo, are approaching realization. As they are finished Santa Monica will begin to come into its own as a great center of society. When the great pleasure-boat breakwater is built, this will be an all-year watering place with no dull seasons.

With the building of great hotels Santa Monica will also become a convention city. It is ideally situated for that purpose. The subway and limited trains will put it within forty minutes of Pershing Square. Santa Monica already has a fine new Municipal Auditorium, seating 2000 and one will soon be built at Pacific Palisades to seat 5000.

Santa Monica city cannot be considered as something separate and apart from Los Angeles. While it still clings to a separate government, it is probable that through the borough system or some similar plan it will in the near future become merged into the greater city which already surrounds it on two sides and includes three miles of beach beginning at Santa Monica Canyon. The bay and beach are so tremendously vital to Los Angeles city and county that neither can afford to lose a day in assuming its fullest responsibility in connection with them. Los Angeles is awake to the needs in connection with its commercial harbor, but should arouse itself to the inestimably great importance to the city, county and Southwest of properly preserving and developing Santa Monica Bay and beach.

Santa Monica Bay is a giant economic resource untouched, and the county should preserve and conserve every foot of it. It will be sorely needed for the present use of the population and the millions to come.

CLIPPING FIRM HAS NEW QUARTERS HERE

Allen's Press Clipping Bureau has taken over new quarters on the sixth floor of the Meredith Building at 618 South Spring street.

Announcement of this move is made through the W. Ross Campbell Company, business property brokers, who secured the lease. L. M. Roberts of the sales and lease department handled the negotiations.

The clipping firm has been established locally since 1888, being a branch of a San Francisco concern that also maintains offices in Portland.

At the present time the bureau is serving over 500 local subscribers, supplying them with newspaper clippings and bulletin service covering scores of lines of activity in Southern California. Practically every newspaper in Southern California is read daily, and over 50,000 clippings are distributed each month through this medium, according to Miss Noble.

NEW HOTEL PLANNED

A ninety-nine year lease has been secured by Metcalf and Ryan on the Wesley Terrace Hotel property at the corner of Seventh and Burlington streets. A height-limit hotel structure is to be built on the corner at a cost of approximately $1,000,000.

INDIA EXPORTS JUTE

Exports of jute bags from India fell from 467,959,703 bags in 1921 to 401,689,951 bags in 1922. The principal points of destination in 1922 were: Australia, 59,196,653 bags; Straits Settlements, 53,108,000; North America, 49,630,800; Cuba, 37,920,200; Burma, 37,469,350; United Kingdom, 30,008,300. Exports of jute cloth increased from 1,112,357,685 yards in 1921 to 1,256,917,484 yards in 1922, of which North America took 930,361,192 yards; South America, 157,379,860 yards; United Kingdom, 54,890,500 yards; Australia, 24,002,216 yards.

Wilshire's Transportation Now and Tomorrow!

ELECTRIC cars, Motorbusses, Subways—these three methods of transportation serving CARTHAY CENTER will give property at this splendidly-developed Wilshire subdivision a tremendously enhanced value over the comparatively low prices that rule now.

Today we have the Pacific Electric cars—frequent service directly to our own CARTHAY CENTER station. Soon will come modern, double-deck motorbusses, in accordance with the plans of the People's Motor Bus Company to make CARTHAY CENTER its Wilshire Boulevard terminus—a step taken to accommodate our property owners. Next will be rapid transit via subways—a ten-minute trip from the city's downtown business district to CARTHAY CENTER.

Such is the enlightened transportation program that links CARTHAY CENTER to the city's progress—makes it distinctive among all home subdivisions—gives its property owners exactly the advantages they need to secure and make permanent their investments.

CARTHAY CENTER—a superbly-planned development—represents the Spirit of Progress! So do motorbus and subway transportation!

These and other enlightened projects, designed to give our people greater facility in travel, soon will be here because the people approve and want them. They are in unison with the constructive plans of Mayor George F. Cryer and other forward-looking citizens to make Los Angeles the greatest municipality of the Western Hemisphere—a fact that emphasizes our obligation to continue Mayor Cryer as head of this city's affairs.

Here's What You Miss—

BRICK construction is perhaps the oldest type of permanent building known to civilization. Its merits are too numerous to list in a single advertisement, but among its outstanding features are these things "you miss:"—

1. You won't have high insurance.
2. There'll be no annual painter's bill.
3. You can't have much depreciation.
4. You won't be able to worry about fire.
5. And as for value—you can't have anything but the best.

LAWYER SEEKS ROAD CHANGES

Objections to Ridge Route Are Set Forth

Provisions for New Link Are Listed in Detail

Claim Many Advantages for Suggested Unit

Improvement in that part of the highway system of the State which links Los Angeles with Bakersfield is proposed by Edward Winterer, local attorney, in a communication to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. The proposed improvement would provide for a change in the route now commonly followed.

Parts of the communication are as follows:

"I assume that the construction of efficient and proper commercial highways connecting the city of Los Angeles with the San Joaquin Valley and other parts of the State comes within the purview of your activities, and for that reason I beg to suggest to you the consideration of an improvement in the highway from Los Angeles to Bakersfield, particularly a part of the same known as the Ridge Route. This route is a weak link in the State Highway system and it is objectionable especially on the following grounds:

The multiplicity of short curves.

The consequent danger resulting therefrom.

The precipitous character of the sides of the roadway which add to its dangerous condition.

Slides.

Extreme elevation and duplication of the same.

Snow, sleet and ice part of the year.

Expense of maintenance and cost of operation and use.

Limitation of travel to fifteen miles an hour.

Indirectness and circuitousness of the route and resulting inconvenience and loss of time.

Want of picnic or pleasure grounds, water and trees, and flowing streams.

The above are but a few of the objections which can be urged against the said Ridge Route.

There is a present and outstanding necessity for a safe, direct and commercial route between Los Angeles and San Joaquin points which can be used during the whole year, and which will permit more expeditious travel than fifteen miles an hour. This speed regulation is in itself proof of the inadequate plan and condition of the said route.

I believe it is possible to construct a shorter roadway, without a multiplicity of short curves, at a much lower elevation, not so dangerous, and which will permit much faster and safer travel.

The State highway from Los Angeles to the southerly end of the Ridge route will be assumed to be satisfactory. Also the said highway from Bakersfield to the Tejon summit, although the Grapevine grade and the Tejon summit grades can be improved.

The Ridge Route commences at a point near Quail Lake and ends at the Castaic Valley, a distance of about thirty miles of mountain grades and curves. It takes about two hours to pass over this section.

I beg to submit to your consideration the construction of a new or substitute line, substantially as follows:

Commencing about one-half mile south of the Tejon summit and proceed southerly into Canada de Los Alamos to the intersection of the same with Piru Creek, at which the elevation on the United States contour maps is given as 2307 above sea level; from said point continue down the said Piru Creek to a point marked on the said map B. M. 2060. From the said point continue toward Oak Flat to an extreme elevation of 3000 feet, and about three miles from Piru Creek. From said elevation of 3000 feet continue through Oak Flat to Violin Canyon, and pass down this canyon into Castaic Valley and connect with the present highway.

The elevation of the Tejon summit is about 4315 feet. The intersection of the road from Gorman with the Canada de Los Alamos is 2889 feet, a difference of 1326 feet in about ten miles of roadway. The average is about 135 feet to the mile or less than a 3 per cent grade. The travel along this part of the roadway can easily be the maximum of thirty-five miles per hour. There is no necessity of very short curves. At any rate this part of the line will permit as fast travel as now from the Tejon Summit to Quail Lake.

Under the route indicated there will be about fifteen miles of actual mountain roadway requiring slow speed for safety, but as the curves will be longer than on the Ridge Route and the gradient less, the maximum speed can be in excess of fifteen miles per hour. It is estimated that over this fifteen miles a speed of twenty miles per hour would be safe.

The route proposed will have the following advantages:

It will be much shorter.

The maximum gradient will be very much less.

It will be free from a multiplicity of short curves.

The extreme elevation will be about 1200 feet less than the Ridge Route.

It will be free from snow, ice and sleet.

It will be as free from slides as the Ridge Route.

It will open up an interior valley.

It will be very much safer than the present route.

It will be more scenic than the Ridge Route, as it will vary the views from the top and the sides of ridges and mountains with the charm of the valley below and the life and sparkle of mountain streams.

It will aid the sportsman and fisherman.

It will provide better access to water.

It will afford pleasure and picnic grounds.

It will add a new route to the Antelope Valley the year round.

It will be to the advantage of mines.

It will be immeasurably better for both pleasure and commercial purposes.

It will permit faster and still safer travel.

It will attract travel through safety, scenery and saving of time, instead of repelling it through fear and danger.

SANTA FE AVENUE PAVING IS SOUGHT

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HUNTINGTON PARK, April 21. The property owners along Santa Fe avenue have been successful in circulating a petition for the pavement of that thoroughfare. The work was under the direction of the West Side Improvement Association.

George Kittama, one of the officials of the association, has presented a petition before the Board of City Trustees calling for an eight-inch paving along the street. The petition states that 98 per cent of the residents along the thoroughfare had signed it, and that 85 per cent of the frontage along the avenue was represented on the petition. The petition calls for half the cost of the improvement to be paid by the property owners and the other half by the entire city.

This thoroughfare is one of the heavily traveled avenues in this city between Los Angeles and Long Beach.

Long Island Estate Brings Covina Grove in Transfer

Fred J. Wagner's Long Island Home

This structure with the estate on which it stood has been transferred by the well-known automobile race official for an orange grove at Covina. The transaction was handled through the agency of O. E. Van Slyke, local realtor.

FRED WAGNER HAS NEW HOME

O. E. Van Slyke, local realtor, announces the exchange for Fred J. Wagner, well-known automobile starter, of his country place at Smithtown, L. I., for a similar home at Covina.

The Smithtown place consisted of eighty acres partly in a grove with a trout stream. It was acquired by C. B. Maloney of New York City, who with his wife, Edith Langley Maloney, from whom Langley Field was named, formerly owned the Covina place.

The Covina property is on Grand avenue, about half way between Glendora and Covina, and about a mile south of the well-known Frank Chance property. It consists of a fourteen-acre orange grove planted with Valencias, and improved with a house of fourteen rooms, elaborate grounds, with greenhouse, tennis court, flower gardens, swimming pool, chauffeur's and maid's separate houses, gardener's cottage and garages.

Buckskin was the most common material used for glove-making when the industry was in its infancy in America.

Glenoaks is no farther from down-town Los Angeles than Hollywood Boulevard and Highland Avenue, yet it is regarded by many visitors as the most picturesque scenic park in Southern California. It's located in Glendale.

For those who seek a delightful degree of seclusion from the busy outside world, Glenoaks presents untold attractions. Yet immediate ascent to the surrounding hills is afforded by mountain trails and bridle paths—giving a commanding view of surrounding cities—and the mountains to the north.

A free bus will continuously link up Glenoaks with the schools and the 5 cent fare car line to Los Angeles. Every provision will be made to develop Glenoaks into a residential park of rare beauty. Restrictions are heavier than in similarly priced property elsewhere, which insures desirable living conditions, considered from every angle. Now is the time to buy, before the streets are laid—for a home or for profit. Come and enjoy GLENOAKS!

HOW TO GET TO GLENOAKS

FROM LOS ANGELES, drive out to Glendale, to Broadway. East on Broadway to Verdugo Road, then North until you reach a large sign indicating the direction of the tract. Smaller signs make it easy to find.

How to Enjoy Glenoaks!

Plan on going out and spending the day. Take a few deep breaths of the pure, wholesome air—and wander around among the fruit and shade trees. Then ascend one of the trails and drink in the delightful view. You'll see what we mean!

NATION'S BUILDING MARK

Financial Firm Collects Data on Entire Country, Showing Gain in Operations

In keeping with general business activities throughout the country, new building operations continue to gain momentum as the season advances. March building permits in the 207 principal cities were $422,591,923 a gain over March, 1922, of $161,564,177, or 61 per cent, according to official reports recorded in the national monthly building survey of S. W. Straus & Co. These figures warrant an estimate of total permits issued in the entire ountry of $600,000,000. The same cities reported $825,344,407 for the first quarter of the year, a gain of $278,320,726, or 50 per cent. S. W. Straus & Co.'s estimate of total permits for new buildings and alterations issued during the three months' period is $1,400,000,000.

Accompanying these record-breaking achievements there was a steadily advancing range of building costs both for labor and material. In many parts of the country shortages of these commodities were reported.

Notwithstanding these activities, there were indications of a continued large potential demand for buildings of various types throughout the country.

The greatest proportionate activities were in the Pacific Coast States which showed a March gain of 171 per cent. There were indications of greatly increased activities in the South, where a March gain of 62 per cent was recorded as compared with a February gain of 10 per cent. The Central States gained 75 per cent and the Eastern States 41 per cent.

REPORT LARGE GAINS

The cities reporting the largest gains over March, 1922, were as follows: Greater New York, $46,047,000; Chicago, $11,037,000; Los Angeles, $10,231,000; Houston, $4,019,000; Jersey City, $2,900,000; Cleveland, $2,925,000; Harrisburg, $2,654,000; St. Louis, $2,438,000; Kansas City, $1,700,000; South Bend, $1,680,000; Evanston, Ill., $1,294,000; Allentown, $1,107,000; Columbus, O., $982,000; Indianapolis, $963,000; Jamestown, N. Special attention is called to the fact that the S. W. Straus & Co. building survey is compiled from authentic official figures reported directly by city building departments on the valuation of new building and alteration permits issued, without allowance for undervaluation, (except in the city of Baltimore) and that the valuation is invariably from 5 to 40 per cent less than the actual amount ultimately spent by the builders.

Taxation Will be Subject of Realty Lecture

H. M. Porter, treasurer of the Los Angeles Realty Board will speak tomorrow evening before the members of the general real estate class in the University of Southern California on the subject of "Taxation." This will be the twelfth of the series of sixteen lectures given by representatives of the Los Angeles Realty Board before the students in this course.

The speaker at the meeting of the class last week was E. L. Farmer, vice-president of the Title Insurance and Trust Company, who had for his subject "Escrows as Used in Real Estate Transactions." He defined a "Perfect Escrow" and outlined the requirements as follows: "There must be subject matter. There must be necessary parties. There must be proper authority for each to act. There must be complete meeting of the minds. There must be valuable consideration. There must be element of time."

Mr. Farmer told of the value of an escrow to the principals and the agent and he outlined carefully what the agent must do to avail himself of the advantages of an escrow. The details necessary in the making of an escrow were described.

G. Gordon Whitnall, director of the City Planning Commission, will be one of the speakers in this course and he will give the relation of the city planning policies to the development of realty values.

NORTHERN COUNTRIES TO BE SHOWN CARAVAN

The invitation to attend the nineteenth State convention at Sacramento, October 10-13, was placed before the local boards by the State secretary, Glenn D. Willaman, who declared that at least 1000 realtors and their wives would be guests of Sacramento for the annual convention. Realty boards of Butte, Tehama, Glenn and Yolo counties already have plans under consideration to bring a caravan of the southern and central realtors to see their rich lands in the Sacramento Valley. It is proposed to have the caravan leave Sacramento on Saturday afternoon, October 13, for the north via the east-side highway, stopping at Marysville, Durham Colony and at Chico, at the Oaks Hotel for a banquet and night lodging.

The next day will be devoted to a visit to Red Bluff, Corning, Orland, Willows and then south via the west-side highway through Williams, Arbuckle and Woodland, to the capital. It is believed that these four counties can arrange for accommodations both for lodging, meals and the automobile trip covering two days. In this manner leading real estate men of California would be given a first-hand view of the great empire of the Sacramento Valley.

GROWTH

A little while ago there were nine homes in Maywood. Each family had an acre, or thereabouts, all for its own. NOW there are nearly 2000 homes, and in some districts as many as six families to the acre.

Increasing Value

The value of land advances with population growth, making profits for investors and home buyers. There is a constantly growing demand for land in Maywood—but there is no increase in its area. The result is that the value of land is advancing steadily.

Thirty Millions for Maywood

The Central Manufacturing District is located in Maywood. Its announced program includes the expenditure of more than THIRTY MILLIONS OF MONEY and the employment of thousands of men in productive enterprises.

Buy in advance for Profit

There is but one remaining opportunity to buy in advance of this great development now under way. There is only one subdivision adjoining this industrial district. There never can be another. There is "one and only" chance to invest adjoining these vast enterprises.

HIGH COSTS ARE CHIEF DANGER

Further Gain in Prices May Hinder Building

Shortage of Labor Makes for Monopoly Wages

Effect of Decline in Activity Would be Far Reaching

"The money value of building and construction in 1922 was the largest recorded in the building industry of the country," says Commerce Monthly, magazine of the National Bank of Commerce in New York. "The value of new contracts awarded druing January, 1923, was larger than during January of either of the two preceding years," says the bank's magazine, "and predictions are being freely made that in 1923 the volume of building, on a valuation basis, will exceed even the high record of 1922.

"Whether or not these expectations will be realized," states the article, "depends on building costs. They are already high and the prices of building materials and wages are rising. Under these conditions, there is always the possibility that as a result of high costs, those who are using their own funds will prefer to delay building and that construction dependent upon borrowed money will be hampered by the unwillingness of lenders to accept current levels as a proper basis for long-term loans with the consequent restriction of such loans to so low a percentage of construction costs, as will make it difficult for owners to finance their undertakings.

"Superficially the conclusion might be drawn that a famine of building materials and supplies is imminent, but such a conclusion omits the price factor. Buildings represent a long-time investment and over and over again it has been demonstrated that no industry is more susceptible than is construction to the effects of price advances. Since last March the upward climb of building material prices has been rapid. The United States Bureau of Labor Statistics building material index has increased 24 per cent.

SHORTAGE OF LABOR

"The building labor situation is similar to that of building materials. There is a shortage of labor, both skilled and unskilled. This is the combined result of the competition of industry and the restriction of immigration. The resultant shortage of skilled labor, combined with effective organization, has made for monopoly wages. While wage scales in the building trades have been cut in most cities, wages paid have been determined by the law of supply and demand and they are now probably as high as they were at the peak of prices in 1920.

"With stable prices and reasonable wages, a true shortage of building materials and of building labor would be almost certain, but rising prices and wages will operate to prevent the development of this condition. As building costs mount, they will reach a point at which home builders of small means cannot meet them. Already there are reports of cancellations of loans for this purpose because the amounts arranged for have proved insufficent to meet rising costs. Builders for industrial purposes and municipalities as well will hesitate and investors will be inclined to consider carefully the wisdom of placing funds in investments which hold increasingly doubtful promise of profit and of which the ultimate security may be in question.

EFFECT OF DECLINE

"Last year building construction took 15 per cent of the steel produced in this country, being second in its requirements only to the railroads. The manufacture of cement is the fourth industry in the consumption of coal. During 1922, forest products made up 7 per cent of total freight car loadings, a larger proportion than grain, live stock or ore. There are two and a half million persons engaged directly in the building industries, besides large numbers occupied in industries directly dependent upon them. It is probable that a tenth of the total population of the country is dependent directly or indirectly upon the building industries for its support.

"The effect of even a partial cessation of building activity would be far reaching. Unemployment of only a small proportion of the workers engaged directly or indirectly in the industry would inevitably result in lessened business activity. Curtailment of purchasing power coming as a consequence of unemployment in the building trades would be a severe set back to business."

LOCAL FIRM ERECTS TEXAS CEMENT MILL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FORT WORTH (Tex.) April 21. The Southwestern Portland Cement Company of Los Angeles and El Paso will soon begin the construction of a cement-manufacturing plant here to cost $1,250,000. The plant will have an initial capacity of 3000 barrels of cement a day and will give employment to about 225 men. The company has contracted for the purchase of 600 acres of land situated one and one-half miles south of the city, and tests of the cement-material deposit thereon are now being made.

C. Leonardt of Los Angeles, president of the company, is expected to arrive here the latter part of this month to complete arrangements for the immediate construction of the plant. O. J. Binford, secretary and general superintendent, and R. H. Coghlan, chemical engineer, are now here on business connected with the project.

NEW SUBDIVISION TO BE OPENED TODAY

The last piece of unsubdivided acreage in the immediate vicinity of Florence and Compton avenues, two of the principal cross-town streets in Los Angeles, has been purchased by M. S. Robertson. The property has been subdivided into sixty resident lots on Seventy-fourth, Seventy-fifth and Seventy-sixth streets and nineteen business lots on Compton avenue. Modern improvements together with all utilities will be installed. The lots go on the market today.

NEW SUBDIVISIONS APPROVED

Thirty Tracts Considered by City Planning Commission; Twenty-four Passed; Two Rejected and Four Held for Further Consideration

Action taken by the subdivision committee of the City Planning Commission on the maps of thirty new subdivisions at the last regular meeting of the body is as follows:

Tract 6558, north of Riverside Drive at Silver Lake Boulevard approved.

In connection with the tract south of Hollenbeck avenue and east of the Los Angeles River, which is owned by the Hostetter interests, a protest was filed asking to have Downey Road extended in a straight line. Action was deferred for one week to permit representative of protestants to appear before the committee.

Tract 6241, west of Coronado street and north of Wilshire Boulevard, approved with the understanding that Lot 2 be annexed to Lot 1 or 3 or to both depending upon conditions of purchase.

Tract 6606, south of Adams street and east of Yukon street, approved upon condition that West Haven street be made sixty feet in width and that one lot in each tier of lots lying between Ridgley Drive and Burnside avenue be eliminated to permit the necessary adjustment to make the remaining lots the required size.

Tract 6608, at the junction of Glendower avenue and Bonvue avenue, approved.

Tract 6389, outside of the city of Los Angeles, west of First street and northerly of Hill avenue, approved on condition that First street be widened by ten feet and that storm-drain easements along natural water course be conveyed to the city of Los Angeles.

Tract 6214, east of Main street and north of Ninety-eighth street, outside the city of Los Angeles, approved on condition that the alleys be made twenty feet in width and that Wall street be made sixty feet in width.

Tract 6140, outside of the city of Los Angeles, south of Sunset Boulevard and west of Newcomb street, approved.

Tract 6063, south of Vanowen street and east of Hazeltine avenue, approved.

Tract 6411, north of Dundee Drive and east of Commonwealth avenue, approved.

Tract 6556, east of Pasadena avenue and north of Avenue Forty-Nine, approved.

The tract east of Whitsett avenue and south of Kittridge street, disapproved because of danger of overflow from flood water.

Tract 5540, north of Pico street and east of La Brea street, approved.

Tract 6607, north of Sheridian street and west of St. Louis, disapproved because of small-size lots.

The tract north of Hillside avenue at Fairfax avenue, tentatively approved on condition that any storm drain easements be granted and that total width of dedicated street be not less than twenty-six feet.

Tract 6585, northeast of Armstrong avenue and northwest of Edgewater Terrace, tentatively approved.

Tract 6571, north of Ventura Boulevard and west of Gloria avenue, approved on condition that the owner dedicate his proportionate share necessary to make Ventura Boulevard 100 feet, and that thirty feet be dedicated as the owner's share of an east-and-west street on the north boundary of the track, also that storm-drain easements be granted along the natural water course through the tract.

Tract 6514, west of South Park avenue and south of Seventy-fourth street, approved.

Tract 6109 (sheets 1 and 2,) south of S street on both sides of Wilmington Boulevard, approved in case that land on the east of Wilmington Boulevard, in the vicinity of P street, is to be filled to the grade of Wilmington Boulevard. In case this is not filled the approval of the this committee is made conditional upon the construction of a drain required to carry the water from the existing culvert under Wilmington Boulevard across Frigate avenue in a manner satisfactory to the City Engineer's office.

Tract 6388, north of Wilshire Boulevard and east of Highland avenue, approved.

Tract 5900, north of Cattaraugus avenue and west of Venice Boulevard, approved.

Tract 6595, west of South Sherman Way and south of Rita street, tentatively approved on condition that the owner give his proportionate share on the westerly side of tract for a thirty-foot street.

Tract 6340, south of Terrace 50 and westerly of Cleland avenue, approved on conditions that any necessary storm drain easements be granted.

Tract 6124, (Sheets 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6) west of Verdugo Road at York Boulevard, approved upon condition that necessary storm drain easements be granted.

Tract 4917, south of Saticoy street and westerly of Vineland avenue, approved.

Tract 6378, outside of Los Angeles, west of Main street and south of James street, held over to permit subdivider to appear before the committee.

Tract 6529, south of Alhambra avenue, adjoining the easterly city boundary, action on the 9th inst. based on an erroneous report rescinded and map tentatively approved on condition that after further study the matter of street grade is found satisfactory to the engineer's office and subject also to the dedication of any storm drain easements.

Tract 6366, south of Ventura Boulevard and westerly of Edgemoor Drive, tentatively approved upon condition that a turning place on the westerly boundary thereof be so designed as to give actual frontage to the adjoining property, and that any necessary storm drain easements be granted.

Tracts 6508 and 6409, north of Ventura Boulevard, laid over to permit subdividers to appear before committee.

List of Products and Ports of Consignment Read Like Dictionary or Atlas

Back of the account of the record which the Los Angeles Harbor is making for intercoastal shipments there is an interesting story which seems to radiate from industrial Los Angeles. According to "Southern California Business," the official organ of the local Chamber of Commerce, out-bound intercoastal shipments from the Los Angeles Harbor have surpassed in bulk those of all other ports in the nation. Total intercoastal shipments from Los Angeles wharves ranked second only to New York.

That this condition can exist establishes the fact that back of the Los Angeles Harbor there is a wonderful back country and a list of enterprising industries, local industrial students declare.

When the lists of cargoes and the ports of call for vessels carrying products from the local port are considered it is found that Los Angeles products are going to the entire world. The following is a list of just a few of the places to which these vessels have gone during the last few weeks:

Panama City, Manila, Dairen, Batavia (Java), Singapore, Johannesburg, Kama Kuna, Hongkong, Cape Town, Sagua La Grande (Cuba), Matanzas, San Salvador, Piura, Melbourne, Guatamala City, Mazatlan, Colima, Cristobal, Tampico, Rotterdam, Sydney, Hermosillo, Shanghai, Seoul, Buenos Aires, Copenhagen, Tokio, Glasgow, Frankfort and Barranquilla.

WIDE MARKETS OPEN

Mobile, Galveston, New Orleans, Portland, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and New York are the more important ports which have been receiving local goods in recent months. Among the foreign cities which have been consistent purchasers of Southern California are Havana, Honolulu, London, Liverpool, Kobe, Yokohama and Tokio.

To Mobile beans, fruits and waste paper have gone in large consignments. Galveston has brought large quantities of beans and fresh fruits. New Orleans is a regular purchaser of beans, canned fish and waste paper. Havana has added paint and canned fruit to the list. Portland, the northern neighbor, buys large quantities of olives and canned vegetables.

New York's list is the longest of any for any port and includes large quantities of canned fish, talc, olives, rubber, metals, electrical goods, dry goods, fruits, furniture, citric acid, soaps, paint and borax.

London and Liverpool receive large cargoes of gasoline, olives, fresh and canned fruits, automobile accessories, medicines, borax, honey and cottonseed products.

Potash and other chemicals together with gypsum, candy and fish are among the chief articles consigned to the Orient.

These lists are brief accounts of the daily records which are kept by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. But they compose the major portion of the cargoes which are supplied by the factories and farms of Southern California. Thousands of other articles are shipped each week but these are components of the first rank.

Petroleum has been omitted from all of the lists because the black gold of the Southern California fields is going to practically every port of importance in the world. China and the other oriental countries are wrapping the wares of their shops in the old Los Angeles newspapers.

Each week the list of articles and ports seems to grow longer and longer.

PLAN ONTARIO IMPROVEMENTS

Streets to be Paved When Plans Are Completed

Work Will Centralize City's Business District

Important Realty Deals Are Consummated

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, April 21.—Plans are now being perfected by the City Street Department under the direction of Superintendent O. S. Roen for the widening of the roadways and the paving of three streets in Ontario's downtown section at an estimated total cost of approximately $10,000.

The contemplated work is necessitated by increasing congestion on Euclid avenue and A street, long the main business thoroughfares of the city, which has resulted in recent months in many new business houses springing up on B street, Lemon and Laurel avenues.

The present width of the roadways of these streets, thirty-six feet, is a handicap to business and the plans for the improvements, which are said to be unanimously indorsed by the property owners, call for increasing the width of the roadways to forty-four feet by setting either curb back four feet. In the opinion of Street Superintendent Roon, the contemplated change will go a long way toward concentrating the business of the city in the district it should occupy and prevent its straggling out haphazard.

The contemplated widening and paving will be from Commercial Court to B street on Laurel avenue, from Laurel to Lemon avenue on B street and from B to Transit street on Lemon, a total of six blocks. It is understood that plans for the extension of the system of ornamental electroliers to portions of these streets not already so lighted is also contemplated.

Business buildings erected on these streets within recent months include the Odd Fellows' Temple at a cost of $50,000 and the W. J. Campbell Building at a cost of $45,000 in West B street; the A. E. Johnston Building in Laurel avenue at a cost of $30,000; the Security State Bank at B street and Euclid avenue, $60,000; the R. F. Price Building, $15,000, in Lemon avenue, and others. Plans for still further business structures are reported underway with the assurance of the contemplated improvement. The building at A street and Lemon avenue shortly to be vacated by the Studebaker garage which is to be moved to a new and commodious building now being completed for Pearson and Pearson at A street and Cherry avenue at a cost of $20,000, is to be occupied by a branch of the Western Auto Supply Company, it is said.

Prominent among realty transactions of the week was that announced yesterday in which C. E. Mead buys from Miss Helen Fitzgerald a one-story business building at 225 North Euclid avenue. Mr. Mead already owned the one-story business structure adjoining this property on the south and the new purchase gives him a frontage of sixty-two feet on Euclid avenue. Mr. Mead has already announced his intention of tearing out the present buildings and erecting a modern business block.

Movement of residential property is also reported brisk. George T. Barr has sold his nine-room dwelling at 203 West H street to F. W. Edwards and in turn has purchased a colonial bungalow at 233 El Morado court from S. G. Berger, it was announced today.

Vacant residential lots are also in large demand and practically every sale assures another new dwelling for the city. Records of the city department show an average of about one dwelling permit a day for the month to date, the total for the month to date being in excess of $70,000 and that for the year to date rapidly nearing the $400,000-mark.

Another forward step noted this week is seen in the action of the City Council in ordering the construction of a trunk line sewer from H to Fourth street between Euclid and Sultana avenues. This line will cost about $4000 and will add a large territory lying between Euclid and Campus avenues, north of H street to the city sewer system. Plans are also under way to connect up the large and rapidly-growing College Park tract to the city system.

Concrete to Cost Less Than Wood

McCollum Thermos Bottle Concrete Wall Form

This view demonstrates the use of a form which will make a concrete wall house more economical than a frame house, according to the originator of the plan, W. F. McCollum. Constructed of a house by use of these forms is now in progress. A number of buildings already built are said to have demonstrated the practicability of the process.

English Have Eyes Focussed on Los Angeles

Interest in Los Angeles real estate extends abroad, as indicated in a letter received by Tom Ingersoll, secretary of the Los Angeles Realty Board, from a London (Eng.) "House and Estate Agency, Ltd." asking for the name of a "reliable firm of realtors in Los Angeles who will co-operate with us in the sale of properties to English people going out to your neighborhood."

The English concern wanted a "list of selected improved income-bearing properties—orange groves and fruit farms or poultry and pig ranches—at prices ranging from $5000 to $25,000."

That the company across the water had had numerous inquiries concerning Los Angeles property was denoted by this statement, "We hope to be able to send a number of good-class clients to your neighborhood."

To aid the foreign firms in interesting prospects in Southern California real estate, the request was made that photographs of houses and buildings might accompany the descriptions. "These latter would be most useful to us," the director of the company wrote.

REALTORS HOLD BANQUET

The banquet and ball held by the Southwest Realty Board on last Wednesday evening was a success according to officials of the organization. It was held at the Western-avenue Golf Club, plates being served to over 200.

Among the many speakers of the evening were Henry P. Barbour, president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors; Tom Ingersoll, secretary of the Los Angeles Realty Board; C. C. C. Tatum, past president of the California Real Estate Association; Glenn D. Willaman, secretary; O. A. Vickery, vice-president of the State association; and many others.

Dancing followed the banquet and entertainment. The affair was in charge of C. W. Clagg, toastmaster, and E. T. Oakes, secretary of the Southwest Realty Board. It is the intention of this board to continue affairs of this kind about every three months.

A telephone equipped with an extension receiver, that can be adjusted to the ear without being held in the hand, is a new invention.

GIVE TALKS TO NEARBY BOARDS

Emphasizing the important role that the realtor should take in the development of the State, Tom Ingersoll, secretary of the Los Angeles Realty Board spoke Thursday evening at the regular meeting of the Alhambra Realty Board, his subject being "Realtors' Part in Developing Greater California."

At the meeting of the Santa Ana Realty Board Friday noon Richard C. Willis, formerly treasurer of the Los Angeles Realty Board spoke on "Leases." Secretary Ingersoll was also present at the meeting, his subject being "Santa Ana, Los Angeles & Co."

The Business Men of Van Nuys Want More

HAPPY HOMES

So They Offer Beautiful-Improved-Small Farms at About Half Actual Value!

EVERY new home in this district means more business, more prosperity and higher property values. That is why we business men became subdividers. Frankly, we were forced to do it. Our community was losing 15 to 20 prospective settlers a week because speculators and others had tied up nearly all the improved vacant land. We wanted our town and our business to grow, so we had to make it possible. We got together and bought West Van Nuys, the largest, highest and most productive tract in the section. Then we divided it into plots of 2-3 of an acre and larger and contracted for modern city improvements. Now we are offering these big improved plots for as little as $950. This applies to homeseekers only. Speculators are not encouraged.

A Friendly Town

If you have a longing for a place where stiff formality is forgotten and the people are REAL friends and neighbors—where "John, George and Bill" are heard more often than "Mister" and the spirit is "live and help live"—if you want to be "one of us" in a town that is warm hearted yet not inquisitive, come out today and talk things over.

Profits From Soil

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has pronounced the Yolo Loam soil of this tract the finest in the entire valley. While it is impossible to make a GOOD living on an acre or less—no matter where you go—you will be able to pay for your land and earn $600 or more a year by raising poultry, berries and garden truck. Van Nuys is the center of one of the greatest poultry raising districts in America, and members of our organization who have been signally successful in the industry will give you all the assistance and advice you require.

Car Line Passes Tract

The Van Nuys line of the Pacific Electric System runs right past West Van Nuys. You do not have to depend upon promises for transportation.

Improvements now being installed include surfaced streets, water, gas and electricity. We guarantee to have them ready as soon as you want them.

Strategic Location

West Van Nuys is located on Sherman Way, the beautiful tree-bordered scenic drive, and is about one mile West of the business center of Van Nuys. It is directly in line with the most rapid growth of the city. Vanowen Boulevard, which runs directly through the center of the tract, will be paved all the way to Van Nuys. The contractors have guaranteed to finish the paving before June 23rd.

3 Years to Pay

We have arranged to extend payments on these lots over a period of three years to suit the convenience of the purchaser. Liberal building discounts will be allowed a limited number of buyers who agree to start the construction of homes immediately. We have personally started the construction of a number of homes which will be offered for sale when completed. Reasonable restrictions insure the permanent beauty and protect values in West Van Nuys.

Come Out Today

Drive out Sherman Way to Van Nuys. Our signs there will direct you to the tract. Or take Van Nuys car at Pacific Electric Hill Street Station and get off at West Van Nuys.

If you cannot come personally, mail the coupon below and we will send you complete information about the remarkable inducements we are offering to homeseekers.

SAN BERNARDINO HAS RECORD FOR PROGRESS

Discovery of Townsite by Spanish Adventurers Antedates Date of Los Angeles Founding

BY EARL E. BUIE
"Times" Staff Correspondent

As early as 1774 when Capt. Juan Batista de Anza, assigned by the Viceroy of Mexico to open a road between Sonora and Monterey, plodded along in an ox-drawn cart, San Bernardino has been on the highways leading to the sea.

Through the San Gorgonio Pass, the route now followed by the Southern Pacific's transcontinental line, came Capt. Anza's expedition—240 Indians and 1050 beasts. From the pass, the Spaniard surveyed the valley and directed his caravan to a spot where now stands San Bernardino, a city of 30,000 and Southern California's fastest-growing inland community.

And in the mission of San Gabriel, Capt. Anza told of his discovery—a well-watered valley, luxuriant with its springtime verdure. Indians of the valley lived on a vast ranch. In May, 1810, came Padre Dumetz to establish a colony. On May 20—according to the Roman Catholic Calendar of saints, the feast day of St Bernardine de Siena and the valley was named San Bernardino, On a hill Padre Dumetz erected a chapel, long since crumbled to ruin.

COLONISTS ENTER VALLEY

Forty years later, in 1850, came the first white settlers. Mormons from the north. Capt. Jefferson Hunt led a pilgrimage from Salt Lake City across the Mojave desert into the valley. In March, 1851, there came another expedition of Mormons, nearly 500 emigrants to establish a Mormon colony. In San Bernardino today are survivors of Jefferson Hunt's party.

With its broad avenues as its heritage of the Mormons, San Bernardino today is a city of homes and industry. Within the shadows of its mountains are the fertile fields of the valley that bears its name, producing one-third of the nation's citrus fruit crops.

On two transcontinental railway lines and two motor highways, San Bernardino is one of the shipping centers of the Southland and is second to Los Angeles as Southern California's leading inland city of industry. Here are the $10,000,000 Santa Fe shops, employing 3000 workers with a monthly pay roll of $600,000. The Pacific Electric Railway's shops employ 250 men and scores of industries throughout the city add thousands to the city's monthly income.

RAPID GROWTH SHOWN

Few cities in the State have expanded more rapidly than has San Bernardino in the past ten years. Statistics compiled by Secretary Royal H. Mack, of the Chamber of Commerce, tell of its prosperity. In 1910, the city had a population of 12,779 and in 1922, figures compiled on school census records, showed 26,550. Conservative estimates now give the population at 30,000 within the city's incorporate boundaries. Within a radius of twelve miles there are 65,000 people.

With its natural resources, the city's municipally owned water system has a book value of $550,000. Pressure of ninety pounds is maintained in the mains for fire protection purposes. Last year the city purchased the Devil Canyon water shed to enlarge the supply, the city's growth demanding extension of the system.

San Bernardino's edcational facilities are among the best in the State. A high school with six units and an enrollment of 932 pupils; eleven elementary and a junior high school are maintained in addition to eight kindergartens. The high school was erected six years ago at a cost of $330,000. It is in the heart of the residential district with a spacious campus.

More than 1000 new residences were erected in 1922. Building permits for the first three months of 1923, total $1,900,000. An extension program costing more than $1,000,000 and doubling the production of the Santa Fe's locomotive department repairing facilities, has been announced. Construction of the units will begin late in the summer and, it was announced, will be in operation by April, 1924, adding 1000 employees to the shops personnel. During 1922, four new shop units were built at a cost of $1,100,000.

In the business district, eight new structures, including the W. P. Fuller building, $80,000; the Cohn-Rich Building, $30,000; the Southern California Ice Company Building, $125,000; the San Bernardino National Bank Building, $75,000; the Hutchason Building, $60,000 were constructed. Building permits for the past six years, testimonial of the city's growth, are as follows:

1917	$ 75,517
1918	93,032
1919	296,424
1920	596,189
1921	1,019,560
1922	2,209,663
1923 (three months)	900,000

The San Bernardino Municipal Auditorium, for which a $250,000 bond issue was voted last year, will be ready for occupancy an June 1. The building, constructed of reinforced concrete and with a seating capacity of 6000, is in the center of Pioneer Park, a beautiful spot within three blocks from the principal business district.

The civic expansion of the city has kept pace with the building of homes. More than thirteen miles of streets and twenty miles of curbs were laid during 1922. Realty values doubled in the last two years.

At a price of $600 per front foot, a site at the corner of Fifth and E streets was purchased by a Pasadena syndicate, represented by A. A. Platt for a semitourist hotel. The building will be of the Moorish type of architecture, with 300 rooms. A bungalow court and appurtenances will be included in the investment, to cost more than $300,000.

MANY BEAUTIFUL HOMES

In the residential district are some of California's most beautiful homes, few that might be termed palatial, but scores of the comfortable type for which the Southland is famed. The assessed valuation of the city jumped from $5,475,507 in 1910 to $9,674,520 in 1922. The assessments are compiled on the basis of one-third actual value.

San Bernardino has six banks, with an aggregate total deposit of $11,500,000. In conjunction with the banks, a clearinghouse is operated. Average weekly clearances for the last months have been $1,500,000. Two building and loan institutions, one of which is among the oldest in the State, have heavy deposits, and have aided in the building of hundreds of San Bernardino homes.

CENTER OF BUSINESS

Because of its location in the heart of the valley, the city is a wholesale merchandising center. A list of this class of business houses in the city follows:

Bakeries (wholesale)	5
Wholesale groceries	1
Paper and stationery (wholesale)	2

San Bernardino is the home of the National Orange Show, "California's Greatest Midwinter Event," a citrus exposition attracting thousands of visitors to the State annually. At the thirteenth show, held last February, records show that 230,000 people thronged the tents during the ten days of the exposition. California's choicest citrus fruits are exhibited at the show. Citrus experts of California hold an institute annually in conjunction with the show, discussing citrus culture.

Competing districts vie with one another in displaying the choicest fruit that nature and California can produce. Prizes are offered amounting into the thousands of dollars for the finest exhibits, and it gives great distinction to the district winning a prize. To win the National Orange Show sweepstakes is the greatest honor that can come to a citrus-growing district. The popularity of the National Orange Show is attested by the thousands of pleased people who, year after year, return to visit the show and help make it a great success. The publicity given the Orange Show has carried the name of San Bernardino to far and distant places. It is indeed "California's Greatest Midwinter Event."

In the San Bernardino Mountains are Southern California's famous resorts, including Lake Arrowhead, a $6,000,000 project, where already two $80,000 hotels are completed and a community known as Arrowhead Village, which accommodates thousands of visitors annually.

On the Rim of the World Drive, 101 miles of mountain highway, are Clifton Heights, Squirrel Inn, Pinecrest, Arrowhead Lake, Big Bear Valley, Seven Oaks, Mountain Home, Forest Home and other summer resorts. The scenery along the route is unsurpassed in California. Statistics compiled by traffic officers show that more automobiles traveled the Rim of the World Drive in 1922 than the Yosemite National Park, highways. In Big Bear Valley a concrete boulevard, linking the resorts, is to be laid this summer at a cost of $179,000. From Deep Creek on the Rim of the World Drive, to Big Bear Valley, the Federal Road Bureau is building an eleven-mile cut off road. The appropriation for the project, expected to be completed by August, was $283,000. San Bernardino is the terminal of the route.

CITY OF MANY CHURCHES

San Bernardino's twenty-nine churches represent practically every donomination. The St. Bernardino de Siena Catholic Church operates a grade and high school. Union services are held throughout the summer months in Pioneer Park, as are municipal band concerts. The city's climate, unequalled in the counter months is not so hot during the summer to cause discomfort.

The city's Chamber of Commerce has nearly 500 members. Royal H. Mack, general manager of the Chamber of Commerce, is secretary of the chamber and its civic work continues throughout the year.

Business men have organized three civic organizations, the Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis clubs, all of which have a total membership personnel of 450. The city affords unlimited opportunities for manufacturing and business enterprises.

A harbor is operated by the city in Meadowbrook Park, through which flows Warm Creek, a beautiful stream affording bathing for youngsters. Thousands of motor tourists stop at the harbor en route to Southern California's cities and beaches.

San Bernardino is sixty miles from Los Angeles. Two highways, the Foothill and Valley boulevards, link the city with Los Angeles, Pasadena, Hollywood and the beaches, all within two and a half hours' motor drive. The Pacific Electric railway, an interurban service, operates twelve passenger trains daily each way between Los Angeles and San Bernardino. Hourly service is maintained between Redlands, Riverside, Colton and Rialto.

Ornamental lighting systems have been installed on the principal avenues of the city. The business district covers fourteen square blocks. The city's incorporated area is 6.83 square miles. Two annexation proceedings are now under way by which the area of the city will be enlarged.

The city, with its industry and homes, is one of Southern California's leading communities, contributing to the wealth and popularity of the Southland. San Bernardino will have a population of 40,000 by 1925, it is predicted by "The Better City Club," a civic organization recently formed to advance the community.

Compliments Work Done by National Body

L. Ward Prince, writing in the April issue of the American Magazine on "Things People Look for in Buying a House," compliments the National Association of Real Estate Boards and all the local bodies belonging to it. The Los Angeles Realty Board is a member board of the national association.

The article in part says: "Doubtless there was a time in the real estate business when it was a common thing to misrepresent conditions and grossly exaggerate values, on the principle of 'let the buyer beware.' But those times have largely passed. Much has been accomplished in the way of raising standards by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, local bodies of which are now likely to be found at all important centers. If a broker is a member of one of these local bodies, and thus is entitled to do business under the name of 'realtor,' it is a pretty good test of his reliability.

"The right kind of a broker not only has valuable knowledge and experience, but is willing to draw on its strictly in the homeseeker's interest."

Fine Building Is Planned for Visalia Bank

VISALIA, April 21.—Recently returning from a meeting of directors and officials of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank in Los Angeles, Susman Mitchell of the Visalia branch declared that a decision has been reached to proceed with the erection of a new building in this city as soon as possible.

Mr. Mitchell stated that a five or six-story building would be erected and that alterations, under way at the present, would be made as cheaply as possible by reason of the program for spending about $250,000 shortly. Alterations include utilizing space just vacated by Whited & Williams, jewelers, for the book-keeping department.

A uniform style of bank building will be adopted, according to Mr. Mitchell, in so far as possible under local conditions. Thus, the Fresno, Visalia and Pasadena banks will follow certain distinctive architectural lines, though they will not be of the same size nor height. These three banks are now being planned large escalator will be installed in the building to run from the first to fourth floors to represent an expenditure of $250,000. When the new edifice is finished it will be one of the best up-to-date structures in the city.

Executives of the institution stated yesterday that the management contemplates the erection of a height-limit building on Broadway adjoining the store on the south that will cost in the neighborhood of $800,000. The lease on the property will not expire for several years, but upon its termination construction work will start. Officers of the store include Arthur Letts, president; Harry Philp, vice-president; W. Y. Smither, general superintendent; R. E. Ashbrook, store designer; Arthur Letts, Jr., and Arthur Strausburger, directors.

MEMORIAL HOME

Plans have been completed and actual construction started, under the supervision of the architect, John J. Frauenfelder, on the Anderson Memorial Home, located at Ninth and Mesa streets, San Pedro.

This buildign is being erected by Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Anderson of San Pedro in memory of their two sons, Horace and Newell Anderson, who died while in a war training camp at a local university.

This building is being erected in height, plastered exterior and of Italian Renaissance design.

The basement will be reserved for the Boy Scouts Headquarters.

The first floor will be devoted to the administration offices and spacious lobby with a large fireplace. On this floor will also be located the dressing rooms and showers for boys and girls, the plunge and living quarters of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson.

The plugge is the main feature of the building and will be one of the largest and best equipped in the United States. It is 120 feet long and thirty feet wide with a 145,000-gallon capacity, ample run-ways are to be provided around the entire plunge with spectators' gallery at the end. The sterilizing, filtering and heating systems will be the best known to science, guaranteed to give absolutely pure and crystal clear water at all times, with an automatic regulating device to keep the water at an even temperature. The heating, sterilizing and filtering systems have a capacity of 350,000 gallons per day, giving a complete change of water at least twice a day.

On the second floor the billiard room, reading rooms, writing rooms and private parlors as well as a number of guests' rooms are to be located.

The gymnasium is located on the third floor, and is 50 by 70 feet and 25 feet in height, with a spacious gallery.

The public will be able to enjoy the privileges of this wonderful institution through the efforts and generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, who have personally pledged themselves to finance the entire project.

The new playhouse to be erected on West Washington street by West Coast Theaters, Inc., is to be one of the most unique structures erected in Los Angeles in recent months, according to Meyer & Holler, local architects, who have designed and who will build the structure. The site is on the north side of Washington street and extends from Vermont avenue to New Hampshire street.

The exterior is inspired by the medieval feudal type of building prevalent in Normandy and that part of England once held by invading Normans. The shops and apartments portion of the exterior will be worked out with half timber brick and plaster. The massive character of the structure is provided by the battlemented cornices, buttressed towers and the huge arched entrance of the theater portion.

Behind the portion of the building given over to shops and apartments there will be a garden which will resemble those of France and England.

The interior of the theater will be Anglo-Norman in design, resembling the massiveness of the exterior. Materials to be used in the interior will be those best adapted to the period.

According to officials of the theater corporation, M. Gore, A. L. Gore, Adolph Ramish, Sol Lesser and J. M. Schenck, the structure will represent an expenditure of $1,000,000. The property was purchased from Christian Jensen some months ago.

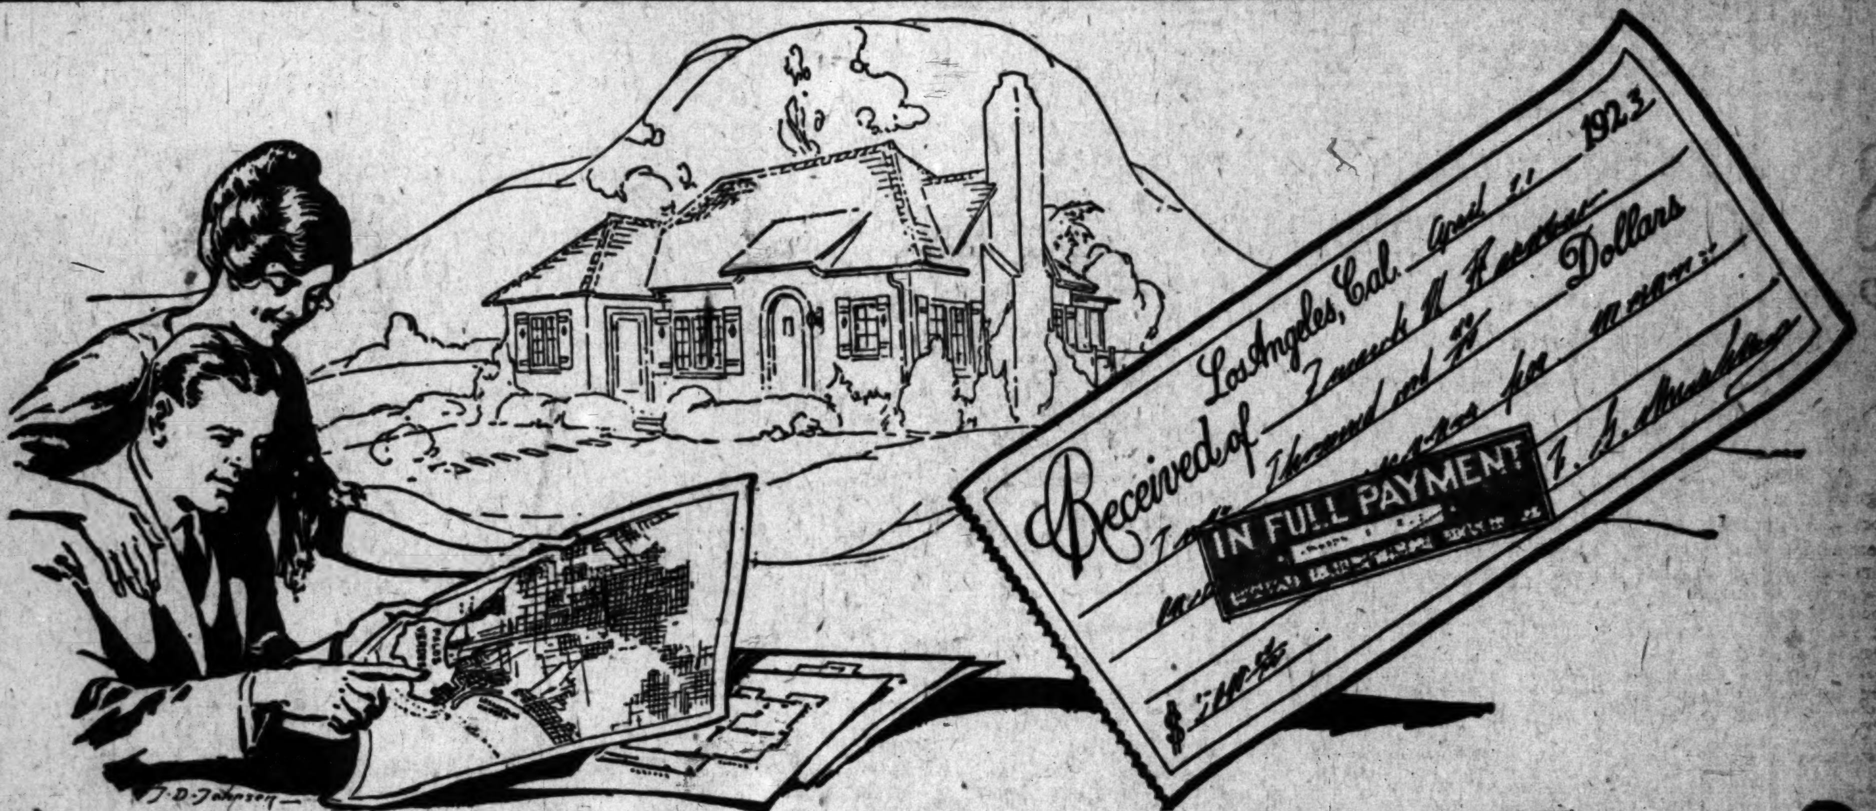
BLOCK AT REDONDO BEACH TRANSFERRED

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

REDONDO BEACH, April 21.—L. B. Lautterstein of Los Angeles has purchased the R. O. Fritz Block on South Pacific avenue, paying $35,000 cash for it. The new owner will make extensive improvements when present leases expire. Mr. Fritz is believed to have acquired the property some seven years ago for $10,000. It was then in the residence section, but has become part of the new business district.

PLANS ELSINORE THEATER

Architect Robert H. Orr has the plans for a new theater to be built at Elsinore for L. J. Massie. The building will contain a store and a large auditorium to seat several hundred. Reinforced concrete material will be used in its construction.



Will Your Profits Pay for Your Home?

You ought to have a home and you ought to make profitable investments

How are you going to do both?

Here is a plan that should enable you to get your home from your investment profits.

How Money Is Made

Have you ever realized that the first profit from residential property always goes to the Subdivider? Subdivider's Profits have made hundreds of men rich. It is not unusual to make as much as 200%!

Subdivider's Profit for You

You may participate in the Subdivider's Profit to be made from the Biggest Residential Subdivision in the West. Palos Verdes Non-Convertible Subscriptions, still available at the low price of 110, make you a Subdivider—a part owner—in the magnificent Palos Verdes Estates. You get the first profits from the sale of home and business sites that have the retail profits intact.

Your profits should pay for your home!

Is It Too Much To Expect?

Are we overstating the profit possibilities in Palos Verdes Non-Convertible Notes?

Think about this:

Los Angeles County land values are increasing at the rate of Fifty Million Dollars per year.

Resale of Convertible Subscriptions

The resale of a limited number of Convertible Subscriptions presents investors and homeseekers a chance to secure these much-sought-after securities at only 125. These subscriptions are convertible into home or business sites at the ACTUAL COST of the land plus the cost of improvements. Convertibles are only sold with an equal number of Non-Convertible Subscriptions.

Land selections, in order of Convertible Subscription serial numbers, begin April 28 and close May 27.

Proofs of the great Land Selection Map are now on exhibition at the general Sales Office, 929 South Broadway, and also at the offices of the District Representatives.

Palos Verdes land was bought at wholesale for only $312.50 per acre, far under valuations of adjacent properties.

Ask the Long Beach Man

The SELLING VALUE of every first class, desirable residential or business property in Long Beach, Redondo, San Pedro, Santa Monica or Los Angeles is today from Ten to a Thousand times what is cost the man who bought at the price of unimproved land.

Can you imagine a better investment than Palos Verdes Non-Convertibles which represent OWNERSHIP in this splendid seashore residential district?

Deferred Payment Plan

In making Palos Verdes subscriptions only a small initial payment is required. The remainder is spread over 36 months, with interest at 7%.

More than seven thousand investors have carefully investigated the profit possibilities and now hold millions of dollars in subscriptions. Many of them expect to make their profits pay for their homes.

You can have a home and you can make your investments pay for it. Investigate and judge for yourself. The General Sales Office, 929 So. Broadway, is open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Motor Cars Valued at One Million Dollars Stolen in First Three Months

In Balboa Park

Southern City Appears to Be Related to Other Localities

Motorists who haven't visited San Diego, the oldest municipality in Southern California, have missed a lot. Ramona's home, Junipero Serra's first mission and Old Town are only samples of what it has to offer the traveler on interest bent. Next to nothing is known of the San Diego mountain country which harbors broad plains, fertile valleys, rolling hills, high mountains and pleasant lakes. One of these is shown above—Cuyamaca—which was rimmed with snow last Wednesday when the white line extended to Julian and Pine Hills. The Santa Fe (N. M.) residence seen at the upper right is a relic of the exposition days and the scene at the bottom is familiar to all who have driven through Balboa Park. Over the route shown in the map went a Pike's Peak Chandler from the W. P. Herbert Company last week.

AUTO THIEVES STEPPING FAST

Steal More Buggies Than in Same Period 1922

However, the Recoveries Are Also Greater

Conscienceless Gentry Take Orders From East

Nearly $1,000,000 worth of motor cars have been stolen in Los Angeles and vicinity during the first three months of the present year, shattering all theft records, according to the officials of the theft bureau of the Auto Club of Southern California, in a report issued to local authorities yesterday.

According to records on file, there were 956 automobiles taken during January, February and March, while for the same period last year the thieves got away with only 635. An approximate valuation of $970,000 is placed on the machines stolen here by Auto Club detectives.

Of the cars taken by the thieves, 641 have been recovered, while 315 are listed as "lost" at the present time, representing a loss to motorists of approximately $350,000 in three months. Last year at this time, despite the smaller number of cars stolen, there were fewer recoveries, indicating that the authorities battling the auto thieves are mastering, to a greater extent, the canny efforts of the theft gangs.

AGENCY SLIPS

Thieves stealing motor cars during the period when State license plates are being issued are in some instances making use of auto agency sales slips. The manner of operation in such instances is to remove the official license plates of stolen cars and substitute a fake sales slip on the windshield so as to defy identification.

Auto thieves in Southern California have begun to work regular orders from Eastern and Middle Western representatives of the organized theft gangs, say Detectives Irvin and Hickok of the Auto Club Bureau. Thieves located in Los Angeles receive orders from

JULIAN IS ROOF GARDEN

San Diego Mountain Country is Beautiful but Little Known; Full of Romance and Scenery

There is little or no published information on the San Diego Mountain country and yet it is a section that is colorful, inspiring and picturesque. Near Julian, known as the variegated roof garden of San Diego county, a wonderful view of the Imperial Valley and the Salten Sea, forty-five miles distant, can be obtained—a view that will take your breath away and leave you feeling small and insignificant like the pebbles under foot.

Julian is a typically small country town with a romantic history. It is fifty-five miles from San Diego and is on the road to or from Cuyamaca Lake, depending on whether you take the beautiful winding road from Descanso to Cuyamaca or go over the mountain from the other side.

Overlooking the fertile valleys of Santa Ysabel, Ballena and Ramona on the west and San Felipe, Warner's ranch and the great Colorado delta on the east, with the Volcan and Cuyamaca mountains shooting upward in towering pine-clad grandeur to the north and south, Julian prior to 1868 was known only to the roving stock rustler.

SNARED BY GOLD

The gold rush caught Julian in its snare, and then came the farmer. Since then Julian has been famous for its apples, and the farmer has profited, in spite of the long haul to market. The mines, the most famous of which are Stonewall and Ramona, are still being worked, and they have given up millions of dollars.

The rolling hills that surround Julian sweep down from the mountains topping the town and lose their individuality in the broad plain that constitutes the Santa Maria Valley. Snow is a frequent visitor to Julian in the winter. The town is 4250 feet above sea level, and thirty inches of snow have been recorded there during the most severe winters. Just last Wednesday, when a freak storm visited the Southland, the apple trees were buried under a soft mantle of white flakes.

A REAL TREAT

The ride up to Cuyamaca Lake from San Diego is a constant treat. Past the State Normal School to Grossmont, where resides the famous artists' colony, the road continues through the El Cajon Valley with its grape, raisin vineyards, citrus orchards, etc., then through Bostonia and Alpine, over hill and valley, and higher and higher, from the semitropical climate with its oranges and olives, to Descanso and Julian, with its apples and cherries, mountain streams, beautiful pine and oak timber, to Cuyamaca Lake.

Over this route went the Pike's Peak Chandler from the W. P. Herbert Company

DOPE ON THE MALIBU

Definite information for the thousands of motorists who annually spend their Saturdays and Sundays on the beach known as "the Malibu," lying between Santa Monica Canyon and Topango Canyon, has just been issued by the local State highway office through the touring bureau of the Auto Club of Southern California.

From this time on the Malibu Drive will be open to motorists from Santa Monica Canyon to what is known as Seaside Camp, a distance of a mile and a half from the canyon. From this point to the old Inceville, the motion-picture village located on the Coast, the road will be positively closed at once. From Inceville to Topango Canyon, the coast road will be closed to motorists on Saturdays and Sundays unless the motorists are equipped with a pass issued by the State Highway Commission or the contractor on the work.

It is expected that by Sunday, May 6, the Malibu Road from Inceville to Topango and thence to Las Flores Canyon will be completely paved and open to the beach-campers. At that time the Santa Monica-Seaside Camp section of the road will be closed and it will probably be six or eight weeks before autos can operate on that section.

TOMMY MILTON PICKS GREEN DRIVER

Ralph Hepburn, Motorbike Demon, to Drive 1921 Champ's Big Car at Fresno; Miller Builds Another Small Buggy; Track Gossip

BY PAUL LOWRY

Speculation over who will drive Tommy Milton's 183 cubic-inch racing car while he is piloting the 122 cubic-inch infant in the Fresno motor race next Thursday ended yesterday when the speedway champion of 1921 announced his selection of Ralph Hepburn, motorbike demon.

Hepburn has never participated in a speed race at the tiller of an automobile, but he has displayed his skill and nerve innumerable times astride the barking two-wheel gas bikes, and Tommy believes he is a champion in the embryo.

No practice spins will be staged here by Hepburn, Boss Milton believing it best for him to learn one track at a time, and as there is a difference of 440 yards in the length of the Beverly Hills course and the one at Fresno. Hepburn will do his tuning up on the Raisin City bowl.

While Milton was startling us with his unexpected choice of a driver for his big car Harry Miller, engineer re luxe, cut loose with the information that he is building still a seventh 122 cubic-inch car. His original contract called for four cars for the Durant team, one for Tommy Milton and one to race under his own colors at Indianapolis.

When Tommy Milton decided to call his car a Milton Special, Harry turned over the numeral 1 which he had plucked for himself in the Indianapolis classic. Then Cliff

RAINS HOLD UP OPENING

According to information received from W. B. Lewis, superintendent of Yosemite National Park, the Wawona road will officially be opened within a day or two. Heavy rains since the first of April have been responsible for the withholding of definite notification. A trip by park officials was made over the Wawona road from Yosemite to Merced a few days ago, and it was found to be good in spots but with the Chowchilla mountains practically impassable. They expect the road to be dry enough within a short time for easy motor travel.

Maxwell Progress is Enlightening; Hupp Motor Company Sets Ball Rolling With Price Boost

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DETROIT (Mich.) April 21.—The story of the rehabilitation of the Maxwell Motor Corporation—the high lights in the record of remarkable progress made in a year—was revealed to the stockholders of the corporation this week in the report made to their meeting by Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the board of directors.

Following the acceptance of this report the stockholders elected the board of directors for the ensuing year as follows:

Walter P. Chrysler, chairman; William Robert Wilson, Delos W. Cook, J. Bache, Ellen F. Edwards, James C. Brady, C. C. Jenks, Harry Bronner, Fred T. Murphy, Standish Backus, Elton Parks, Hugh Chalmers, Henry H. Anderson and Edward R. Tinker.

The report of Chairman Chrysler covered a period that saw the corporation transformed, through the policy outlined by him and carried through under his direction from its season of business adver-

RUMBLES IN TIRE CITY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

AKRON, April 21.—Speculation based upon the personnel changes in the rubber industry dominated practically the entire news field of rubber circles during the past week.

The resignation of President E. G. Wilmer from Goodyear and the naming of George Stadleman as his successor has opened a line of discussion which is anything but welcome to the Goodyear officials, but which continues unabated in the rubber circles.

In spite of the care with which Goodyear worded the announcement, that Stadleman had succeeded Wilmer as president of the company, many of the most reliable and conservative authorities in Akron feel that this is the first step toward giving Frank A. Seiberling and his interests renewed complete control of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

Workhouse Held as a Club Over Heads of Motorists in New York City

WAR DECLARED ON BAD BRAKES

New York Judge Slaps Fines on Careless Drivers

Places Them in Same Class With City's Gunmen

Second Offense to Bring a Term in Workhouse

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, April 21.—"A man driving an automobile which has defective brakes is as much an enemy of society as a gunman," declared Magistrate Simms in the New York City Traffic Court when he imposed fines ranging from $25 to $50 each on motorists who were arrested by the brake inspection squad of the Department of Public Safety. The fines were paid by the prisoners who were convicted of operating pleasure cars, taxi cabs and motor trucks with bad brakes. In imposing the fines, the court warned the accused that a second conviction would mean a term in the workhouse.

The Department of Public Safety is engaged in a city-wide campaign to induce motorists to give the necessary attention to their brakes. This drive is a result of an epidemic of automobile accidents which caused more than a dozen deaths in one week.

The brake inspection squad is operating in every borough of greater New York. They use automobiles and watch others. When a machine is seen to be using brakes that have not been adjusted it is halted and the brakes are inspected. If they are in bad condition the driver is given a summons to appear in the traffic court where Magistrate Simms is imposing heavy fines and jail sentences for second offenders.

Results of a recent investigation in the Borough of Brooklyn show that 80 per cent of all auto accidents are due to bad brakes.

Several cities have sent safety experts to ascertain the methods being employed in New York to curb this evil. At least a dozen other municipalties have inaugurated brake inspection campaigns which have resulted in a decrease in the number of accidents.

The New York City brake inspection work is being conducted under the direction of Marcus Dow, president of the National Safety Council, which recently made public statistics showing that more than 12,000 persons were victims of automobile accidents in this country last year. Mr. Dow is serving as executive secretary of the Department of Public Safety.

At the present time police officers connected with the Department of Public Safety are delivering a series of lectures on brake adjustment at daily meetings of motorists held in public garages, schools and before civic associations, B. G. Collier, of the Collier Advertising Agency, is Police Commissioner in charge of the work.

PRICE BOOST IS ANNOUNCED

sity to the present time when reputation and good will of Maxwell products have been re-established in the public mind.

This was made possible through the thorough revision of policies and plans, covering management, method of manufacturing, sales organization and distribution. Accounting and costs as a natural result were brought to a very high standard and engineering development proceeded vigorously along the lines of greater efficiency and lower production costs.

The old company through financial losses sustained by dealers through the United States lost the major portion of its distributing organization. Despite the many obstacles encountered by the new management under the direction of Mr. Chrysler they proceeded with the task of rebuilding and in the remarkably short time of practically one year accomplished the work in such fashion as to place the distributing branch of the Maxwell on a very substantial footing.

The report of Chairman Chrysler discloses that the Maxwell Motor Corporation is at present in a very strong position with no bank loans. Manufacturing plants of the corporation have sufficient capacity to produce large quantities as scheduled at cost.

At the beginning of 1922 prospective sales of the corporation were estimated at 40,000 Maxwell and 10,000 Chalmers cars. Actually, during the year, 48,833 Maxwell and 5,973 Chalmers cars were sold, a net increase of 4,811. Total net sales aggregated more than $46,000,000.

Cash and sight drafts have increased from $4,449,220 on Jan. 1, 1923, to approximately $60,000,000 at present, despite the larger volume of materials in procession of manufacture, said Mr. Chrysler. Ratio of current liabilities on Dec. 31, 1922, was approximately three and one-half to one.

Giving as the reason, the high cost of labor and material the Hupp Motor Company this week announced the following increase on their various models, the new prices to take immediate effect: On all open models $50; on two and four-passenger coupes $60; on sedans $75. These include the four-passenger roadsters, special touring and special roadster.

Sales and deliveries of Cadillac cars by distributors and dealers are keeping pace with the high records of production and shipment by the factory, according to Lynn McNaughton, manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Company.

"Both production and shipments for the first quarter of 1923 surpassed by a wide margin all records for any previous quarter in the history of the company," said Mr. McNaughton, "and weekly reports from distributors show the same activity in the field.

"Reports of increasing turnover of used cars also indicate the turning of many buyers to a high-grade used car in preference to a new car at the same price. Several points, including Los Angeles, Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis, are reporting the biggest used car month in their history.

Oakland Motor Car Company shipped a trainload of cars to the New York branch last week, the fifth trainload of Oaklands that has been shipped since the first of the year. This train consisted of forty special cars which are owned by the Oakland Company. A similar trainload comprising forty freight cars was shipped to Buffalo April 4. During this same week a trainload of Oaklands filling thirty freight cars was shipped to the Chicago branch. The special trainloads are in addition to the regular railroad shipments made to every part of the country. In addition there are the regular overland driveaways to near-by points.

The three racing cars with which the Packard Motor Car Company will compete in this year's 500-mile race at Indianapolis, have arrived at the factory after tests in Los Angeles and work is now being rushed on their completion.

All three cars in various stages were loaded into an express car in Los Angeles and run through to Detroit on passenger train schedule. De Palma is to drive one of the cars, Joe Boyer, the Detroit "millionaire race driver" will pilot another and the third will be in charge of another equally as well known driver, whose name has not yet been announced.

General Motors Corporation has organized a subsidiary "General Motors Chemical Company" which will market through gasoline filling stations, refiners and large distributors of gasoline what is essentially a modified type of gasoline.

This new type of gasoline contains an "antiknock" compound which has been developed after many years experiment by the General Motors Corporation at Dayton, O.

Every motorist is familiar with the fact that when present automobiles are pulling under load and especially at low speed, as for instance up hills in high gear, there is a tendency for the engine to knock or detonate which decreases the power. This new "antiknock" compound tends to eliminate the knock, materially improves the performance of the engine and results in smoother running.

TOMMY MILTON PICKS HEPBURN

Durant persuaded Miller to sell him a fifth car, which left Miller high and dry, as far as entering a car on his own hook.

Not to be outdone our noted Angeleno went to work and is rapidly completing a new body and frame. Extra parts enough to fill a new car had already been made, so all that is necessary when the body and frame are ready is to assemble the car. Miller said yesterday that the car would be ready in about a week and a half.

No. 4—Durant.
No. 5—Murphy.
No. 6—Hearne.
No. 7—Hartz.
No. 29—Cooper.

The Durant cars will be painted in the same striking cardinal and yellow colors as on the 183 inch cars. No. 29 is the car which Miller was to have kept himself but which Cliff Durant talked him out of. It was taken out to the speedway last week for its first spin in the hands of Jimmy Murphy, and the latter turned up 114 miles with it.

Tommy Milton has already done 114.7 miles per hour without tow with his little car, 39⅓s. for the mile-and-a-quarter loop at Beverly, and claims he can do 118 miles per hour with disk wheels. This is fast enough to win any race and Tommy feels confident about the little buggy's performance at Fresno.

Harry Miller Goes East

Harry Miller's entry will have No. 25 at Indianapolis, but so far no driver has been nominated by the local man. The gent that speaks first with the coin will get the car, according to Miller. Three are after it now. Miller goes East with Durant, Hearne, and Comer right after the Fresno race, leaving here the 28th inst. The party plans an extensive fishing sortie on Durant's farm in Michigan.

Bennett in Same Car

Bennett Hill will appear at Fresno in the car with which he gave Jimmy Murphy an awful run for first money in the last race at Beverly, the ex-collegian having wrestled the car out of the hands of the Sheriff, who was holding it while the McDonalds fight out their divorce troubles.

Immediately after the Fresno race, Bennett will have the car cut down to the 112-inch standard and ship it East. Nobody knows jost how fast the cut-down buggies will go, but Frank Elliott cut down his old Leach special before Tommy Milton ever came out with the first little car and did 108 miles per hour. Peter De Paolo is to race this car at Fresno as a 183-inch job and then it will be cut down again and sent to Indianapolis. It is the one which mixed with the cars of Bordino and Klein at Beverly in a historic scramble over a year ago.

Cracked Cylinders

The secret of Cliff Durant's most recent unsuccessful onslaught on the time records at Beverly is out. According to Albert G. Waddell, the dignified purveyor of news, the speed baron cracked three cylinders in his No. 7 boat and was forced to desist. The car was later repaired and shipped to Fresno. Cliff will wait until after the Indianapolis race before further attempts against the record book.

BIG BUILDING RECORD FOR WEEK ESTABLISHED

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HUNTINGTON PARK, April 21. Building permits issued for the week in this city reached eighteen. Of this number eleven were for the erection of new residences, one for a service station, one for a garage and five for improvements. The aggregate valuation reached $36,325, only one permit calling for a building for more than $5000.

HAULS HIS MUSIC BOX WITH HIM

Angeleno Makes a Truck Out of His Pleasure Car, Having Music Always

Combining a pleasure car with truck purposes is pretty tough on a touring car, but when L. M. Coleman put his Oakland to the test she responded in real fashion, at least that is what Coleman says about it, in talking to Reeve Gartzmann of the California Oakland Company.

"My work as general manager of the Sunset Music Company, distributors for the Gabel Automatic Entertainer," says Coleman, "takes me almost entirely into the country and over all sorts of roads and near roads, and I have to drive a car that I can depend upon.

"The Oakland which I now own is my third of this make, and I always come back to the same make because it has answered the difficult purpose for which I want it. I bought this car on March 4 last year and have driven it 26,856 miles. Two of the original tires are still on the wheels and are good for several thousand more."

"In all this mileage I have spent but $68 for repairs and have only had the valves ground twice. I think that this is a remarkable showing when you know that I carry a 350-pound automatic machine on the road besides more than 400 pounds of other supplies and equipment for use in my business.

TO SAN FRANCISCO

Thomas B. McKnight, secretary and treasurer of the Reo Motor Car Company of California, left for San Francisco Thursday night on an inspection tour of the Reo branches. At the time of leaving he stated that he expected to remain in the northern metropolis for several days, and would then visit the branches at Sacramento and Stockton, spending about a day in each place. He will be in Fresno on Thursday and Friday, April 26 and 27, and will then return to Los Angeles for two or three days before leaving on a trip to the branch at Phoenix.

BRIGGS AND SPENCER VISIT WILLS FACTORY

Sidney Briggs, manager of the Western Motors Company in Los Angeles, and Leroy Spencer, who occupies a similar position in San Francisco, are now at the Wills Saint Claire factory to attend a spring meeting of distributors.

Extensive plans are on foot to increase the Wills Saint Claire production and the western representatives have gone to the factory primarily to obtain cars for California. They will visit several of the larger cities of the East, studying motor conditions in general and are expected to return to the Coast next week.

VISIT FACTORY

Among the visitors this week at the Olds Motor Works of Lansing, Mich., were M. F. Moyer, Columbus, O., distributor; H. M. Nadeau, general manager of the Pittsburg Oldsmobile Company; W. V. Faunce and George Andrews of the W. V. Faunce Motor Company of Chicago; W. J. Clemens, manager of the Oldsmobile branch in Detroit. Numerous other dealers and distributors were also at the factory to arrange for spring deliveries.

STEPHENS SPORT TYPE "FOURSOME"

New trails for old! Stephens power and luxury transform any road

Foot-loose, free of any road, the Stephens "Foursome" sweeps you out to meet green April's magic—every racing mile a new, keen, confident adventure.

Distinguished in performance, the "Foursome" is alluring in color and form. Fawn-gray and ebony, with apple-green wheels and khaki top, its swinging lines are accented by the notes of polished nickel in radiator, lamps and windshield.

Thoughtful refinements emphasize the skill that shapes its Stephens-built body. Nickeled slides, for instance, cover the curtain-rod anchorages. Two locked compartments and a tonneau clock grace the rear of the front seat. The motor thermometer has the indicator on the dash.

See the "Foursome" today. Study its virile lines, balanced design, over-size units, superb equipment. Drive it yourself.

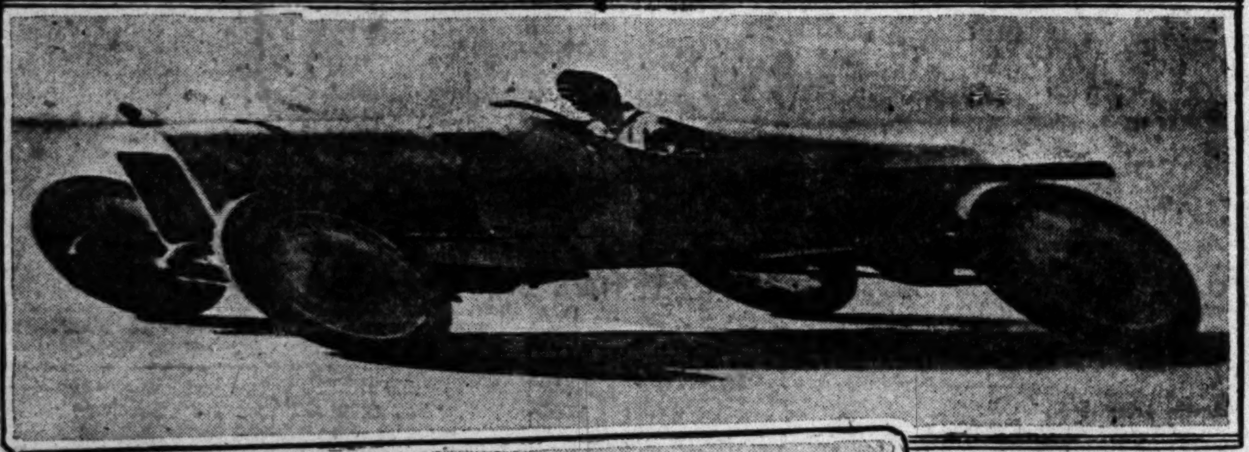
Smashing Records on Dry Lake, in the Mojave Desert



The top view shows the Buick special, piloted by Joe Nikrent, deploying at a horrible gait over the marble surface of Dry Lake and establishing a new record of 108.24 miles per hour for a car so nearly stock. In the center all records are seen being shattered by the newspaper men and Hal Tuttle in an eating orgy, it being estimated after the casualties were all in that Brother Tuttle consumed as much food as any three of the members of the Fourth Estate. Below, handsome Frank Howard and Fred Wagner, the notorious starter, who claim a record for seeing things on the desert. Both were reared on milk and still stick by their guns.

HARVEY GOODWIN FILLING ORDERS

Harvey Goodwin, who recently took over the Mercer line, reports that orders for the new Mercer in both the open and inclosed-car types, are being filled without any great delay, as the factory has been very generous in allotting cars to California dealers.

However, recent reports from the Mercer factory indicate a shortage of inclosed cars for the next three months, as orders received by dealers for the first quarter of 1923 exceed last year's production records by nearly 100 per cent. The new Mercer models are now being shown at 1047 South Olive street.

COSTLY ENTERTAINMENT

PHOENIX (Ariz.) April 21.—A sporty local resident found entertainment in not only racing with a fire department truck on its way to a blaze, but in leading the equipment for a few blocks. It was not so entertaining when he was called before the city magistrate the following day.

EARL PRODUCTION GALLOPING AHEAD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

JACKSON (Mich.) April 21.—Earl Motor Car company of Jackson is making arrangements to increase its production schedule to the maximum as rapidly as possible. All previous estimates of production had to be revised because of the orders that are coming in. Every energy is being directed toward reaching maximum production as speedily as possible. To accomplish this constant additions are being made, according to company officials, to the force of workers at the Earl plant. Present plans call for the employment of 2000 men in the near future. The Earl company now has direct contracts with distributors and dealers for a total of 15,000 cars.

AUSTRALIAN VISITS FACTORY

J. C. Robb of the General Motors Export Company of New York, with R. H. Larke of Sydney, Australia, spent some time at the factory of the General Motors Truck Company in Pontiac, Mich., in the last few days. Mr. Larke is one of the largest truck distributors in Australia and he is in this country making a survey of the industry.

NEW RECORD IS MADE

Buick Special, Driven by Joe Nikrent, Dashes Off Fast Mile on Course at Rogers Dry Lake

A mile in 33.26 seconds, an average of 108.24 miles per hour, in a Buick car that was practically stock from stem to stern was the new record established by Joe Nikrent over a straightaway course in the Mojave desert last Tuesday. A splitting southeast wind which swept over Rogers Dry Lake, the scene of the trial, and nearly turned Nikrent's car turtle prevented him from attempting more than three trials. Once the gale blew the Buick pilot off the course, sent him careening wildly and finally Starter Fred Wagner stopped the festivities for the day.

Sanctioned by the A.A.A. and held under the auspices of its officials the test was official in every respect and the record will go down in the books as a new non-stock mark. Save for a change in pistons and a lighter flywheel the Buick was stock in practically every respect. A racing body had been put on the chassis, but the heavy frame had not been cut down, it being the same as that in the ordinary touring car. The wheelbase was 118 inches.

OFFICIALS THERE

Val Haresnape, the new A.A.A. representative in this district, had charge of the trials, and Fred Wagner, the noted starter, assisted in the performance. They laid out the course and set up the electrical timing device, the same one that is used in timing the motor races on the Beverly Hills tureen.

Nikrent took three whirls down the laidout course, making 33.49 seconds the first time, 33.26 seconds the second time and 33.31 seconds the third trial. Observing the danger encountered by Nikrent because of the howling gale, Wagner refused to permit the Buick pilot to take further chances. Having done 110 miles per hour and better in practice, Nikrent wanted to proceed, but Wagner was insistent.

Some difficulty was had in getting the electrical timer to work, and the experts were unable to discover the short circuit in the iron wire. Finally they were forced to stretch insulated wire over the mile course, neatly decorated with red flags the whole length, and this worked like a charm.

The delay, however, brought on the wind, and the observers said but for the change in the elements Nikrent undoubtedly would have hung up a record that would have been remarkable for a car so nearly stock as the one he drove.

IDEAL COURSE

Rogers Dry Lake is about twenty miles east of Rosamond, close to a little way station known as Muroc in the Mojave Desert. It was formerly the bed of a body of water about seven miles wide by nine miles long. It is the greatest natural race course in the world and it is predicted that it will be the test course for some of the fastest speed trials ever held.

Wagner, who has witnessed the rapid dashes on the famous Ormond and Daytona Beach courses, says he believes Rogers Lake is the fastest stamping ground for racing cars that ever existed. The "lake" is composed of a clay adobe and is as smooth as glass. Peculiar mirages exist there. Two or three miles away an automobile speeding along appears to be plowing through water and a string of box cars traveling the railroad tracks that bisect the lake appear at one minute to be a string of beads, at the next degenerating into smoke stacks.

Unfortunately the wind, which hampered Nikrent and his car, also resulted disastrously to the mince pies which Outdoor Franklin had baked for the occasion. At a late hour Tuesday night the famous indoor expert of the Howard Automobile Company was observed chasing the precious tins which had one time housed his culinary output and he drew up at the Flower-street address in his well-known side-curtain vehicle at a late hour.

HOLDING A SERIES

their agents in the East for delivery on some certain make of car. Then the thief, say the detectives, will go out on the streets and swipe a car answering the order of the eastern representative. In some instances the thief will drive this car East for delivery himself, but the majority of "master minds" in the auto stealing business employ boys or other members of their gang to make deliveries of the cars which they have stolen.

At the present time the majority of auto thieves operating in Los Angeles and other Southern California cities are working in pairs. The reason given for this is that a great many thieves are stealing machines here for the purpose of making a trip East during the summer, and as the thieves are companionable souls, they prefer to travel in pairs, side by side, in two automobiles. It is a waste of opportunity for two thieves to drive only one car East, and so each takes one.

Property owners of this city who rent small private garages to strangers and fail to report the matter are violating a city ordinance in this and some action is contemplated here to compel the reporting of the rental of small garages to the police, as many auto thieves are using these private garages for storing stolen cars.

Jack-the-Strippers are at work again here, says the Auto Club. A large number of cars have been stolen and stripped in the vicinity of Florence avenue and the Los Angeles River. The club theft bureau is issuing a general request this week for all persons observing strange actions on the part of men loitering about parked automobiles, to telephone their suspicions at once to the club or to the police station. In some instances where observant individuals have been active in telephoning in such reports, auto thieves have actually been caught in the act of stripping stolen cars.

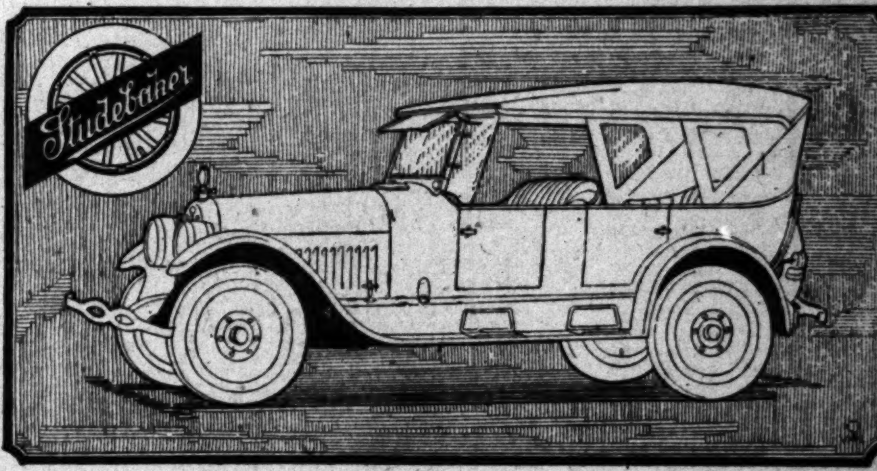
Scores of automobiles stolen in Los Angeles and vicinity have been recovered at the Mexican boundary in the last few weeks as the thieves were endeavoring to cross the line. Special agents representing the Auto Club are now stationed at vantage points between the United States and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending stolen cars.

Walter Wood, who for a number of years has been connected with the local police department, is to be affiliated in the future with the theft bureau at the Auto Club. It is also announced that J. M. Lee, formerly police detective in New York City, where he had a wide experience with eastern auto thief methods, will also be connected with the club's theft bureau.

Particular emphasis is laid, in the report issued yesterday, on the fact that all motorists whose cars are stolen, should report the matter at once, rather than risk the delay of even a few minutes; as this gives the thieves an opportunity to make good their escape.

REPORTS QUICK SALE

Within forty-eight hours from the time that the sale was opened on the lots in the Glendale Sanatorium Business tract, 80 per cent of the sites had been sold, according to Guy M. Bush, who handled the sale. Those remaining were expected to be sold within another few days.



Special-Six Sport Model $1925

There has been an insistent demand for a Sport model on the Studebaker Special-Six chassis and we are pleased to announce that we are now able to make prompt deliveries.

These cars are finished in a rich maroon with Burbank top and plate glass side curtains. Disc wheels with a complete spare tire and cover are standard equipment. The special equipment features include such items as drum headlights, cowl parking lights, courtesy lights over the running boards, dash light, extension tonneau light and a combination stop signal and tail light.

Two bumpers are included as well as a bar-cap motometer, quick-acting cowl ventilator, glare-proof sun visor, one-piece windshield with automatic wiper, rear-sight mirror, eight-day clock and a new type of spark and throttle control on a walnut steering wheel.

Nickeled radiator guard and aluminum bars on the rear of tonneau afford protection for front and rear. Running boards are covered for their full length with heavy molded rubber, kick plates protecting the enameled mud guards.

Considering the quality of transportation rendered by a Studebaker Special-Six and the lavish equipment on this model it represents an unusually high value at the price of $1925 delivered here with tax paid.

We invite your inspection and a through road test.

Hupmobile

The Hupmobile demonstrates that it is possible to incorporate in a comparatively low priced car all the essentials which give a much higher priced car its dependability and its brilliant performance, and for this reason motorists at large owe much to this well known Hupmobile policy.

It gives you practically all the sound features of service you would value in a car double its price, combined with a cost of maintenance as well as a cost of operation almost unbelievably low. Owners of fleets of cars have proved that it pays to own a Hupmobile.

HISTORY IS UNIQUE

Cadillac Factory Opened Twenty-Eight Years Ago With a Handful of Workers

Few people realize the vast equipment in buildings and machinery, and the big army of men which are required for producing a motor car of the highest quality. The unique history of the Cadillac organization brings out this fact in a most striking manner.

When a Detroit manufacturer of high-grade machinery opened a small shop with a handful of picked men twenty-eight years ago, the institution that became the Cadillac Motor Car Company was founded.

Years passed and that small shop grew into seventy-seven small plants scattered in various parts of the Motor City. The number employed had increased in proportion. In 1921 most of the productive forces of the company were gathered into the big new plant on the west side of the city.

The present factory, covering more than forty-nine acres of land, comprises seven great building units divided into manufacturing and assembly divisions. It was constructed after several years of planning and preparation, and represents the best thought of factory engineers of the country.

The company takes a pride in developing and retaining men of the highest mechanical skill. More than 1600 of the 8000 men now building V-type, eight-cylinder motor cars have been with the company for more than five years, 500 of them for more than ten years, 83 for more than fifteen years and 7 over twenty years.

The Cadillac factory has been a pioneering institution from the outset. It was first to produce a standardized car, a car in which all parts are exact duplicates of other parts of the same kind. It was first to introduce a complete electrical system of cranking, lighting and ignition. It was first to develop and incorporate thermostatic control of circulating cooling medium in motor-car engines, first to develop V-type, high-speed, high-efficiency automobiles in the United States, and first in thermostatically controlled carburetion.

Nearly 250,000 cars have been produced by the company. Of these nearly 150,000 have been equipped with V-type eight-cylinder engines. Parked end to end, they would make a solid line stretching out for 383 miles.

FOR BUNGALOW COURT

T. A. Roebling, who recently arrived in Huntington Park, has purchased property at Belgrave and Miles streets, and will soon begin the erection of a bungalow court to consist of eight units of three rooms each. Mr. Roebling came here from Canada, and plans on centering his business interests in this city.

month of last year. The increase of 10,100 amounts to 87 per cent. The north registered 9681 of this total, which is contrasted to a similar showing in March, 1922 of 5306. The gain is equivalent to 82 per cent.

Southern California registered 12,022 automobiles, compared to 6297 in March of 1922. The increase of 5725 amounts to 91 per cent.

Truck sales were also exceedingly good, Motor News figures show, although not to the same degree as passenger cars. The State total on trucks was 2195, of which amount Southern California is credited with 1270 and the north 925. The south advanced 70 per cent, while the northern counties improved their trade 60 per cent.

Los Angeles county is considerably head of all other counties in point of sales. Its residents bought 10,304 cars and trucks, a figure which represents 43 per cent of the State total and a showing 105 per cent greater than during March, 1922.

Second among the counties is San Francisco, with 2701, an amount 72 per cent larger than in the same month a year ago.

Alameda county is third, and registered 1689, an 84 per cent advance. Fresno county ranks fourth with 774 sales, an improvement of 45 per cent. Santa Clara county jumped into fifth place among the counties from eighth position during March, 1922. It sold 585 cars and trucks, a gain of 81 per cent.

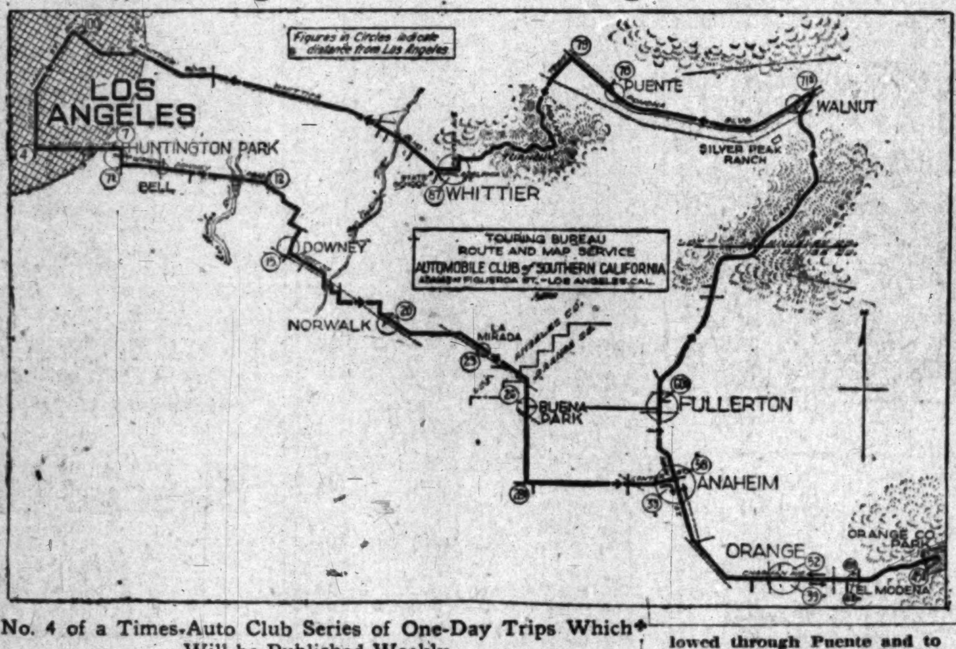
Orange county is sixth with 579, an increase of 64 per cent. Kern county is seventh with 527, a 30 per cent boost. Sacramento is eighth with 491 sales, San Joaquin ninth with 475 and San Diego tenth with 438.

The next five counties, in the order named, are San Bernardino, Tulare, Sonoma, Contra Costa and Santa Barbara.

In the three largest cities of the State, Motor News figures show the following registrations: Los Angeles, 5191; San Francisco, 2447, and Oakland, 996.

A SUGGESTION FOR THAT TOUR TODAY

Through Orange Groves and Rich Agricultural Sections



No. 4 of a Times-Auto Club Series of One-Day Trips Which Will be Published Weekly

THE trip outlined above for today totaling approximately 100 miles should provide a delightful and thoroughly enjoyable motor journey. Numerous orange groves will be passed and these with their heavy burden are very picturesque. The recent rains have also brought forth considerable quantities of California's famous wild flowers which will be seen off the highway in numerous districts.

Leaving Los Angeles the route takes one south from Seventh and Broadway over Main street to Slauson avenue, thence through the manufacturing district into Huntington Park. To one who has not been through that particular section for some time a vast improvement will be noticed. This same condition exists in several of the former small towns through which one passes.

OIL-WELL DISTRICT

On reaching the City Hall at Huntington Park one turns left and continues on through Bell, crosses the Los Angeles River and enters Downey. The journey is continued through a rather large agricultural district through Norwalk and La Mirada to Buena Park and Anaheim. In the vicinity of Downey and Norwalk numerous oil derricks can be counted and looking north toward Whittier the Santa Fe Springs district looks like a dense forest.

Continuing south from Anaheim over the regular San Diego Coast road one travels through numerous orange and walnut groves soon entering the town of Orange and continues beyond this through El Modeno and to one of the most beautiful natural parks in Southern California, Orange County Park. Tables, fireplace, etc., are provided there for anyone wishing to take a picnic lunch.

SAME ROUTE

The return is made over the same route to Anaheim, thence north to Fullerton and to the overhead railroad bridge just beyond. At this junction one follows the right-hand road leading through Brea Canyon and emerging at the Valley Boulevard at Walnut Station. Recent construction work throughout the canyon has greatly improved conditions. Pavement is complete almost the entire distance.

The Valley Boulevard is followed through Puente and to approximately one mile beyond. Here a turn is made to the left continuing to the foothills and over Turnbull Canyon coming into Whittier on the sout side of the hills. A rather extensive and beautiful birdseye view of the valley is obtained at the summit of the Turnbull Canyon Road.

The return to Los Angeles is made by way of the Whittier Boulevard and just before reaching Los Angeles one will witness the enormous growth of the city as is evidenced by the many, many homes which have been built in that district recently.

Pavement is complete over this entire routing with the exception of a short distance through Brea Canyon and with the exception of Turnbull Canyon, the latter being a very good dirt road. The entire trip should not consume more than five hours, although it is a delightful day's outing should one desire to spend time in Orange County Park.

BEN FAHY TO TURN OUT A "SPOTLIGHT"

PUBLICITY VEHICLE TO TELL OF DOINGS AROUND HIS FORD CORNER

J. Benjamin Fahy is about to burst forth with a new "Spotlight." Fahy has been vending Ford cars around these parts for some ten or twelve years.

He says he didn't used to know so many people as he does now.

But then there weren't so many people here.

Now that his Ford business has grown to such an extent that it is necessary for him to get in to larger quarters, he has decided to also use a "Spotlight" in order to throw more light on his activities.

His new modern plant is rapidly nearing completion on Figueroa street near Eighth. He expects to be able to occupy the new plant next month.

His slogan is "An Acre of Service."

His "Spotlight" is a little booklet which he will issue monthly to his patrons and prospects.

The May issue will be Fahy's first sortie into the field of journalism, and according to the sample on display now it is going to be a brilliant and victorious one.

Joe Nikrent chooses
PENNZOIL
to break
WORLD'S RECORD

Joe Nikrent used PENNZOIL SPECIAL BUICK GRADE in his Buick when he established a world's record last Tuesday—108.24 miles per hour.

Joe Nikrent is one of the oldest racing drivers and best mechanical experts in the game today. He has used PENNZOIL for years. His selection of PENNZOIL for this test is one more proof of its absolute reliability.

At 108.24 miles per hour, every part of the motor was under terrific stress and required perfect lubrication. PENNZOIL provided it.

For your car you can obtain PENNZOIL of just the right body from any PENNZOIL dealer.

Ride in the Peerless and Learn What Owners Call a New Experien

Peerless Body Styles—Four Passenger Touring Phaeton, $2990; Seven Passenger Touring Phaeton, $2990; Two Passenger Roadster Coupe, $3400; Four Passenger Town Coupe, $3600; Four Passenger Suburban Coupe, $3550; Five Passenger Town Sedan, $3900; Seven Passenger Suburban Sedan, $4090; Five Passenger Berline Limousine, $4390; Four Passenger Opera Brougham, $4900.

Owners of the New Peerless go a long step farther than either ourselves or the makers.

They declare that nowhere in all their motoring experience have they encountered anything like its riding and performing qualities.

From the standpoint of economy they are likewise enthusiastic. For example, they report that only after an incredible number of miles is it necessary to remove the carbon from the Peerless engine.

All this accounts in large measure for the numbers who come in daily to inspect the New Peerless.

When you take your ride—which you may arrange at any time—you will be impressed with the steadiness with which the car holds the higher speeds, and the marked ease and buoyancy of its riding.

You will discover, also, a number of big little things. For instance, fewer places to lubricate by hand than on any other car; again, the mere act of unlocking the ignition automatically turns on the running lights—a valuable safeguard at night.

If you would like to inspect and ride in a car as deliberately designed for the individual as the most expensive custom-built automobile, you will be heartily welcome.

After all, only the car itself can tell adequately what Peerless has accomplished. May we expect you?

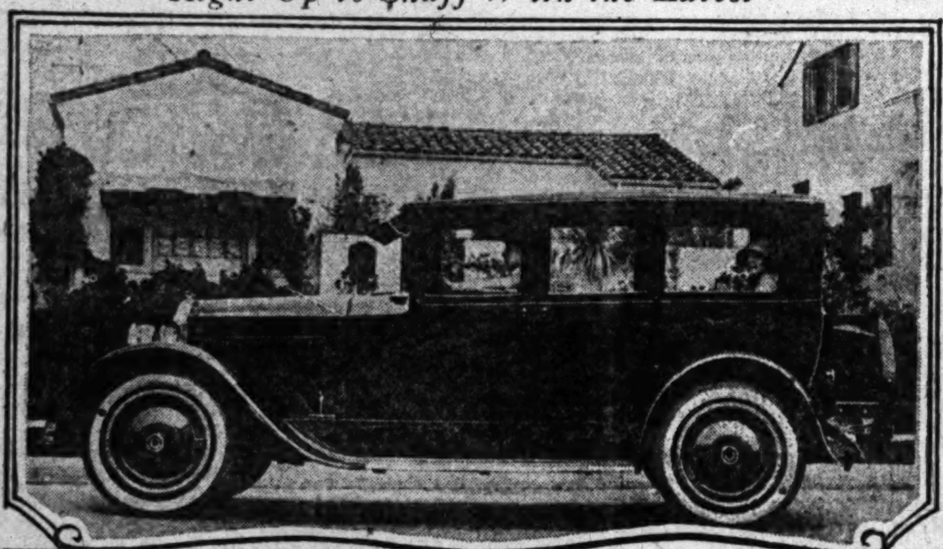
According to Henry Ferrenbeck, service manager for the Walter M. Brown Motors, Inc., it is an easy matter to service Star cars. The accessibility of the various units makes short cuts possible.

Right Up to Snuff With the Latest



The new Packard single six sport sedan with a snappy trunk at the rear. Below, Harry Zier, Packard sales manager, is seen showing a prospect the detail of the trunk and the suit case it contains.

RECORDS FASTEST TIME IN HISTORY

At Capistrano, Cal., where the motorcycle hill climbing classic of the West was held on April 8, Orrie Steele of Paterson, N. J., the national hill-climb champion, riding an Indian won the 61 cubic inch expert event in 16 2-5 seconds, the fastest time ever made in the history of Capistrano by a stock motor. Best previous time was 29 4-5 seconds.

TRUNKS BECOME QUITE POPULAR

LONG-DISTANCE TRIPS MAKE BAGGAGE ROOM A NECESSITY

Good evidence of the increasing long-distance use that people today make of their automobiles is to be found in the great popularity of the trunk as part of the regular equipment of both open and inclosed models. Probably no other single accessory has enjoyed such an increase in vogue as has the trunk in recent months, and many automobile men prophesy still greater popularity for it in another year.

"When automobiles were first invented, you couldn't get far enough from home with one to make a trunk necessary," says Harry Zier, Packard sales manager for Earle C. Anthony, Inc. "Nowadays, when people think no more of a motor trip to San Francisco than they did of a ten-mile journey fifteen years ago, a trunk becomes a very real necessity. It affords a convenient way of carrying luggage, and avoids the nuisance of strapping cases on the running board, where they are apt to scratch the sides of the body.

"The Packard sport sedan, which we have recently received, is one of the models in which the manufacturer has recognized this new demand from the motoring public. It is full five-passenger sedan of the conventional seating type, and has in the rear a trunk with a hat box and one small and one large suit case. It is covered with a composition cloth which makes it dustproof, and luggage carried in it is perfectly clean at the end of a journey."

Harry F. Petersmeyer of the Shugers Manufacturing Company has taken over the distribution of the improved Martin shock absorber, which has just been perfected and is now in production.

LUBRICATION METHOD OF PEERLESS SIMPLE

LITTLE EFFORT REQUIRED TO GET GREASE TO THE WORKING PARTS

Automotive engineers everywhere have noted with unusual interest the advanced chassis lubrication of the Peerless, judging from inquiries and comments that have reached the Peerless factory, declared Stanley W. Smith, president of Stanley W. Smith, Inc., Peerless distributor.

The outstanding feature of the new Peerless lubrication is a method of storing and feeding the grease to all external moving parts. This method is not only simple, efficient and time-saving, but functions in such a direct and positive way that very little effort is needed to grease the entire car.

The new type of grease cup used feeds all the vital parts requiring constant lubrication, such as the springs, steering system, brakes and other moving parts, and is a highly perfected combination of the large capacity grease cup and the Alemite system.

The car may be greased by means of the Alemite gun, disregarding the grease cup feature. When this operation is completed the grease cups are left filled with sufficient grease to lubricate the car for many weeks. This is accomplished from time to time by turning down the cups with a special key that Peerless provides. When the cups are emptied they are refilled with the Alemite gun. The system's advantage lies in the large capacity of the cups, which do not necessitate constant use of the gun, and in the speed and cleanliness with which the cups may be refilled.

Jordan Stock Goes Way Up in Six Years

A striking example of the great prosperity which pervades the entire automotive industry at the present time is the present showing of Jordan.

Jordan common stock is selling at 300, the highest priced motor stock in the country. Six years ago this common stock was given as bonus with the preferred which now sells at 99½.

The rise of this stock is due primarily to the fact that Jordan production and Jordan sales have been gaining by leaps and bounds, and a factory bulletin received here by the Lord Motor Car Company, distributors, states that Jordan will sell in the first half of 1923 as many cars as the factory built in the whole year of 1922. The April production schedule calls for 75 cars per day. Yet a few months ago it was considered that a goal had been reached when Jordan production went up to forty cars per day. From forty it jumped to sixty, and is now at seventy-five and still climbing. This means that a Jordan car is completed and sold every six and a half minutes. When one considers that the Jordan does not occupy a place among the cars which appeal to the masses the production of seventy-five cars per day is seen to be nearing the mark of real quantity production in a car of recognized high quality.

ELIMINATE SQUEAKING

Squeaking of brakes is often due to dirt and grit embedded in the brake lining, and to eliminate this, Harry Lord of the Lord Motor Car Company, Velie and Jordan distributors, recommends the use of a good stiff wire brush. If the grit is deeply embedded a mixture of powdered resin and castor oil applied to the lining will remedy the trouble.

108 24/100 miles per hour in a 1923-6-45 BUICK special

veteran speed pilot, who piloted the Buick on its dash.

JOE NIKRENT, driving a non-stock Model 23-6-45 BUICK, established a new record on April 17, 1923, by driving a mile in 33.26 seconds, or at the rate of 108.24 miles per hour. This run was made over the bed of a dry lake near Muroc, a small station on the Mojave Desert in Kern County, California. The run was official in every respect, being timed by A. A. A. officials using the electrical timing device used at the Los Angeles Speedway over a surveyed course. Fred Wagner, the famous starter, served as official starter for the run.

Over a million Buick motors are behind this Buick's performance. A steady development of the Buick's Valve-in-Head type of motor makes it possible to attain this remarkable speed without any radical changes in motor design.

Buick does not intend to again enter the racing game. Buick has always said, and says now louder than ever that their smooth and quiet Valve-in-Head motor represents the highest type of development for speed, power and economy; and this performance was just another little demonstration to call attention to the facts that the 1923 Buick is the greatest Buick ever built, and that, "when better automobiles are built, BUICK will build them."

THREE-WHEEL CAR INVENTED

New Type Just Perfected by Eastern Man

Simple in Design, Upkeep Is Reduced

Turning Radius of Thirty-five Degrees

A new type of three-wheel car, which will help in solving the delivery of light loads, has just been perfected by K. R. Peters of Philadelphia, a widely known engineer and inventor in the automotive industry. This vehicle is one of the most unique of its kind and, after thorough tests, has proved its serviceability as well as safety of operation.

The inventor, who has already contributed many labor-saving devices to the automobile industry, which are used in several large factories, has devoted the greater part of twenty-five years in the development of his present model. It is a front-wheel, gear-and-shaft-driven car with a twin-cylinder water-cooled engine.

BIT OF ROMANCE

The story of Mr. Peters and his car reads like a bit of romance. A score and five years ago, while residing in Europe, he conceived the idea of a small car driven by the front wheel and using three wheels instead of the conventional four. Of course, it was a radical departure from the cars in use at the time, but the inventor went along and produced his first model. This early type had a twin-cylinder air-cooled engine, which was exposed, and which operated the car by a front-wheel chain drive. The vehicle was steered by a tiller.

Almost overnight the cars became popular throughout continental Europe, and they were utilized for every purpose to which the motor vehicle could be put. Even today they are the vogue in many European cities, but their freakish appearance probably prevented their introduction into this country, the American taste being accustomed to graceful streamlines, etc.

The solution of delivering light loads at a minimum cost had always been a problem which Mr. Peters had been endeavoring to overcome. More than ten years ago, in his shop in Philadelphia, he began extensive experiments to produce a car that would be economical in cost as well as upkeep. He believed this could be best accomplished with the three-wheel model which he finally evolved, inasmuch as it eliminated a number of parts which added to the wear and tear of a motor vehicle.

Thus, after a decade, he produced a car which is simplicity itself, yet he had many obstacles to contend with. In fact, many models were built and discarded, until the present one was constructed.

To begin with, the exposed air-cooled engine was replaced with an opposed-cylinder water-cooled type, which is built under the hood. Each cylinder has a radiator with a wide cooling space, thus eliminating a fan. The tiller was replaced with a steering wheel and this was a problem in itself. A shaft and gear were substituted for the chain drive.

The weight of the car is kept at a minimum through the use of a frame which is part of the chassis, and to which are fastened the lightweight panels and wooden roof. The reduction in parts also assists materially in keeping the weight down.

Because of the simplicity of design, the upkeep of the car is reduced considerably. The use of three tires instead of four further adds to its economical operation. Then the method of spring suspension reduces wear on tires.

ECONOMY HOUND

In recent tests the car gave from thirty to thirty-five miles to the gallon of gasoline, and proved in a satisfactory manner on a wet pavement that it would not skid while traveling at its maximum speed of thirty miles per hour. Skidding is prevented by the front-wheel drive.

Among the features of the car is a locked steering device, it being so designed that it is impossible to veer the wheel except by the hand-steering wheel, and in this manner accidents are prevented. In addition to this, it is so arranged that it is impossible to turn a corner at full speed. Thus the car must always be under the control of the driver in order to turn.

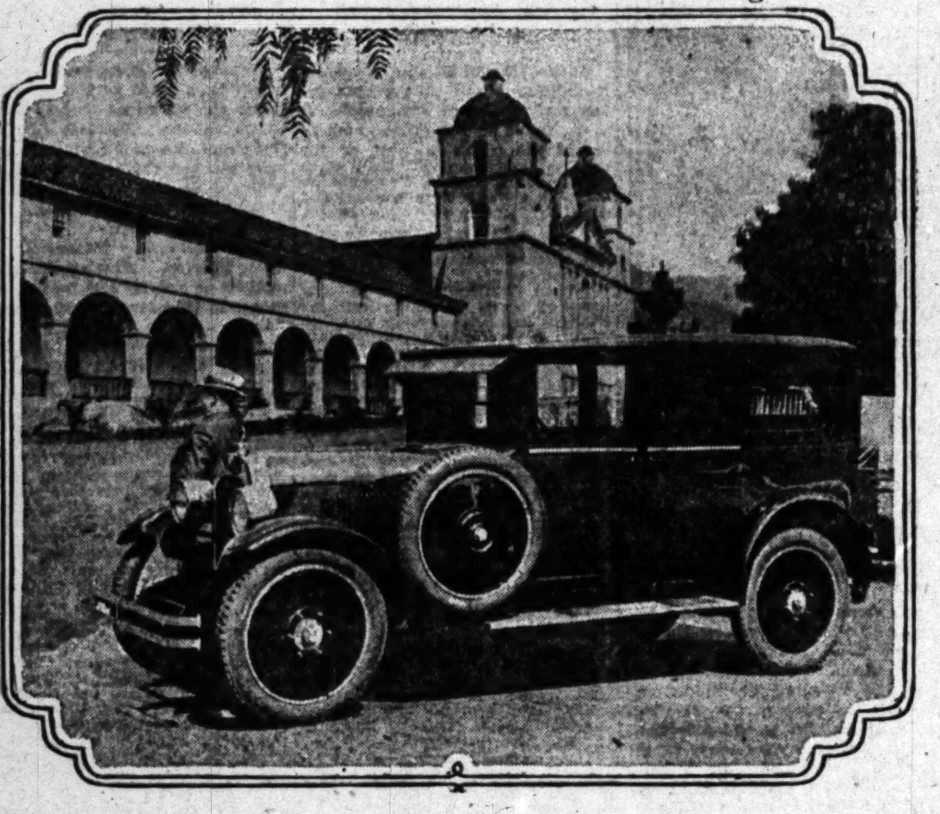
The gear shift is mounted on the dashboard and is, therefore, more accessible than in other cars. Although the methods are the same as in any other automobile, it is really a pleasure to drive in this three-wheel car, as everything about it makes for the comfort of the driver. It has a foot pedal for clutch adjustment, a foot brake, emergency brake, accelerator, choke, ignition switch, etc.

Although it is constructed to carry a capacity load of 500 pounds, it is said to be as rigid as a five-ton truck. It cannot be overturned because the body is low-hung, being approximately nineteen inches above the ground.

Still another feature of this unique motor vehicle is the front fork, which is so designed that each of its members acts as a separate shock absorber, and road shocks and vibrations are not transmitted to the car.

The vehicle, which at first will be manufactured as a truck, has a wheelbase of ninety inches and, as its turning radius is thirty-five degrees, it can be turned completely without the need of backing in a narrow street.

New Model in Attractive Surroundings



The first of the new Chalmers sedans has just put in an appearance at the salesrooms of the Greer-Robbins Company. The photograph shows one in front of the Santa Barbara Mission.

First of the New Chalmers Are on Deck

The first of the new Chalmers sedans, which created so much favorable comment at the New York show, and quantity production of which has only been under way for a short time, has been received here by the Greer-Robbins Company, Chalmers distributor. Mrs. Neil S. McCarthy, wife of the well-known attorney, purchased the first job. Orders for others are being taken in rotation.

"Price, quality and workmanship considered, the new sedan that we have so long expected, is one of the finest jobs ever turned out by any automobile manufacturing concern," declared L. M. Rash, retail Chalmers sales manager for the company. "Although exhibited at the New York show, the factory was not ready for production on this particular model until this spring. It is already evident that we will be able to sell them faster than we will be able to get them—at least, for the present. In every detail, the job is a high-grade one, and demonstrates what an up-to-date, aggressive and efficient organization like the Chalmers Motor Car Company can produce in these days of the keenest competition."

The car is luxuriously equipped inside and out. Exterior equipment includes front and back bumpers, trunk and rack, nickel radiator, nickle drum and cowl lights, windshield visor and wiper, tire holder on left running-board. The upholstery is of high-grade taupe mohair, while the soft roof construction practically eliminates any rumbling.

STEARNS FOUR TO APPEAR

"Rumors continue that the new Stearns four is soon to make its debut," says Lynn C. Buxton, "but the exact date has not yet been announced."

Pop Greer's Minions Are Lucky Again

Numerous investors along auto row including not a few of the Greer-Robbins Company, were elated last week when it became known the Star Petroleum Company of which P. H. Greer is treasurer as well as one of the principal organizers and owners, brought in its No. 2 well in the Santa Fe Springs field with an initial flow of 12,000 barrels. Although the gas pressure was better than 500 pounds, the well began flowing under perfect control, and what it would do if let out may only be approximated. As its flow is well maintained, it is declared to be the biggest producer of high gravity oil in the State.

Greer is also one of the principal organizers and owners of the Twin Bells in the same field, another producer, and with the Star property, said to be excellently managed in every way. A year ago, Greer was interested in oil only in a superficial way. Since then he has followed "the game" closely, given it a great deal of his time and close attention, and in consequence, has shown that he can succeed in that field as well as in the automobile industry.

Cares Nothing About Jinx of Hoodoo Number

If there is anything in the "thirteen jinx Al. Monroe, local tire and service man, is going to give it full opportunity to work, say officials of the W. P. Herbert Company, Chandler and Cleveland distributors.

Al has owned and driven twelve automobiles, he reports.

His thirteenth is a new Chandler Six with a Pike's Peak engine.

He bought it on Friday, the 13th and after insurance, freight, license fees, etc., had been figured in, the total purchase price ended with 13 cents, and the speedometer registered thirteen miles.

Al took it over to his plant, put thirteen gallons of gasoline in the tank, although it holds much more, checked the speedometer and said he was going to find out whether he could get thirteen or twenty-six miles to the gallon. The Herbert boys bet him $13 dollars that it would be nearer twenty-six than thirteen.

WILLYS-OVERLAND SHIPMENTS HUGE

BETTER QUARTER THAN THE FIRST SIX MONTHS OF THE LAST YEAR

The Willys-Overland Company have just finished the largest month's shipment of Overland and Willys-Knight cars in the history of the organization. Shipments in March totaled 20,277 automobiles.

This figure is included in the grand total for the first quarter of 1923 of 44,478 cars, nearly three and one-half times as many as were turned out during the first quarter of last year by the Willys-Overland organization.

Willys-Knight shipments for the first quarter equalled the total shipments of Willys-Knight cars for the entire first half of last year and at the present rate will excel the entire year's production of 1922 by the middle of May.

INTERNAL MECHANISM MUST BE CARED FOR

To keep an automobile properly lubricated requires more than good lubricants correctly administered. If the lubricants are to have a chance to circulate and do the work for which they are intended the car's internal mechanism must be kept in good working order. This truth is pointed out by D. R. McBryde of the McBryde Lubricating Service here. He enumerates a surprising number of things that can get out of whack inside a car and which will affect its supply of lubricating oil.

"The mechanical conditions that most commonly cause poor lubrication are broken or clogged feed lines, clogged oil screens, and defective pumps or drives. Defective valves at mechanical oilers or worn pumps may reduce the supply of oil. Enough reduction of the oil supply to cause trouble can also be caused by a clogged oil passage leading to important bearings."

STRENGTH AND SAFETY IN THE BODY OF STEEL

If you could see the main body structure of Dodge Brothers Business Coupe before the enamel is baked on, and before the interior is furnished, you would be profoundly impressed by its strength.

You would see that every panel, every pillar, and every rib is steel—that even the door sills and window mouldings are steel.

You would see that all of these parts and sections are electrically welded together into one staunch steel body, with no bolts or rivets to work loose, nothing to rattle or squeak or warp.

And you would realize that, like the all-steel Pullman coach, this unique construction—originated by Dodge Brothers for this car—represents the last word in protection to passengers—the ultimate achievement in closed car sturdiness.

The price of the Business Coupe is $1170 delivered

City Dads Pay a Visit to the Goodyear Plant

Throughout the period when Los Angeles was the "White Spot" of the nation, and now, when the "White Spot" has increased in size until it covers the entire State of California, the city government of Los Angeles has had its share in the activity that has made Los Angeles so prominent in the world's news.

Los Angeles, represented by its City Fathers, has always felt proud of the selection of this city as the location of the $20,000,000 Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of California's home, which was the forerunner of this industrial activity that has amazed the country.

Out in the southwest of the city, where three short years ago cabbage plants marked the countryside, there is now incorporated, as a result of the bringing of this big industrial development to the city, another built-up division of the city, which is growing every day.

Where, even four months ago, farmers were tilling the ground, there is now a community of several hundred homes.

To see all of this at close hand, and to inspect the company which has had so important a bearing on this development, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company had the pleasure of entertaining the following leading members of the city government of Los Angeles on Monday, the 16th inst.:

Mayor George E. Cryer, Chief of Police Louis D. Oaks, Fire Chief R. J. Scott, Police Commissioner De La Monte, Arthur Eldridge, efficiency director; Ralph S. Boyden, secretary to Chief of Police, and H. H. Kinney, secretary to the Mayor.

These gentlemen were impressed with the efficiency and completeness of the Goodyear factory, and were surprised to know that on Friday, last, this factory turned out 8837 tires, a tremendous increase over their daily production of the last year.

Actinic Rays Spoil Paint on Your Car

Persons who worry about their diet and who have come to understand that food isn't just food any more, but collections of calories and volumes of vitamines, will appreciate the position of the motorist who gets his car painted and then finds it suffering from the effects of Actinic rays.

The Southland is just full of these rays—contains more of them, in fact, than a box of raisins does iron. But it has taken the paint experts of the Southland to learn why factory paint jobs often won't stand up in this climate. The painters have, you might say, brushed up on this subject and have gotten some light on the Actinic matter, as is explained by J. F. Thomson of the Weaver-Mason-Thomson Company.

The dope is, Thomson explains, that eastern paint mixers, not having to combat Actinic rays, but being forced to protect cars against severe cold, mix their colors with boiled linseed oil. Here, it has been discovered, that the use of raw linseed will counteract the affects of the aforementioned Actinic ones.

Not only have painters for Weaver-Mason-Thomson developed this special base to overcome stringent effects of the Southland sun, but they also have created a number of special colors which are appropriate to this special climate.

A "Still" of Some of the City Dads

Goodyear's California tire foundry, located out where the cabbages used to bloom in South Los Angeles, was visited the past week by several of the city officials, among whom were Mayor Cryer, Chief Oaks, Commissioner De la Monte and others.

Notices Are Posted About Safe Driving

Petty violations of commonsense road rules are making auto travel hazardous in Pacific Coast territory, according to notices issued by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Does your tail light burn so that people can see it, or does it just glow about like a glow worm?

It is sometimes necessary to more than just comply with the law, says the Auto Club. A little more common sense used in motoring can often avert many serious accidents.

Glaring headlights constitute one of the most serious factors and possible causes of accidents with which California has to contend. According to motorcycle officers, the proper adjustment of headlights would mean a reduction of 50 per cent in the number of night accidents. During the year 1922 more than $22,000 was assessed by Los Angeles courts for fines for faulty headlights.

Ray McNamara's SPRING Housecleaning

Short Cuts to Motor Car Economy—

Examine Chassis Units, the Car Springs

It matters very little what type of spring suspension is incorporated in your car, or the conditions under which your car is used. All springs should receive certain attention frequently, in order to enjoy full riding comfort and avoid breakage.

The three most important points are keeping spring clips tight, correct adjustment of spring shackles and a little good judgment on the matter of lubrication between spring leaves.

The best material obtainable will not keep springs from breaking at the eye ends, if the shackle bolts are adjusted too tight, or if through neglect of lubrication, the bolts are permitted to freeze in the bushings, nor will it keep springs from breaking in the center, if the spring clips are loose.

MAKES A DIFFERENCE

No doubt all of you have noticed that your car seems to ride easy at times and particularly hard at other times. The amount of load carried has some influence over this, but it is true that cars do act that way. The difference can be accounted for nine times out of ten by lack of lubrication. If the spring eyes cannot turn freely on the spring bolts, the strains are localized at this point. Breakage may develop the first time out, when spring bolt seizes through rust or improper adjustment. Therefore, in order to guard against this, always lubricate spring bolts after washing car and after driving over wet roads, particularly when touring during wet weather over gravel or dirt roads. It must be remembered that the splash from road is like a sand blast, it is continually washing the lubricant out, permitting the grit to work in.

In applying high-pressure lubrication to spring bolts, during spring and fall cleaning on chassis, don't stop when the grease works out of shackle sides; continue until at least half of the content of grease gun has been forced through. This will remove rust and grit. While applying the grease, have a helper put the springs into action by swaying the car. In this way the grease will be forced to all surfaces. If the grease or oil cannot be forced through, jack the frame up, so that weight of car is off springs; particularly bad cases of seized bolts or stoppage in oil holes can be remedied by forcing kerosene through the bolt with your pressure gun.

WISER SINCE

In adjusting shackle bolts to remove rattles, do not put a tension on the plates, always test by springing car into action, watching shackles to see that they move freely. Tight plates will cause peculiar squeaks and groans, while loose ones cause the rattles. However, there is more danger in a tight one, since spring or bolt breakage is liable to follow, while a loose one only causes annoying rattles. This point came to my attention after the 1910 Glidden tour which I finished with the highest score. The tour covered some very rough and muddy roads, starting from Cincinnati, crossing Kentucky, Tennessee, touching Alabama, Mississippi, then across Arkansas to Dallas in Texas, northward through Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska; eastward across Iowa and Illinois to Chicago. After the technical examination of car, which always followed the old reliability runs, I left my car with the local service station to have my loose front spring shackles adjusted. To make a long story short, I was anxious to get back to Indianapolis, and failed to make the usual check on the other fellow's work. However, both front springs broke at the eye on the 200-mile run over good roads, from Chicago to Indianapolis, which delayed my arrival home, but I have been much wiser ever since.

Do not oil to excess between spring leaves; it will cause much bumping of frame on axle; results from this practice will be discussed at length in another article.

GOES THE FACTORY GUARANTEE BETTER

Going the factory's ninety-day guarantee just one better, in order that every buyer may be perfectly satisfied with service given by the car, D. H. Thomason has just instituted a plan of thirty days' free service and care of all Star cars sold by his firm.

"You might think that was a pretty big bite to chew," he said, in announcing the plan. "But the facts are that the Star, after having been given its predelivery service, is such a stanch and well-made little vehicle that this guarantee of ours will cost us little in time or money. Knowing that they may have free service at any time is a nice assurance for owners, but it has been our experience since taking the Star line that we seldom see car owners after they leave the place unless we send for them and suggest normal inspections by the shop department."

DOCTOR BUYS STAR

An automobile is a nice gift and Dr. G. Van Vranken of Glendale is of the opinion that it is just the thing for a doctor. Hence he purchased a Star touring car from the Thomason Motor Company for his son, Dr. Ralph Van Vranken of the Bank of Italy Building. The Star gift was delivered by Thomason this last week.

Baxter Blames Scenery for a Few Accidents

Warner Baxter blames the scenic beauty of Southern California as the remote cause of some of our many automobile accidents.

Baxter has just had this point rather forcibly impressed upon him when he was jammed by an automobile behind him, after stopping suddenly when a driver ahead of him stuck out his arm as if he were going to make a sudden turn but proved, upon later investigation, to be only pointing out a scenic beauty spot to his passengers.

The Robertson-Cole star has just written a letter to the Automobile Club recommending propaganda to warn motorists against this practice, which has in several cases resulted disastrously. The letter follows:

"Automobile Club of Southern California,

"Gentlemen: I wish to point out to Los Angeles motorists and evil which, although humorous in nature, has often resulted in more or less serious accidents, to-wit, the practice of automobile tourist drivers in pointing out the scenic beauties of Southern California and extending the arm out in the same manner as in giving the signal to the automobilist behind him that he is going to turn a corner.

"The seriousness of this was impressed upon me rather forcibly the other day. Just as I speeded up to pass another car, the driver ahead of me shot out his hand as if indicating a turn. I threw on my brakes and brought my car to a quick stop, only to be jammed by two more automobiles right behind me. The driver went right ahead without turning and a later investigation revealed that he never had any intention of turning, but was merely pointing out a scenic spot to his guests.

"I have heard of several instances of such accidents, and would like to recommend a little propaganda to warn tourists and enthusiastic Los Angeles automobile hosts to desist from sticking out their hands only at such times as they intend to turn a cornet or make a stop

"Respectfully,
"WARNER BAXTER."

ORANGE GROVE SOLD

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LINDSAY, April 21.—The sale of the twenty-acre navel orchard of Harry Thompson, located a mile and a half east of Lindsay on the northeast corner of Honolulu street and Sunnyside avenue, to Joe Godding, has been reported. The property consists of seventeen-year-old trees and is considered one of the best properties in the district. Mr. Godding owns other citrus property a half-mile east, his two groves being separated by the McLaury orchard.

Dope Shows How Much Money the Car Buyer Has

The average purchaser of automobiles in classes above that which is called the popular price class has a net equity in real estate of $4286.08. He has also a net equity in personal property of $2079.38. His average monthly income is $349.70.

These figures, according to the Miller Rubber Company, were determined from statistics of acceptance corporations which annually finance millions of dollars worth of time payment sales.

An interesting feature is that the average purchaser in this class spends $1361.96 for his car, on which he pays down $698.31. He agrees to pay the balance of $363.65 in monthly installments of $95.60. This average buyer is 34 years old.

These statistics show that 74 per cent are married, 82 per cent have bank accounts and that 69 per cent carry life insurance.

In the compilation of these data it was found that 65 per cent of those persons from whom information was obtained had owned a car previously. Of the total number 45 per cent had purchased their cars on time payments.

ONE-THIRD FORDS

In the New York territory, where more than 7,000,000 people reside, there are registered in excess of 225,000 automobiles, of which one-third are Fords, according to Miller tire officials. In Nebraska there are 124,417 farms. The population is less than 1,000,000. There are in the State 237,331 automobiles, of which 125,799 are Fords.

Road Work on in Earnest in the Big Bear

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, April 21.—Mountain road work began in earnest this week and by May 1, the opening of the fishing season, all the mountain roads will be open unless there are heavy late snow storms. Most of the roads are in fairly good shape now, dry except in the dampest spots, and it is believed that they can be thrown open early without danger of cutting great ruts in them by heavy traffic.

John Harris of Redlands left this week with equipment for Big Bear Valley, where he will build roads in a number of new subdivisions to be opened there, especially one for Bartlett Brothers. The work of building the $165,000 boulevard in the valley will be started soon, for the contract has been let to Levering & Lieneau of this city, and they will soon have their men on the job. There will likely be more than a third of a million dollars spent on roads on the floor of Big Bear alone this year.

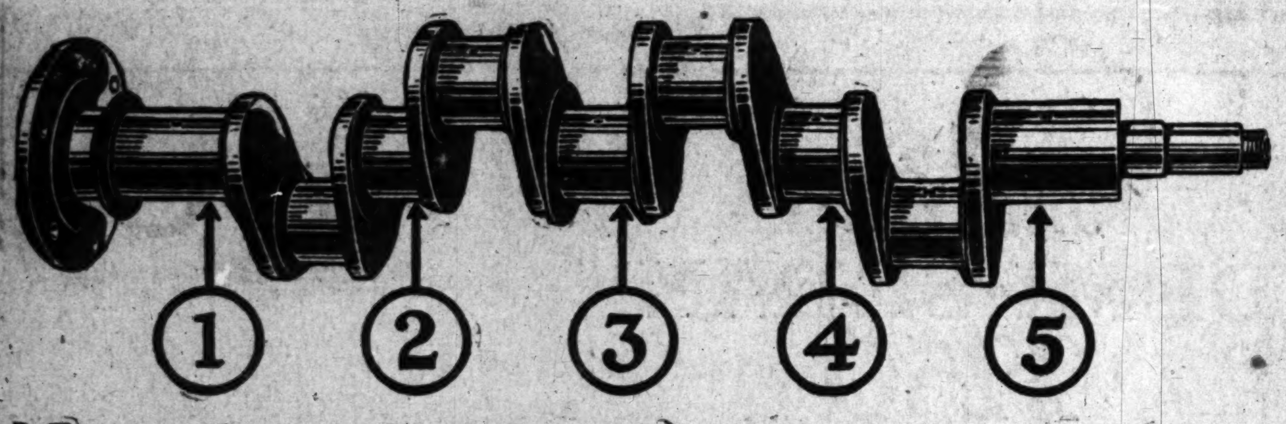
George Biggin, Supervisor of the county, who has been in charge of the paving of the Mill Creek road, says that the work is coming along in fine shape. The road will be open this week to let several road-making gangs through and will then be closed until the job of paving is complete. The road is to be paved from the mouth of the canyon to the control, and will be one of the finest improvements to be made in the mountains. Slowly but surely the Mill Creek Road is being put in the best of shape, widened and turns made better until now it is one of the safest mountain roads in the West, and plans are to make it just as safe or safer than a valley highway.

BUSY KEEPING THE BUSINESS HEALTHY

Keeping business healthy is the chief interest of automobile magnates today, according to officials of the W. P. Herbert Company, local Cleveland and Chandler distributors.

To that end, they say, even in the face of unprecedented demand, manufacturers are not inclined to rush into any gigantic expansion programs without long and earnest investigation of the permanent possibilities of maintaining present production.

They say the new Cleveland six is stimulating an ever-growing demand that threatens to exceed all possibilities of present production facilities; but the big question is, will this sweeping call for cars continue long enough to warrant the erection of more factory buildings, and installation of more of the highest-grade production machinery now in use?



No other four cylinder motor has this five bearing crankshaft

For many years the best four cylinder cars were designed with two main crankshaft bearings.

Vibration was inevitable, although the advantages of a Four—simplicity, economy and general reliability—largely offset this serious drawback.

Then a few manufacturers began using three crankshaft bearings. This was generally admitted to be an improvement, although a considerable amount of vibration was still evident.

It has remained for Gardner to take the final step—a very simple one when you stop to think of it—and adopt the five-bearing crankshaft.

The powerful Gardner crankshaft, 2⅛ inches in diameter, is supported by five main bearings with a total bearing surface of 64 inches. Five main bearings, instead of two or three, take up vibration, eliminate whip and side-play and lengthen the life of practically every moving engine part.

The result in operation is a smoothness and flexibility such as you have never experienced in a Four, together with exceptional power at no sacrifice of dependability.

Every one of the desirable qualities that have made four-cylinder cars the choice of three-quarters of all American motorists is retained in the Gardner Four, plus performance so different that only a ride in the car can adequately convey its superiority.

Los Angeles, California.

Dear Mr. Buxton.

I wish it were possible for me to express in words, my sincere appreciation of my wonderful New Stearns - Knight Six. It can't be done - the pleasure is too deep - the joy is too satisfying - the satisfaction is too complete. Words fail me when I attempt to record my feelings - the exhilaration - the inspiration - that I experience when I sit behind and drive that silent and powerful motor. Permit me to say, that I have owned and operated many machines - but this Stearns - Knight Six is the only real honesttoGod automobile that I have ever driven. Please accept this letter in the same spirit in which it is tendered - unsolicited - with no strings to it - just to tell you how proud I am of my beautiful car. With deepest appreciation, I am

Sincerely,

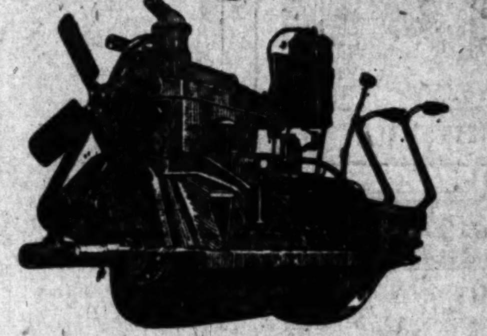
KISSEL
The Custom Built Car



A Motor That is Truly Custom-Built

AN AUTOMOBILE is only as good as its motor.

Produced completely in our own shops, perfectly balanced, built with the precision of a fine watch,—the improved motor that powers the model "Fifty-five" Phaeton is an important item of Kissel value.

When you ride behind this engine you note at once its smoothness—the almost total lack of vibration at 5 miles an hour or at 60—despite the exceptional power and speed that it develops.

You would expect to find such a power plant in some car created by a master designer and built regardless of cost. Yet it is a standard unit in the 1923 Kissel—one evidence of quality among many in a car that Kissel now offers at $1795.

Do not fail to see these fine automobiles, now on display.

Unearthed From a Fossil Pit

Not the Rickenbacker seen in the photograph, but the prehistoric gears held by Misses Laura and Mollie Anna, which they dug up in a sand pit on the home plot at Culver City.

DISCOVER ANTIQUITIES

Fair Ones of Culver City Unearth Strange Articles of Mechanical Nature

If King Tut had known that the winsome Senoritas, Miss Laura and Miss Molly-Ann Machado, were destined to make any prehistoric discoveries in Southern California, he would have undoubtedly made arrangements to have his tomb in Southern California instead of Egypt.

While extensive excavations are being made in Luxor, the Machado family have made important discoveries on their ranch near Culver City. Strange wheels, gear-shaped rocks, sweat ovens and other relics have been unearthed that have cast an entirely new light on the supposed ancient civilization.

However, the daughters of the Dons, as Miss Laura and Miss Molly Ann have been aptly called, were not nearly so excited over the discoveries made on their ranch as they were over their newly acquired Rickenbacker Six coupe.

A TIMING GEAR

It is said that one of the gear-shaped rocks which was recently unearthed, resembles a timing-gear which is used in the modern automobile. This makes it feasible that the ancient inhabitants of the Sunny Southland had a knowledge of mechanics even if they did live too soon to enjoy the comforts of the Rickenbacker coupe that the Machados are so pleased with.

According to Mrs. J. D. Machado, one of the smaller gear-shaped rocks measures about four inches in diameter and is about two inches thick. It has eleven teeth on the circumference and shows signs of wear around the edges, which is no doubt due to friction. The rock is of hard granite. There is no hole in the center so it must have been geared to other stones.

A larger wheel of softer composition has a hole in the center about two inches in diameter on each side and about one inch in diameter in the center. The double cone is similar to the arrangement used nowadays to aid in locking the wheel tighter on the driving shaft. It has eight teeth on the circumference and the teeth are less pronounced due probably to friction.

The prehistoric sweat oven, which was also unearthed, served a peculiar mission in its day. A sick Indian would be placed in the oven, with only his head protruding. A fire was built underneath and he was allowed to sweat for a few hours. He was then thrown into the river and if he lived, he was a good Indian. If he died he was a bad one.

SAFETY FACTOR IS PREDOMINANT

DODGE ENGINEERS RECOGNIZED IMPORTANT FUNDAMENTAL FROM FIRST.

The fact that an automobile, like a chain, is no stronger than its weakest part, was recognized by Dodge Brothers from the very beginning, and in consequence, a close scrutiny of even the most minute and seemingly unimportant part of a Dodge Brothers car will reveal almost excessive strength, according to R. W. Seltzer, general superintendent for Albertson Motor Company, Dodge Brothers dealers for Los Angeles.

"Inbuilt strength in every part and especially in those parts which affect the safety of the car and its passengers," states Seltzer, "has given the car a very large factor of safety. For instance, the running gear, both front and rear, are of exceptionally sturdy construction. Second growth hickory only is used in the artillery type of wheel, and the steel used in the steel wheel is subjected to the closest inspection before it is passed for use. The twelve hickory spokes which radiate from the heavy steel hub have in addition to the eight regular hub bolts, six additional bolts which fasten each alternate spoke to the heavy fourteen-inch brake drum.

"Thus the wheel itself is more than ordinarily strong, and is fastened securely to the brake drum, whose wide breaking surface and large diameter, insure, as far as the strength of the wheel and the effectiveness of the brake are concerned, perfect safety. The recent results of a long series of tests in the laboratories of Dodge Brothers indicate the strength of vital parts of the Dodge Brothers and also serve as a warning to owners against the using of anything but genuine parts in such service replacements as may be necessary."

COMPARING RIDING QUALITY IS BUNK

Comparing the riding qualities of an automobile to a Pullman car is another well meant insult that has been flung in the faces of self-respecting and superior road aristocrats long enough, says O. R. Fuller, president of the White Auto Company, distributors of the Stephens six.

"You can get all the comforts of a Pullman car right at home. All you need to do is crawl up on a closet shelf somewhere, close enough to the ceiling to bump your head often and hard, and stick a couple of cinders in your eye and there you have it.

"Smooth riding in an automobile is an achievement in motor car construction and design. Many more makers claim it than can prove it. It is not an intangible thing at all. In fact it is a very definite part of the business of building automobiles right, and that is the only way the Stephens factory will build them."

NEW GAS SAVER PUT ON MARKET

A new gas saver has been put on the market by the Automatic Air Controller Company, 216 West Slauson avenue, called the Automatic Air Controller. Its function is to assist in introducing a proper mixture at the point where it comes from the carburetor, supplying the necessary air, distributed properly in the intake opening thoroughly breaking up the gasoline spray into a dry uniform gas. It is easily installed and its makers say they already are receiving a good demand for it with favorable reports from its users.

BANKERS VOTE FOR CADILLAC

The bankers of San Joaquin county have turned in an overwhelming majority in favor of the Cadillac. Walter Hansel, of the Hansel & Ortman Company, Stockton Cadillac dealers, did a bit of figuring last week and discovered that his firm had sold thirty-five Cadillac cars to bankers in and around Stockton. He made the statement that he could boast of a Cadillac in every bank in Stockton. The genial Stockton dealer says that bankers are keen investors and when they unite on any one make it means something.

LEADS ALL RIVALS BY BIG MARK

Chevrolet Dealers Point With Pride to Record Set by Last Month's Sales

Not content with almost doubling its sales in metropolitan Los Angeles last month, the Chevrolet Motor Company, according to figures furnished by the local Chevrolet Dealers' Association, led its nearest competitor in the disposal of touring cars by 129. In all, 679 touring cars were sold by members of the association, in metropolitan Los Angeles during the month.

This record, dealers assert, is something unusual, as the first part of March is not regarded as a particularly good sales period, the automobile sales season officially beginning March 15 and continuing up until the middle of June.

With the rainy season now over and with the promise of good days ahead, Chevrolet dealers are expecting other sales record to go smashing, making the year a banner one for the company.

Figures furnished by C. E. Coats, regional sales manager, of Oakland, show that during March more Chevrolet cars were sold in San Francisco and Alameda county than of any other make.

The great increase in the sales of Chevrolets, some dealers declare, is due to the recent cut in gasoline prices, many people buying cars early in order to take advantage of the present drop.

That this cut is helping sales is the belief of L. M. Dreeves, who declares that, "A saving of 5 to 6 cents on each gallon of gasoline amounts to considerable when you get into the class of cars such as the Chevrolet, where gasoline mileage is exceptionally high. You can readily appreciate the low operating cost with the present price of fuel oil. We have had considdealer connections in the last few dealer connections in the past few days, showing that it is an absolute fact that buyers are now buying additional and new motor-car equipment which increase in business is being attributed to the new price prevailing on gasoline."

AUBURN OFFICIAL QUITE IMPRESSED

FINDS GROWTH OF AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY HERE ABOVE AVERAGE

J. I. Farley, vice-president and director of sales of the Auburn Automobile Company, Auburn, Ind., after spending a week in Los Angeles as the guest of the W. J. Burt Motor Car Company, for 14 years distributor of the Auburn line here, left last Monday for a short stay in San Francisco.

Mr. Farley and Mr. Burt have been close friends for many years and the former never overlooks an opportunity to visit California and spend a week or more with the head of the firm that represents the Auburn here.

When asked for his opinion of the condition of the automobile industry, he said with considerable enthusiasm, "It's tip-top, I've never seen it so good. All the companies are as busy as they can be and it seems difficult for them to keep up with the demand which is increasing right along. As Coue says: 'Every day in every way it's getting better and better.' "

Mr. Farley was greatly impressed with the growth of the automobile business in Los Angeles. "Your city is wonderful," he said, "it grows more wonderful every time I come here and the number of automobiles in use is positively amazing. In this regard your 'City of Angels' surely is making a record, which, if maintained will make it second to none."

DOUBLE BEARINGS

"A special feature of the new Oakland 6-44 is the double set of bearings that support the shaft of the water pump and fan," says H. E. Franklin, manager for the California Oakland Motor Company, "and this eliminates the likelihood of trouble at this point.

Styles That Go Hand-in-Hand

Of course it's easy to see that the costumes Betty Tyrrell picked out from the stock of the B. H. Dyas Company exactly match the Stephens sport foursome beside which she is standing.

MODES AND MOODS OF THE MOTOR MAID

BY PEGGY WISE

It was Friday the Thirteenth.

The little Goddess of Luck was with us.

Poised audaciously on the radiator cap of a spiffy new Stephens six sport foursome, she led us out toward the Wilshire Country Club. Betty Tyrrell was at the wheel all trigged out in a stunning sport creation she had just picked up at the B. H. Dyas Company Ville de Paris.

She looked so peachy, with her green felt sport hat, green and white kitted short cape with brushed collar, pretty Peter Pan blouse of daintiest dimity, white flannel box-plaited sport skirt and entirely ravishing sleeveless sport jacket of flannel with broad green stripes, all set off suitably with white silk hose, nubuck sport exfords, black-striped white-kid sport gloves and green-tinted bag, and it all matched the beige and green of the Stephens so wonderfully, that we insisted she stop for a picture.

So we started to look for a suitable set, as the camera man called it, and the little Goddess led us right up to the spacious home of W. M. Gudel at 711 Crenshaw Boulevard—get that number.

Mr. Gudel was delightfully accommodating and co-operative, and told us to go as far as we liked with our "Shooting."

Just as Betty was invoking a greeting to the little Goddess, I espied a glint in the grass and extracted a five-dollar goldpiece. Goddess of Luck, 711, five dollars—it was raining horseshoes.

NEW BUSINESS BLOCK

Eugene Eidson, one of the prominent business men in Home Gardens, has purchased a tract of ground at Tweedy Road and California street, and will soon begin the erection of a new business block, which will be a stucco, one-story building. The new structure will be 25 by 65 feet and will contain three rooms besides the business room. It is expected the building will be finished early in June.

SPECIFIC GRAVITY OF RADIO IS HIGH

All the experience that twelve years of gasoline production has developed has been incorporated in the distillation and refining of radio gasoline, and entirely new motor fuel marketed by the Fellows Gasoline Company.

The outstanding quality of radio gasoline, according to the reports of the manufacturers is that it will always test at 60 deg. specific gravity or higher, which is much higher than the law demands. This, it is claimed, will make for better starting and greater power.

Makes Thirty One-Way Trips in One Month

Thirty automobile trips in a month between here and San Francisco entails considerable stamina both on the part of the driver and on the part of the car being driven. Such a strenuous routine, however, is being followed by Charles H. Holdson of this city, in a Kissel car.

Mr. Holdson is the originator of a new scheme for living on only 25 cents worth of foodstuff a day, and his idea in making the trips is to prove his theories practical. He started on his experiment the 1st inst., and every day since has made the trip one way between the two cities, all the while restricting his outlay of money for food to 25 cents a day. When he started he promised that by the end of the month he would have gained fifteen pounds. Up to the 15th inst. he had gained seven pounds.

This continual traveling is no easy life, according to Mr. Holdson's own account. He only gets about five hours sleep each night and the first two days he was out, it rained.

Mr. Holdson follows the inland route from Los Angeles to San Francisco, a distance of 420 miles, and comes back by way of the coast route, 460 miles. To establish beyond any possibility of doubt the authenticity of his achievement, he checks out from the Central Police Station at this end and checks in at the office of the Chief of Police in San Francisco and vice versa when he's coming this way. As a further evidence of his good faith, he carries an observer on each trip and voluntarily sleeps in the City Jail of which ever city he spends the night in.

IMPERIAL PROSPEROUS

H. E. Woodward, assistant general manager of the Reo Motor Car Company of California, and Wilmer Wood, in charge of wholesale sales, report business conditions in the Imperial Valley in excellent shape. Messrs. Woodward and Wood attended the Imperial Valley automobile show at El Centro, which they say was one of the most successful events of its kind ever held in Southern California. Charles N. Merralls, Reo dealer at El Centro, and head of the Imperial Valley Dealers' Association, was the manager in charge of the show.

ANNOUNCEMENT of Interest to Millions of Families

"I will build a car for the multitude"
Said Henry Ford in 1903—Read how the fulfillment of that prophecy is now made possible through the

Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

For many years it has been Henry Ford's personal ambition to make the Ford the universal family car—to put it within the reach of the millions of people who have never been privileged to enjoy the benefits of motor car ownership.

During the past fifteen years over 7,500,000 Ford cars have been placed in the hands of retail customers—more than a million and a half of them within the past twelve months—and yet there are still millions of families who are hopefully looking forward to the day when they can own a Ford.

And now the way is open.

Under the terms of this plan you can select your Ford Car, set aside a small amount each week and you will be surprised how soon you will own it. In the meantime your money will be safely deposited to your credit in one of the local banks where it will draw interest.

Think it over. Five dollars will start an account. The whole family can participate in it — father, mother, brothers and sisters, each doing a little.

Why not start today? Stop in and talk it over with your local Ford dealer. He will be glad to fully explain the details of the plan and help you get started toward the ownership of a Ford car.

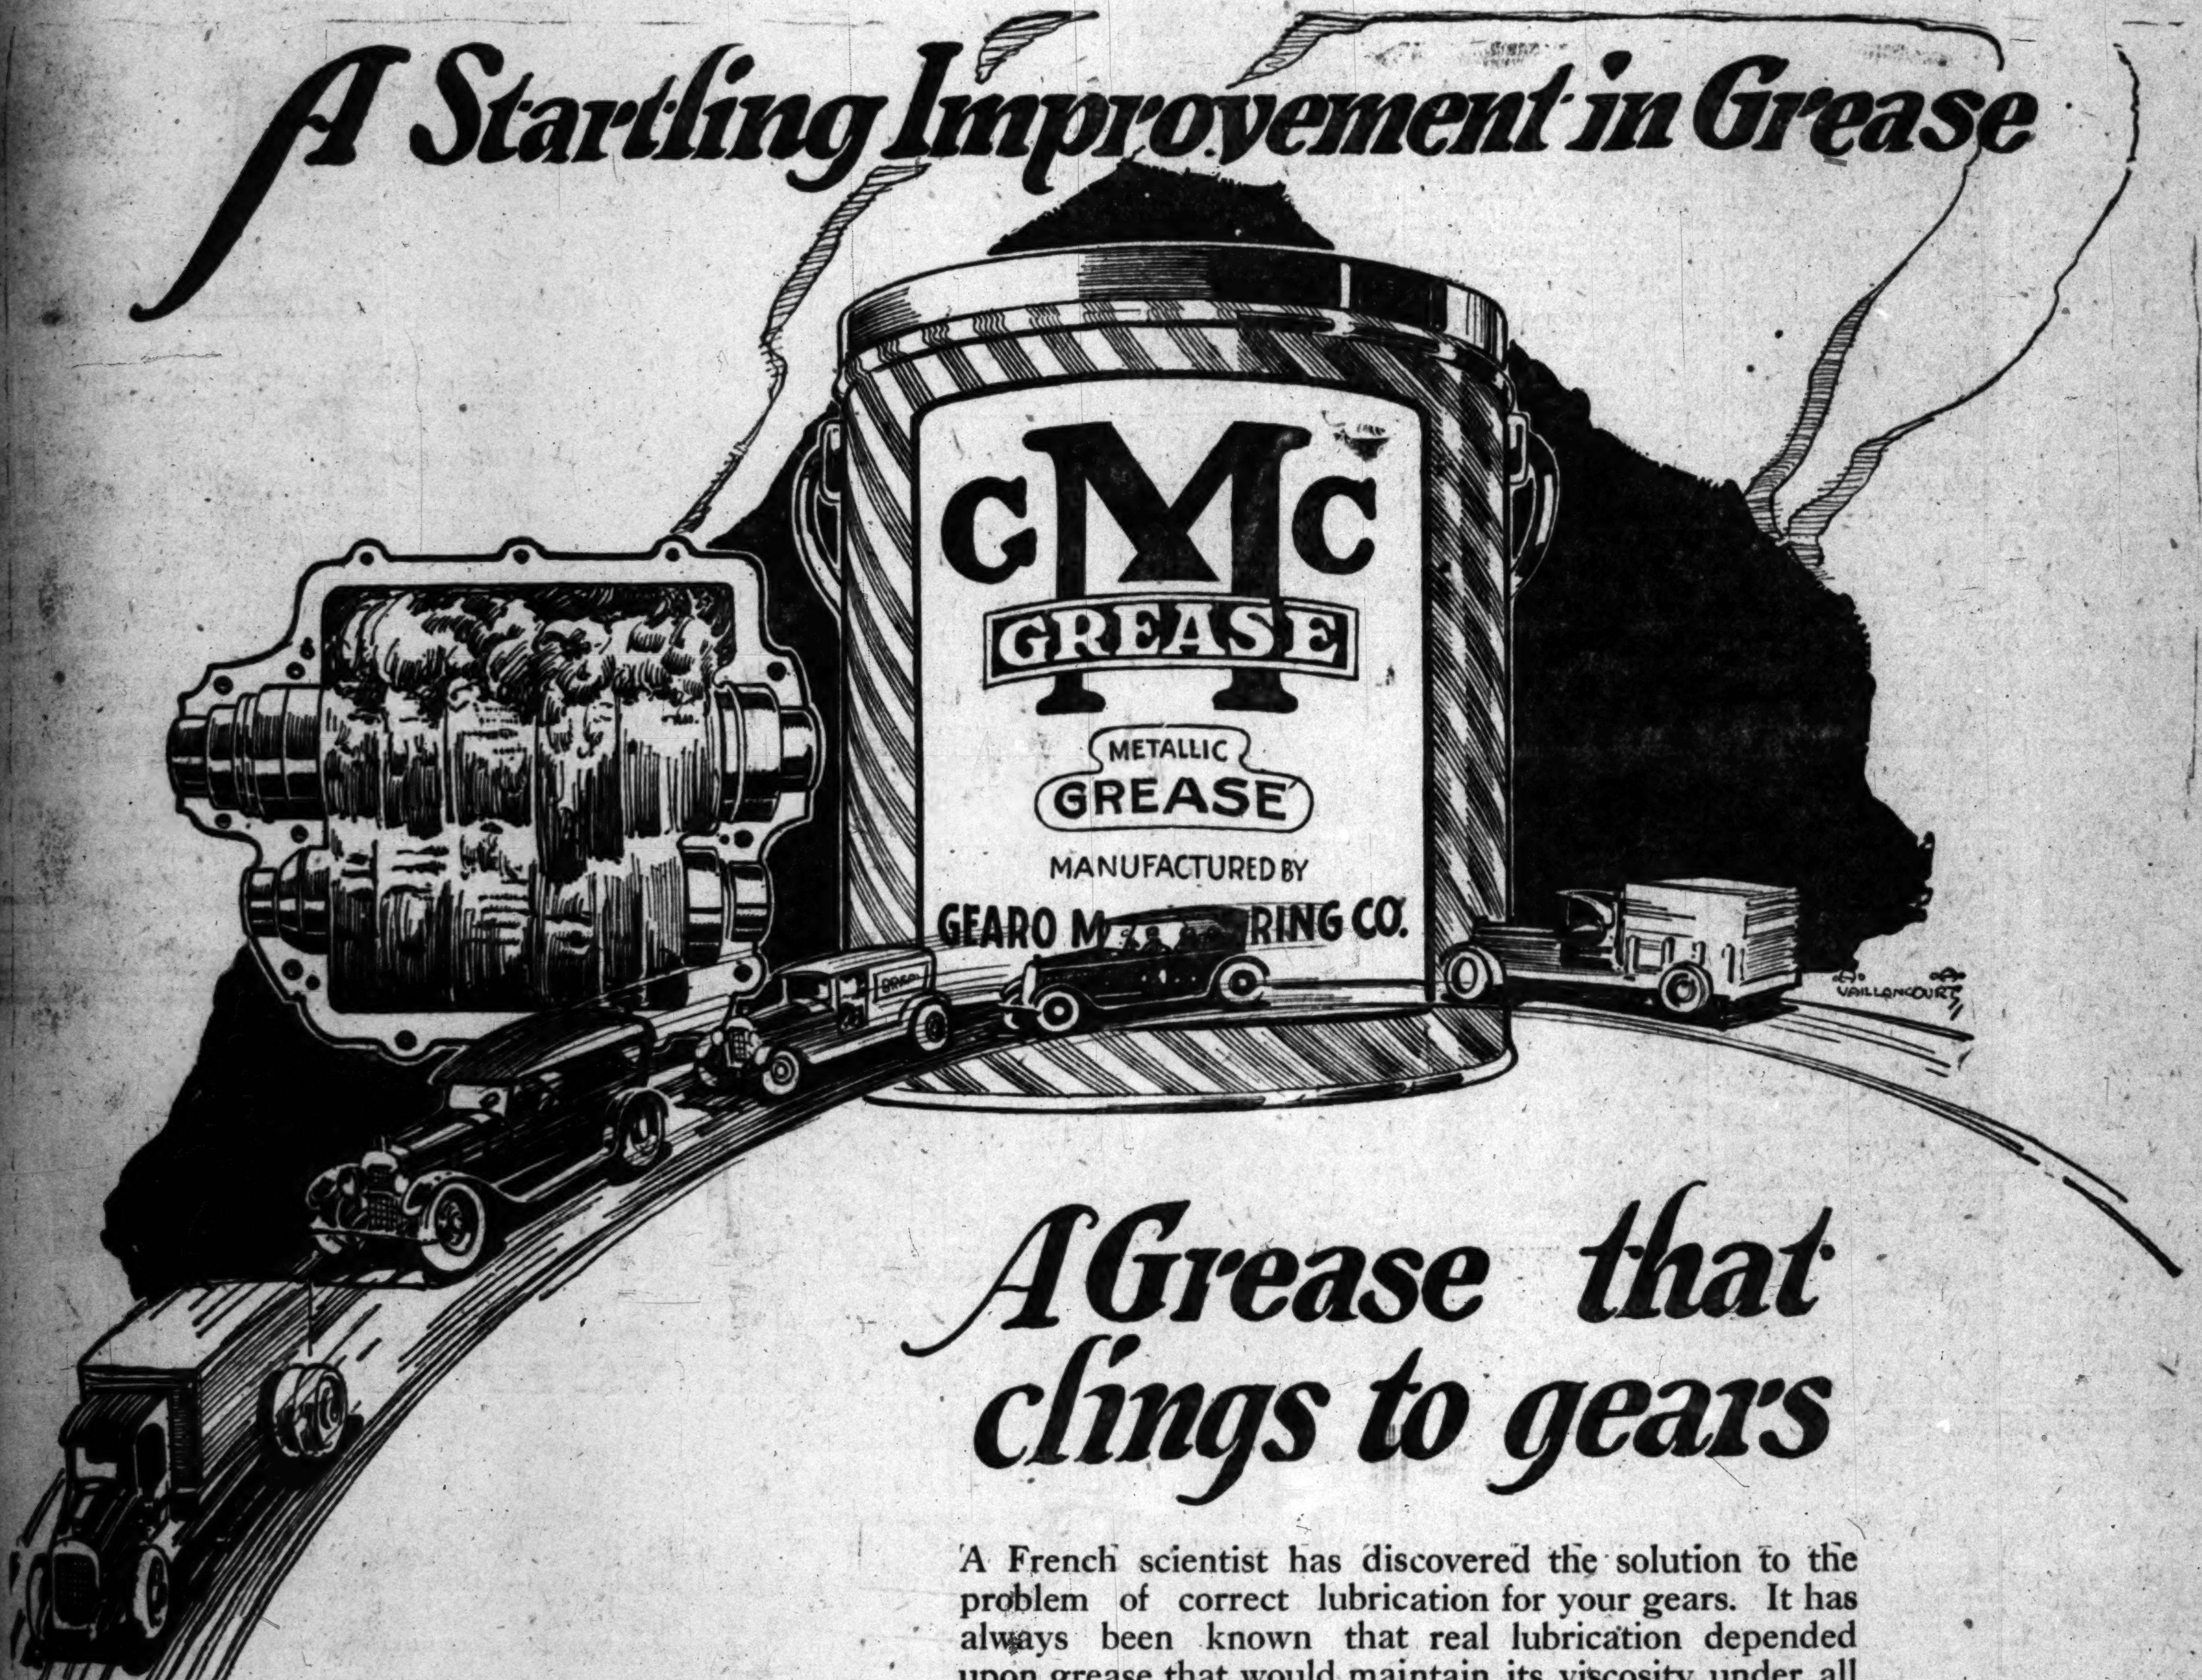
A Startling Improvement in Grease



A Grease that clings to gears

A French scientist has discovered the solution to the problem of correct lubrication for your gears. It has always been known that real lubrication depended upon grease that would maintain its viscosity under all conditions of pressure and heat. G M C Gear Compound Clings to the gears under these conditions. It forms a cushion between the meshed teeth of the gears---it affords efficient lubrication and ends your "gear worries."

Stops the Howl

The greatest cause for the "howl" in gears is through unequal wear on the surfaces coming in contact with each other. Naturally a small gear revolves faster than a large one---and the only way to stop unequal wear is by ending friction. G M C Grease Compound forms a film over the surface---it minimizes friction---it STOPS THE HOWL! A trial will prove this to you.

ADVENTURING AMERICAN TRAILS WITH "LIZZIE"

BY EDITH LEIGH SLOUGH

CHAPTER XI

The tourist public camping grounds at Grand Canyon Junction are on the western side of the Yellowstone River and just a short way above the Upper Falls.

Over on the eastern side, opposite, is the community center, or tent cottage city, where one may secure accommodations for any length of time that he may desire them during the park season. Between the two, but a short distance above the falls, is Chittenden bridge spanning the river in a graceful white arch—the longest melan arch in the world.

Beneath it the river rushes with terrific force, sweeping through rapids and around boulders until, making an abrupt turn from north to east, it narrows to a width not exceeding fifty feet—and leaps over a ledge 109 feet high, onto the rocks in the basin below. A stairway leads down to its brink from the motor trail on the western shore of the gorge and ends in a platform almost overhanging the spot where the river makes the plunge. Although fastened to the rocks securely it quivers from the force of the rushing waters. From this platform an exquisite view is to be had. But the fall is seen to best advantage from the opposite side of the basin, where a path leads down the sheer wall from the canyon community center to the bottom of the precipice. I climbed down the path with my camera, but had considerable difficulty in securing a good photo, for in making the drop the waters of the upper fall strike a shelving rock near the bottom of the ledge and hurl a mass of spray and mist entirely across the canyon, and I was compelled to hold my hand over the exposure until just ready to "shoot" in order to prevent the moisture from clouding the lens. When I climbed back up to the camp I was as wet as if I had been out in a pouring rain.

Harding Highway Near Butte

"Elizabeth" in Pipestone Pass

We drove along the eastern brink of the canyon for several miles to the lower fall and Artists' Point.

NO PLACE FOR HER

Just north of the community center a trail for pedestrians climbs down 1200 feet into the gorge to the foot of the Lower Falls, and it is no place for a minister's son or anyone else unless he is mighty level-headed, wrich I "ain't." It was damp that morning when I made it, and the rocks were slippery, and the first time I skidded! Wow! I lost my breath and it never caught up with me again until I landed at the bottom. I learned one thing by the experience, however, and that was this: If you expect to see America before you do the stars you'd better have hob nails and a few spikes for good measure driven into your soles, and it wouldn't be a bad idea to carry along the seat of an old arm chair full of 'em, also, for you'll need a lot of upholstery before you get to the bottom of some of the sights in this land of the free and the home of the brave.

It was well worth the risk, however, to stand at last before that 308 feet of tempestuous, foaming water and spray, as it made its majestic plunge, a sheet of glistening silver into the gorge far below. Never have I seen a more royal setting than has this crown jewel of the Yellowstone.

Occupying the center of the landscape, it is surrounded on every hand by pine-clad hills, just there, where it makes the leap into the appalling depths of the gorge. But from the distance of the famous Artists' Point, to the north of it, the view of the entire canyon and fall is stupendous. The perpendicular walls and cliffs have been cut by erosion into quaint cathedral spires and towers. Pillars of rock jut out here and there against the sky and in many places the walls along the brink of the canyon overhang the abyss.

Down and down, from level to level, the eyesight must fall through a mass of tints which line the gorge from top to bottom.

PARADISE OF COLOR

Always softly blended, pastel shades harmonizing perfectly, make of the spot a paradise of color, greens, browns, grays, rose and predominating yellows and orange, relieved by the black of somber pines, which cling in solitude to the walls here and there like brushes tossed aside from the hand of the Immortal Artist when his masterpiece was done. And at the very bottom of the mighty crevice winds the silvery blue ribbon of the stream.

We hurried on our way down the canyon to Gardiner and out of the park through the great arch that says, "For all the people," glad that we were among the heirs to this beautiful estate, and soon reached Livingston, Mont., where we joined forces with the main National Park Highway once more.

The journey to Butte lay through the beautiful Gallatin Valley, and I am sure this valley has been misnamed. It should have been called "Happy Valley," for it lies so sheltered on all sides by the lofty ranges of the Rocky Mountains and its wide level floor was agleam under the morning sunlight with great fields of ripening grain as we crossed it.

It seemed a region of such abundance and contentment that I felt as if I had entered the doorway of a house where the master greets you always with a warm handclasp and a hearty "Welcome, friend!"

I was interested in the history of such an attractive spot, and I learned that the Gallatin Valley and river were both named in honor of Albert Gallatin, who was secretary of the treasury under Thomas Jefferson, under whose administration the Lewis and Clarke expedition was fostered. Little is known of the early Indian history of the valley, but as far back as knowledge is to be had the tribes of the Upper Columbia were in the habit of crossing over into the Yellowstone or Musselshell country on their buffalo hunts, and their annual trips were through Gallatin Valley and over Bozeman Pass.

It has never been the permanent abode of any tribe within this century, and although claimed by the Blackfeet was in reality a common fighting ground for all of the surrounding tribes.

In 1809 Imanuel Lisa, with a fur company from St. Louis, came up the Yellowstone River and over what is now Bozeman Pass, establishing a trading post at the junction of the Jefferson, Madison and Gallatin Rivers, which uniting form the Missouri, and called it Three Forks. Later the Bannack gold rush attracted John Bozeman of Missouri. During the winter of 1862 Bozeman and a friend, John M. Jacobs, left for the States in an attempt to find a shorter route to the gold fields for emigrants than the roundabout one up the Platte.

Set afoot by the Sioux Indions on Powder River, they nearly starved, finally existing on a diet of grasshoppers before they reached their destination.

In 1864 Bozeman guided a large train back over his route between the Black Hills and Wind River.

Another emigrant train, under a man named Bridger, was following a trail down Clark's Fork to the west of the Black Hills. He had several weeks' start, and had denounced Bozeman's route as impracticable. But his own was so circuitous that Bozeman reached the Gallatin Valley ahead of him and lingered there until Bridger overtook him. Then they raced their trains from the West Gallatin into Virginia City, reaching that place within a few hours of each other.

The Author and Her Guide

Ready for a trip into a copper mine.

As I read this bit of history from out the almost forgotten pages of the past I chuckled to myself as I imagined what Bozeman, Jacobs and Bridger would say and do if they stood once more in the Gallatin Valley and should see the tin whizzies of all types and makes come racing down into it from the east and over Bozeman Pass, as they were undoubtedly doing on a certain Sunday morning in the month of August last, in the year of Our Lord 1922, at about thirty-five miles an hour.

The first house on the site now occupied by the lovely city of Bozeman was built in 1864, and for two years most of the immigration into Montana was by the Bozeman road and pass, but in March, 1883, the Northern Pacific Railway established its route through the valley and frontier days were over.

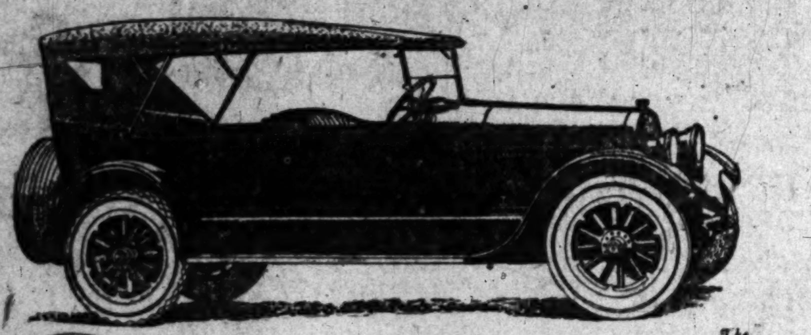
STANDARD OF THE WORLD



TOURING CAR TYPE 61

TROPHIES PURCHASED

Aspirants to the respective 1923 automotive economy crowns take note, etc. The seven silver loving cup trophies to be awarded the victors in the seventh annual Los Angeles-Camp Curry economy run, May 18 and 19, have been selected, purchased and duly engraved preparatory to their final disposition.

Local motor fans and others who have seen these cups now on display at the Owl Drug Store at the corner of Sixth and Broadway, declare they are unusually attractive in spite of the fact that they are empty of the liquid that cheers. Last year's trophies now gracing the display rooms of various proud establishments on local motor row, although admittedly beautiful, are if anything surpassed by the trophies to be awarded this year. The new cups, one to be presented to each of the six winners, and one to go to the sweepstakes winner, were especially designed and created by T. V. Allen, local jeweler.

Although varying in pattern the class cups are practically of equal size (and capacity). The sweepstakes cup, however, is not only if anything more beautiful, but is much larger. According to one admitted aspirant for its ownership, it looks like it might hold a full half-gallon and then not be quite brimful. An appropriate pedestal goes with it, being both an added decorative touch and a valuable support, presumably to obviate all danger of slopping over when the vessel is filled.

According to J. A. C. Waters, run manager, local distributors and dealers are fast putting their signatures to the official entry blanks, signifying their definite decision to compete for the 1923 economy honors. The next two weeks are expected to find the bulk of the entries made, although the closing date is not until May 12. It is announced that those who have not already procured their entry blanks may get them at the Camp Curry office, 732 South Spring street.

GENERAL MOTORS SALES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

DETROIT, April 21.—Preliminary combined sales of American and Canadian passenger and commercial car divisions of General Motors for the month of February totaled 55,000 cars and trucks; this compares with preceding months and further with corresponding months of a year ago as follows:

	Number of Cars and Trucks.
	1922.	1921.
December	47,406	15,381
	1923.	1922.
January	49,131	16,088
February	55,000	20,360

This preliminary figure includes Buick, Cadillac, Chevrolet, Oakland, Oldsmobile and G.M.C. trucks.

Even the Kink Obeys Signals in Belgianland

Kings of industry here in America—and other royal fellows—might just as well doff their theoretical crowns when they strike a typical hard-boiled traffic dragon. For intersection officers, knowing that supervision of traffic must mean one law for all, generally make it a rule to stop the mightiest town car as quickly as they would the lowliest and rattliest little flivver.

If American men (and women) of affairs feel that they should be given special considerations over other folks, they should take a slant at some information that has just come from Belgium to the Duesenberg distribution organization here of Shafer-Harrigan-Cleveland, Inc. It seems that the King and Queen of Belgians have such high respect for sudden stop signals, and desire to prevent accidents at all times, that they have equipped their royal motor coach—a D'Ieteren brougham mounted on an Excelsion chassis—with four-wheel brakes similar to those which come as standard equipment on an Excelsior chassis—with berg, also quite a popular motor in Europe.

Kings and queens, obeying the upraised palm of a mere policeman—that's quite different, Eddie Cleveland points out, than the royal traffic rules of ancient history. In the old days, had an officer sought to stop the gilded coaches of royalty, they'd probably have had him drawn, quartered and his remnants displayed upon some high and conspicuous battlement.

"One thing about four-wheel brakes," said Cleveland, "When the Belgian brougham gets the stop signal, no matter how fast it may be going, their majesties may rest assured that, like the Duesenberg, it will come to a stop with uncanny speed and unskidding precision."

CROWDED GARAGES HARD ON FENDERS

"A good many motorists drive into our shop each month complaining that the space in which they have to turn to get out of the garage yard is so small that it is difficult to drive out and avoid a bump of some sort, and that the fender or body dent they want us to fix was the result of misjudging space in the limited turning area," says C. C. Eichenhofer, proprietor of the Atlas Auto Works, 1338 South Hope street, sheet metal workers and top manufacturers.

"Therefore I would suggest to apartment and flat builders, especially where they have to provide garages for a number of cars, that they take extra care in arranging their garages so that the motorists would have that extra foot or two which means so much in manipulating a car in tight quarters."

MARCH BANNER MONTH

While the Olds Motor Works of Lansing, Mich., has been producing passenger cars for nearly twenty-six years, last month was the biggest March the company has ever had in point of passenger-car shipments. Records of the company show that the demand has been unprecedented for this time of the year and exceeded even 1920, when all factories were working overtime to produce every car possible.

c—Banks, in his new book, gives play on 5-9 at this stage, but this game was played before Banks's book was out.

d—30-26 looks stronger.

e—This loses. 18-14, 4-8, 14-10, 7-14, 20-16, 11-20, 23-18, etc., probably draws.

GRAHAM BROTHERS TRUCK

Truck owners can stop an enormous waste by eliminating dead weight—by reducing loads as nearly as possible to actual pay loads.

Graham Brothers Truck is built to meet this urgent necessity for greater efficiency in hauling.

It is light—considerably lighter than the average truck of equal rating. It is sturdy because it is built of materials selected for quality rather than bulk.

It is scientifically designed to save the owner money, both in his initial investment and in his operating costs—and the records prove emphatically that it does.

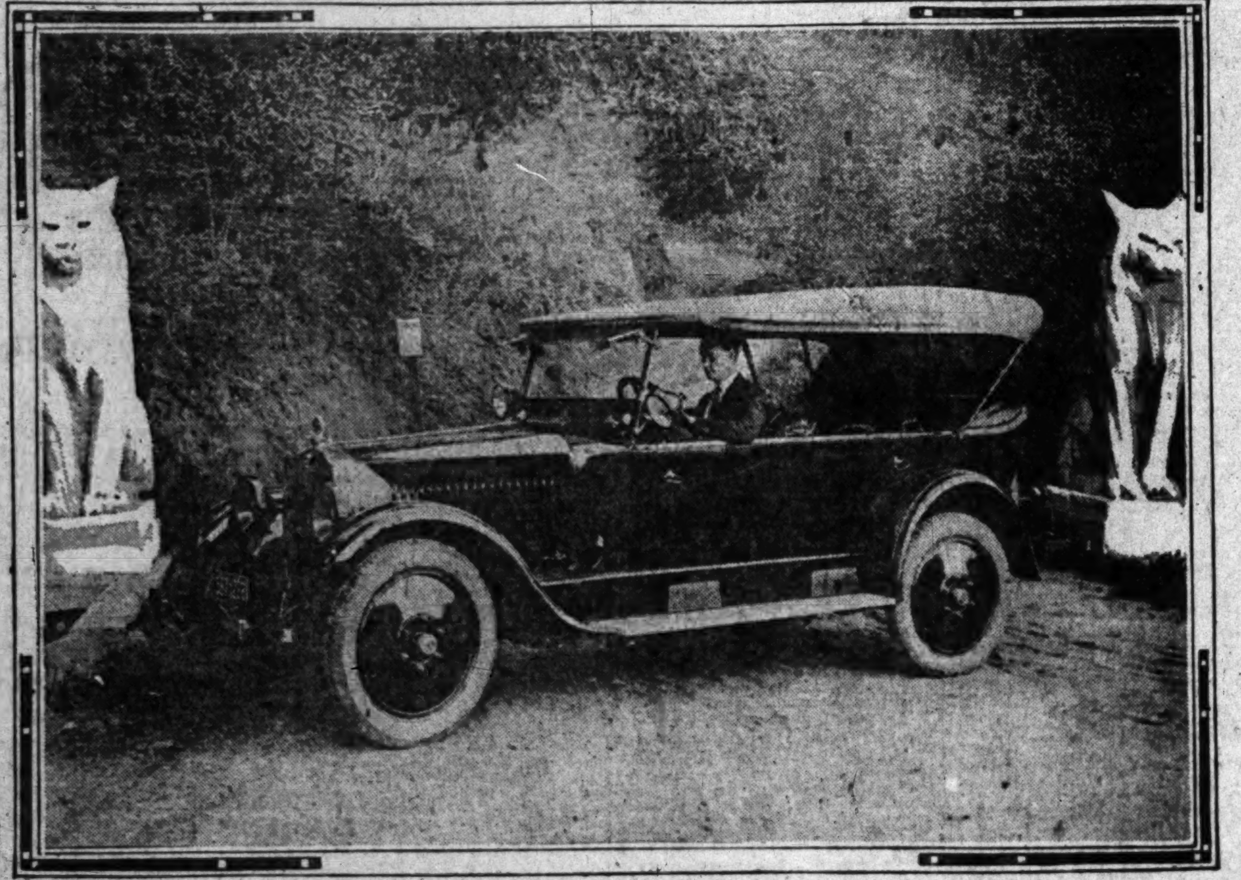
BECOMES HOT

Besides loss of power at the higher altitudes, there is another effect that may prove disconcerting to automobile drivers not familiar with mountains. They will find the engine apparently getting dangerously hot, as evidenced by furious boiling of the cooling water in the radiator and water jacket. Use of a thermometer would show a temperature possibly five or six degrees lower than what it was at sea level even though there was then no boiling. A well-known principle of physics is that lowering the pressure in the air above a liquid lowers the boiling point temperature of the liquid. Thus, if we decide to have bean soup on our camp menu at Tioga Pass, in the Sierras, at an altitude of 9941 feet, we should provide the cook with a pressure cooker, otherwise the beans would have to boil at least a week to cook tender, the boiling point temperature there being only 194.3 F. Also, if our engine on low gear can just barely take its load over a 5 per cent grade near sea level, "all second and third-class passengers must be prepared to get out and push" when any similar grade is approached near Tioga Pass, since there the engine will have only about 54 per cent of its sea-level power.

Los Gatos Is Proud of Its Guardian "Kitties"



In fact the City Dads of the little northern town have ordered a half-dozen more of the concrete animals to be erected at suitable entrances to the bustling metropolis, finding they are powerful as advertising mediums. The handsome car at ease in this unique setting is a Studebaker Big Six from the Paul G. Hoffman Company.

AUTOKOOKIT USES NO FUEL AT ALL

Resembling a sporty automobile trunk in appearance, and attached to the running-board of any machine, having the facilities of a Pullman dining car is the Autokookit, the new Los Angeles product now being placed on the market for the further convenience of the enthusiastic motorist.

The Autokookit uses no fuel, but utilizes the hot exhaust gasses from the engine, which otherwise are a total lose. It cooks by steam as well as by heat, combining the well-known qualities of the fireless cooker and the steam pressure cooker.

COAST ROAD EXCELLENT

A most delightful route of travel for those who motor to San Francisco over the Coast road is by way of Santa Cruz and Los Gatos. Leaving the main highway at Salinas, the route runs through Castroville and Watsonville to Santa Cruz and a few miles from that point a paved highway wanders through the redwoods of the Santa Cruz Mountains.

Ever-changing panoramas of peaceful valleys and wooded hills continue all the way to Los Gatos. Just as one reaches the city limits of the latter town two huge white concrete cats stand guard beside the roadway. From Los Gatos the highway stretches across the fertile Santa Clara Valley, which is covered with orchards, some of which were still in bloom last week, when a party in a Studebaker big six made the side trip on the return from Stanfor University.

The road conditions all the way up the Coast are excellent. There are no detours and but one short stretch of unpaved highway. This is near Pismo Beach and has never been paved, as it is intended to change the route slightly, which will necessitate a new bridge over the creek. There is no evidence of any repair work having been done on this stretch of a few hundred yards for the past three or four years, but it is not dangerous, just a trifle rough.

Surfacing of the pavement above Santa Barbara makes one-way traffic necessary over some short stretches, and those driving at night will do well to heed the signal lanterns to avoid hitting the piles of crushed rock on one side of the road. During working hours the road crews slow traffic up a bit along this stretch, but it is easy to make good touring time to Palo Alto.

Driving a big-six Studebaker, a member of the Paul G. Hoffman Company and a sport writer of one of the local papers made a night trip up the Coast in fourteen and one-half hours, despite delays of over an hour on account of punctures.

CAMEL PILOT HAS GOOD BOOST FOR STABILATOR

SAYS TRIP TO BISHOP MADE EASY BECAUSE OF DEVICE

A Sunday outing consisting of an automobile trip from Los Angeles to Bishop and return would seem, just on the face of it, to be more of an endurance test than an outing, properly so called. However, R. L. Larason of the Ralph Hamlin Company, local Franklin distributors, who recently made the trip one Sunday in 16 hours and 15 minutes, a distance of 593 miles, has reported to H. R. Leonard of the Watson Stabilator Company, that the trip was exactly that—a very enjoyable Sunday outing. He attributes the fact that he was able to make it so comfortably to the Watson stabilators with which the Franklin Camel is now factory-equipped. Mr. Larson's account of the trip, as taken down in the office of the Watson Stabilator Company, is as follows:

"The particular trip was made to demonstrate the capabilities of the Franklin Camel to two very doubting Thomases of my acquaintance. They had never made it in less than twenty hours in an eight-cilinder car, and they didn't believe that I could better it in a Franklin Camel. So, of course, it was up to me to show them."

Mr. Larson claims that his party would not have put up with such a speed had the riding been uncomfortable. He says that they were out on a pleasure trip and they would have decreased their speed immediately had it proven uncomfortable to maintain. Mr. Larson is highly enthusiastic over the great degree of roadability which he says the stabilators provide.

CONTINUOUS SERVICE EXPLAINED BY CLOCK

UNIQUE SCHEME TO TELL THE WORLD OF DAY AND NIGHT SHIFTS

They tell the world they give twenty-four-hour service out at Clippinger-Kincaid, Inc., "Downtown" Chevrolet dealers. They tell it in a manner that is at once unique and arresting. The medium for putting across this message is a big clock which they've recently hung out in front of their establishment.

According to W. H. Curtis, sales manager, the twenty-four-hour-service idea has worked out very well at Clippinger-Kincaid's. He says it is a service feature that is much appreciated by the public.

"A customer who comes to us in the dead of night for service or repair work of some kind," he says, "is very apt to remember us the next time he needs something done, whether it be daylight or dark. It is not our aim to put him under obligation, only inasmuch as service courteously rendered is always an obligation, but somehow the average man doesn't forget. He'll [illegible] if he can do so at all conveniently."

The Motor Car I Would Recommend To a Friend

A lot of fellows sell motor cars just to make a living---they ease their conscience with the thought that they have to eat.

BUT---every time I sell a Dort, I feel that I am doing the buyer a service. It is a motor car that I would recommend to a FRIEND.

Six years on the firing line has proven to me that the Dort Six is the outstanding value of today. One proof of this is that mechanics in shops everywhere boost the Dort. Ask 'em.

ADVANTAGE

The new Overland is more than a car for personal conveyance.

It is a utility!

With tonneau seat cushions and upholstery removed, it becomes a general carrier of camping equipment, baggage or other bulky goods.

For business purposes as much as for pleasure, this same idea of duofold utility prevails. For dominant automobile value today, buy an Overland. It is better looking—more comfortable—more dependable—more economical—and at the lowest price in history.

FORD FORMS A COAL COMPANY

Fuel Barons Can't Catch Him Unawares

And He Has a Railroad to Haul It, Too

Every Step of Manufacture to Be Controlled

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT (Mich.) April 21.—Simultaneously with the announcement that the Ford Motor Company has recently purchased from the Peabody interests approximately 120,000 acres of coal lands in Southeastern Kentucky, comes news of the incorporation of the Fordson Coal Company, which will handle all coal properties of the Ford Motor Company. This will give the company a free hand in the operation of its mines and shipment and sale of the product.

And to further insure an ample supply to at all times meet the manufacturing requirements and also obviate delays due to car shortages, the Ford Motor Company has purchased 1000 coal cars of fifty-five-ton capacity each, to be used in handling Ford coal over the Ford railroad.

Included in the Peabody properties, purchased by the Ford Motor Company, are 200,000,000 tons of coal and 500,000,000 feet of timber.

TREMENDOUS TOTAL

The purchase of these extensive coal properties brings the company's coal reserve up to the tremendous total of 600,000,000 tons.

The recent extensive purchases are in line with the program of the Ford Motor Company to control, as far as possible, every step of manufacture from basic raw materials to finish automobiles, trucks and tractors of the highest quality at the minimum production cost.

In addition to the Peabody property just purchased, the Ford Motor Company's other coal-mining properties include:

The Dexcar property at Twin Branch, W. Va., purchased last November, which gave the company 18,000,000 tons of high-quality coal adaptable to both by-product and steam purposes. These mines have a daily capacity of 2000 tons and employ about 450 men.

The Pond Creek properties, located in Eastern Kentucky near William, W. Va., were acquired the first of the year. They cover an area of 28,000 acres, with approximately 300,000,000 tons of available coal. These mines, operated through eleven different openings, have a daily capacity of 7000 tons and give employment to 1000 men.

BIG PRODUCTION

The Banner Fork mine, purchased in 1920, containing some 12,000,000 tons of high volatile by-product coking coal, has a daily production of 3000 tons and employs 400 men.

The Nuttallburg mine at Nuttallburg, W. Va., has a 6,000,000-ton reserve. It also was purchased in 1920. With the installation of new machinery it is expected to open this summer with a daily production of 1000 tons and will employ 250 men.

All the coal properties are being placed upon the same high basis of efficiency, safety and sanitation that prevails in all the Ford industries, both as it affects the operating properties and the several communities. The Ford wage scale, introduced at all the mines, brings an average increase of 25 per cent.

Surplus coal over the requirements of the company will be sold direct to the public.

OPENS NEW BRANCH

The General Motors Truck Company of Pontiac, Mich., has opened a new branch in Milwaukee to handle sales and service in that territory. The branch will be under the jurisdiction of the Chicago branch of the truck company.

WANT OWNERS TO OBTAIN SERVICE

LEXINGTON COMPANY ANXIOUS FOR PURCHASERS TO BRING IN THEIR CARS

Ninety days' free service means something to the new Lexington owner at the Lexington-Los Angeles Company, local distributors of the Ansted-motored minute-man six, according to W. F. Seel.

"Of course, practically every car carries a factory guarantee extending over a three-month period from date of sale, but we try to capitalize our ninety-day free service offer, instead of dodging it or trying to conceal it by passing it over casually in our dealings with our patrons.

"About two weeks before the new owner's free service period expires we send him a letter something like this:

"Dear Sir: This is to remind you that it is almost three months since you took delivery on your new Lexington car, and that the original ninety-day free service period expires on April 30. You will please call our Mr. J. E. Miller at 210-66, and make appointment for final inspection of your car within the above time.

"Please bear in mind that we will at all times have a deep interest in your car, and that we maintain a very competent repair department at 1137 South Olive street, phone Pico 3157, where Mr. A. L. Cherry is in charge.

"Our mechanics are thoroughly familiar with every part of Lexington construction, and we shall endeavor to serve you promptly and well. Our rate for repair work is standard, all parts and labor being sold net cash on delivery.

"You will please accept our thanks for your valued patronage, and we shall endeavor to merit a continuance of the same.

"Respectfully,

"LEXINGTON-LOS ANGELES COMPANY.

BUYS HIS SECOND

James Sheldon Riley president of the University Club and vice-president of the bond house of Drake, Riley & Thomas, has just purchased his second Lafayette from the Troy Motor Sales Company, Nash and Lafayette distributors

WEAR INSURANCE PAYS

An entirely new idea on the lubrication of motor cars has just come to the front, which points to the fact that the extra cost of the best motor oil over ordinary oils should be considered as wear insurance by the motorist.

No one would refuse the price of two cigars a month to insure his motor against excessive wear and depreciation—yet that is all it costs. One or two cents a day at most covers the extra cost of the very best motor oil over ordinary oils.

The small extra cost of buying the very best is a ridiculously low price for wear insurance if the automobile owner looks at it from that angle. The motorist considers it his best investment when, after running 10,000 miles, he finds his motor practically intact and free from the regular run of worn-out motor diseases.

The average automobile owner, as pointed out by Mr. Jack Ott, assistant sales manager of the Pennzoil Company, is paying more and more attention to motor lubrication. He is coming to realize that excessive wear and rapid depreciation are not matters to be taken for granted, but that they are largely due to unintelligent lubrication.

FORD CONQUERS AFRICA

Numerous are the achievements credited to the ubiquitous Ford, that hardy conveyance on which the sun never sets, for no continent exists which has not its representatives from the prolific factory at Detroit, according to the Los Angeles Ford dealers.

And now the Ford has conquered Africa, driven its nose through the densest of jungles, rombled its way o'er the unmarked plains, and goat-like scaled the heights of the Dark Continent's untrailed mountains, to say naught of fording countless streams and slashing through tropic swamps.

H. A. Snow, whose thrilling exploits are pictured in "Hunting Big Game in Africa With Gun and Camera," is the man whose hand guided the Ford through its perilous ways. He returned to America's hospitable shores after two years in the wilds, bringing with him a peerless ten-reel cinema record of his battles with beasts of the jungles.

Throughout the film the Ford plays a leading part, for it was the automobile which saved the expedition from utter failure when the deadly tsetse fly had destroyed the oxen and other animals on which the Snow party relied for transportation and beasts of burden. Snow used five Fords in the course of his two years of wandering in the Dark Continent. Through the co-operation of trading-post employees and government representatives as well as native chieftains, the necessary gas and oil were transported by carriers to the Snow Flivverized expedition.

Snow and his party traveled 65,000 miles in Africa and 50,000 of this total were made with the invaluable aid of Fords.

TO ERECT NEW PLANT

The Hupp Motor Car Corporation will erect a modern heat-treating plant at the factory of its subsidiary, the American Gear and Manufacturing Company, at Jackson, Mich., where it will conduct all heat-treating work formerly done by outside manufacturers and, on a limited scale, at the Jackson plant. Practically all the work to be done in the new plant will be by machinery. Construction will be started at once on the new building, which will be 75x125 feet.

FIGURES SHOW A RAPID CLIMB

CHEVROLET SALES IN DISTRICT OF LOS ANGELES EXTRAORDINARY

According to figures furnished by the local Chevrolet Dealers' Association, the total sales of cars in metropolitan Los Angeles by the thirteen members of the association during March was 1085.

That this is a remarkable showing is proven by the figures of 1921 when throughout the entire county only 157 cars of this make were sold during the month of March. No accurate record has as yet been compiled for the past March sales in the county but the association predicts that the final tabulation will show that something over 1600 cars were disposed of.

Figures from the Chevrolet factory show that for the past March, 37,885 cars were built and sold in the United States alone. If the sales continue to increase throughout the coming months as they have during March, the prediction made some months ago that 1923 would be a banner year in the automobile trade will be verified, dealers declare.

Statistics have shown that heretofore a Chevrolet was sold every sixteen minutes during working hours in Los Angeles, but these figures will now have to be increased if they are to compare with the actual sales records for the past March.

In order to keep an up-to-date minute check on the increase in sales each month as well as the number of cars of other makes disposed of during the same period the Dealers' Association is preparing a sales chart which will show accurately thenumber of Chevrolets sold as well as those of other makes.

Through this chart any dealer can find out every sales figure he wants when he wants it, without any trouble or waste of time.

NEW GEAR GREASE OFFERED PUBLIC

A new product is taking its place in the Los Angeles field, and judging from the quality claimed for it and the determination of the men behind it, that product has come to stay. The product is GMC grease, and the man who is lending every effort to see that the Los Angeles public appreciates just what the grease is and just what it will do for them, is H. F. I. Lake.

"We believe that we have something that every motorist will appreciate," says Mr. Lake, "in the shape of a new gear grease that we firmly think will stop a majority of the troubles that arise from gear lubrication. It is the result of many years of experimentation of a French engineer. He determined to find, if possible, a grease that would maintain its viscosity under conditions that arise in every mechanical thing where gears figure in the machinery. This problem of finding a grease of that nature, a we all know has been a puzzling one ever since we graduated from the old high-wheel buggy and started running around the country in tin buggies propelled by their own power."

CULVER IN TOLEDO FOR FACTORY VISIT

E. N. Culver, manager of the Willys-Overland Pacific Company, which is a factory branch of the Willys-Overland Company of Toledo, O., left last week for Toledo to confer with factory officials and check up on further delivery possibilities to this territory.

He says at the rate Overland cars are selling here the delivery problem this spring and summer is going to be a big one.

From Toledo Culver will go to New York before returning here, he said, to get a full line on eastern conditions and what further prospects look like for the rest of the year.

BULLOCK SERVICE PLAN IS SUCCESS

The unique service plan inaugurated several months ago by Bridge-Bullock, Inc., Willys-Knight and Overland dealers, is reported by C. J. Bullock, president, to have proven a huge success from every angle.

"The Overland owner is profiting," said Bullock. "The work in our service department has been made more efficient through the Overland owners forming the habit of bringing their cars in regularly every thirty days for inspection and adjustment, and the cars themselves are being maintained in A-1 road condition all of the time."

your car performs BETTER on Zerolene—which often costs half as much

Lubricate your car with Zerolene, which costs about half what you pay for many other oils, and watch what happens.

First, you find that your gasoline bills are lower. Repeated tests in our laboratories have demonstrated that, other factors being equal, cars lubricated with Zerolene make about 5% better gasoline mileage than cars lubricated with other oils.

Second, your car goes from 25% to 50% farther before you need to grind valves or remove carbon. This fact, too, is fully substantiated by numerous demonstrations in our laboratories.

Made from the Best Crude So Far Discovered

Zerolene is made from the best crude so far discovered for the manufacture of motor oil—Western Naphthenic Base Crude, which has exceptional heat-resisting qualities that are well known to lubricating engineers. This company collects that crude and by means of its dual gathering and pipe line system transports it separately to the refinery.

There it is refined by our exclusive high-vacuum process, which preserves in Zerolene all the superior qualities of this selected crude.

Because of the special characteristics of the crude from which it is made, Zerolene not only deposits a smaller amount of carbon, but this minimum deposit is soft, flaky and relatively harmless as compared to the hard, flinty deposit left by many other oils.

A Perfect Piston-Seal at All Running Speeds

The reason a car lubricated with Zerolene delivers better gasoline mileage is that the engine is continuously better lubricated. Zerolene follows closely all the changing bearing clearances of the engine, due to varying degrees of temperature, so that full lubrication and a perfect piston-seal are constantly maintained. In addition, Zerolene because of special characteristics of the Naphthenic Base Crude, from which it is made, absorbs less gasoline from the combustion chambers and consequently has a longer lubricating life.

These facts have been fully established by careful laboratory experiment. They are further supported by the experience of a majority of Pacific Coast motorists who use Zerolene regularly.

Insist on Zerolene—even if it does cost less. Consult our Correct Lubrication Chart to determine the proper grade for your car.

There are four things a Ford to throw oil at
First, bent or worn axle shafts; second, worn sleeves or rollers; third, poor felt washers; fourth, too much oil in the housing. Jack up the rear wheels and see if they run true. While up see if by grasping the spokes on each side of the hub that the wheel can be lifted up or down a trifle. If it can be there is surely something worn at the bearing. Replace all worn and damaged parts. With good felts, straight axles, and new parts where necessary and the case filled to a level that the oil can just be touched by a finger inserted into the filling hole you will find that you have no further trouble with your car throwing oil. Never bore holes in the housing; it simply pours oil on the road out of your rear axle, and does more harm than good.

"HOWDY" WILCOX TO RACE

Former Star of the Track Is Named to Head Team of Duesenberg Cars

That "Howdy" Wilcox, one of the most famous of the youthful "old-timers" of road race and speedway fame, will head the Duesenberg team in the Indianapolis 500-mile classic on Memorial Day, is the word just received from Fred Duesenberg by the Shafer-Harrigan-Cleveland, Inc., Duesenberg organization here.

There will be three cars entered of the 122-cubic inch "baby" type, it is announced by the Duesenberg interests through the local distributors, and the tentative schedule of pilots for the terrific trio has been given as follows:

"Howdy" Wilcox, road and track veteran and one of the old-time professionals.

W. D. Morton, generally known as "Heavy Foot" Morton, because of his never-give-up spirit.

Jerry Wonderlich, well known to Southland race fans, having appeared here in many events at Beverly.

Although the Duesenberg stock car factory, manufacturing the commercial straight-eight motored car with the four-wheel hydraulic brakes, has no connection whatsoever with the Duesenberg racing interests, the speed specials are being fabricated in the Hoosier capital—the racing capital—under the direct supervision of Fred Duesenberg, who is chief engineer for the stock model factory. The racing buggies also are eight-in-row motored.

Eddie Cleveland, member of the California Duesenberg distributing organization, with headquarters here, plans to leave for the Indianapolis race about May 15. He will spend several days at the track during the practices and will be there to see the "Duesies" go after some of their old honors.

Car Picture in the Paper Decided Him

Picture brides from the Orient were formerly the fad, but not until George Gunthier of Long Beach purchased a Stearns-Knight from a picture has the custom been adopted in this country as a means of obtaining what one most desires.

In a letter to Lynn C. Buxton, Gunther writes as follows: "I purchased the Stearns-Knight I am now driving from you after having seen a photograph of the car. I had previously owned and driven a Stearns four-cylinder car from 1912 to 1919 over the hilly roads and streets of Seattle, so I did not feel I was exactly buying the car unseen. With me, it was just a question of liking the lines of the new six, as I was positive that mechanically it was all that I knew every Stearns to be. To say that I am delighted with the beauty of this new car is expressing it mildly."

This letter, according to Buxton, is but one of many more recently received by him from Stearns owners, in which the utmost commendation for the new six-cylinder Stearns is couched in the most enthusiastic terms. One letter from Walter M. Moffitt, a prominent jeweler of Pasadena, states that he has owned numerous other high price makes of motor cars, including one imported car, and the Stearns six which he recently purchased from Buxton exceeds them all in performance and satisfaction.

TWO REORDERS COME TO LIFE

"Two reorders for Walker electric trucks within a week from one of the largest users of transportation equipment in Southern California established a unique sales record in the electric truck industry," according to W. B. Towne of the J. Jerome Canavan organization, Pacific Coast distributors of Walker balance-drive electric trucks.

"The Broadway Department Store, whose reputation for efficiency in delivery service is firmly established, placed their third reorder within a year for two-one-ton Walker electric trucks on Monday of last week, and on Saturday, placed their fourth reorder for two additional trucks of two-ton capacity, which establishes a record in our organization."

When the equipment now on order is delivered, the Broadway Department Store will have the distinction of operating ten of the famous Walker balance-drive electric trucks, which are used practically exclusively in city delivery service by all the leading department stores throughout the East.

CONTRACT COMPLETED

PHOENIX (Ariz.) April 21.—Formal announcement has been made of completion of the second Twohy Brothers' contract for county paving. This means that over 300 miles of concrete highway have been finished and that the last stretches are ready for inspection and acceptance by the Highway Commission. The gross cost has been $8,500,000. Since November 1, 1920, about 500 men have been kept employed. A few culverts and canal bridges still are in process of construction. In addition to the county construction is the main State Highway from Marinette on the northwest to beyond Mesa on the east, through Phoenix and Tempe.

The Trouble Shooter

TELLS YOU what's wrong

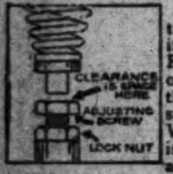
By E. H. SCOTT

This is the tenth of a series of specially prepared and illustrated articles showing the ordinary automobile driver how to locate any engine trouble

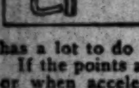
What To Do When the Engine Runs Regularly but Has No Power

1. Turn off the Ignition Switch and open Throttle wide, and then test the compression by pulling each cylinder over SLOWLY with the hand crank. There should be considerable resistance in each cylinder when you pull it over. If it appears weak in one or more cylinders then—



2. Test the Valve clearance between the bottom of the Valve Stem and the top of the Valve Tappet, or if it is an Overhead Valve, test between the top of the Push Rod and the Rocker Arm. If there is insufficient clearance, that is, there is NO space between the Valve Stem and the Tappet, the Valve will not seat properly, and the engine will have no power. When it is WELL WARMED UP, and the Valve is seated, the Tappet should just be free to turn around, with a clearance between the bottom of the Valve Stem and the top of the Tappet of about the thickness of a piece of book paper. It varies on different engines, Overhead Valves generally have more clearance allowed than Poppet Valves. Find out from the Instruction Book you got with your car what the EXACT clearance should be, and see that the Valves are kept to that clearance. If the clearances check up all right then—

3. Examine the Valve faces. If they are black and pitted, they will require to be ground in before the cylinders will hold compression. If the Spark Plugs are oiling up quickly and the porcelains are covered with an OILY, GUMMY deposit, and the cylinder heads are covered with a deposit of carbon, you may need to fit new Piston Rings as well as grind in the Valves before the engine will deliver its maximum power. If, however, the compression is GOOD then—



4. Take out and examine all Spark Plug gaps. They should be just a trifle LESS than the thickness of a WORN dime. The gaps at the Spark Plug points should be inspected at regular intervals, as the correctness with which they are set has a lot to do with the efficient running of the engine.

If the points are set too close, the engine will misfire at low speeds or when accelerating from low speeds, the spark being too weak around the points of the Plug to fire the charge quickly.

If the gap is too wide, the engine will be hard to start, and will misfire especially on a hard pull. The throttle is wide open when the engine is pulling hard, and allows a full charge of gas to be taken into each cylinder, so increasing the compression in the cylinder. This makes it harder for the spark to jump the gap at the Plug, and the resistance is so great that now and again, the spark will not jump the gap at all, causing the engine to misfire. If the Plugs are all right then—

5. Make sure the Brakes are not dragging. After running at a fair speed for some time, stop the car and feel the brake drums. If they are HOT, the brakes are binding or dragging. Jack up the rear wheels, and with the brake lever off, the wheels should turn freely. Slack off the adjusting screw until the wheel turns freely. After adjusting the brakes, test them by running the car along the road, seeing that they act promptly in braking the car. If the brakes are all right then—

6. Test to see that the Clutch is not slipping. To do this: 1st. Pull on the brakes. 2nd. Push in the Clutch. 3rd. Speed up the engine to about the same speed it would be running on the road at 15 miles an hour. 4th. GRADUALLY let in the clutch. If the engine WILL STILL KEEP RUNNING, the clutch is slipping and will require adjusting. If the engine STOPS when you let the clutch in then—

7. Remove the Muffler, then take it apart and clean it, or tap it all round with a wooden mallet, then FULLY RETARD spark lever and race the engine up a few times when most of the loose carbon will be blown out.

8. Check up the Ignition Timing to see that it is not too far retarded. See article four No. 8 if you do not know how to do this.

9. Examine the Breaker Points and the gap at the points as shown in the second article at B. If they check up all right then—

10. Test the High Speed Carburetor adjustment, or have an expert mechanic do it for you if you do not know how.

11. Examine to make sure that when the throttle lever is fully advanced, that the Butterfly Valve in the Carburetor throttle is straight across the opening to the Intake Manifold. When the throttle lever is advanced, the Butterfly Valve may only be PARTLY open, thus preventing the full amount of mixture from entering the cylinders.

12. If you have not changed your oil in the crankcase within the last 700 or 800 miles, do so, and you will probably be surprised at the difference in the running of your engine.

13. See that you have enough pressure in all tires. If they are low, the large tire area on the road creates friction, which takes power to overcome, and slows up speed considerably.

Dirt Roads Run Up the Cost of Gasoline Bills

Estimates of automobile manufacturers place the number of cars of all types in operation in America last year at more than 11,000,000. One in every ten individuals in the United States is represented, comparatively, as an owner.

Almost every family, figuring on the same relative scale, would be affected by economic changes in motor operation. For that reason the lower cost of fuel consumption made possible by hard-surfaced highways is of dominant interest.

Actual tests made by several States show that the following difference in fuel consumption exists on three existing types of roads:

Cost per ton mile for gasoline at 24 cents a gallon on dirt road, $.0171; gravel road, $.0115; concrete road, $.0077.

Thus the difference in pull required on concrete pavement means an actual saving in gasoline of $.0038 for every mile traveled.

Almost all motorists average 140 miles a week, or twenty miles a day. The majority of cars are of the "light-type" and one-ton weight can be taken as a fair average for the car itself.

This would mean that in a week the car owner would save about 54 cents on gas and in a year's time would save $27.67 if it was possible for him to drive on nothing but concrete pavement all the time.

This seems like a small amount but when it is applied to the industry as a whole it reaches tremendous totals. If all of the 11,000,000 automobiles in operation last year averaged only twenty miles a day and could have driven on concrete instead of gravel the money saved on purchase of gasoline alone would show the staggering total of $304,370,000.

This does not take into account the long stretches of dirt road which cost twice as much to drive over as on concrete.

Thus it is fair to say that old-type highways are costing the American motorist more than $250,000,000 annually on his gasoline bill.

He can drive thirty-one miles per ton per gallon on concrete but only twenty-one miles per ton per gallon on gravel and fourteen on dirt.

GAS SUPPLY IS GREATEST EVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DETROIT, April 21.—Reports from 301 refineries operated during the month indicated that on February 1, the nation's stock of gasoline amounted to 1,062,857,373 gallons, the largest supply ever recorded. Production of gasoline in the United States in January amounted to 628,823,337 gallons and established a new high monthly record.

OLDS OLD-TIMERS IN GET-TOGETHER

EASTERN FACTORY OFFICIALS GREETED BY SOUTHERN CALIFORNIANS

No one but a crazy person would have dreamed twenty-six years ago that in the year 1923 A. D., the Oldsmobile factory would occupy eighty acres of land in Lansing, Mich., and would have an investment of something like $16,000,000. Yet such is the case, and one of the men who worked on the first Olds "horseless carriage" is still on the job in the present-day Olds works, turning out "fours" and "eights" where once the "ones" were considered the acme of revolutionary endeavor.

The fact that the Oldsmobile factory is really twenty-six years of age—a long life as life goes in the automobile manufacturing world—and that one of the workmen in the plant has been there since the plant was started, was brought out this last week at a meeting of Oldsmobile dealers here by Thomas E. O'Brien, assistant general sales manager of the Olds Motor Works.

Some thirty-five members of the Southern California Oldsmobile organization, including various dealers of this territory and members of the official family of J. W. Leavitt & C., Oldsmobile-Columbia distributors, gathered at the Athletic Club to meet prominent factory officials.

Mr. O'Brien, George Carroll, executive of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation; R. M. Hatfield, general service manager for the Olds factory, and A. D. Plughoff of San Francisco, vice-president and general manager of the Leavitt organization, were present.

L. V. Starr, Leavitt branch manager here, acted as toastmaster. Inspirational talks were made by O'Brien, Carroll and Hatfield. The feature of the addresses was the talk on Oldsmobile permanence and veteran experience, as given by Mr. O'Brien.

VIRGINIA COPS WELL SUPPLIED

Burglars, thieves and crooks will have little opportunity to escape the meshes of the law in Norfolk, Va., now that the Police Department of that city has been supplied with seven Overland touring cars.

Chief of Police F. L. Guynn uses an Overland car exclusively and Detective John Anderson, widely known in police circles as the silver-throated tenor, is singing "we'll keep 'em on the run now."

The Health Department at Norfolk is using Overlands and the City Building Inspector also has an Overland for use in his work.

LONG DISTANCE ON MINIMUM OF FUEL

WASHINGTON (D. C.) MAN AND FAMILY HAVE ECONOMICAL TRIP TO SOUTH

Coming to Los Angeles to open a branch of the Sessions Loan and Trust Company of Atlanta, Ga., J. W. Hood drove the entire distance with his family from Washington, D. C. And, being a real motor-car devotee, he kept track of his mileage, time, gas consumption, etc. Here are his figures:

Distance, 3381 miles; running time, 110 hours and 36 minutes; fuel average, 14½ miles per gallon.

The car used by Mr. Hood was a Paige 6-66 four-passenger Larchmont, and carried in the transcontinental drive five persons and luggage. Reporting the foregoing figures to the Paige Company of Southern California, he declared that while driving he averaged thirty and one-half miles per hour.

He left the national capital on March 15 and arrived here March 27, it is stated, coming as far as Denver via the Lincoln Highway and from there into Los Angeles by the Santa Fe Trail.

"This car, my first Paige, is the twelfth automobile I have owned," Mr. Hood told the Paige-Jewett folks, "and it is by far the best; I have never had a car which performed so dependably as my Paige 6.66."
